HISTORIC WRECKS.

In 1717, a ship, the pirate Whydah, commanded by the notorious Bellamy, laden with spoils, and seeking more, was wrecked not many miles north of the scene spot in a terrible gale. More than one hundred dead bodies lay along the shore, and it was said all but two of the crew (an Englishman and an Indian) perished in the waves, says Harper's Round Table. It was a tradition on the cape for years that the Englishman, disguised, used to visit the scene of the shipwreck from time to time to supply himself with money buried from the wreck. If true, the man must have had great strength of body and mind to find and bury treasure after such a fearful tussle with wind and wave when all his comrades were drowning near him. A short time before the wreck Bellamy had captured seven pirates, and placing seven of his crew on one of these—the Province Snow—had promised the Cape Cod captain his vessel if he would pilot his fleet into Provincetown harbor. It is said that this captain, watching his chance when the pirates were stupid with drink, ran his vessel close in shore, where the crew escaped with their lives, but were taken, afterwards tried before a special court martial of admiralty in Boston, and executed the following November. The Whydah, following the pilot, ventured too near the coast, and the gale of April 26, 1717, drove her to her destruction. An old account, written by Levi Whitman in 1810, says: "At times to this day there are King William and Queen Mary's coppers picked up, and pieces of silver called cob-money. The violence of the sea moves the sands upon the outer bar, so that at times the iron caboose of the ship at low ebb has been seen."

Judge Sewall tells the same story of the wreck. Thoreau found one of the pennies, and his "Wellfleet oysterman" said that he had seen the iron caboose of the Whydah on the bars at an extremely low course of tides.

Capt. William Kidd, the notorious pirate, who was tried in London, and executed for piracy in the year 1701, had a ship called the Quidah or Quedagh, an East India merchantman which he had captured near the mouth of the Red sea. He then sailed for the West Indies, and finding that the English had proclaimed him a pirate and ordered his arrest, left the Quedagh with twenty-two of the pirates and sailed to the north. There is a tradition that these pirates transferred their property to another less unwieldy ship and burned the East Indiaman. Another tradition is that she was brought into the Hudson, and being chased by an English man-of-war, was sunk near the highlands with most of her treasure. It is certain that there was visible for a time the wreck of some large ship sunk in the sands at that place.

GORDON'S TOUGH SKULL.

Country Gordon is the curious name of a colored citizen who has had a very striking career. The slings and arrows of outrageous fortune have been aimed at him with remarkable frequency, and persistency, but they have always got the worst of it, says the New York Journal.

He was born in Virginia and went at an early age to work in a coal mine in Iowa. He and other negroes obtained work in the place of miners who were on strike. They were warned that they would not be kindly received by the miners, who were loafing about a small neighboring town.

But Gordon said he would go to this town and get a glass of beer. He got this and several other things. One of the miners in the saloon where he went welcomed him with a beer glass aimed at his head. This was followed by other beer glasses, bottles, bungstarters, and so forth correctly aimed. But they did not disconcert Gordon. He stepped back and tore a leg out of a billiard table, with which he defended himself very successfully.

After a few trifling experiences in falling down mine shafts, he sought variety in the bricklaying profession. Here he found many opportunities of testing his powers. While he was ascending a ladder with a hod a large pressed brick fell from the sixth story and struck him squarely on the head. The brick was shattered and Gordon pursued the even tenor of his way to the top of the building. Owing to a series of similar accidents, his employers complained of the loss of bricks, and he had to seek another sphere of usefulness.

Once he fell three stories from the scaffolding of a building, but fortunately he landed on his head and escaped without other injury than a severe shaking up. On another occasion his feet were slightly hurt by a keg of beer which struck him in the head directly from above, but so vigorous is his health that this trouble quickly passed over.

His truly remarkable head has been of great service to him in many vicissitudes of life. A friend who had lost his temper struck at him with a long iron poker, but Gordon, rushing in, caught the weapon on his head and it was hopelessly distorted.

He has been in many fights and in most of them his misguided adversaries have aimed at his head with their fists. They have done no effective punching since. Those who know him believe that he would worry Mr. Fitzsimmons badly. St. Joseph, Mo., is now honored with his presence and the medical profession in that city would be happy to possess his skull.

JOHN B. SACKETT DEAD.

Buffalo, N. Y., June 19.—John B. Sackett, postmaster of Buffalo during President Cleveland's first administration and more recently treasurer of Erie county, died today.

PROTEST

Firm But Courteous Objection of Japan to the Pending Tariff Bill.

Retaliation May Follow If the Plain Warning Given Is Disregarded.

Duties Which Prohibit Certain Articles of Japanese Manufacture.

Washington, June 19.—The protest made by the Japanese government against the pending tariff bill is formally embodied in a note from Minister Toru Hoshi, of date as late as June 3. The note is couched in the most courteous language, but there is a firmness of tone observable that indicates the remonstrance may be followed by acts of retaliation if disregarded. The note begins with an apology for expressing an opinion that under ordinary conditions might be regarded as trenching upon domestic affairs, but cites as a justification of the fact that important Japanese interests are involved, and that in the opinion of the minister the proposed increase of duties will injure the United States no less than Japan by retarding the growth of promising commercial relations.

The articles of Japanese productions that will be most seriously affected, says the protest, are lightweight silks, silk handkerchiefs, matting, hemp and jute rugs, and carpets and tea. In the case of silks the minister says the proposed duty will amount to an ad valorem rate of between 95 and 100 per cent, and upon handkerchiefs the duty will be 5 per cent more. These duties, it is stated, are practically prohibitory, and bear upon silks peculiar to Japan. A prosperous trade has been built up in Japanese mattings, now admitted free and in general use among the poorer classes. The proposed duty, says the minister, will be so heavy that the trade cannot survive in this article not now manufactured in the United States. The duty upon hemp, jute, rugs and carpets will amount to nearly 80 per cent, and be another severe blow to Japanese commerce. As to ten the minister says the sudden change of the policy of the United States from free importation to a duty of from 50 to 100 per cent has awakened in the Japanese mind the gravest fear for the ability of the tea industry, for years in a depressed condition, although furnishing two-thirds of the tea imported into the United States.

The minister says that while the imperial government does not share the general belief that this legislation was intended to discriminate against Japanese commerce it is an unfortunate coincidence that the imports from Japan most injuriously affected are specialties of Japanese production. In conclusion the minister says: "As I have had the honor to state, the imperial government are far from sharing in a belief for which they find no warrant in the cordial attitude always maintained by the United States toward Japan, but, nevertheless, they do not think it either wise or prudent to ignore a sentiment which, under certain circumstances might have a most unfortunate effect upon the relations of the two countries. They hope, moreover, that it will not be forgotten that this feeling may be attributed in some degree to the fact that no article of American importation to Japan pays at present anything more than a nominal duty, and to the further circumstance that the legislature here has been levying only the most moderate imposts upon American commerce."

QUEEN VICTORIA.

How New Yorkers Will Celebrate Her Jubilee.

New York, June 19.—The celebration of Queen Victoria's jubilee in and about New York will be begun this morning by the United British societies at Ambrose park, South Brooklyn, and for four days many societies, organizations and associations will hold exercises fitting the grand anniversary. Bishop Ellison Capers, of South Carolina, acting for Bishop Potter, during the latter's absence in Europe, has appointed a form of special supplication to be used in all of the Episcopal churches of the diocese tomorrow.

Special services will be held at Trinity church tomorrow, when the Rev. Dr. Parker Morgan will preach the sermon. Both morning and evening tomorrow special serices will be held in the church of St. John, the evangelist, in honor of Victoria's accession, coincident with the four hundredth anniversary of the English discovery of America by Cabot. The memorial window presented to the church through St. George's society and Sons of St. George will be unveiled at the morning service. On every ship where flies the British flag there will be special services tomorrow.

A GLUCOSE TRUST.

Chicago, June 19.—According to brokers and commission men a glucose trust has been formed. Its existence was suspected two or three weeks ago when the price of the "long sweetening" took an up turn on a totall inactive market. Since then brokers have been kept busy recording the quotations sent them by the refiners. Conrad H. Mathieson, president of the "Chicago Sugar Refining company, is supposed to be prime mover in the new trust. With but two exceptions every big glucose company in the United States is said to be included in the combine. Mr. Mathieson refuses to talk on the matter.

SPAIN'S SOURCE OF REVENUE.

New York, June 19.—A Madrid dispatch says since January 1 last, $8,000,000 has been paid into the government treasury by Spanish parents redeeming their sons from military service in Cuba and the Philippines. This money, it is announced, has been turned over to the navy department to meet the expenses of increasing the navy.

REPUDIATED PLEDGES.

Senator Nelson Treats Mark Dunnell Very Badly.

Washington, Junes 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Senator Nelson is rapidly coming to be regarded by his colleagues and by Minnesota Republicans as a dog-in-the-manger. It is alleged that within the past few weeks he has repudiated his pledges to more than one seeker after office. When this administration came into power, he informed the president that he was willing to indorse ex-Congressman Dunnell for any position he might desire to offer him.

At Dunnell's request, the president decided to appoint Dunnell's son consul to Prague. Nelson objected. The president then offered this place to Dunnell himself. Nelson positively refused to consent to the appointment, and the ex-congressman has given up in disgust and will return to Minnesota feeling not very amiably disposed towards Nelson.

BIG LAND DEAL.

Bartlett Lumber Company Purchases Mount Washington.

Boston, June 19.—The Bartlett Lumber company has completed the biggest land deal ever accomplished in the Eastern states. It has purchased outright Mount Washington, the entire presidential range, and thirty lesser eminences of the White Mountain group, and in addition some 60,000 acres of fuel land in the wilds of Northern New Hampshire. The primary object of the purchase is lumbering, but there are several secondary objects of considerable importance. The company purposes to cut its lumber in the ravines and valleys and, contrary to the charges of those who are alarmed about a possible desecration of scenery, intends to use judgment and discrimination.

No wholesale destruction of trees is contemplated, and the result will be to actually promote forest growth rather than ruthlessly destroy it. The company has in view from 40,000 to 50,000 acres more of forest land in the White Mountain region on which it has the option of purchase. The company's idea is to stock the woods with game and the lakes and streams with fish and interdict poaching for a series of years. The property of the hotel and railroad on Mount Washington is not included in the purchase.

THE DOCTORS ADJOURN.

Dr. Fulton President and St. Paul Next Meeting Place.

Mankato, Minn., June 19.—The Minnesota Valley Medical society was to have been given a drive around the city yesterday morning by the Commercial club, but the previous night's banquet did not conclude until 3 o'clock in the morning and few were around in time for the drive.

The committee on nominations named the following chairmen of sections for the ensuing year: Practice of medicine, C. L. Green, St. Paul; surgery, A. E. Spaulding, Luverne; physiology and pathology, S. H. Boyer, Duluth; obstetrics and diseases of children, W. T. Adams, Elgin; medical education, jurisprudence and state medicine, D. O. Thomas, Minneapolis; nervous diseases, F. A. Dodge, Le Sueur.

Fifteen new members were voted in. St. Paul was chosen as the place for holding the next meeting. A lively contest for the presidency was developed between the friends of John Fulton, of St. Paul, and W. H. Magie, of Duluth. Dr. Fulton was elected by a vote of 51 to 37. Other officers chosen were as follows: Vice presidents, H. E. Sweetzer, Minneapolis; O. C. Strickler, New Ulm; P. A. Willing, Park Rapids; secretary, Dr. Ignatius Donnelly, St. Paul; treasurer, R. J. Hill, Minneapolis; censor, three years, W. W. Mayo, Rochester; Franklin Staples, Winona.

CENTRAL AMERICA.

Details of the New Form of Government.

Panama, June 19.—One of the plans of the greater republic of Central America, now made complete by the entrance of Costa Rica and Guatemala, is for a general currency for use in all of the five countries of the republic. The republic, as has been stated, was formed for offensive and defensive purposes, and will treat with foreign countries on that basis.

The diet will be the highest legislative body and will be composed of two delegates from each of the republics. The presidents of the republics will preside over the diet, alternating each year.

SIX THOUSAND DEAD.

Horrible Results of the East India Earthquake.

Simla, June 19.—It is announced today that over 6000 lives have been lost by the earthquake disturbances which have recently visited the province of Assam. A message of condolence has been received from Queen Victoria.

PAN-AMERICAN JUNKET.

Worcester, Mass., June 19.—The Pan-American merchants who are touring the industrial centers of the country under the auspices of the Philadelphia Commercial museum, were out early today. The party was divided into five groups, the variety of manufactures to be seen offering inducements to those who had special interests. All the route included the Polytechnic institute, and all concluded with a general meeting at the Commonwealth club for luncheon. The delegates will leave this evening for Springfield, where they will spend Sunday and Monday, going thence to New Haven, and on Wednesday they take their splendidly appointed special train for the West, making their first stop at Pittsburg.

APPROVED FOR PATENT.

Washington, June 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The secretary of the interior has approved for patent a Minnesota school indemnity land list, containing 1759 acres in the Crookston land district.

HOODOO

Civil Service Reform Considerable of a Hollow Mockery Say Officials.

Typographical Union Kicks on Its Provisions—So Do Treasury Auditors.

St. Paul's Ex-Postmaster Henry A. Castle Makes an Interesting Statement.

Washington, June 19.—The senate civil service committee resumed its hearings today. A letter was read from William B. Prescott, president of the International Typographical union, in which he stated that the Typographical union was not friendly to the application of the civil service rules to the government printing office, as had been represented. "The union," he said, "after over a year's experience under civil service rules, is not of the opinion that the people's interest is being subserved by their application to the government printing office. Therefore, it will exercise its influence to secure their abrogation and have the office placed on the same basis as the most successful private offices. Briefly the union is of the opinion better results would be attained by making foremen responsible for the quality and quantity of the output of their respective departments, investing them with authority to employ help at will, and to discharge employes, to decrease the force for incompetency, neglect of duty, violation of office rules, etc."

A joint letter was read from three of the auditors of the treasury department, viz: Messrs. Youngblood, Timme and Andrews, urging an amendment to the law permitting auditors to select their own private secretaries.

Henry A. Castle, auditor of the treasury for the postoffice department, appeared in person. Mr. Castle had been postmaster at St. Paul under the Cleveland administration, although he was an active Republican. He testified that the law had been faithfully observed, with one exception. Mr. Castle thought there was great injustice in promotions and reductions in the executive departments at Washington. He said he knew at least 150 cases in his own bureau where Republicans had been reduced or dismissed and Democrats put in their places. He had found that in Washington the clerks rely more upon political influence to secure promotion than upon their efficiency.

A DEADLY BOLT.

Lightning Kills Two Men and Cremates Some Stock.

Quincy, Ill., June 19.—Two men were killed by lightning near Taylor station today. The victims were James H. Smith, who lived on the farm of Mrs. James Jarrett, of Quincy, and Samuel H. Hickman, who boarded with him and worked the adjacent farm. Hickman was in the barn at 5 a. m. today, when Smith went to call him to breakfast. A bolt of lightning struck and killed Smith just as he entered the stable door. The same flash fired the barn, and it was burned. Hickman was roasted to a crisp, and two mules and three horses were also destroyed.

KILLED HIS WIFE.

And Then Suicided With Poisoned Egg Nog.

Davenport, Iowa, June 19.—John Gugelheimer has murdred his wife by mixing strychnine with an egg nog and giving her the drink. He then committed suicide in the same manner. Neighbors found his body in the kitchen and that of his wife in the cellar. Gugelheimer was a farmer, living six miles from this city, and had formerly been insane.

KANSAS TORNADO.

Several Towns Wrecked By the Winds.

Larned, Kan., June 19.—A tornado swept through the northwest part of this county and Roselle, a village eighteen miles west of here, was struck and almost completely wiped out of existence, two grain elevators and every house in the place being swept away. A mile north of Roselle the farm house of Ed Christian was unroofed and one side blown in. Three miles northeast barns and outhouses were demolished.

At Burdett not a building in town escaped unhajured, while many houses were completely demolished. James Christian, a farmer, had his foot badly crushed and Ray Bindley was seriously injured by boards flying from a demolished house.

Near Jettmore the storm did considerable damage to buildings and crops.

'FRISCO'S OPIUM DENS.

San Francisco, June 19.—The grand jury committee on gambling, opium dens and lotteries has submitted a report in which attention is called to the growing use of opium in this city. The committee suggests that more stringent measures should be adopted to abate the evil. The report of the committee says in part: "We have obtained information of the most convincing character that white girls between the ages of 13 and 20 are enticed into these dens, become regular habitues and finally are subject wholly to the wishes of the Chinese visitors."

BALDWIN'S HEAD REMAINS.

Secretary Bliss Not as Pliable as Supposed.

Washington, June 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Up to date Chippewa Commissioner Baldwin still retains his official head, in spite of the confident assertions of several members of the Minnesota delegation that he would be removed before the close of the week. It is possible that Secretary Bliss has not been found as pliable as they imagined him to be, and Maj. Baldwin may continue to draw his $10 per diem for some time to come.

In this connection many people are wondering why the Minnesota members are so hot after Baldwin's little job, when Lewis Baker, of St. Paul, continues to represent this country abroad in an important mission, and apparently no attempt has been made to secure this $10,000 a year post for any Minnesota Republican.

There are half a dozen men with strong claims for party recognition who would be happy to accept the position now held by Baker as this country's representative to the Greater Republic of Central America. If they are really working for the party interest, as they claim to be, why don't they begin with the high salaried positions first?

GOODNOW ALARMS THEM.

The Wily John Makes the Congressmen Uneasy.

Washington, June 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The arrival of John Goodnow here last night is giving the members of the Minnesota delegation considerable uneasiness, and they are taking his explanation that he is here strictly upon baseball matters with several grains of salt. They fear that the wily John may slip in and capture some of the good prizes they have struggled for in vain.

Goodnow is not likely to call at the White House during office hours, but will probably secure an appointment with the president for a confidential talk after the labors of the day have been completed. For this reason the Minnesota congressmen and politicians here will find it difficult to keep track of his movements.

STRUCK BY LIGHTNING.

Iowa's State University Library Building Destroyed.

Iowa City, Iowa, June 19.—The library building of the state university was struck by lightning at 4 a. m. today and destroyed by fire. It was a 2-story brick structure, with the library on the second floor and the physical laboratory on the first floor. The loss is $100,000. Of this $50,000 was in books, $17,000 in apparatus belonging to the physical laboratory and $33,000 on the building. The library was the best in the state. Many of the books are out of print and cannot be replaced. The Talbot collection of 4500 volumes was about two-thirds destroyed. This collection was exceedingly valuable, many books dating from the beginning of the sixteenth century.

The damage to the physical laboratory resulted largely from water. The firemen with difficulty prevented the flames from spreading to the dental building close by. Fireman L. M. Leek was caught in the building under a falling roof and burned to death. It is thought no others were in the building. The state carries no insurance on any public buildings. The university authorities have for many years been urging the legislature to make an appropriation for a fire-proof building.

WILLIAM'S PROMISES.

Tells the Cologne People What He Will Do.

Berlin, June 19.—At the banquet held in the Guezenich Saal at Cologne yesterday, after the unveiling there of a statue to Emperor William I, the emperor, replying to the burgomaster's toast, said he remembered "the glorious time when the tall forms of my grandfather and father were seen among the citizens of Cologne." His majesty added: "According to human calculation, my much-lamented father should have stood on the spot I now occupy, but Providence willed it otherwise."

Continuing, Emperor William cordially thanked the city of Cologne for its loyalty and patriotism, and expressed appreciation of the astonishing development made by the city since his majesty's last visit. The emperor concluded with declaring he would follow in the footsteps of his grandfather, "maintain the peace which has existed since there has been a German emperor, defend German rights in every way and retain a market for German products."

DESTRUCTIVE STORM.

Big One Pending and Central Around Chicago.

Chicago, June 19.—The United States weather bureau here announced at 2 p. m. today, that all conditions are favorable for a destructive storm in the region of which Chicago is the center. The storm may strike at any point in the menaced territory and may easily be so widespread as inflicting great damage in any locality from Madison, Wis., to Lafayette, Ind.

"The conditions which I state," said Professor Garrett, "apply to Southern Wisconsin, Eastern Iowa, Northern Illinois and Indiana and Southern Michigan. The storm will be sufficiently severe from present indications for tremendous casualties and great loss of life and property."

The government barometer here at 2 p. m. this afternoon stood 29.10. This is a lower point than was recorded at St. Louis just previous to the disastrous cyclone of last year. The record at St. Louis that day just as the storm broke was 29.35.

THE HEADSMAN AT WORK.

Washington, June 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Congressman Morris today secured the appointment of two postmasters in his district. They are C. T. H. Wahlom at Cass, Cass county, vice W. W. Bryant, resigned, and F. E. Davis at St. Joseph, Stearns county, vice Nicholas Rossier, Sr., removed.

CUBA

Policy of This Government About the Island Not Yet Determined.

Minister Woodford Will Have a Very Delicate and Important Mission.

Much Depends on the Way Spain Receives the New Diplomat.

Washington, June 19.—It can be stated on the best authority that all publications purporting to outline the Cuban policy of President McKinley that have been made up to the present time have been in disregard of the fact that up to this moment the case of the United States government has not yet been made up, and that even in the discussions of the subject of our relations to Cuba that have taken place in the cabinet circles, the point has not as yet been reached where it could be said that the executive had finally determined upon any certain plan of action.

At the state department an authoritative denial is given of the statement cabled to London to the effect that Gen. Woodford, the newly appointed United States minister to Spain, has been instructed to intimate to the Spanish authorities that if Spain refuses to grant freedom to Cuba she must be prepared to yield to force. In fact the case of the United States has not yet been made up, as already stated. Mr. Calhoun, who was the president's special commissioner to visit Cuba and learn the plain truth as to the situation there, is still here in daily conference with Assistant Secretary Day upon the subject of our general relations to the Cuban cause, as well as upon the Ruiz case. It was decided that Gen. Woodford also be given an opportunity to confer with Mr. Calhoun.

Therefore, in the course of the next three days the minister will come again to Washington from New York and begin a serious study of the history of the present insurrection from its very beginning. Of this Gen. Woodford, at present, knows little more than the average close reader of the newspapers, and it is, of course, highly important that he should have in his possession all the information that is in the state department, besides that which Mr. Calhoun may be able to add verbally, before he goes to Spain, because it is the intention of our government that our minister shall carry with him when he goes the complete case of the United States. This necessarily will consume some time, and it can be stated positively that there is no expectation that Gen. Woodford will start for Madrid until the expiration of the 30-day period allowed by the state department to all United States ministers upon their appointment within which time they must study their instructions before going to their posts.

Gen. Woodford's instructions, of course, from the peculiarities of the situation, will be much more complex than are usually given to an American minister. Not only will he be charged with all the details of the Ruiz case, which in itself promises to present most formidable legal problems, but he will also take with him all the evidence necessary to establish the losses suffered by United States citizens in Cuba from the continuance of the war, with much other data in support of the suggestion of our government that it can scarcely continue to countenance a prolongation of present conditions.

Upon the answer returned by the Spanish government to these representations by Mr. Woodford will depend the course to be followed by the United States. While perfectly willing to gather all information pertinent to this issue, and listen to all proper representations, the administration is firmly determined not to be unduly hurried in its treatment of the case, realizing that if it should permit itself to be carried away by temporary excitement, mistakes of the gravest character might result that would in the end weaken our position.

OHIO POLITICS.

The Republican Convention Controlled By Hanna.

Cleveland, June 19.—The Republican county convention was slow in convening in Music hall this morning, and it was nearly noon before the delegates got down to business. Though the returns at the primaries showed that the Hanna men controlled the convention, the Foraker forces, represented by Mayor McKisson, disputed the control and boasted that when the convention was called to order they would be in charge.

The fight was precipitated by the nomination of F. L. Taft, a McKisson man, and Judge Francis J. Wing, a Hanna man, for permanent chairman. The ballot resulted in the overwhelming victory of Wing, and the convention thereafter was clearly in the control of Hanna. A resolution ringing in its tone was adopted endorsing Hanna for re-election to the United States senate, and then the convention settled down to elect seventy-six delegates to the state convention.

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.

Cleveland, June 19.—The Democratic county convention to elect delegates to the state convention convened in Army and Navy hall this morning. The fight of the convention was upon the question as to whether this county shall put a candidate for governor in the field. Judge Conway W. Noble had made a campaign for the solid support of Cuyahoga county, but he failed miserably in the convention to obtain it. The delegates are practically unpledged.

LONDON

Continued Storms Have Made Jubilee Decorations Look Quite Bedraggled.

Seat Speculators Are Looking For the Rush of the Americans.

An Unfortunate Man---Theaters Not Doing a Very Good Business.

London, June 19.—(Special cable letter.)—London is in the midst of jubilee fever. The streets are impassable, resembling a mixture of carpenter shops and country fairs. They are crowded with excursionists from all parts of England, who are coming in on special trains at all stations. Everything seems to have been half done and incompleted. Many of the decorations are already seedy from two days' storm. Nothing, however, seems to be lacking in enthusiasm, unless it is in the case of the syndicates of speculators in jubilee seats, who at all places except St. Paul's cathedral are accepting any reasonable offer. The combined losses of the four largest speculators exceed $200,000, and on every hand are inquiries, "Where are the Americans?" Considerable disgust and even resentment is expressed at the way in which the Americans have not bought up all the available seats at the speculators' prices. Much sarcasm is directed against the standholders.

Whistler in Friday's Daily Chronicle has a sketch in which Nelson, speaking from the top of his monument in Trafalgar square, is supposed to say: "Boarded at last. England expects every man to be ridiculous." In addition, St. Martin is depicted as putting up a sign on his church, reading: "Protestant house of the Lord to let. Apply to the money changers of the vestry."

A strange tale is vouched for by one of the London papers. It says that a wealthy member of the aristocracy has paid $1750 for a room on St. James street. He is suffering, it is added, from a hideous malformation of the countenance, will arrive late on Monday night, will spend that night in the room referred to, and will witness the procession with his business attendant, all other people being excluded from the room. For twenty-seven years, it is further stated, only two people have seen his face. The unfortunate man drives every night about London, and on entering and leaving his carriage, according to the newspaper, he covers his head with a hood.

A discordant note of the festivities is the shabby way in which the colonial soldiers have been treated. Again and again various detachments have arrived at noon, but have met with no intimation as to where they should go, and they found no food ready for them when they finally reached their barracks. The scandal was at last taken up by the press, and the prince of Wales himself brought the red tape officials to their senses. There was a marked change when the Canadians arrived. Though it was midnight, a large number of officers were in waiting on the platform and a band of music played the Canadians to their barracks, where they found their quarters and supper all ready for them.

For the present the theaters are doing a poor business, but it is probable that this "slump," which is the chief topic of conversation in theatrical circles, will come to an end with the jubilee celebration, which is doubtless its chief cause. "Secret Service" is, however, an exception to the general rule and is doing as well at the Comedy theater, to which it was transferred last Monday, as it did during its four weeks' run at the Adelphi, where Mme. Bernhardt made her appearance Thursday, June 17, in "Lorenzaccio."

Wednesday afternoon a benefit was given to Lawrence Harris, formerly of the Opera Comique. The program, besides a miscellaneous entertainment by many popular theatrical and variety artists, included a new comedy by Adele Vollieri, entitled "The Syndicate."

It has long been an open secret that a quarrel exists between Mme. Nordica and M. Jean de Reszke, sufficiently serious to prevent the two eminent singers from appearing in the same opera. Col. Mapleson has acted as mouthpiece for Mme. Nordica and made public an explanation of the origin of this misunderstanding, which, he says, began during the last season in America. At that time Mme. Nordica, it seems, made some remarks complaining of the opposition of which she thought she was the object at the hands of M. de Reszke. These remarks in an exaggerated form found their way to the papers and made de Reszke so angry that when Mme. Nordica wrote to him to explain, he returned the letter unopened. This occasioned a complete estrangement between the two artists, which still continues, and all attempts at reconciliation have so far proved abortive. Meanwhile Mme. Nordica still remains out of the bill at Covent Garden Opera house, and as Col. Mapleson's projected opera season at Drury lane seems to have fallen through, it begins to look as though the prima donna will not be heard in London during the present summer.

The attempt to place Drury Lane theater on a sound financial basis under the management of Arthur Collins has proved a complete success. The capital of the new limited company has been fully subscribed. Mr. Collins takes possession of the house next Friday and will at once begin rehearsing the drama with which he proposes to open in the autumn. The house will be run on the same lines as were so successfully laid down by the late Augustus Harris, whose gross receipts from his last two autumn dramas and last two pantomimes amounted to over £168,500. Mr. Collins' company will include Mrs. John, Dan Leno and Herbert Campbell. August Glover will be musical director and Arthur Sturgess will furnish the new pantomime.

A good deal of mystery was made by the fact that the author of "For the Honor of the Family," produced the other afternoon at the Duke of York's theater is C. Bainbridge Bell, husband of Eleanor Lane, who appears in the piece. As has already been stated, it is an adaptation of Augier's "Marriage d'Olympe," and Eleanor Lane has the part of Olympe, a courtesan who marries the heir to a dukedom. Lawrence Cautley is the young husband, Edmund Gurney is the duke, Mrs. Theodore Wright is the duchess and Lena De Coster, a young girl, whose honor the heroine, Olympe, seeks to asperse.

In honor of the forthcoming librarians' conference Sir Henry Irving will, on June 28, give a special matinee performance of "Merchant of Venice," with himself as Shylock and Ellen Terry as Portia.

It is announced that when Beerbohm Tree's company goes on its provincial tour there will be a season of opera at Her Majesty's theater. This will be under the management of Mr. Heidendt, who has purchased for production a new version of "Rip Van Winkle," by France Leoni, and "The Prentice Pillar," by Guy Eden.

Wilson Barrett expects to bring back with him from Switzerland the new play on which he is working, well advanced toward completion.

The widow appeals to the sympathy of even the most callous-hearted. Here is a woman still in the springtime of life, deprived of the stay and support upon which she had every right to depend, and her future overshadowed by the loss of the one man in all the world upon whom she had centered her love and affection. A man has no right to sacrifice his life in the mad race for money, by neglecting his bodily health. A man owes it to himself and to his wife and children to live a long and helpful life. If a man would live he must keep health.

Health is a matter of a little patch here and there. Look after the little ailments and the big ailments will take care of themselves. They will never come. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery keeps the body in perfect health. It promptly eradicates the little ailments that bring serious illness. If the serious malady has already arrived it promptly cures it by removing the cause. It corrects all disorders of the digestion, invigorates the liver and makes the appetite keen and hearty. It makes the assimilation of food perfect and supplies the blood with the life-giving elements that build new and healthy tissue and firm muscles. It tones and builds up the nerves. It drives impurities and disease germs from every organ of the body. It cures all diseases due to overwork and worry and faulty nutrition. It is an unfailing remedy for weak lungs, spitting of blood, shortness of breath, severe cough, bronchitis, asthma and kindred affections. It cures 98 per cent. of all cases of consumption.

Mr. Isaac E. Downs, of Spring Valley, Rockland Co., N. Y., writes: "For three years I had suffered from that terrible disease, consumption, and heart-disease. Before taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery I had wasted away to a skeleton; could not sleep nor rest, and many times wished to die to be out of my misery. Step by step, the signs and realities of returning health slowly but surely developed themselves while taking the 'Discovery.' Today I tip the scales at 187, and am well and strong. The 'Golden Medical Discovery' has also cured my daughter of a very bad ulcer located on the thigh."

DOCTOR'S SKELETON.

Which May Give a Clue to a Murder.

Waycross, Ga., June 19.—Dr. G. A. Spence, Waresboro, Ga., has in his office the skeleton of a man, supposed to have been murdered. The skeleton was found Wednesday in Musquito bay, three miles from Waresboro. The skull contains four bullet holes. The skeleton may be that of C. A. Cuppel, who mysteriously disappeared from his home in Waycross a few months ago.

There is also an impression that the skeleton may be that of a drummer who mysteriously disappeared from this county last August after having collected a large sum of money at Blakeley. The drummer represented a Western house.

ALASKA RAILROAD.

British Columbia Company Will Build One.

Seattle, Wash., June 19.—The British Columbia Development association, one of the wealthiest corporations in the West, has completed arrangements for constructing 360 miles of railway in Central Alaska, for putting in a big sawmill and for the establishment of a tiwnsite at Skagaway bay, Alaska.

By this scheme it is proposed to turn all future immigration to the Yukon and the Klondyke gold fields of Central Alaska from the route through Chelcat pass and St. Michael's to that over Skagaway bay. The pass at this latter point is 2000 feet lower than Chilcat pass, and is more accessible. A dozen men have thus far attempted to reach the gold fields by the pass at Skagaway bay and found it practically easy of access and far superior to Chilcat pass.

Man Who Has Made $200,000,000 in Oil Knows Little About It.

Standard Oil Magnate Proves a Very Poor Sort of Witness.

New York, June 19.—John D. Rockefeller, president of the Standard Oil company, has gone through the experience endured by William Rockefeller a few weeks ago of being questioned and cross-questioned on the witness stand in regard to the business relations of the trust with the Pennsylvania railroad a dozen years ago. Ladenburg, Thalman & Co., bankers in this city, then in the oil business, are suing the Pennsylvania railroad for $178,150 alleged overcharges.

Mr. Rockefeller, like his brother, was called as a witness for the prosecution, in the hope it might be proved by him that the Standard Oil company, or its dependent corporation, the National Transit company, was enabled to ship its crude oil over the Pennsylvania railroad at lower rates than its competitors were forced to pay. To establish this would be a big point for the complainants, but they got little help from Mr. Rockefeller, who, "on the advice of counsel," declined to answer all questions to which he did not care to reply. In a roundabout fashion, by proving that the trust owned all the stock of the National Transit company, he was induced to admit that the trust controlled the corporation. He could not explain why there should be an agreement between the Pennsylvania Railroad company and the National Transit company as to the transportation of oil when each had its own oil—one having tank oars, the others pipes.

"In sending good oil through the pipes would it not be spoiled if it were mixed with oil of a poorer quality?"

"I am not an expert on the different qualities of oil," frankly admitted the man who is said to have made $200,000,000 out of oil. "I really could not answer. I am not an expert on these things at all."

"Then you want it to go down on the record that your knowledge of oil is so little that if the best quality of oil were mixed in the pipes with a poorer quality you can't say whether or not the good oil will be spoiled?"

"To spoil oil is one thing; to more or less injure it is another.

"But a good oil would be depreciated by mixing it with poor oil, wouldn't it."

"I don't think it would improve it."

URUGUAY REBELS.

Gain a Decided Success Over Government Troops.

Montevideo, Uruguay, June 19.—The rebels have gained a decided victory over government troops commanded by Gen. Villar. The government troops were completely routed and left the field in undisputed possession of the revolutionists. No estimate of the killed and wounded has yet been received in Montevideo, but it is believed that the loss will be heavy on both sides.

Reports are to the effect that the government troops are now being reinforced and are preparing to march against the revolutionists again. This victory for the rebels adds another to their long list of recent triumphs, which have all been marked by severe fighting.

BAPTIST YOUNG PEOPLE.

Chattanooga, Tenn., June 19.—Preparations for the annual convention of the Baptist Young People's union of America, which will be held in Chattanooga, July 15 to 19, are now almost completed and all the main details of the big religious gathering have been arranged. A complete canvass of the city for homes for the 15,000 visitors expected has been completed and the result has been very gratifying. A chorus choir of 500 voices has been organized and is now rehearsing under the direction of Professor Porter, of Baltimore. After the adjournment of the convention the visitors will go to Nashville on special trains and will spend one day at the centennial.

CHARGED WITH EMBEZZLEMENT.

St. Louis, June 19.—John and William Kaufman, brothers, who at one time were well-to-do merchants of Claytonville, Iroquois county, Ill., have been arrested here at the request of James F. Ireland, sheriff of Iroquois county. One warrant charges John Kaufman with having embezzled $6000 from the school funds set apart from the taxes for Fountain Creek township, and the other warrant charges William Kaufman with conspiring with his brother to embezzle $1000 more. The men will be taken to Claytonville. John Kaufman was school board treasurer of Fountain Creek township, Iroquois county.

JAPANESE MAN-OF-WAR.

San Francisco, June 19.—A Japanese man-of-war the Hiyle, is on her way to this port. She will receive orders here from the Japanese government, and it is anticipated that she may be ordered to Hawaii. The visitors will be welcomed by the monitors Monterey and Monadnock, which vessels will not start for the North until after her arrival.

POSTAL OFFICIAL DEAD.

New York, June 19.—James Gayler, assistant postmaster of New York since 1880, died suddenly at his home last evening, aged 70. Mr. Gayler devised the "registered package envelope," still in use, which has been the means of saving millions of dollars to the public.

CHINESE REBELS ACTIVE.

Victoria, B. C., June 19.—The Northern Pacific steamer Braemer brings news that the Chinese rebels in Formosa are preparing for a second attack upon Taipah, the capital of Formosa. The government authorities have taken vigorous measures to meet the attack and are enlisting numerous volunteers to aid the regular troops stationed there.

DIREFUL DIABETES.

How Its Symptoms May Be Detected and Progress Be Checked.

Fatal Results Follow if the Disease is Permitted to Have Its Own Way—Dodd's Kidney Pills Absolutely Cure It.

St. Paul, Minn., June 19.—One of the symptoms of incipient diabetes is a frequent desire to pass water. This causes the patient much annoyance both day and night. As the disease advances the act of urination is accompanied by severe pains. The urine, if allowed to stand in a corked bottle, will show floating matter, and will be thick, dark in color, and will be found on chemical analysis to contain sugar.

Diabetes is a frequent and fatal disease. The death is a lingering one. The patient becomes emaciated, weak and flabby from loss of strength, loses his sleep and appetite, and becomes a wreck of humanity. Imagine what the constant sapping of sugar from the blood and replacing it with poison will do to you.

Here are two men in St. Paul who were on the verge of diabetes and were cured of their ailments by DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS:

MRS. RUIZ' ULTIMATUM.

Spain Must Settle With the United States.

New York, June 19.—In regard to the report that Spain, through Premier Canovas, has offered to settle the claim of Mrs. Ruiz, the widow of Dr. Ruiz, against the Spanish government by the payment of $40,000, with the understanding that the United States will not press an official claim, Mrs. Ruiz last evening said:

"Never will I accept anything direct from the Spanish. I am in the hands of the United States government, and all overtures from Spain must be made to it. Whatever the government advises me to do I will do, but Spain must not try to deal with me."

Mrs. Ruiz said she did not know whether she would accept $40,000 or not. She intimated that if the government was satisfied she would be.

IN THE DAKOTAS.

NORTH DAKOTA.

A party of 250 Russians and Poles, comprising about fifty families, came over the Northern Pacific yesterday morning at Bismarck, and were taken to Grand Haven, Mercer county, on the steamer Batchelor, where they will locate. The party came over the Canadian Pacific to Winnipeg, and were to have located in the Northwest Territory, but immigration agents of this state intercepted the party, and stole them away from the Canadian Pacific. They will locate on government land.

The board of trustees of the university held an adjourned meeting at Grand Forks at the university at which President Merrifield and the entire faculty were re-elected, also an additional instructor, Professor Vernon E. Squires of New York. The University Alumni association held its annual meeting Thursday evening and elected the following officers: President, B. G. Skulason; vice president, Henrietta Paulson; secretary, E. B. Robbins; treasurer, Will A Carothers; historian, Will O'Connor; toastmaster, J. D. Campbell.

Owing to the absence of Tracy Bangs, who had been assigned by the court to defend the Larrimore murderer, the case of August Normand was not called Friday at Grand Forks as was expected, but was put over until next Monday morning, to which time the large number of witnesses present were excused. It is stated that Attorney Bangs will endeavor to secure a penitentiary sentence for Normand on the grounds that he is insane, and that he committed the horrible crimes when he was wholly unable to know what he was doing. None of Normand's relations and friends seem to care what becomes of him, and are taking no interest in the trial or rendering him any services whatever.

At Valley City the Northern Pacific elevator burned yesterday morning with 10,000 bushels of wheat. The firemen prevented the fire from spreading to other buildings.

By a special request, Col. L. P. Stone, husband of the woman murdered by the colored man, Brown, in Deadwood, will be permitted to perform the execution of the murderer on the day appointed. Probably such an occurrence has never before happened in the history of crime. If no change is made in the plan, July 14, some time between the hours of 10 a. m. and 2 p. m., Mr. Stone will place the black cap over the head of the convicted negro and will cut the cord that holds the death trap and will swing the murderer of his wife into eternity.

Attorneys in the case of the state vs. Marion and Anna Wamsley, for the murder of Guy M. Darrah, May 14, agreed to bring the case to trial at the adjourned term of the court at Vermillion, which will be set probably in August. Corn in that county has brightened since the hot weather, and is now in A No. 1 growing condition. The frosts and general cold weather and attendant cut worms and wire worms of the last month thinned many fields, and ruined some, necessitating extensive replanting.

The eastern extension of the Dakota Central telephone lines reached Webster yesterday morning, and is now in first-class operation. Workmen are pushing on to Waubay with the intention of running through to Ortonville, Minn.

Grasshoppers have appeared in several new places about Ipswich, and are causing much additional anxiety. Several farmers have been entirely cleaned out.

GRADES

Another class was graduated at the High School last evening. It was not another high school class, however. The time when the members of last night's class will pass out of the public schools will be four years hence. Last night's event marked only the end of an era in their school lives. The exercises formed a stepping stone by which 190 pupils passed out from the grade chools and up into the high school. Next year these pupils will gather from all the schools of the city at the High School, and will become acquainted with each other as high school freshmen. They will attain the dignity of a class yell, class colors and class organization, and instead of the eighth grade they will be known as the class of 1901. The great hall was again filled, holding the third great crowd of the week. With last night's exercises the ceremonies attending upon the closing of the schools were concluded, and pupils and teachers were at liberty to scatter to their vacation pursuits.

It was an entirely different matter to accommodate a class of 190 from what it was to care for a class of sixty-two. As they all had to have seats on the stage, and as the stage would not begin to accommodate them, of course the only thing to do was to put an extension on the stage, and this was done. Rev. F. C. Southworth of the Unitarian church delivered the invocation, after which came a lively chorus from "Il Trovatore" by the class, whose volume of voices filled the great hall amply. The next number was a recitation by Albert Olson of the Washington school, who gave "The Black Horse and the Rider" in a spirited, dramatic manner that drew forth warm applause. Fanny Howes, a pupil from the Lakeside school, also gave a recitation, "Mabel," which she delivered with correctness, force and effect, and which was warmly received by the audience.

Mary Anderson of the Lincoln school read a very clever and thoughtful essay, her subject being "What and Why." Prefacing the paper with the old saying, "we are what we are," she said that few people are willing to admit they owe the position they have attained to any but their own efforts. The lawyer makes the proud boast that he is a self-made man, forgetting to consider what he might be had it not been for the great men who have preceded him and left him their accumulated knowledge and experience for his guidance. The speaker contended that all are partly guided by outside forces as they go through life.

The first friend after entering school, she said, is our first teacher. There is not a pupil who has forgotten his first teacher or who has failed to keep for her a place in his heart. The next friend is Mother Nature and with her are the myths. After a pupil grows older the real things and the real people crowd in, and the pupil learns to appreciate what he hears and reads. She thought, that reading makes the greater impression, as a reader unconsciously imbues himself with the characteristics of his favorite book-people. "Surely," said the essayist, "one could do no better than to follow the footsteps of George Washington, Andrew Jackson, Abraham Lincoln and U. S. Grant, of all of whom we have read with awe."

Jesse E. Mathisnn, of the Adams school, came next with a recitation entitled "The Bell of Atri," which he gave in a very pleasing manner, and for which the audience applauded him very heartily. Edward O'Brien, of the Longfellow school, spoke "Horatius at the Bridge," giving that celebrated poem with appropriate vigor and meeting with a great deal of favor from the audience.

Howard H. Merritt, from the Oneota school, gave a very interesting essay upon "Types of Greatness." He said that in every age occur a few people who impress their personalities upon the world at large. Appearing in every walk of life, some are historians, some are soldiers, others are scientists, and yet others are reformers. It is an important question to determine by what a man's greatness shall be measured. The intellectual capacity of Daniel Webster was almost beyond the comprehension of ordinary men, and Choate has said that there is hardly a thing American that does not ring back an echo of his name. In Napoleon the world had another type of greatness. In every emergency he was master of the situation. When he had an end to attain he went at it with his whole being, and his policy is pursued in France today. Charles Sumner is an example of still another type of greatness. Born when Webster's power was waning, his object was the freeing of the negro, and though he was subjected to the severest criticism and abuse, he was victor in the end. The speaker presented three types of greatness, the politician, the warrior and the humantarian. The first two fell in their struggles, while the name of Sumner will live forever.

Beatrice Coons, of the Lowell school, told the story of the "Bitter Rose." The pretty little story was charmingly told, and the audience testified its appreciation warmly. Miss Caldwell next gave a solo in which the class appeared as chorus. "Ave Maria" was the song, and it was pleasingly rendered. Ida Shearer, of the Bryant school, gave a recitation, "The Wich's Daughter," in a powerful and dramatic manner, and was heartily applauded.

Mary S. Bartlett, of the Emerson school, gave an instructive and interesting essay on "The Birds of Minnesota." She treated the subject in a very original and interesting manner, accompanying her paper with crayon drawings and giving an appropriate poetical quotation with each drawing. She said that almost everything in nature had been immortalized in poetry, and not the least were the birds, the companions of mankind. John L. Evans, of the Franklin school, gave a recitation, "Unguarded Gates," which was well rendered and heartily applauded.

In the absence of Jessie Bradley, of the Jackson school, Master Hugo read her essay upon "International Arbitration." The arbitration treaty which recently suffered defeat in congress was strongly defended in the essay because wherever arbitration has been tried it has brought the controversy to a peaceful close. The time when a nation's honor is protected only by war has passed away, according to the essayist. Antoinette d'Autremont, of the Endion school, gave a recitation, "The King in Ulster Coat," in a very pleasing manner, and she was warmly applauded. Waldemar Moe, of the Lincoln school, contributed a well-executed piano solo, a minuet by Schuloff. Ray Abbott, of the Irving school, recited "Flash; the Fireman's Story," in a particularly creditable manner. Edna M. Boyle, of the Jefferson school, gave an essay upon "Silent Forces." She said that force maintains everything in the universe, and much of it is shrouded in mystery. Force is everywhere, and while man employs it he does not originate it and in many cases he does not understand it. He merely utilizes what nature has provided. For the purpose of measuring the silent forces they should be arranged in pyramidal form. The base is maintained by inanimate force, next come the vital forces and the pinnacle is formed of the mental forces. Gravity is the greatest of the inanimate forces. The vital forces are all that constitutes life, and to the mental forces we owe every triumph of art. First comes the creative forces and receptive forces of the mind, and then the retentive, or memory.

The class sang another chorus, "The Men of Harlach," after which Superintendent Denfeld made a short address and presented the diplomas through the various principals. The class is the largest that ever graduated from the grade schools.

THE TRADE OUTLOOK.

Dun Recounts a Great Gain In Business.

New York, June 19.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade today says: The influence of cold and unseasonable weather has passed. The gain in spite of it was seen a week ago, and has become clearer to all as no genuine improvement ever begins with an uplifting of prices before the producing force has become fully employed. The buying of 7000 bales of Australian wool by one Boston house and 300,000 tons pig iron by a Wall street operator, and advancing prices for stocks are the only proof that the actual conditions are understood by some capable men. There is evidence of gradually enlarging business in every important department, more establishments have been set at work and more hands employed, and while prudence still hinders speculative excesses, the progress toward better things is unchecked. Reports from the various cities this week show a very general progress and a continuing large distribution through retail trade.

The proof is clearer as it should be, in the industrial than in the trading field. Contracts providing for consumption of 7,000,000 tons of iron ore have already been made, 2,000,000 within the past fortnight, it is believed, though last year's contracts only terminated about two months ago. Bessemer ore is selling lower by 20 to 30 cents than at the outset, Hwabik at $2.25 against $2.55, but the heavy demand puts additional mines at work. The speculative purchase of 100,000 tons Southern pig at $8.50 clears the deck for a larger business at better figures and sales at Chicago—150,000 tons—have been the largest for eighteen months. Reaction after the sudden purchase of 50,000 tons Lake Superior at Pittsburg leaves the price $9.50 per ton, but the heavy orders for bars there and for 50,000 tons at Chicago, mainly from implement makers, with orders for many new buildings at the West, one of magnitude at Philadelphia and several at New York, the larger demand for plates and sheets, the order for twenty-two miles of pipe and the purchases of steel rails which have started the new Joliet works with good orders, are far more important than the speculation in materials.

Coke production has increased 2500 tons, almost 2½ per cent, without change in price. Pig is stronger at 13.75 cents, and the copper output in May, larger than in any other month this year, has not yet lowered quotations, while lead is stronger.

The demand for print cloths for the first time in many months has exceeded the week's production, and the price has risen a shade, while prints and other grades of cotton goods are in slightly better demand. There is a more widely distributed business in woolens than was expected. Clothiers are buying, and as they complete are hasty.

In produce markets the year draws toward a close with slightly stronger prices for corn owing to heavy foreign buying, owing to a better foreign demand, notwithstanding more encouraging crop reports. Wheat was hoisted almost 2 cents but fell about as much closing ¼ cent higher for the wek in spite of reduced Western receipts and Atlantic exports.

Failures for the week have been 198 in the United States, against 276 last year, and thirty-six in Canada, against twenty-eight last year.

WHAT BRADSTREET SEES.

New York, June 19.—Bradstreet's today says: There are encouraging features in the general trade situation this week, the most conspicuous of which is increased orders for staple goods for fall delivery in a few lines, notably clothing, which, at Chicago, Baltimore and a few other centers, promise to exceed the movements of a year ago. The most cheer among manufacturers of iron and steel is based in part on expectations of a revival in demand. The repeatedly announced improvement in iron and steel this week rests, in addition to this, on large transactions in Southern forge iron at Birmingham with increased strength in the iron ore market, furnaces and mills in Pennsylvania and Ohio having been fairly busy on all orders, but failing to report many new ones.

Encouragement is also derived from the advance in raw cotton and of 11-16 on print cloths which marks a recovery from the lowest price ever reached. A moderate increase in the demand for foreign wools is the speculative outcome of the increased probability of an early settlement of the tariff question.

Prices this week did no: carry out last week's hope of a general advance. There are lower quotations for tea and coffee, flour wheat and oats, Bessemer pig and for steel billets, and unchanged prices are reported for naval stores, lumber, petroleum, pork and sugar, and in addition to a nominal advance in anthracite coal the only noteworthy gains for the week are for cotton, print cloths, Northern pig iron at Chicago and Southern pig iron at Birmingham.

Exports of wheat—flour included as wheat—from both coasts of the United States and Montreal this week increased sharply, amounting to 2,347,319 bushels, compared with 1,896,000 bushels last week, 3,020,000 bushels in the corresponding week one year ago, 2,857,000 bushels two years ago, 1,927,000 bushels three years ago, and 3,353,000 bushels in the second week of June, 1893.

Exports of Indian corn declined this week, amounting to 1,324,000 bushels, compared with 2,398,000 bushels last week, 1,510,000 bushels in the week one year ago, 858,000 bushels two years ago, 478,000 bushels three years ago, nd as contrasted with 849,000 bushels in the corresponding week of 1893.

There are 236 business failures reported throughout the United States this week, thirty less than last week, thirty-nine fewer than in the week one year ago, five less than in the like week of 1896, thirty-one more than in the corresponding week of 1894, and 184 less than in the like week of 1893.

There are thirty-four business failures reported from Canada this week, against thirty-eight last week, thirty-five in the week a year ago, and thirty two years ago.

Sale of Wheat For Direct Shipment to Liverpool Caused a Rise.

Northwest Receipts Were Small and Argentine Shipments Were Absent.

Wheat was weak at the opening today, the decline of ½d at Liverpool ignoring the strength displayed by American markets yesterday being the chief bear influence. The weather West was rainy and generally favorable. The first car of new wheat was reported from St. Louis, and graded No. 2. Bull news consisted of small Northwest receipts, 281 cars against 288 last week and 568 a year ago and the usual total absence of Argentine shipments. Beerbohm estimated the world's shipments for the week at 5,000,000. Later an advance was caused by a sale of 50,000 bus of No. 2 spring wheat at Chicago for direct immediate shipment from Chicago to Liverpool. Chicago received 15 carloads of wheat. The week's shipments of wheat and flour from both coasts were equal to 2,347,000 bus against 1,896,000 bus the week before and 3,020,000 bus the corresponding week of last year. The day's clearances from Atlantic ports were equal to 342,000 bus.

There was a fair amount of trading on the Duluth board, July wheat opened here ⅛c lower at 72c and declined to 71⅞c. Later it sold up to 72¾c and closed at 72¾c, an advance of ⅛c for the day. Last Monday, July wheat sold here at 12½c over July at Chicago, and today the spread increased to 4c and at the close was 3¾c. The elevators bought 16,000 bus of cash stuff at ½c over July. The mills were bidding ¾c over July but got nothing. Following were the closing prices:

Wheat—No. 1 hard, cash, 73¾c. No. 1 northern, cash, 72¾c; July, 72¾c; September, 64¾c; December, 65¾c. No. 2 northern, 70¾c. No. 3, 69@72c. Rejected, 49¾@68c. Rye, 24c. No. 2 oats, 21¼c; No. 3 oats, 20¾c. Flax, 75½c.

GOSSIP.

Received over private wire of B. E. Baker, grain and stock broker, room 907 Chamber of Commerce and 307 Board of Trade, Chicago, June 19.—Wheat ruled dull today and closed fractionally lower. There was a fair milling and export demand but only about 50,000 bus were worked. St. Louis received its first car of new wheat and of course had a sympathetic ½c break on it. Crop prospects in the West are simply perfect. Well posted traders are figuring that the government report is about 100,000,000 bus under the actual crop outlook and that if 85 per cent of the growing crop is safely secured 60c will be a fair price for wheat. The day's business was narrow and one of the dullest of the season. Considerable July wheat was sold but offerings were well taken. A house whose name has been frequently mentioned in connection with a possible July squeeze was selling July and buying September. The English markets will be closed for two days on account of the jubilee.

Corn and oats easier but well supported. Fine growing weather started some selling but receipts are lessening and corn has many friends around 26c for September.

Provisions weaker on large receipts of hogs and some selling by packers.

Puts, July wheat, 67⅜@68c.
Calls, July wheat, 69½@⅝c.
Curb, July wheat, 68⅝c.

PRODUCE MARKET.

Strawberries were scarce this morning—"no enough to go round," said one of the Michigan street leaders. If a fresh lot isn't hurried through tonight Duluth people will not have shortcake on Sunday. As if to compensate for the scarcity of strawberries the California orchards sent us their first lot of peaches and plums, and there were some extra fancy pineapples from Union River, Fla. Red raspberries were in and ruled low for early offerings. Cucumbers were very low and very good and, in fact, nearly everything in garden truck was plentiful. Eggs stiffened up a little and butter was weaker. Despite the cold weather business was very good on Michigan street.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

Moderately Active Opening With Slight Improvements.

New York, June 19.—The stock market opened moderately active and slightly higher for the standard shares, improvements of a small fraction being general, with the exception of a few of the low-priced shares. Sugar was the feature, and on liberal dealings receded 1 3-8 to 123 1-4. The other industrials were not affected and ruled higher, Chicago Gas touching 90 3-4.

The market subsided into dullness soon after the initial trading and prices receded throughout the list, except for a few specialties which were effectively supported. The grangers and Gould shares scored the most noteworthy losses, which were mainly confined to moderate fractions. Chicago Gas was quite erratic and fluctuated around 90. Sugar prices continued to recede during the last hour of trading on light offerings, and the dealings were restricted to the leading shares. Northern Pacific preferred made the extreme decline in the railway shares, the loss reaching a point. Western Union was conspicuous for a rally above last night's close. The changes in the industrial stocks were unimportant. Sugar rallying feebly from the low point in the final dealings. The general market closed heavy and showed slight losses throughout. Sales of stocks were 57,700 shares.

WEST END

Sergeant Filiatrault Criticizes Col. Shandrew For Disbanding Company H.

Claims There May Have Been Some Feeling at the Bottom.

Zenith Park Revelers May Be Troubled By the Police Tomorrow.

Sergt. Maj. Fred Filiatrault of Company H, in an interview with a reporter for The Evening Herald today, said there was much in connection with the disbanding of the company that had not yet been made public. While it is true, he said, that the company was not up to as high a standard of efficiency as it should be, that was used only as a pretext for the summary action taken by Col. Shandrew. Capt. Holmberg, he said, was senior commander of the regiment, and for that reason Company H was entitled to the position at the right of the column in battalion drill, and was the first company to be called out in case the services of the militia were required by the state. This fact has engendered jealousies among other companies which have influenced the commanding officer. Sergt. Filiatrault claims that Col. Shandrew has been unfriendly to Company H for a long time, and has been looking for an excuse to get rid of it, which was afforded him when the annual inspection took place at a time when the company was not prepared for it. He says that the members of the company and officers have expended a great deal of money for uniforms and equipment, and that this property will not be turned over to the state on the order of the colonel until they have been reimbursed. The state, he says, also owes the company several hundred dollars for inspection service. Sergt. Filiatrault declares that he and other members of the company feel that they have not been fairly treated.

POLICE WILL BE STRICT.

The indications are that tomorrow will be a pleasant day, which means that another large crowd may visit Zenith park and repeat the disgraceful scenes of last Sunday. The quiet church-going people of West Duluth were greatly annoyed last Sunday evening by the crowds of drunken men and women who passed through the city on the way home from the island. They took possession of the street cars and made them unfit for the use of ladies and gentlemen. The police will probably be more strict in their treatment of the returning revelers tomorrow than they were last Sunday, and will not wait for fights to begin inside the city limits before arresting drunken and disorderly characters.

FIVE IN A BLOCK.

There are in West Duluth, all within the limits of a single block, five business men who have been married within a month. It is possible that there may be more to come, for the marriage epidemic in the West End recently has been something remarkable, and in the rush some have doubtless escaped public attention. The influence of these newly made Benedicts on the business men in the center of the city has been very salutary. All of them are happy, and their blissful state shines forth from their eyes and encourages those around them to look on the bright side of things and forget their troubles, if they have any. And this is why business is better, charity more freely given, kind words more often spoken, and a hopeful view of things in general more frequently expressed in West Duluth than in any other community at the head of the lakes.

WEST DULUTH BRIEFS.

THE WEATHER.

United States Agricultural Department, Weather Bureau, Duluth. Synopsis of weather conditions for the twenty-four hours ending at 7 a. m., (Central time), June 19.—With the advance of a high pressure area to the region north of Montana, the barometer has risen very decidedly throughout the Northwest. A shallow depression now extends from Colorado and Kansas nor heastward to Lake Superior.

Thunder storms have been reported at Moorhead, La Crosse, Davenport, Chicago, Memphis, Omaha, Rapid City and Qu'Appelle. The heaviest rainfall for the past twenty-four hours (1.96 inch) occurred at the last named station. High winds have been reported as follows: Chicago, 46 miles per hour, Battleford, 36; Duluth, 30. There have been numerous local showers in the upper lake region and the Lower Missouri valley, and from these the heaviest rainfalls were .8 inch at La Crosse and .36 inch at Chicago.

The tempera ure has fallen slightly in the Upper Missouri and Lower Mississippi valleys; it has risen generally on the eastern slope of the Rocky mountains.

Duluth temperature at 7 a. m. today, 52; maximum yesterday, 51; minimum yesterday, 42.

Local forecast for Duluth and vicinity: Generally fair tonight and Sunday, but possibly a light shower tonight; no decided change in temperature; light to fresh winds, mostly northerly.

JAMES KENEALY,
Local Forecast Official.

Chicago, June 19.—Forecast until 8 p. m. tomorrow: For Wisconsin: Partly cloudy tonight and Sunday with occasional thunderstorms; variable winds. For Minnesota: Fair tonight and Sunday, except local showers in south portion tonight; cooler Sunday; winds shifting to fresh northerly.

MINNESOTA STONE PREFERRED.

It is stated that the members of the state capitol commission are almost evenly divided upon the question of the material to be used in the construction of the new capitol; that three members favor going outside the state for stone, while three are in favor of using Minnesota stone and the seventh member is undecided. It is astonishing that any member of the commission should think favorably for one moment of the idea of not using Minnesota stone in the construction of the new capitol. The sentiment of the people upon this point was made manifest very clearly when the state university regents used stone from another state in the construction of an addition to the university buildings. The protest then raised was sufficiently loud and widespread to convince any person that the people of Minnesota believe that Minnesota stone only should be used in the construction of all our state buildings.

The St. Cloud Journal-Press very clearly expresses the popular feeling, when it says: "The people of this state will not for a moment tolerate the consideration of anything else. They do not propose to pay their money to be sent to Georgia, or Vermont, or Massachusetts, or Ohio, or any other state for marble or sandstone or any other stone. They intend that this imposing edifice shall be a splendid object lesson as to what Minnesota itself can produce in the way of building stone—admitted to be equal to the best that can be produced anywhere. To import the product of another state under these circumstances would be to discredit our own quarries. And besides, there are many hundreds of men, our own taxpayers, who are entitled to the employment which the cutting and dressing of this stone would give. It is only right and fair and just that they should have it. We do not believe that the commission will seriously consider any other course than to use a Minnesota stone in the erection of this building."

The Minneapolis Journal also joins in the protest against using Indiana sandstone, and says: "Minnesota has in her quarries the finest building stone in the country—geologists and practical builders agree on that point. What an advertisement for the state it would be to have the announcement go forth that we were building our new capitol of Indiana stone with these fine quarries lying idle within our boundaries! What a commentary on our common sense to have it known that we are keeping Hoosier workmen busy while our own stonecutters lie idle: that we have saved a paltry $50,000 at the spigot and poured out ten times that sum at the bunghole! A capitol built of Minnesota stone with its hard, granitic surface and its beautiful tint, would be a standing advertisement of the state's resources worth many times the few dollars that would be saved by using outside material. It is well that the commission has postponed its decision for ten days. Within that time it should and will hear from the public in no uncertain way. Minnesota stone for Minnesota buildings is a motto long since given the stamp of popular approval."

The commission will no doubt be flooded with protests against using anything except Minnesota stone, as soon as the people generally learn that several members of the commission are disposed to use Indiana stone and consequently to send money outside the state which should be kept within and expended among the owners of our stone quarries and their employes. It would be almost criminal to send this contract elsewhere and deprive Minnesota stonecutters of an opportunity to secure employment.

TAXING INHERITANCES.

While endeavoring to discover some method of raising additional revenue, the framers of the tariff bill in the senate have discussed various schemes, but all now seem to have been abandoned, with the result that as it stands today the tariff bill cannot be expected to produce enough revenue to meet the expenditures estimated by the secretary of the treasury for the next fiscal year. First it was announced that the taxes on beer and cigars and tobacco would be increased. This aroused a loud protest in certain quarters. Next there was talk of reviving the bank check stamp, but a howl went up which convinced the authors of this brilliant idea that it would be a very unpopular move. More recently it was suggested that the needed additional revenue might be secured by the enactment of a federal inheritance tax law. This has caused a great outcry on the part of the Republican press, and it has been strongly insisted that the taxing of inheritances should be left to the various states, some of which now impose such taxes.

Why a federal inheritance tax law should not be enacted does not appear. There has been no valid objection yet advanced, so far as The Herald has noticed. The rich do not bear their just burden of the taxation now. An inheritance tax would even up things in some degree, and it would furnish revenue that is badly needed by the federal treasury to meet the large and constantly increasing expenditures of the government. That such a tax would be a successful revenue producer is proven by some statistics given in a speech delivered by Senator Mills two weeks ago in the senate. The senator says: "I read from a paper written by Thomas G. Shearman, one of the ablest lawyers in the United States. It was published and republished in the magazines. It was published in 1890. It has never been questioned. It has been sent broadcast; it has been commented upon everywhere, and never have I heard one breath of contradiction or criticism of the article. I will read what he says, and he gives the names of some of them in his discussion, and they do not deny it:

"There are 200 persons worth $20,000,000 each—$4,000,000,000.

"There are 400 persons worth $10,000,000 each—$4,000,000,000.

"There are 1000 persons worth $5,000,000 each—$5,000,000,000.

"There are 2000 persons worth $2,500,000 each—$5,000,000,000.

"There are 6000 persons worth $1,000,000 each—$6,000,000,000.

"Then he puts down 15,000 people who own $500,000 each, making $7,500,000,000.

"Thus these 24,600 people owned $31,500,000,000, or more, at that time, than one-half of the national wealth of the United States."

These figures show that an inheritance tax would produce a large revenue annually. Much of the wealth mentioned above now escapes taxation, and the only way in which it seems possible to reach it is by taxing it when it goes through the probate courts.

EVILS OF BAD ROADS.

Chauncey Depew, in a banquet speech, made the broad assertion that "bad roads are a perpetual evil." The remark was quoted by a New York city paper and commented on to a considerable extent. It spoke of a suburban village not far from Greater New York, declaring that it was a type of many villages, as having roads that are literally sloughs for weeks at a time every year. It is said that these village and county roads are the kind where a horse sinks at every step to the fetlocks, frequently to the knees and sometimes so far down into the thick mud that it is necessary to haul him out with double teams.

That text is a suitable one from which to talk on the good roads or bad roads question in a convention, in a newspaper, in business circles, anywhere, for everyone knows that it is based on truth—everyone knows that "bad roads are a perpetual evil." No wonder that the brightest and best young men of the Eastern villages and cities cursed with bad roads in their main street and with equally bad roads for miles around them, have packed their trunks and gone West, to the prairies, pineries and foothills.

An old New Yorker, who lived from his birth to his young manhood in a village similarly situated to the one about which the New York paper speaks, said to a friend recently: "Probably I would still be a resident of my native village but for my utter disgust as a boy and a young man at the bad roads, and the indisposition of the people to improve them. Working out the road tax was always a farce. I have seen twenty men pretending to work out their road tax, when if you were to combine their entire efforts it would not amount to one honest day's work. I can safely say that I came West to get rid of mud. I have found a good deal of it here, of course." Continuing said: "But I guess they are improving their roads there. The old village paper has something on the subject of good roads every week, and I see by quotations from other papers that there is the same vigorous agitation in behalf of good roads that we see out West. This plainly tells me that it is only a question of a few years when there will be such a sentiment for good roads that good roads will come. Public sentiment to back it, is nothing. A member of the legislature can help to enact a law. If it is backed by public sentiment it will be enforced. Every citizen has it in his power to do what is better than enacting a law as a member of the legislature, and that is to make the sentiment that demands the law and will secure its enforcement. I had not become an ardent advocate of good roads until my two boys and one girl, who are members of the League of American Wheelmen, began to agitate. They have been so earnest and practical that they have gotten all of the farmers in our community interested in the work. The farmers no longer raise the cry that the talk about good roads is all for the benefit of the wheelmen. We have come to know that the wheelmen will get very little benefit from good roads compared with what the farmers will derive, to say nothing about all other classes."

This almost accidental interview will prove very encouraging to the friends of good roads.

The Volksfreund, the German newspaper of Duluth, has a prosperous appearance this week, being filled with many attractive advertisements. The editorial and news columns also bear signs of great improvement, and give evidence that the Volksfreund is a live newspaper. These changes are due to the hustling qualities of the new editor and business manager, W. G. Joerns, who in addition to being a graceful and forcible writer is well equipped to look after the paper's business interests. The Volksfreund should prosper under Mr. Joerns' direction.

A modern boom is spreading over Palestine. Corner lots and suburban acres are being shorn of sanctity and tradition and traded in the markets of Jerusalem. Steamers are traversing the stormy waters of Galilee, traders navigate the Jordan, drummers are harvesting a crop of new stories and a railroad connects Jaffa and Jerusalem. For the first time in centuries the din of commerce disturbs the prayers and lamentations of pilgrims and drowns the discords of sects.

The dancing masters of Chicago have expelled a member who persisted in keeping a keg of beer on tap during school hours in his acadmy. The terpsichorean artists did not object to the beer, but rather to the time at which it was served. The proper time, they declare, for refreshing the underpinning is after the dance is over. The Omaha Bee admits that is a step in the right direction. The custom of "hitting the can" during dancing hours is carrying a good thing to extremities.

The number of the Manufacturer for June 5 is a handsome publication of eighty-five pages, largely devoted to a full report of the proceedings of the international meeting of the Philadelphia Commercial museum, and to other interesting matter in connection with this important gathering. This number should be in the hands of every manufacturer who desires to extend his trade with the Central and South American countries.

The Mille Lacs County Times says: "The Princeton Union is trying to flirt with the silver party." State Auditor Dunn is the proprietor of the Union. It is stated that he wants another term as auditor. Inasmuch as his prospects of getting the Republican nomination are growing less, it is possible that he would like to get the silver nomination, but the fusion ticket will not be wighted down with his name.

While some of the brethren of the cloth were inveighing against the bicycle last Sunday, Rev. Thomas Osten, of Milwaukee, mounted his tired steed and scorched along the boulevard, leaving a trail of smoke in his wake. He ran down a boy and was hauled to jail.

Two Chicago girls of tender years started away from home to smash a bicycle record. They were overtaken by their doting parents and were given a few affectionate applications of palms on mamma's knee. They do not want any more for a century.

There is a Connecticut insurance company which has a pull that would delight an office-seeker. A committee of the state legislature has reported in favor of taxing this company 2½ mills and all other companies 4 mills.

The great parade in London next week will be a picturesque affair. There will be specimens of the almost innumerable races that compose the British empire—Malays, Hindoos, Simalls and Indians of various tints.

The Emporia Gazette became involved in serious trouble the other day. It asserted that the "prettiest girl in town has no sense." Every girl in Emporia was indignant, having taken the remark as personal.

The commercial agencies report a considerable gain in trade during the past week. Everything is steadily working towards a general revival of business, which must result in widespread prosperity.

SHOTS AT THE PULPIT.

Chicago Post: Rev. Thomas Gregory says that the bicycle threatens civilization. However, if civilization will keep out of the parks and not try to cross the street there will be no danger.

Kansas City Star: Rev. Frank Crane, of Chicago, in one of his pulpit editorials on "Trial by Newspapers," said: "Durran may be guilty, but there was not enough legal evidence against him to hang a cat." This is only another proof that the way of safety for clergymen is to stick to the preaching of the gospel and let the big world attend to secular matters in the six days set aside for that purpose.

Springfield Republican: There can no longer be any doubt as to the language of the United States. German Catholic priests in Cincinnati will hereafter have sermons preached in English as well as in German, which is in obedience to a recent papal decree as to the conduct of Roman Catholic worship in the established language of the country. It is to be an English-speaking continent, north of Mexico, all down the ages.

Indianapolis Journal: Two or three legislative chaplains have been guilty of blasphemy because of the nature of their prayers. If presiding officers would call such chaplains to order, as did the speaker of the Massachusetts house several years ago, when he injected a speech for a pending measure into his prayer, it would be well. While the chaplain was making his address to the house, under the guise of a prayer, the speaker's gavel came down with a crash and he said: "The chaplain will suspend; it is not in order for any person not a member to address the house." It stopped the speech and the practice. For all such occasions the Lord's prayer cannot be improved upon.

Leslie's Weekly: A recent ecclesiastical incident has developed what, it appears, is a new test of orthodoxy. Perhaps the most of us feel that no addition of this sort was needed to the stock already on hand. However that may be, a reverend gentleman in Syracuse has given to the world a doctrine concerning angels which he classes among the things necessary to be believed. It appears that a wealthy parishioner of his had placed in the church a memorial window the design of which included three angels. One of these was pictured without wings. The rector entered a vehement protest. A wingless angel was not an "orthodox angel." There was no telling what aberrations of theology might result from the hebdomidal contemplation of such visual instruction in heresy and schism. The issue became a vital one to the distressed clergyman's mind. His convictions were not shared by his vestrymen, and it finally became necessary to make an appeal to the bishop. Alas! he was a "broad" bishop, and decided that it was not a subversion of the faith to depict an angel without wings.

THE NEW COLLECTOR.

Sherburne County Star-News: Chairman Willcuts, chairman of the Sixth district Republican committee, has been endorsed by the entire Minnesota congressional delegation for the position of collector of customs at Duluth and is tolerably sure of the appointment. The appointment is a meritorious one, everybody conceding that Mr. Willcuts deserves it.

St. Cloud Journal-Press: The appointment of L. M. Willcuts as collector of the port of Duluth is one which will give general satisfaction. Mr. Willcuts was chairman of the congressional committee, and came in touch with the workers all over the district. He is an exceedingly pleasant gentleman, honorable and courteous, and won his appointment by hard and efficient work.

Minneapolis Tribune: Chairman Willcuts of the Sixth district Republican committee, whose well managed campaign contributed so much to the defeat of Charles Towne last fall, has received no more than his just deserts in the appointment as collector of customs at Duluth. For a new member Page Morris is getting on to the ropes quite cleverly.

Grand Rapids Magnet: The appointment is a good one and well merited and probably a more deserving or capable person could not have been selected.

TO A GIRL GRADUATE.

Whither away? What road, my friend?
It has full many a turn;
The flight of the eagle is without end,
But the wood-thrush seeks the burn.

Over the sea the white sails fly,
The herons they wander far,
The song lark soars in the azure sky,
And the petrels cross the bar.

Whither away? What road, my friend?
The rover is full of fire,
But the peaceful vale where the willows bend
Is the nightingale's desire.

GOOD RESULTS EXPECTED.

New Ulm Review: Charlie Towne of this state was elected permanent chairman of the Republican silver party in Chicago last week. Towne has accepted and will prove himself equal to the undertaking. For eloquence he has few superiors, for personal magnetism and ability to organize he is without an equal in the ranks, and for work and enthusiasm he is a veritable Hercules. We look for flattering results in consequence of his selection.

WAS TWICE INSULTED.

New York Press: When Gen. Kiddoo was in Tennessee, a prisoner of war, in 1863, a Confederate major of boyish appearance took a fancy to the new boots he was wearing, and in the friendliest way offered to buy them for twice what they had cost him. He resented the proposition in forcible American army vernacular.

"Well, if you won't sell 'em I'll have to take 'em," said the Reb. "I thought you were a gentleman, and wanted to treat you right. Take 'em off, sir! One—two—"

The major's revolver was within three feet of Kiddoo's face, and the prisoner was, of course, unarmed. "You've got the drop," he said, and off came the boots.

"Now — — you I get down and blacken 'em!" ordered the Reb, and at the pistol's point, Kiddoo, who was a full-fledged colonel at the time, obeyed.

Little Falls Herald: The selection of Mr. Towne as chairman of the Silver Republican national committee means earnest prosecution of the cause of bimetallism. Seldom has a man become a national figure in so short a time as Mr. Towne, and his friends are glad to see his progress.

ACROSS THE TEA TABLE.

"The odors blown
From unseen meadows newly mown,
Or lilies floating in some pond,
Wood-fringed, the wayside gaze beyond;
The traveler owns the grateful sense
Of sweetness near, he knows not whence,
And pausing, takes with forehead bare
The benediction of the air."

June is the month of the idealist and poet. The perfume of the air is like some fragment of a half-remembered dream, suggestive, vague, elusive; it is a haunting melody which one feels but does not voice; the senses are steeped in it, and the sunshine of June deepens and intensifies the feeling. Every poet sings of June; every idealist dreams the days away, hears in his thoughts always "the sound of a running brook in the leafy month of June, which to the sleeping woods all night singeth a quiet tune," the tune of nature which to the listening ear runs through all her works. The whisper of the pines, the soft rustle of the leaves of the birch, the sharper, crisper brushing of the poplar leaves distilled by sun and mists into a perfume, the throbbing sound of insect life, the song of the birds, brooks and streams which come tumbling down our hills, eager to tell the secrets of the forest to the great gleaming lake. The wash and lap of its waters rocking in the wind; that wind which catches up soft mists from its bosom, which deepens and changes the rainbow tints blown over its surface, into its clear depths one could gaze, lost in old, old dreams and fancies, or draw from it its charm, which is a subtle spirit dwelling in the deep heart of this summer sea; so restless, so unguided, so wild, so free it rocks and billows and sings June's song of summer like the undertone of the organ deepening, thrilling, intensifying the rest of the melody. One day this week I went forth to conquer the restless, human spirit which pined for the open air. The rains descended and the floods came, but protected from onslaughts of the elements, I saw June, in tears, 'tis true, but sweeter, fresher, daintier even than when she is dressed in her robes of sunshine. By the wayside each blade of grass, each seeded spear bore diamond drops; the living green of nature was the sweetest color ever seen, and the eye, quick to notice and interpret, found a beauty perhaps unnoticed under other circumstances. The tall stems of dandelions rose naked and bare, each of them a "has been;" clover fluttered in the breeze and showed one eight or ten different varieties. Wild peas ran here and there through the grass, their slender leaves and purple or white blossoms a bit of bloom amid a wilderness of green, and the "bended seeded grasses," as the sands of the sea in number and variety; pale buds of yarrow thrust themselves upward, flushed with white blooms drank up the rain, and the buds of summer's sweetest blossoms showed themselves on the wild rose bushes. Tall plumes of bracken uncurled fronds here and there and stood like lances, straight and sharply pointed. Strawberry blossoms gleamed like stars in the grass, the glens through which came rushing torrents of brown water were green depths into which I gazed, but did not venture. Somewhere off in quiet pools I knew that buds were on the blue flags, that water lilies were pushing upward from the ooze, that a thousand blossoms of our beautiful Northern woods were paying their tribute to sweet June, and there were eyes, alas, which seeing saw not, and like the man with the muck-rake in "Pilgrim's Progress," caught no glimpse of the life and beauty and promise of the season.

In view of the fact that many of us are either ignorant or unobserving of the beauties lying just about us, it is interesting to know that modern educators recognize the necessity of stimulating imagination and developing ideality in the child by nature studies. The story is told of a teacher who found it impossible to do anything with a boy she thought abnormally stupid and dull. After repeated trials in endeavoring to find out the bent of his mind, she was about to give him up in despair when she saw him one day absorbed in some work on his desk, she found an opportunity to get near to watch him in his occupation and discovered that he was dissecting a fly. Most teachers would probably have cuffed him, snatched his work away from him, made him an example of cruelty to the school and quoted Nero and Jesse Pomeroy and other monsters, who began abnormal careers of vice by torturing insects. She apparently paid no attention to him, but found an opportunity not long after to ask her pupils some questions in natural history. Instantly the stupid, dull boy was awake, electrified, alive. No other pupil could tell as he could of the vivid palpitating life all about him. He knew all about bees, and flies, and insects and frogs, and tad-poles, and flowers and grasses, and why insects sought certain of these. He told it all, and from that day he was encouraged, stimulated, helped and taught until now he is known as one of the greatest naturalists. The George Putnam school at Boston is an example for many. In a sunny corner in the rear of the school yard is a wild flower garden, begun at the suggestion of H. L. Clapp, a botanist of wide knowledge. The children love this flower patch, and if nothing else has been accomplished they have had a life in the open air and have had their powers of observation sharpened. You remember what a plea Charles Read made for this latter in "The Woman Hater;" how every one of Conan Doyle's stories show that the most intricate problems may be solved if only one is observing of small things; how much success in life depends on the cultivation of the powers of observation and deduction. You may go to this school in Boston and every small child there can tell you the botanical name of the flowers, or ferns, or plants in that patch, can classify and tell you its brothers, sisters or cousins. If a boy he has lain flat on the ground in the favorite attitude and watched the ants, and bugs about one of these plants probably for hours. He has waded in pools for some, gone into the depths of shadowy forests for others, has attempted to give home surroundings when transplanting and is altogether a little savage while carrying on his studies of observation. It is not hard in this light to appreciate the good advice of Bishop McGolrick given in an address this last week when he suggested a life as much as possible in the open air for children up to the age of 10. No child should be kept in school all day until after this age. In the Putnam garden there are 150 varieties of wild flowers, besides the different species, all gathered by the children. Some of them brought long distances, gathered while off on summer vacations. There are twenty different varieties of ferns in the garden, and many of the children have specimens at home much finer and more imposing. They have a number of varieties of the iris, of the golden rod, violets, some from Vermont, New Hampshire, Maine and the depths of Canadian woods. There is the Jack-in-the-pulpit, familiar to every St. Nicholas reader, yellow bellworts ringing their yellow fairy bells in the soft summer air. The lady slipper, our only native orchid, the trillium, wild vines which clamber over the wooden fence, and tall trees which rustle and whisper and shade this patch of plants and blossoms. Every child living under such influences as these will acquire a culture to be gained in no other way. The spirit of an Audubon, or a Wilson, or a Cuvier, or a W. H. Gibson may be in some one of those children, and who can fancy any of our modern essayists who write so delightfully of nature and nature studies having spent a boyhood anywhere but in the woods and fields. Mabie, and Henry Van Dyke, and Ellwanger, and Burroughs, and Thoreau, and Lowell, and C. D. Warner, every one of them must have had a childhood "near to nature's heart." It is said that the children in the kindergarten enjoy the garden intensely and that boys know more about it than girls. Girls will have to learn what Richard Jeffreys, the English naturalist, says about beauty, that "it takes 150 years of outdoor life to make a beauty—open air, hard manual labor or continuous exercise, good food, good clothing, some degree of comfort—all these, but especially open air, must play their part for five generations before a beautiful woman can appear." It may not be beauty for oneself, this life in the open air, excepting the beauty of good health, but beauty for some one in the future.

It does one good to remember once in a while; remember things learned long ago, and while thinking over all that I have written, which was part of my walk in the rain, a line or two of Whittier's "Barefoot Boy" came to me, and by and by I found myself reciting it as I walked, I did not know it was tucked away in my brain until I began to recall it. Perhaps you can feel its charm, as you do the same, and appreciate how the outdoor life appeals to a boy who has learned somehow, somewhere—

"How the robin feeds her young,
How the oriole's nest is hung,
Where the whitest lilies blow,
Where the freshest berries grow,
Where the ground-nut trails her vine,
Where the wood-grapes clusters shine,
For eschewing books and tasks,
Nature answers all he asks;
Hand in hand with her he walks,
Face to face with her he talks,
Part and parcel of her joy."

The outdoor girl has her bicycle these days, and she is a very up-to-date young miss on it. No longer does she wear long bicycle shoes, but the low shoe and golf stocking. Women who have used them say these are more comfortable and cooler than the high, close, laced shoes, though it must be admitted that the latter offer more support. However, women now and then indulge in so-called scientific riding, and this can only be done in a low shoe, which allows opportunity for the much talked of ankle motion. The latest bicycle hat is the jaunty little straw derby. These can be bought in blue and black and tan colored straw and trimmed with a broad band of ribbon, preferably black, encircling the crown. The belt, the necktie, and the hatband should all match in color, and the studs and cuff-buttons should bear a resemblance in harmony to the belt buckle. Above all, the devotee of the wheel entertains; she seldom rides late in the evening now, so the bicycle supper is, in a measure, a thing of the past. The reason for this is easily explained. The exercise is the thing—and one is supposed to take exercise in the morning, to be the athletic young woman in the early hours of the day, but to pay the woman's tribute in the afternoon and evening to old-established customs, in fact, be a Lydia Languish if one wants to then, and thereby be more fascinatingly womanly. For where is the woman who does not love to pose? It is part of her woman's prerogative to be changeable, and complex, and perplexing. It proves how delicately strung she is, that she take color from influences about her, and it amuses her. Therefore she is the robust, athletic, out-of-door young woman in the morning, who exercises; in the afternoon and evening she poses, she is anything she chooses to make herself. Delightfully elusive, vaguely complex, charmingly womanly in light, fluffy gowns, part and parcel of her individuality. Summery cool and capricious, as our June, she looks the month personified; the red, red rose of June in her cheeks and on her lips, the light of June, and youth and health in her eyes and her complexion, the spring of joy and happinness in her walk, and she is altogether lovable and to be loved. So if she entertains in the morning it is at breakfast, any hour from 8 to 12, and she has the opportunity to make fame for herself as hostess. Given a porch, which is shaded and secluded, she serves her breakfast there. About this nook are hammocks, and rattan lounges, and great, soft pillows, covered with cotton goods, chairs and rugs are also here, and breakfast served here should be a feast for the gods. Breakfast in June holds possibilities undreamed of, and it should be simple, should have field flower decorations, should be dainty, cool, appetizing and to be remembered. For the athletic young woman is proud of her appetite. She does not take a robin's wing for meat, but frankly confesses her love of the good things provided for hungry guests. She would delight Lord Byron with her appetite, and is moved by no such delicacy as led Miss Jemima in Cranford to retire to her room while eating an orange. We have turned quantities of these young women out into the world these days, we have warned and told them of the lesson of life in which, bless your heart, they do not believe a bit. We have been solemn and adjured them to remember that "life is real, life is earnest," in fact, the regulation thing said on such occasions as commencements, and we have not phased that sublime self-confidence of youth. Each one of them is at the age that Edward Everett Hale calls the omnipotent age, the age where one feels that there is nothing in heaven or earth undreamed of in his philosophy, and the only thing for them is to let life teach its own lessons and dispel faiths and illusions; to guide if possible, make as happy as life allows, and let each one "gang his ain gate." Too much surveillance, too much advice is worse than none, and so June speaks for something else—it is the end of school days for many, the beginning of the real education, which is, after all, the application of principles taught in early youth, the deductions drawn from observation and lessons received. For the only perfect education after all is self-education. Text book knowledge goes for naught in life's rush; it is the understanding of what lies between the text book covers and the ability to apply this knowledge.

On feels a bit of enthusiasm as the suggestion comes of the formation of a golf club. It is not planned upon the dictates of fashion, but the sons of Bonny Scotland have taken the matter in hand and we will no longer be behind the times. Golf has superseded the bicycle, in a measure, and for the past two years any city of ordinary size has had its golf club and champions. With the large preponderance here of Caledonians it has always been a mystery why we languish in obscurity and ignorance. Feminine help is not desired in this club, it seems—none need apply; but there is nothing like getting a thing started, and the old hands at Scotland's national game will soon be teaching pretty voices to talk of "puts" and "caddies" and "drives," etc. And then the knitting needles must come out and golf stockings will be fashionable work for the feminine fingers. We have some fine grounds here for courses, and the golf costume proper is quite as fetching as the one for the bicycle. Another opportunity for athletics and life in the open air and sunshine and our beautiful autumn weather after summer holds great possibilities for the game. Summer is short, but September and October are delightful, and the crisp air an inspiration and invitation in one. Prepare yourself to take the golf fever, dear sister; get your mind attuned and learn all the phrases necessary to enable you to talk learnedly on the subject. You'll be playing golf as earnestly as you ride your wheel before autumn, I am quite sure, and we will sing the charms of the summer maid:

"June's golden current laps thy feet,
June's roses red thy beauty greet,
June's magic thine hath flown to meet."

SIGNS OF IMPROVEMENT.

Missouri Valley News: The good times are come again to the shop boys. They began today working nine hours a day, six days a week. More goods are being sold, more being moved; more trains are rolling and so there is more shop work and we feel the effect in the increased pay roll.

Sioux City Times: The sober voice of nearly all our Iowa cities is on the hopeful business side. The Davenport Democrat, for instance, says: "There is no doubt that Davenport is doing much more business today than it was transacting a year ago. It is ready to materially increase the volume and it is not at all particular where the credit for the improvement rests."

Philadelphia Record: The jump in the price of pig iron in Pittsburg is not likely to lead to a "boom;" but as stocks have been much reduced it may be the precursor of steadier, unspeculative trade. The great consumers of iron are the railroad companies; and when the business of transportation shall become so brisk as to justify betterments and new construction an enduring advance in the prices of iron and steel will, no doubt, be witnessed.

Louisville Courier-Journal: The Courier-Journal does not hesitate to say now, as it has said heretofore, that the return of prosperity may be delayed, but not for long, and certainly not permanently. We turned the hard corner of the road last November when the American people decided, as they always do in great emergencies, to obey the laws of the land and uphold public as well as private honor. With an honest dollar certain, the greatest threat to business was removed, and thenceforward we only had to wait with patience for the revival, which now seems at hand. We have never pretended to fix the exact date when prosperity should be general, and we do not fix it now, but we think we shall not have to wait much longer.

Minneapolis Journal: The blatant pessimists who are running about with lanterns in the increasing glow of the rising sun of prosperity, pretending to be looking for prosperity and finding none of it, are not disturbing any rational people these days. In the tree silver synagogue the priests are praying that the tariff bill may not aid a particle in the promotion of prosperity by fixing the schedules and giving business a solid basis for buying and selling of goods. These silverites are preparing to raise a big fund to invest in congressional elections next year, and are still talking of "sweeping the country" in 1900; but this attempt of a Waterlooed party to oppose the enlightened sentiment of the country and the canon of the higher civilization, isn't impressing reflecting people as anything dangerous and the business of the country is moving steadily forward, if slowly, ready when the tariff bill is out of the way to put forth greater strength. The consumptive demand is stronger, and, if the senate passes the tariff bill soon, the outlook will be very favorable for the fall trade.

WHAT SMILES ARE MADE OF.

Philadelphia Record: "There is no such thing as idle curiosity," says the Mamayunk Philosopher. "It is always busy."

Somerville Journal: In spite of the fact that the city editor usually gets a good salary, he is forever making an assignment.

Detroit Free Press: Harry—Now, darling Julia, we are really and truly one—one forever.

Julia—Of course, dear Harry—but when it comes to ice cream, don't you think we had better order two plates?

Yonkers Statesman: Myra—That Miss Beare puts on a good deal of style when she goes to the opera.

Minnie—Well, good gracious! the woman's got to put on something!

Cincinnati Tribune: "How do the children of the schools take to the idea of contributing their pennies to send the teacher away?" asked the superintendent.

"Oh, they are enthusiastic over it. The farther away the better, they say," replied the assistant.

Indianapolis Journal: "I, suppose you know," said the sociable customer, "that the barbering and surgical professions were at one time combined?"

"Oh, I have heard that," said the barber. "Great graft the barbers had in those days. Could cut a fellow while shaving him and then get another fee for binding it up."

Philadelphit Record: Hoax—Look at Skinnem, the stock broker, over there; he acts as if he was getting parcels.

Hoax—Exactly; in his own pockets.

"What's the matter?"

CAUGHT ON.

The orator exclaimed, "I'll point
A moral by a comic tale.
The times are sadly out of joint,
And this will fix them without fail."

Alas, how said is human fate!
The crowd that he had sought to teach,
The funny story caught, and straight
Forgot all else about his speech.

ON A VACATION.

Now doth the city idiot his pleasant home desert,
He wanders off to some old lake and dons a flannel shirt;
There in apartments two by four he tries to take his ease,
While fighting animalculae, mosquitoes, bugs and fleas.
He hasn't room to take his breath, but yet he tries to smile
In a sickly, sentimental way, for that's the proper style.
"How is the climate?" some one asks.
"Well," he says, "as a rule,
Although the days are pretty warm, the nights are always cool."

He wanders up and down the beach, reciting poems and such,
And looks down on the other chumps as if they weren't much;
He talks of boats and rigging and the larboard and the lee,
As if he would impress folk that he'd sometime been to sea.
He hitches up his trousers like a sailor on the stage,
And prattles to small school girls of a very tender age.
If some one says, "How hot it is!" he shouts, "You goldarned fool!

The Schmied-Riedelsberger-Lammers concert at Turner hall, one week from next Tuesday, will be a brilliant ending to the social and musical season of the winter and spring, as it is very likely that no entertainments of a similar nature will be given until the beginning of the new season next fall. The artists are so well known here that mere mention of their name is probably sufficient to bring together all those who love the best in music. The program is rare in many ways. One in that the compositions are seen on the programs of the greatest artists only, another that such programs seldom reach Duluth, and again that most of the numbers on the program are all musical gems. That each number will receive artistic treatment of a high order is sufficiently guaranteed by the names of the performers. Following is the program:

Ballad et Polonaise, op. 38..Vieuxtemps
Mr. Riedelsberger.
a "Eit Syn" .....Greig
b "Det Foiste Mode" .....Greig
c "Jeg elsker Dig" .....Greig

FEEDING BUSINESS MEN

Their Noonday Lunch in Great Cities.

The modern methods of life, a lunch at noon and the dinner at night, has accustomed us to the handsome, well appointed and convenient lunch rooms, where the cuisine is perfect and promptness a ruling feature.

The famous Kohlsaat restaurants of Chicago, several in number, are fine examples of this modern convenience. Manager Hale is rigidly particular as to the character of the food and drink placed before their customers.

Postum Cereal Food Coffee is served to patrons who have trouble in digesting coffee, a common complaint among brain workers. Postum is a pure product of the grains, nourishing and delicious, furnishing as it does, the albumen and phosphates which nature requires for rebuilding the lost gray matter in the nerve cells of brain and other parts of the body.

When Postum is served thin and poorly brewed, it is as insipid as weak coffee, but when enough is used to make it good and black, and it is boiled fifteen minutes, no finer beverage can be produced, health, color and taste all considered, although in point of taste alone, it is not considered by some people as being up to the standard of fine coffee, while others claim it excels.

Many imitations of Postum Cereal Food Coffee have appeared. There is but one genuine and original with the red seals of the trade mark and words, "It makes red blood."

THE BIWABIK BUDGET.

Work Now Assured For Four Hundred Men.

Biwabik, June 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Biwabik Bessemer company has sold 500,000 tons of ore for 1897 delivery, and to ship this amount will require the operation of two shovels night and day loading ore, while the Drake & Stratton company will also run two shovels day and night shift in the stripping. This will employ 350 or 400 men throughout the season and will liven up Biwabik a bit.

The new Sparta mine will be in shape to make a sample shipment of ore within ten days. Superintendent Pell was in Biwabik this week arranging for the Otis shovel at the Biwabik mine, which will be used to do the loading.

The Norman and Auburn properties at Virginia were closed down this week on account of the heavy rains.

Shipments have ben started at the Hale mine.

Mrs. J. A. Loulan, who returned home this week after an extended visit with relatives in Ontario, was surprised last evening by her hosts of friends, who went in a body to welcome her home. The evening was occupied with dancing, cards and dainty refreshments.

Mrs. H. G. Seeley is visiting in Duluth.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Morrill are now entertaining Mrs. Morrill's mother, Ms. Sampson, of Ironwood, Mich.

OUTLOOK IS BETTER.

Ore Men Look For a Better Market Soon.

While there have been no recent heavy sales of iron ore reported, a number of small lots have found purchasers and old stocks are being rapidly cleaned up. The large pig iron contracts recently made must, however, soon make themselves felt in the ore market and mine operators are anticipating a heavy demand for their output by getting properties in shape for shipping and forwarding ore to the lower lake ports. The shipments of the Minnesota Iron company now are about the same as at this time last year and if anything they are some larger. They are steadily increasing in volume and the indications are that they will be considerably larger before the season is much farther advanced.

The recently reported heavy sales of Mesaba ore made by the Consolidated turn out to be insignificant ones, though inquiries are very numerous and a number of large sales are in a fair way to be consummated. Independent companies on the Mesaba range are beginning to show signs of life and more work is being done on Consolidated properties, indicating that the management expects heavy demands for ore in the near future. While it is true that the demand for ore is improving prices are no better. In fact a number of sales are said to have been made at a lower figure than that fixed by the Bessemer ore pool.

HASKINS QUESTIONED.

Fox's Horse Discussed By the Humane Society.

The Humane society, at a special meeting yesterday afternoon, adopted an amendment to its bylaws placing with the society, acting through the executive committee, the power to employ and dismiss the executive agent and subordinates. This is the measure that was proposed by those members of the society who are opposed to Officer Haskins, and its adoption scores a decided victory for them. An amendment was made, also, empowering the executive to fill from the membership of the society vacancies on the committee caused by death or removal. A committee on schools and one on public charitable institutions were added to the standing committees.

At the request of H. H. Hanford, Officer Haskins told the story about Fox's horse. The circumstances connected with the shooting as related by him were as heretofore published. Mr. Haskins said he had ascertained that a lady had employed Hobart, the man who shot the horse, to do the deed. Mr. Haskins was not as fierce as he had been when he and Mr. Fox proceeded to the municipal court and had a warrant issued for Hobart and "Jane Doe." He assured the society that the lady had evidently done what she thought was right in the matter. He added that she is very anxious in humane matters. Mr. Haskins then told how two men, who should be nameless, had asked him if there was not a way to settle the matter, and how Mr. Fox had stood out for $100, a check for which had been given Mr. Haskins for Mr. Fox, when, in his character of intermediary, Mr. Haskins had conveyed Mr. Fox's message to the two men. The next day, still acting as intermediary Mr. Haskins said he went to the bank to get the cash, only to find that payment had been stopped. Mr. Haskins said he then placed the matter in the hands of Attorney Spangler, and that it had been settled for $75.

In answer to questions from Mr. Hanford, Mr. Haskins denied that he had ever said that the lady should be arrested and that he had advised Mr. Fox as to what price to put on the animal.

At the conclusion, Mr. Hanford remarked that the whole matter was very regrettable, a sentiment that appeared to be shared by all present.

It is said that Fox's horse will again gallop across the stage of events before he is allowed to rest in peace.

WAS NOT THRASHED.

Story Published About J. M. Gaffney Was Untrue.

On May 17 last, The Herald reprinted from the Rossland, B. C., Record a story to the effect that J. M. Gaffney, formerly of Duluth, was thrashed at Trail in that province by a brewer, because of making uncomplimentary remarks about prominent ladies of Trail and that after the thrashing the police ordered Gaffney to leave town.

Mr. Gaffney has informed The Herald that this article in the Rossland paper was altogether untrue and has done him a great injustice, and he has requested that he be set right before his old Duluth friends who read the story last month. The Herald regrets having unintentionally done Mr. Gaffney an injustice, and is pleased to be able to state that the article in question was without foundation in fact.

PRESIDENT McKINLEY'S PASTOR.

The Eminent Washington Preacher Advises Paine's Celery Compound.

President McKinley is a church-going man.

He is a regular attendant at the Metropolitan Methodist church in Washington, of which the Rev. Hugh Johnston, D.D., is the pastor.

Dr. Johnson is but one of many able clergymen who have publicly advised the use of Paine's celery compound, basing their recommendations on the benefit they themselves have derived from its use.

Not only among clergymen, lawyers and physicians, but among all classes of thoughtful, intelligent people Paine's celery compound is the one reliable remedy for building up the system when it is run down. It is the greatest nerve and brain invigorator the world has ever known.

Dr. Johnston says of this great remedy:

Wells, Richardson & Co.:

Gentlemen: Having used your Paine's celery compound as a tonic, I can cheerfully bear testimony to its value in restoring wasted energy and inducing sleep when one is restless and fatigued.

HUGH JOHNSTON.

Strong recommendations have been received from

Rev. Henry A. Perry, LL.D., of Chicago.

Rev. William T. Bailey, of Baltimore.

Rev. Charles L. Thompson, D.D., of New York.

Rev. Zephaniah Meek, D.D., of Kentucky.

Revs. Erastus Rowley, of Kentucky.

Rev. Father A. Quellett, of New Brunswick.

Rev. A. K. Sanford, of New York.

Rev. H. L. Cranlenard, of New York.

Rev. R. D. Winn, of New York.

Chronic rheumatism, kidney affections and nervous exhaustion do not come like a thunder-clap without warning. All these blood and nerve disorders cast their shadows before them in the shape of intermittent aches and pains and days of melancholy and depression. People who allow these disorders to become chronic have themselves to blame when so many trustworthy people confidently assert and insist that Paine's celery compound will permanently drive all these diseases out of the system.

Paine's celery compound sweeps the blood clear from impurities and dangerous humors. No other remedy answers the purpose with anything like the thoroughness or sureness or promptness of this remarkable remedy.

Be ashamed of poor health.

Every case of neuralgia, rheumatism and dyspepsia is a case of neglect. It is a shame to waste one's life half-sick and depressed by ailments that might be quickly driven out of the system if one would only rouse one's self and build up the general health of the body by Paine's celery compound.

Paine's celery compound taken now will do more permanent good to tired, nervous, listless men and women who feel the dragging-down effect on the nerves of overwork or debility than months of absolute rest later on. It positively and permanently cures nervous debility and exhaustion, neuralgia, sleeplessness, melancholy, hysteria, headaches, dyspepsia, rheumatism, kidney troubles, constipation and diseases of the blood, kidneys and liver, because it purifies the blood and feeds the exhausted nerves and tissues.

Paine's celery compound is guaranteed by hundreds of men and women whom you know either personally or sufficiently well by reputation to leave no doubt in your mind of their sincerity and good judgment. It has cured innumerable cases of salt rheum, eczema, and other skin diseases, rheumatism and neuralgia, and prevented as many more from nervous prostration who were on the quick road to break-down at the time of using this great invigorator.

ONE GOOD EXAMPLE.

If all vesselowners followed the example of the owners of the big steel steamer Senator things would be different in the freight market, says the Detroit Free Press. This steamer, 420 feet long over all, was built at Wyandotte last year at a cost of $260,000. She laid up in Detroit all winter and has not stirred yet. Her owners comprise the wealthiest men in Detroit among them Senator McMillan, F. J. Hecker, C. L. Freer, the estate of E. M. Beck, and others. They could have put her into the hands of Harvey H. Brown or some other Cleveland manager who has an inside track on all ore-carrying contracts at the best prevailing rates, but they have not done it for the reason that they would not contract to carry ore at the best prices that now rule. The Senator can carry 5000 tons on the present draught of water in the Sault canal.

OCEAN STEAMSHIPS.

New York—Arrived: Umbria, from Liverpool.

A LEGAL PARAGON.

A country justice had been elected but a few days, when a young lawyer rushed in and demanded a capias, says the Chicago Times-Herald. Now, that justice did not know a capias from a police cell, but he disliked to admit his ignorance. So he said:

"New, see here, my friend. You are a young lawyer, and, I fear, lack experience. I would advise you not to be too hasty. Don't be in a hurry. Wait twenty-four hours, and then, if you think best, come to me and I will give you a capias."

The young lawyer agreed and went away. The justice spent the remainder of the day getting acquainted with the writ called caplas. When the limb of the law appeared next morning, the court felt himself qualified to issue capiases by the bushel.

Before he could speak, the young lawyer said:

"Mr. Justice, you were right; I was too hasty. I have that matter fixed up all right and do not need a capias. I have come to thank you for the good advice, and also have brought you the $2 fee you would have received for the capias, as I don't want you to lose anything by your good deed."

He went away believing the justice to be a paragon of good sense and legal lore.

The evening paper is always carefully read, especially in the home circle, and is therefore the best advertising medium.

The steamer North Land left this afternoon on her first trip of the season with a large passenger list, including a number of Duluth people. Among the passengers were Mr. and Mrs. W. B. CLAIMED TO BE ILLEGAL.

Court Asked to Nullify 1895 Delinquent Tax Proceedings.

Before Judge Moer in special term of district court this morning, Chester A. Congdon, in behalf of certain taxpayers, raised a point of law in regard to the collection of taxes. He moved to dismiss the proceedings to enforce the payment of taxes delinquent in 1895 on the ground that the court had no jurisdiction. He claimed that the fact that the delinquent list was filed Feb. 3 instead of Jan. 20, as required by the law, deprived the court of jurisdiction. The question was whether the law was mandatory or directory. The only point involved, according to Mr. Congdon, was whether the law was a protection and benefit to the taxpayers if it was mandatory. He asserted that if the taxpayer went to the clerk's office, Jan. 20, and found that the list had not been filed, he had a right to believe that his property was safe from seizure that year.

The argument was still in progress at noon.

THE TARIFF BILL.

Several Changes Are Made By the Senate.

Washington, June 19.—In the senate today the flax schedule of the tariff bill was taken up with little delay, the pending question being on Mr. Allison's motion to amend paragraph 327, relating to thread, twine, etc., made of flax, hemp, or ramie, by substituting for the senate rate, the rate of 14 cents per pound and ⅞ cents additional for each in excess of five.

Mr. Allison moved to increase the rates in paragraph 328 relating to yarns, making the rate 7 cents instead of 6 cents a pound on single yarns in gray, not finer than eight lea in number, as proposed in the senate finance committee amendment, and 50 per cent ad valorem instead of 40 per cent on single yarns finer that eight and not finer that eighty lea in number. Agreed to.

Mr. Vest took exception to the increase on floor mattings, saying the duties as proposed would range from 40 per cent to 105, whereas they had heretofore been free. He moved to strike out the entire section.

The motion to strike out the two paragraphs in regard to burlaps and cloth for cotton bagging was carried, 31 to 28.

GREECE KEEPS THESSALY.

Constantinople, June 19.—The draft of the treaty of peace between Greece and Turkey is likely to be submitted to the powers next week. The amount of the indemnity which Greece will pay, it is believed, will be 5,000,000 Turkish pounds, the largest amount the Greeks could pay. It has also been generally conceded for some time that the Turkish government has given up the idea of retention of Thessaly and it is understood that the changes in the frontier line will be slight.

PRESIDENTIAL NOMINATIONS.

Washington, June 19.—The president today sent the following nominations the senate: State—Charles L. Cole, of Pennsylvania, to be consul general at Dresden, Saxony; George L. Lincoln, of Connecticut, consul at Antwerp, Belgium; Walter Schumann, of New York, consul at Mayence, Germany; Charles E. Turner, of Connecticut, consul general at Ottawa, Can.; Hector De Castro, of New York, consul general at Rome, Italy; Hilary S. Brunet, of Pennsylvania, consul at St. Etienne, France. Interior—Phillip Gallinger, of Washington, to be a commissioner in and for the district of Alaska.

THE STOMACH CANNOT BE FREIGHTED

With greater trash than a violent drastic purgative. True, such a medicine relieves constipation for the time, but at the expense of great injury to the intestinal canal, which it both inflames and weakens, thus unfitting it for the performance of its proper functions. Widely different is the action of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a tonic aperient which produces effects prompt, indeed, but never violent and convulsing. The purity of its botanic ingredients, its unobjectionable flavor, its genial influence upon the mind, and the thoroughness of its remedial action in case of constipation liver complaint and dyspepsia, combine to render it a most desirable family specific. It increases both physical vigor and substance tranquilizes and invigorates the nervous system, and gives an unwonted relish for the food. A wineglass three times daily is about the average dose.

SUNSTROKE IN KANSAS.

Lincoln Center, Kas., June 19.—The weather throughout this part of the state has been intensely hot since Wednesday, ranging from 103 to 105 degrees. Three deaths from sunstroke have been reported, besides half a dozen of the prostrations.

Feed a Cold, Starve a Fever.

Most people are familiar with the old saying. In fact it is not always easy to feed a cold. The patient turns from the best dinner saying that it does not taste good. The fault is his, not the cook's, and he will change his notions after a short acquaintance with which sharpens the appetite, improves the digestion, and gives a sense of general well being.

This pure medicinal stimulant is highly praised as a household remedy in cold weather.

PITHOLE'S PASSING.

Once Prosperous City Now a Pennsylvania Farm.

Who has not heard of Pithole? Every oil man of the country pricks up his ears at the sound; at an instant later a shade of recollection of blighted hopes, fearful strainings for wealth, immense fortunes accumulated, grand possessions suddenly swept away, sweeps over his face. Every oil man has heard of Pithole, says the Pittsburg Dispatch.

Pithole's rise, birth or origin, was Jan. 7, 1864. Upon a farm in Venango county some enterprising "wildcatters" struck oil. 'Twas the famous well, No. 4, U. S., and it was a gusher. Within two months Pithole was a borough of 6000 souls, and by the middle of the summer it was a city of fully 20,000.

When the trees commenced to shed their golden and yellow leaves the great city, then the third in population probably in Pennsylvania, had reached the zenith of its growth. There were a dozen good hotels, three churches, and even two theaters. Each one of these institutions was thriving, too. Two railroads were built to the city and several others had been projected. All of the accessories to a big rich city were provided in Pithole. There was nothing lacking which men of money demanded.

Land! Why the land around Pithole at that time could only be bought by heaping gold upon it and offering the yellow dirt for the more ordinary and humble-looking stuff which was supposed to cover the precious petroleum which then hovered around $5 per barrel in price. Farming, of course, was given up. The tiller of the soil gave place to the driller into the rock. Farmers sold their farms for fabulous prices, and were made rich beyond their wildest dreams. Yet some of them, as is the case with all men, held back. One old man owned a farm of over 200 acres. Copeland was his name. He refused an offer of $700,000 for his place, maintaining that if he sold out he would have nowhere to go to. Another agriculturist of that neighborhood refused to dispose of 250 acres for $750,000. He demanded $1,000,000 and wouldn't take a cent less. He never got a cent for his land as it afterward turned out, for his land, after being tested, yielded no oil, and he was left to scratch the surface of the land for the poor living he could get from his scanty crops.

Pithole was a great business place while in its glory. It had its stores and banks, and the postoffice was reckoned one of the most important in the country. A tremendous amount of trade was done there. The demand for supplies upon the rest of the country gave it great commercial importance. While it had all the places of amusement that could be desired, it was a work-a-day place. The whole country for miles around was literally honeycombed by the indefatigable drillers. Millions of dollars were made in and around Pithole and millions of dollars sunk into the earth or squandered in the town itself. The life of but too many was of that "come easy, go easy" sort.

But Pithole is Pithole no more. It reached its top notch in one short year and came down almost as quickly as it sprang up. The great fire there hastened its downfall.

There was nothing of the phoenix about this place. To get into the city now you must either climb a fence or let down the bars. The whole site of the place, public buildings and all, were, but three or four years since, sold for taxes and bought in by a farmer for only $1200. Since then he has farmed there, and most of the place is used to grow grains or as a pasture for cattle.

The postoffice, where the third largest business in the state was done, is now the home of barn swallows and other birds, while in its shade the peaceful cattle love to repose on a hot August afternoon. Grass and dirt cover the ruins of the great Murphy theater, the Morey hotel, the St. Cloud, the St. Nicholas, the Patterton, and the Hubbs. Only ruined foundation stones, scattered around in confused heaps, tell where the famous $70,000 Danforth house once stood. Traces of the old-time railroads have not been effaced by the farmer's plough as yet.

Some buildings stand, fairly preserved even yet, but they are fast crumbling to ruins and vegetation is dismembering what is still standing. A large poplar tree, for instance, grows out of the ruins of what was thirty years ago and more the National hotel. This stood on First street. But who could talk of streets here? Corn in the shock and hay in the cock in their seasons and turns in planting have stood where once throngs of busy men earnestly fought out life's battles and strove together fiercely for wealth.

The old Presbyterian church still stands as another monument to the dead city. There is a churchyard, too, but it has but few graves, for the city did not live long enough for many people to die and be buried there. So Pithole rose in a day, lived for but a few days, and soon "the place thereof will know it no more."

USE OF THE MICROSCOPE.

Some years ago, on one of the Prussian railways, a barrel which should have contained silver coin was found, on arrival at its destination, to have been emptied of its precious contents and filled with sand, says Harper's Round Table. Professor Ehrenberg, being consulted on the subject, sent for samples of sand from all the stations along the different lines of railway through which the specie had passed, and by means of his microscope identified the station from which the interpolated sand must have been taken. The station once fixed upon, it was not difficult to hit upon the culprit among the small number of employes on duty there.

SCIENCE

Enormous Strides Made During Queen Victoria's Record Breaking Reign.

Earth's Furthermost Corners Have Been Explored and Secrets Made Public.

Not the least remarkable among the events which have occurred during the reign of Queen Victoria are those which form milestones in the paths of biology, says the Cincinnati Enquirer. Within the sixty years referred to we have first learned of the gorilla, the potamogale, the water chevrotain, the parti-colored bear, the Australian lung fish and others. The dark corners of the earth have been explored and opened up, and the fauna of Thibet and other parts of Central Asia, or a large portion of Africa, of New Guinea, of Central Australia and of many oceanic island, as well as the interior of Borneo and Celebes, have been revealed and described.

The ornithology of South America has received an especial attention during the reign, while the magnificent expositions have made known the entire fauna and flora of the central districts of the New World. In the classification and morphology of fishes, as also in the knowledge of whales and other marine mammals, great advances have been made. In embryology and physiology the strides have been enormous.

New doctrines in connection with the evolution of animal life have also been propounded by Darwin within the period of which I write. Among these one of the most important, and one which has probably played a very considerable part in nature, is that of parallelism in development; that is to say, the independent development of similar structures in different groups of animals living under similar circumstances, or in course of adaptation to similar conditions of life. Mimicry, too, is another important factor in nature, the discovery and recognition of which has taken place during the queen's reign.

The cutting of thin sections of animal and vegetable tissues and their examination under microscope, and the wonderful results that have been obtained thereby are also a development of the reign, as is likewise microscopy in general. Bacteria and microbes, again, are low types of life whose investigation forms one of the greatest achievements of the latter part of the era, and the incalculable benefits which have already been conferred upon suffering humanity by this line of study are well known.

The reign of Queen Victoria will be notable in future generations for scientific discovery and progress, and among the sciences that have advanced by leaps and bounds during this lengthened period biology must surely occupy one of the most prominent positions. Indeed, it is almost impossible for workers at the present day to realize how imperfect was our knowledge, and how comparatively few were our books on biological subjects, in the year of grace 1837.

Of Owen's works the greater portion has appeared during the reign, although his memoir of the mammary glands of the duck bill bears the date 1832. This serves to remind us that the history of the monotreme mammals has been practically worked out during the same period, the discovery that these animals lay eggs not having been announced till the year 1884. Although, owing to his persistent opposition to the doctrine of evolution, his theories of the relationships of animals have not met with acceptation, it is difficult to estimate the debt which zoology and paleontology owe to Owen for his work during the reign.

To him is due the honor of making known to the world the former existence of the gigantic extinct moas (dinornithidæ), of New Zealand, and also of the wonderful extinct marsupial fauna of Australia. Wood he was the pioneer of the elucidation of the equally marvelous fossil mammals in South America. Had these faunas not been discovered and worked out we would never have gained our present ideas of the geographical distribution of animals. To the same master of anatomy is due the description of the long tailed Jurassic bird (archæopteryx), in the museum at Berlin being one of the most remarkable "missing links" ever discovered—too late, unfortunately, for Darwin's "Origin of Species." Although many of his views are now proved to be erroneous, Owen also did much for the extinct Mesozoic reptiles, which he well christened dinosaurs, and his labors laid the foundation for almost all subsequent work on fossil reptiles in general.

The mention of dinosaurs naturally leads on to Huxley, who, although by no means essentially a paleontologist was the first to point out the connection between that extraordinary group of reptiles and birds, a line of investigation in which he was ably seconded by J. W. Hulke. The life-work of Huxley was entirely produced during the reign, and how much it contributed to systematic and morphological zoology needs no mention here. One of his most famous memoirs—on the structure of the palate of birds—forms, to a great extent, the basis of the present classifications of the group.

But in the popular estimation Huxley's greatest claim is probably his brilliant advocacy of the evolution theory. That doctrine will ever remain the crowning biological achievement of the present reign, and is no disparagement to its illustrious expounders Darwin and Wallace—to say that it was only through the unwearied labors of workers in other branches of biology, during and previous to the early part of the second reign, that it was possible for them to have weaved the scattered facts and observations into one harmonious fabric.

Although Darwin's name is, in popular estimation, more intimately connected with the doctrine of evolution, that of Mr. Wallace (happily still among us) has obtained a well-deserved fame in connection with the geographical distribution of animals, a branch of biological science which may be said to be an almost exclusive product of the Victorian era. It was in 1855, two years only before the accession, that Swainson published his "Geography and Classification of Animals," and from that date till the publication of Wallace's "Geographical Distribution of Animals," in 1876, this branch of science was gradually evolved and perfected. Indeed both on this and the other side of the Atlantic this interesting and important study is still employing the energies of several workers.

From the subject of the geographical distribution of animals and plants there is a gradual and imperceptible transition to the study of the changes in the relative distribution of land and water which have taken place on the surface of the globe during the later ages of its existence. And, although this is in reality a geographical rather than a biological problem, it is one intimately connected with the fauna of the ocean abysses. The interesting results obtained by the dredging cruises of H. M. ships Porcupine and Lightning in the summer of 1868, 1869 and 1870 led to the dispatch, Dec. 21, 1872, of H. M. S. Challenger on a lengthened dredging and exploring voyage, which was brought to a successful termination May 24, 1876, the evening of which day the corvette anchored at Southead. The results of this cruise revolutionized previous ideas as to the nature of the ocean bed and the fauna of its abyssal depths, while a vast store of information was acquired with regard to pelagic creatures of all kinds. During the voyage the art of deep-sea dredging and sounding was brought nearly to its present perfection. This and other cruises made during the reign have brought to our knowledge the luminous fishes inhabiting the dark ocean abysses, and they have also revealed the fact that creatures like the sea lilies, long supposed to be practically extinct, are still abundant at suitable depths in the ocean.

The publication of the scientific results of the Challenger's cruise commenced in 1880, and has only recently been completed.

Deep sea dredging is closely connected with the establishment of marine biological stations, and the preservation and breeding of food fishes and oyster beds. These two are exclusively a product of the reign, and their importance from both a biological and an economical point of view can scarcely be overrated. Frank Buckland in the first place, and Huxley in the second, have, in this department, well shown how men of the highest scientific attainments can combine the pursuit of the profound with the study of the beneficial, and both their own particular studies with others yielding untold advantage to our fisheries.

An equally close connection exists between deep sea dredging and the study of the growth of coral islands and coral reefs—a subject entering upon the domains of both zoology and geology. This, too, is a subject whose development has taken place during the Victorian era. Darwin's well-known volume having appeared in 1851, while Dana's "Corals and Coral Islands" was published in 1875. That the last word has not been said in regard to the growth of coral islands is proved by the recent partially unsuccessful boring operations to the Barrier reef of Australia, under the superintendence of Professor Sollas. To the older geologists it would, doubtless, come as a severe shock to learn that our massive Palæozoic and Mesozoic limestones are, to a great extent, merely ancient coral reefs, yet this is only one of the minor recent discoveries connected with the biology of the reign.

Although Cuvier had long previously described the fossil mammals of the gypsum quarries of Montmartre, quite a considerable amount of work had already been done on the remains of those from the French and German tertiaries, most other extinct mammalian faunas have been made known since 1837. And what an important part faunas and floral have played in regard to our ideas of the evolution of human beings, and also in respect to geological distribution, needs no telling here. Falconer and Cautley's "Fauna Antiqua Sivalensis," in which are depicted the extinct mammalian remains from the Siwalik hills of Northern India, seems in most of us a work of very ancient times; nevertheless, the first part did not appear till 1845, while the last was published in 1849. Gaudry's description of the fossil animals of Attica only dates from 1862, while the discoveries of the extinct mammalian faunas of Hungary, Persia, China and Samos are still more modern events. Within the last twenty years the working of the phosphorites of Central France for economical purposes has revealed the existence of a numerous Oligocene land fauna with which we were previously only very imperfectly acquainted. More important than all are the paleontological discoveries which have taken place in the reign of the Mesozoic and Tertiary deposits of the United States.

These have revolutionized many preconceived ideas, and have shown that for the future the most important advances in the structure and history of the highest of vertebrates of past epochs must come from the other side of the Atlantic. Not only have entire new groups of mammals, such as the long horned Dinoceras and Titanotherium, been discovered there, but the remains of dinosaurian reptiles are met with in a state of perfection to which there is no comparison in other parts of the globe. These complete skeletons have not only born out the speculations of Huxley and Hulke as to the close structural resemblance between these reptiles and birds, but have also shown how nearly the restorations attempted by the English anatomists approached the reality. Equally important have been the paleontological discoveries in South America; discoveries which indicate without doubt a former Tertiary land connection between that continent and distant Australia.

Systematic zoology and botany have passed through several stages during the period under review. As already said, at the commencement of the reign the former was laboring under the thrall of the circular hallucination, from which, however, it at length cast itself free. Since that time a steady progress has, on the whole, been made in most branches, as any one may satisfy himself who contrasts the Linnean system (which was chiefly in vogue in 1836) with that to be found in any better class of modern text books. And here it may be mentioned how vastly superior are these to their predecessors of a half century ago. Whether the progress has been equally satisfactory on the species question may well be doubted. Even early in the reign gibes and taunts were freely leveled at the "species monger," and it was thought by many that the publication of the "Origin of Species" would be the death knell of abstraction from which it took its name.

Civic Bodies Not Discussing Merits of Purchase.

A member of the joint committee of the civic bodies before whom Mr. Gay appeared yesterday in connection with the proposition for the sale of the gas and water plants which he proposes to submit to the council, said today that the committee did not intend to go into the question of purchase at all. Mr. Gay's conference with the committee has no significance, the member said. Mr. Gay had called on the committee on his own motion, the members not having requested that he go into the proposition with them. The committee expects to be ready to report to the various bodies represented on it in about a week.

An official circular announcing the election of Mr. Olcott to the vice presidency of the company will be issued in a few days.

To Play Football.

An association football club has been organized to play the Fort William, Ont., club on June 22, consisting of the following players of Duluth and Superior: Kennedy, goal; Jr S. McIntyre and Stuart, backs; Lyle, Blackadder and Lockhart, half backs; McAuley, Wilson, Carson, McGuire, Goodlad and Lyle, forwards. It is considered a good team, and old football enthusiasts will remember George Wilson, the crack forward of Duluth, and Jack Lockhart, who was at that time probably the best half back in the Northwest, when the Duluths won the championship in 1894. Simon Clark has made arrangements for transportation on the steamer Dixon to leave here Sunday.

SILVERMAN AGAIN HERE.

Is Back to Push His Ely Power Scheme.

Luzarus Silverman has returned from Chicago to still further push his electric power and wood pulp and paper manufacturing enterprise at Cashaway Falls, near Ely. To a reporter for The Evening Herald he said today that the project was well under way and that the prospects were excellent for its successful fruition. The power at Cashaway Falls is all that could be desired, the supply of wood suitable for pulp and that has no other commercial value is almost unlimited and can be easily obtained. Mr. Silverman now has no doubt that his plans will soon assume definite shape.

He is still in search of black magnetic ore in such shape that it can be taken out in slabs like marble. The fact that the ore may contain 2 per cent of titanic acid and 1 per cent of phosphorus will, he says, in no way interfere with its usefulness for the purpose for which he designs it, but just what that purpose is he still steadfastly refuses to state. He feels confident that the ore required can be found in the vicinity of Ely.

Mr. McCowan's Lecture.

Sunday evening, at the Lyceum theater there will occur a novel service. Hervey Smith McCowan, formerly pastor of the St. Cloud Congregational church, and well known as a lecturer, will deliver a sermon on "Lyman Abbott and Evolution." Mr. McCowan is very liberal in his religious opinions and is enthusiastic in his support of Dr. Abbott's views of evolution, which have created so much discussion during the past few months. His sermon will be addressed to thinking people and those who attend may feel assured that they will be given something to consider whether they agree with the speaker's views or not. Mr. McCowan is a young man of strong personality and engaging presence before an audience. Admission is free, but a small charge will be made for reserved seats.

Is Ready to Play.

St. Paul, June 18.—The Sporting Editor Evening Herald: The Hamm's Excelsiors of this city are looking toward playing several games in your neighborhood July 3, 4 and 5. If suitable arrangements can be made I hear there are the West Duluths, the Zenichs, the Boomers and the Picketts clubs in your city. Kindly give this communication space with a view to arousing the managers of the clubs named to some activity.

I am informed also that the Duluth Cycle club and another organization are to give exhibitions and a picnic on July 5 on the fair grounds there. This letter also concerns the gentlemen connected with that affair. Would they make it an object for us to play a match game with some Duluth nine on that day on the fair grounds? Any team wishing a game or two on the days named, please address all communications to

DISAGREE

Jury in the Merritt-Harris Case Failed to Reach a Verdict.

No Possibility of an Agreement Reported and They Were Discharged.

Stood Ten to Two, Supposedly in Favor of the Merritts.

There was no agreement in the Merritt-Harris case, the jury being unable to assimilate the evidence and turn out a unanimous opinion one way or the other. There were decided opinions on the jury, but the trouble was that they were not on the same side, and that the opinions in favor of the one side were just as firm and immovable as those on the other. Consequently, there was nothing for the court to do but to allow the jury to go, and this was done.

The jury went out at noon yesterday, spent all night out, ate their meals and evolved yards of argument which resulted in no change in the alignment of 10 to 2, which was the standing of the jury practically from the first. This morning at 9:30 the state of facts which existed was reported to the court, and Judge Moer, being satisfied that there was no possibility of an agreement, released the members of the jury from further service.

It did not appear from the report of the jury which way the vote stood. One of the two men who held out told the rest of the jury that while he was not of their opinion, rather than stand out he would go over if the twelfth man would. But the latter was obdurate and he firmly stated that he would stay there till the crows carried him out the window before he would give in. The other members of the jury say that he would not even argue the matter, but merely persisted in sticking to his opinion. It is understood that the ten jurors were in favor of the Merritts.

No arrangement was made between the parties as to another trial. The Harrises still hold the stock, and the Merritts have the Harrises bond for $15,000 to protect them from any loss on the stock in case it is finally decided that it belongs to them.

HIS MAIL IS LARGE.

Officer Kasmir is Receiving Many Letters Now.

Officer Kasmir has become famous on account of his experience in seeing a vision of a great battle in the sky over the lake one night recently. The matter has been heralded from the Atlantic to the Pacific, many of the great metropolitan dailies devoting considerable space to it. Officer Kasmir's mail has grown to enormous proportions. He has received enough communications to fill several bushel baskets, and nearly his entire time when off duty is consumed in opening and reading them. Some are inquiries as to the exact hour of the vision and other particulars concerning it, others are merely inquiries as to whether the report is true and a goodly number are from scoffing unbelievers. A specimen of the latter class is a postal card that Mr. Kasmir received in his mail this morning. It is post marked Hubbard, Ohio, June 16, 1897, and is as follows:

"Mr. Kasmir, patrolman, Duluth: Dear Sir—I noticed an account in the Pittsburg Despatch of the mirage seen by you. I would recommend that you change your drinks and that if you expect to hold your job, don't see any more mirages. Yours truly,

"J. J. HAMMAN, JR."

THE MAYOR ANSWERS.

Says Spring Election Settled Water Purchase Question.

The mayor says that Mr. Gay is wrong in his conclusion as stated in the latters' letter published in The Herald yesterday, that the purchase proposition was carried at the fall election. Such an assumption is contradicted, the mayor says, by the fact that at the spring election, when the question was fairly before the people as the main issue, five aldermen were elected on the platform that no more than $1,114,000 should be paid for the combined plants. Those aldermen, the mayor said, signed an agreement binding themselves to oppose the payment of a higher price.

"Of the three others, who did not sign," said the mayor, "Alderman Tischer promised not to favor a higher price, and it was understood that he stood on that platform. Alderman Cochrane has always fought against purchasing at the figures previously submitted. 'These things show,'" continued the mayor, "that the people are about unanimous in opposing purchase at Mr. Gay's figures and disprove his assertion that the proposition carried last fall. The proposition will certainly be defeated if submitted again, so why go to the expense?"

HIGHLY ARTISTIC.

Decorations Recently Made In C. W. Ericson's Store.

Charles W. Ericson's store at 219 West Superior street has gone through some of the decorator's art and is now entitled to the name of being the handsomest store in Duluth. The "piece de resistance" is a fresco of rococo design on the wall of the tiled alcove at the entrance. It is a beautiful piece of work and was done by David Ericson, the talented brother of C. W. Ericson, who is an artist of brilliant attainments. The design is a clever one. It consist of a shield suspended by ribbons and over the top is peeping a little cherub, which, by the way, bears the features of little Ruth Ericson, the likeness being very true. The shield is surrounded by festoons of roses, birds, etc., and bears the motto "all purchases not giving satisfaction cheerfully made right." The coloring and drawing in the work is perfect.

In the course of two or three months Mr. Ericson will paint another large fresco in the interior of the store. It will be 50 feet long and 8 feet high and will represent the four seasons.

The front of the store has been given an aluminum finish applied with a process similar to plating. It makes a very handsome front.

City Engineer Comes at the Board of Public Works With Some.

Says the Council Was Deceived as to the Fredrickson Contract.

Contract Not Made According to Expert Committee's Recommendation.

City Engineer Patton says the board of public works has deceived the council in the matter of the contract for the additional work on the pumphouse recommended in the expert committee report, both as to the amount for which the contract was let and the work to be done thereunder.

The council, it will be remembered, adopted the report of the expert committee and directed the board of public works to enter into a contract in accordance with the report, the specification to be as recommended therein. The board, May 31, reported to the council that it had, agreeably to the resolution directing it so to do, entered into a contract with Mr. Fredrickson to "take down the pumphouse walls and rebuild the structure according to the plans and specifications as prepared by the expert committee for the lump sum of $22,162.50. The board further called attention to the fact that this was $1862.50 in excess of the expert committee's estimate. The reason for this excess was said to be in the fact that the data in the hands of the committee was faulty.

As a matter of fact, Mr. Patton says, the contract the board actually made was for a total of $24,004.50, instead of $22,162.50, as reported. The expert committee's estimate amounted to $20,300, the amount heretofore paid, $1841.70, being deducted from which leaves $18,458.30 yet to be paid. Deducting from the total of the contract let by the board, $24,004.50, the sum paid, there remains the sum of $22,162.80, an excess of $3704.50 over the balance according to the contract the board was directed to enter into by the council.

Further than this, Mr. Patton says, the plans and specifications attached to the contract entered into are not the plans and specifications recommended by the committee and endorsed by the council. The specifications attached to the contract omit wholly the tearing down of the walls; provision for bonding the new work into the old; recutting of the stone work for the new walls, including shortening headers and stretchers to accommodate the brick backing, and specifications for properly bonding into the brick work, the steel columns for the crane track.

The work of tearing down the engine house walls, which has been done by Mr. Fredrickson and which was necessary, he was not called on to do under the contract, Mr. Patton says.

The statement in the board's letter referred to, that members of the contractors' association charge $1 per hour for their time while compiling figures in estimates, which was given as a reason why the board had not received figures from other contractors, Mr. Patton says, further, is false.

A FLOATER FOUND.

Body Picked up at Dnncan & Brewer's Today.

The body of a well-dressed, middle-aged man was found floating among the logs in the boom at Duncan & Brewer's mill at Hazelwood park this afternon. The body had evidently been in the water about three weeks. Death had apparently been caused by drowning, there being no marks of violence discernible on a hurried inspection. The name of the man was unknown.

The find was made by one of the mill hands who was working on the boom.

Later—The name of the man found drowned at Duncan & Brewer's mill is supposed to be Jacob Stream. A copy of by-laws of the Mill Workers' union was found in his pocket.

Henry Jr., Was Mistaken.

The mayor has added the title of grandfather to his dignities, a daughter being born to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Truelsen, Jr., this morning. According to the mayor's story, which Henry, Jr., does not deny, the latter rushed up to the mayor's house this morning with the announcement that he had a son. Later he came around and said there had been a mistake, that it was a daughter. Henry, Jr., said something of the kind did occur. He laid the blame for the error in the first report on Dr. R. Graham, who was in attendance.

WILL REPORT MONDAY.

City Attorney Investigating the City Engineer Matter.

The council will probably hear Monday evening who is city engineer. City Attorney Richards was busy today looking up questions of law and fact in the case. He said he was unable to forecast his opinion as yet.

Mr. Richards said today that there would probably be no report this week in regard to the resolution limiting the fire department expenditure to $70,000 per annum, a multiplicity of other matters engaging his attention just now.

The ordinances reducing the billiard, pool and bowling alley and pawnbrokers' licenses will come up for second reading and be put on their passage. The $15,000 estimate in favor of the Carroll-Porter company will probably be reported for confirmation.

MINNESOTA HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

SIXTY YEARS A QUEEN

Tomorrow Queen Victoria of England Will Break All the Records as a Ruler.

Her Diamond Jubilee Celebration In London Is to Be a Dazzling Affair.

Many Honors Are to Be Bestowed---The United States to Be Represented.

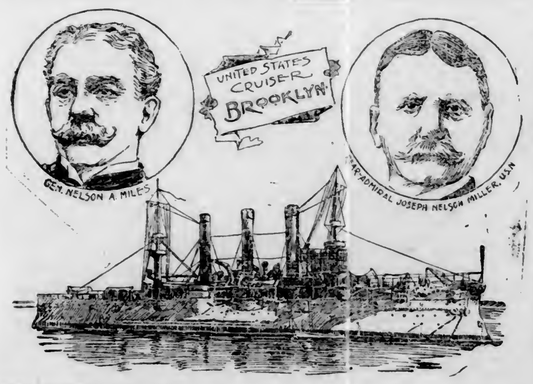
London, June 19.—Queen Victoria has had so many great events crowded into her glorious career that it is difficult to designate the "proudest moment in her life," but it is safe to say that no occasion has given her greater satisfaction than will the reaching of her sixtieth year as queen of the greatest kingdom under the sun and the mightiest perhaps that history has told about. The celebration of this event by her subjects will far surpass even the glitter and splendor of her queen jubilee in 1887, when the fiftieth year of her reign called out a pageant unequalled even in London's history of great demonstrations. The sporting strain in the English blood will be quickened by the fact that on June 20 their ruler will break all records as a reigning monarch. Nowhere does history tell of a ruler, male or female, that sat on a throne for three score years, a period of time within ten years of the allotted length of human life. This achievement alone would be worthy of a great demonstration, but, when to that are added the moral uprightness of her majesty and the mighty progress of her realm in art, science and manufacture, the occasion becomes one that overstops the glory of moral spectacular monarchs.

The most impressive part of the jubilee's public display will be the royal procession made up of the queen and the royal family, properly attended on June 22. The route of the procession will be as follows: Leave Buckingham palace, Constitution hall, Piccadilly, St. James street, Pall Mall, north side of Trafalgar square past the National gallery, Duncannon street, Fleet street, Ludgate hill, to St. Paul's cathedral. It is proposed to have the jubilee ceremony of thanksgiving at the cathedral take place in the open air. It is probable that the queen will not leave her carriage, and the exercises will not occupy more than fifteen minutes. The procession thus arranged for will be unprecedented in splendor and numbers. The procession will be a mile long. In it there will be contingents of the Royal Horse Guards, and the militia and volunteers are to supply the troops for the whole of the mall in St. James' park. The admiralty has arranged that contingents of blue jackets and royal marines will be in full force at intervals along the route. The route is six miles in length. At night the Parliament building and other structures will be beautifully illuminated.

Most of the British colonies will send representatives of troops to the jubilee. Canada, New South Wales, Victoria, Queenslaud, South Australia, New Zealand, the Cape of Good Hope, Natal, Trinidad and Cyprus have sent cavalry, the troopers to be sent by the latter being mounted Zapiehs. Some infantry and artillery have come from the Gold Coast, Georgetown and Hong Kong. The only colony refusing to celebrate is British Guiana.

Many jubilee honors will be conferred by her majesty. Among those to receive titles will, it is said, be the kings of Wurtemberg and Portugal, Archduke Franz Ferdinand of Austria, and Grand Duke Sergius of Russia, who will be made knights of the garter, and Prince Albert of Prussia and Prince Ruppert of Bavaria, who will be made knights grand cross of the bath. The marquis of Salisbury, the marquis of Tweeddale and the marquis of Londonderry will be made dukes, and Sir John Lubbock and Sir John Gorst will be elevated to the peerage. The honor of knighthood will be conferred upon hundreds of people, including the premier of Canada, Wilfred Laurier, and Alfred Harmsworth, proprietor of the Daily Mail, the Evening News and sixteen other journals.

Royalties from other countries will be present, in person or by proxy. The most distinguished of these visiting crown heads will be Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany, who, if his erratic disposition does not cause a change in his plans at the last hour, will be one of the most conspicuous contributors to his grandmother's honors. All the great nations will have special representatives, that of the United States being Whitelaw Reid, ex-minister to France. Gen. Miles will represent the United States army and Admiral Miller the navy. The cruiser Brooklyn has arrived here to represent the White Squadron of Uncle Sam.



THE CRUISER BROOKLYN AND THE UNITED STATES ARMY AND NAVY REPRESENATIVES.

First and Second Life Guards, the Scots Greys, the colonial representative troops, some seven hundred in number, and a special escort of Indian native officers representative of every crack regiment in India. The princesses of the royal family, and a splendid cavalcade of princes on horseback, will go before the queen's carriage. In advance of the royal princes' cavalcade will be the headquarters' staff of the army, including Lord Wolseley, the commander-in-chief.

The first stoppage will be at the Law Courts, where old Temple Bar once stood. According to precedent, which obtains on all state occasions, the lord mayor will here present his homage to the queen. This is done by presenting the sword of state to her majesty, who at once returns it. At the cathedral there will only be room for the queen's carriage and those of the royal princesses opposite the west front of St. Paul's. The royal princes will be grouped around on horseback during the exercises. The inclosure will be kept by soldiers of every nationality and every arm of her majesty's force. Five choirs will take part in the services on the steps of St. Paul's.

A prominent place will be given to the volunteer forces. The yeomanry, It is expected that fully 5,000,000 visitors will be in London on the day of the parade, June 22. This number, with the usual population of the city, will make the greatest collection of human beings probably massed in one place. Some idea of the enormousness of the number of the expected spectators may be gleaned from the fact that 1,000,000 seats have been erected along the route of the procession. Extravagant prices have been paid for windows and colgnes of vantage along the route, and the great speculation in windows has almost amounted to a scandal. The sum of $100,000 was paid for the privilege of demolishing an old building, near St. Paul's, to make room for a grand stand, and the syndicate expects to make a big profit.

Queen Victoria was born May 24, 1819, took the throne June 20, 1837, and was married in 1840 to Prince Albert. She has had eight children. Of her grandchildren the most distinguished is the German emperor. Victoria's father was the duke of Kent, her mother Victoria of Saalfield. Her majesty is the richest woman in the world, her wealth being estimated at $100,000,000. Her oldest son is the prince of Wales, who is heir to the throne, and there have been all sorts of stories out about the queen's intention to turn the kingdom over to him at her diamond jubilee. Her health is very poor, and her eyesight so bad that she can scarcely see. She is, and has been for years, a sufferer from rheumatism.

ORE BUYING MOVEMENT.

Two Million Tons Taken Within Two Weeks.

What may be called the second pronounced ore-buying movement of the year has been on in the past two weeks, says the Iron Trade Review. The total taken approximates 2,000,000 tons, making in all 7,000,000 tons of ore whose destination for 1897 is known, this including all ores mined by the consumer or connected interests. It takes in, also, ores sold from lower lake docks. The leading Pittsburg interest has taken considerable ore, in these last purchases, making its product of old-range products something over 1,000,000 tons, including a small amount of non-Bessemer which will be used in connection with Mesaba non-Bessemer for basic iron.

Not a few association ores are now fully sold up to their 1897 production. The choice hard Bessemers have been taken up, and the Vermilion and Gogebic ranges have shared liberally in the purchases. The ore association may conclude that it built better than it knew. Many of its members were of the opinion that no association was needed to obtain the low prices finally fixed; but recent Mesaba transactions, on the basis of $2.25 for Biwabik and $2.15 for Fayal indicate what might have happened to old-range ores, without organization. This basis means that the Mesaba differential is 50 cents, instead of 25. Sales of Mesaba ores thus far are from 600,000 to 700,000 tons.

QUEEN VICTORIA.

HAD A LARGE AUDIENCE.

Herman, Minn., June 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—A district convention of Christian Endeavor and Epworth league societies has been held here since June 15, about 100 delegates attending. On Thursday afternoon the delegates marched in a body to the depot to meet John G. Woolley, who that night at the close of the convention spoke to an enthusiastic audience of over 400 people in the M. E. church. His subject was "Christian Citizenship," and was handled in his usual masterly manner. A number of prominent ministers from adjoining towns occupied seats on the platform with Mr. Woolley.

SOMETHING TO KNOW.

It may be worth something to know that the very best medicine for restoring the tired out nervous system to a healthy vigor is Electric Bitters. This medicine is purely vegetable, acts by giving tone to the nerve centers in the stomach, gently stimulates the liver and kidneys, and aids these organs in throwing off impurities in the blood. Electric Bitters improves the appetite, aids digestion, and is pronounced by those who have tried it as the very best blood purifier and nerve tonic. Try it. Even an Innocent Looking Bicycle Has a Good Supply of Mulishness.

Experience of a Boarding House Crowd In Taking One Apart.

Resisted United Efforts of All Parties to Put It Together.

The bicycle has great possibilities in it. Its latest achievement is that of setting by the ears all the inmates of a certain boarding house in Duluth and ruining, for a long time at least, the peace of mind of a young doctor who became involved in the mess. He was a friend of one of the young ladies living at this boarding house and had dropped in for an informal call. It is whispered that it was Sunday and that he had called to take her to church. Anyway, it was in the morning, and the fact of his calling at that time gives color to the report. One of the boarders had brought home a new bicycle the previous evening and they were all discussing it at the table next morning—that is, all except those who could not ride and, for that reason possibly, considered wheeling a trifling diversion, if not worse.

"Have you had it apart yet?" inquired a young man in a bike costume, who was in the habit of arising in the small hours and taking rides of fabulous length before breakfast.

"Why, no," said he of the new bicycle, "not yet."

"Nothing like being able to take the thing apart. When you know how, you can save your money and not be coughing up at the time to help make the repair men rich. Besides, it may save you a walk of ten miles or so some time. When the machine plays horse with you, you know just what ails it and just what to do."

The owner of the new bicycle readily fell in with this idea, bearing the stamp, as it did, of the most experienced wheelman in the boarding house. The others thought it would be a good time for them to learn something about the anatomy of a bike also, and so, after breakfast, all hands adjourned to the room set apart for the wheels and operations began.

"You want to turn your wheel up this way," said the experienced bicyclist, suiting the action to the word. "Hello," he continued, as the wheel went down with a crash and the owner hopped around on one leg and clasped his shin with both hands, "you have turn-down handle bars, haven't you?"

Upon this discovery by the experienced bicyclist, he arranged some sticks of wood and soon had the bike with its wheels in the air, ready to be operated on.

"Now, there's nothing like going at this thing right," was the precept the expert bicyclist next laid down, as he procured a pan. The pan, he explained, was to prevent the balls from scattering when the bearings were taken apart. Then the expert bicyclist proceeded to work, while the others, including the owner of the machine, whose shin had cooled, looked on with interest. The chain came off all right, and so did a section of skin from the expert's hand. After a short delay, while court plaster was being procured, the work proceeded. The crank bearing came next. By the time this was out another boarder had retired with a mashed thumb for repairs. As the expert disengaged the several parts he placed them carefully in order, inculcating the lesson that it is best to have everything in its place if one can remember the place.

While the process of taking the machine apart was in progress, the expert delivered an interesting and instructive lecture. He was full of his subject and explained it at length, the function performed by each part and its history in the evolution of the wheel. Verily, he was great. What he did not know about wheels no one could tell him. And so it was when the process of putting the machine together again was in progress—at first. Pretty soon the expert began to paw around in an undecided way and look worried once in a while. He picked things up and put them down and knit his brows. It began to look as if it was a case of "nit." Finally a tyro who had only ridden a wheel two weeks respectfully called the attention of the expert to the fact that he had put the sprocket wheel on the wrong side. The expert scowled at the audacious tyro.

"I don't see how that could be," said he.

"I don't either," said the tyro, rather tartly, "but it's so."

The latter was right, and there was nothing for the expert to do but change the sprocket. As he was doing so some of the girls tittered. This rattled him and he gave a savage yank. The wheel pitched over and was only saved from being injured by striking the wall by the fact that the expert's head struck it first. When he and the bicycle frame had been separated it was found that the parts so carefully arranged by him had been mixed up.

"Perhaps you had rather do this," he said savagely, glancing around as he rubbed his head.

"Not much," said the funny man. "That blow would have mashed my head to a jelly."

A sickly grin was the only contribution the expert could make to the general laugh.

"What time is it?" he inquired, as an inspiration struck him. "Great Scott," he continued, as some one gave him the time, "I'm half an hour late now," and off he bolted, leaving the wheel in a state of chaos.

"Oh, here's the doctor," exclaimed one of the young ladies, as the others stood wondering what was to be done and the owner of the new wheel looked ruefully at his property that now resembled a scrap heap.

"Perhaps the doctor can help us out," continued the young lady who had discovered that he had joined the party. The doctor was immaculate and as dignified as usual. He said he knew but little about wheels.

"Oh, but you are ingenious, you know," said one of the young ladies, enthusiastically. "And you have studied dissection and I should think you could manage it."

The flattery told and the doctor consented.

"By feeling our way very carefully we may succeed," said the doctor, with the tone and gesture of a surgeon stepping up to a "subject." "Of course each joint and bearing of a class is constructed on the same general principle, and that principle once impressed on one's mind, the thing might be worked out."

At this juncture one of the sticks that had supported the machine worked out and a mud-encrusted tire fell athwart the left leg of the doctor's new light spring trousers. Disregarding this trifling mishap the doctor proceeded to work. At first it was with the studied precision of a demonstrator of anatomy that he tried to fit the various parts. Then, as he failed to find any that would fit and got oil on his cuffs, he grew a little less deliberate, and there was a wild light in his eye as he tried to fit quarter-inch bolts in eighth-of-an-inch-holes and essayed to screw nuts on the handle bars. From a beautiful exposition of the solution of a problem by means of a knowledge of general principles the affair had now become a free-for-all wrestling match between the erstwhile immaculate and dignified but now oil-stained and grimy doctor and that exasperating machine. Finally, forgetful of the presence of the young ladies, including the "her" in whose eyes rumor says he desires particularly to stand well, the doctor fetched the machine a whack with a pedal crank he had been led by general principles to try and fit in the front fork somewhere.

"Why, hello, Doc," said the funny man, as the blow descended, "that's the homeopathic system you seem to be adopting now—similar similaribus curantur—like cures like, you know. You are not going to desert your school of medicine, are you?" But the doctor did not hear; he was on his way up stairs.

While this had been going on there had been numerous discussions going on as to how it ought to be done, which are being kept up vigorously yet. The wheel lay piled up in the basement at last accounts.

Remarkable Success of a New Pile Cure.

People who have suffered for years or months from the pain and inconvenience of that common disorder, piles, will look with skepticism upon the claims of the maker of the new discovery for cure of all forms of piles, known under the name of Pyramid Pile Cure; nevertheless the extraordinary cures performed by this remedy are such as to warrant the investigation of any sufferer. As a case in point the following letter speaks for itself

Pyramid Drug Company:

Gentlemen: I want you to use my name if it will be of any use to you. I was so bad with the piles that I lost work on that account. Nothing did me any good. I read in Cincinnati of the many cures of piles by the Pyramid Pile Cure and I went to a drug store and asked for it. The drug clerk told me he had something else that he thought was better, but I told him I wanted to try the Pyramid first.

The first box helped me so much that I tried another and then to complete the cure used two more boxes making four in all. I am now completely cured. Have not a trace of piles and I had suffered for four years with the worst form of protruding piles.

I suffered death from piles, but I have found the Pyramid Pile Cure to be just as represented. I have recommended it to several of my friends and I am thankful to be able to write you what good the remedy has done for me."

Physicians recommend the Pyramid Pile Cure because it contains no opium, cocaine, or mineral poison of any kind and because it is so safe and pleasant to use, being painless and applied at night. The patient is cured in a surprisingly short time with no inconvenience whatever.

The Pyramid Pile Cure is sold by druggists at 50 cents per package, and if there is any constipation it is well to use the Pyramid pills at the same time with the Pile Cure, as constipation is very often the cause of piles and the pills effectually remove the costive condition. Price of pills is 25 cents per package.

Write to Pyramid Drug company, Albion, Mich., for little book on cause and cure of piles; sent by mail free.

THE GRANDEST REMEDY.

Mr. R. B. Greeve, merchant, of Chilhowie, Va., certifies that he had consumption, was given up to die, sought all medical treatment that money could procure, tried all cough remedies he could hear of, but got no relief; spent many nights sitting up in a chair; was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery, and was cured by the use of two bottles. For past three years has been attending to business, and says Dr. King's New Discovery is the grandest remedy ever made, as it has done so much for him and also for others in his community. Dr. King's New Discovery is guaranteed for Coughs, Colds and Consumption. It don't fail. Trial bottles free at Duluth Drug company's drug store.

GROWING

June Shipments of Ore Will Compare Favorably With Last Season.

The Business Is Now Increasing in Volume With Every Week.

Tendency Is Toward a Larger Production and More Stable Conditions.

Ishpeming, Mich., June 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The volume of ore shipments is much greater than would be gathered from the complaints of both mining men and vessel owners. It is unfortunately true that the business is being done at a very slight margin above cost, or at no profit whatever, by both producers and carriers, which naturally influences those interested in the trade to regard the business as in worse shape than it really is. The June shipments of ore will compare very favorably with those of last season, and the business is increasing in volume with every week. Some mines are closing, while others that have been idle are being reopened, but the tendency is toward larger production and more stable conditions. Ore freight rates remain very low, in keeping with the price of ore, and vessel owners are grumbling greatly over alleged losses. While there are individual instances where money is actually being lost in the operation of ore carriers, such cases are few. The great majority of vessels in the ore trade are at least making expenses, and in many cases a profit, which, though small and ridiculously inadequate in view of the capital invested and risks run in the marine business, is certainly much better than no profit at all. Attempts made recently to force down ore freights have been unsuccessful, and rates are apt to go up rather than down in the next few weeks.

The Biwabik Bessemer company has resumed work at its mine on the Mesaba, having succeeded after strenuous efforts in securing a very material reduction in royalties. The original lessee bound himself to pay a 30-cent royalty, and the sub-lessee added 20 cents to this amount, making a total royalty of 50 cents a ton. The people who are drawing fat revenues from the property without personally risking any money in the operation of the mine have displayed marked wisdom in finally reducing the dual royalty to 30 cents per ton, even though the reductions were made with bad grace. A royalty of 50 cents per ton is a burden too heavy for any mine, with prices on their present plane. One of the greatest advantages enjoyed by the leading mines of the Marquette range has been their freedom from the exaction of royalties. Owners and lessees who have subleased mines will find themselves with the mines on their hands unless royalties are reduced to a basis allowing at least a fighting chance to the people who are furnishing the money for the operation of the mines, and who take all the numerous risks that iron mining is at present exposed to. The exactions of the fee owners are felt severely on the Gogbic, Menominee and portions of the Marquette range, as well as by operators of the Mesaba. As the average selling price of iron ore for the estimated tonnage of the season will fall under $2.75 per ton, prices ranging from $1.80 to $2.47 per ton, the relative importance of a 50-cent royalty becomes obvious. An average royalty of 50 cents per ton on Mesaba range ores would amount to nearly double the total wages of labor engaged in mining the ore, a fact which plainly stamps its exaction as monstrous.

Reports, apparently authenticated, from the head of Lake Superior state that the total 1897 allotment of the Pioneer mine, amounting to 225,000 tons, has been placed, but no information is given regarding the disposition of the surplus remaining the property of the mine from the 1896 allotment. The statement attributed to an owner of the Pioneer that the price secured, $3 per ton, was the highest brought by any ore this season is erroneous. The highest grade ores of the Lake Superior and Lake Angeline mines of this city command nearly $3.50 per ton, while the Republic mine obtains nearly as good a figure for its first-quality ore. The price obtained for the season's output of the Pioneer is, however, much above the average, due to the exceptionally fine ore produced, which is of one uniform grade, and the owners of the mine certainly have reason to felicitate themselves upon their good fortune in placing the estimated output of the year at a figure allowing a fair margin of profit.

The long-threatened litigation between the Lake Angeline and Cleveland-Cliffs companies, of this place, has been begun in earnest, all attempts to settle the matter amicably having failed. The contest is over possession of the basin of Lake Angeline, once a handsome sheet of water in the southern suburbs of the city, but which was pumped dry five years ago that the ore underneath its bed might be safely removed. There is an immense basin of ore underlying the former bed of the lake, containing many million tons. There is a seam of ore near the walls of exceptionally fine quality, but the great bulk of the ore is a non-Bessemer, though not far from the Bessemer line in phosphorus. Owing to the great width, depth and length of this ore body, which is the largest ever opened outside of the Vermilion and Mesaba ranges, it can be cheaply mined, and is therefore very valuable notwithstanding most of it is not of high grade. The former bed of the lake is divided between the Lake Superior, Lake Angeline and Cleveland mines and the suit is brought by the Lake Angeline to secure possession of very valuable workings developed and possessed by Wheels and Their Riders.

There has been precious little excuse during the greater part of this week for anyone's remembering that such things as bicycles existed. If any owner of a wheel remembered himself in that capacity, it was to cast a doleful glance from the silent steed as it lay in the hall to the mud as it lay in the street and the rain as it drearily fell hour after hour. In short, it has been decidedly a poor outlook for wheeling all through the week, and in fact all through part of last week.

The committees which are arranging a Fourth of July celebration for July 5 at the fair grounds held a meeting during the week and talked over plans, and as a result of the discussion their members concluded that the celebration to be had will be like no other that was ever celebrated at the head of the lakes. There will be about nine bicycle races, and the program, subject to change, is as follows: One mile novice, open, scratch; quarter-mile handicap, club; two mile open, scratch; one mile handicap, club; one mile (probably tandem); half-mile handicap, club; quarter-mile open, scratch; quarter-mile against time, club; five mile handicap.

In the 5-mile race the trophy cup will probably be hung up as first prize, and there will be plenty of other prizes.

The club committee also met Manager Wray of the Union rink to arrange details for the track race to be held between Duluth and Suprior. If arrangements can be made in time the race will be held from July 12 to July 17. There will probably be six of the fastest riders from each club, and each contestant will ride for forty minutes each evening, making the race two hours a night. The cycle club will donate a cup to go to the club whose representatives cover the greatest number of miles, and in addition to this there will be individual prizes aggregating about $400 in value for riders.

West Duluth has a new bicycle club, which will be known as the West Duluth Cycle club. At a meeting held Wednesday evening at which about twenty members were present, Henry K. Brearley was elected president, C. W. Phillips vice president, Dr. E. B. Kenney, secretary and treasurer, and Henry Gifford, captain. A committee consisting of Henry K. Brearley, Frank Wade and Dr. E. B. Kenney was appointed to draft bylaws to be submitted for the approval of the club at its next meeting, which is to be held Wednesday evening, June 23. The new club starts out with about fifty members, and there is no reason why the century should not be reached in a short time. A neat uniform will be adopted and it is probable that the rink will be used as a permanent headquarters for the club. Race meetings may be arranged for there.

Any woman who starts in to become a cyclist should carefully study just what amount of cycling will do her good, and should then study the vehicle out of which she expects to get this good. If she thoroughly understands the mechanism of her bicycle she will get twice the amount of pleasure from it. The first thing to be considered is the learning to ride. Some women are puzzled as to whether it is best to buy a wheel and depend upon friends to teach them, or whether they should go to a regular bicycle school for their instructions. An experienced woman rider says on this subject: "I should advise every one to go to a school and learn how to ride before purchasing a wheel. While learning to ride they will learn something about wheels and what kind of wheel and equipment will suit them best. The number of lessons is a great question with beginners. I have heard women say that learned in two or three lessons. Some even say that they rode right off the first time they tried, but I have never yet seen any woman ride a wheel the first time she tried, or even after six or a dozen lessons ride fairly well."

There was recently placed with a fashionable New York tailor an order for a bicycle suit which in the matter of expense is likely to hold the record for some time. The girl who meets the bill is worth a million in her own right, is an athletic beauty and a reigning belle in the ultra-smart set. The suit which makes the bill is the most elaborate ever designed in this country. It is lined with silk, finished with jewels and it will cost a lump sum of $715.50. Two shawls at $75 apiece will be employed in making the skirt and jacket.

There is a new adjustable handle bar on the market, which has all its competitors distanced, owing to several features which none of them possess. Every rider who sees it instantly appreciates its strong points. The essential features of the bar are that it can be adjusted to any position desired without the loosening of nuts or bolts, and while the rider continues to scorch along on his wheel. The adjustment is released by pressing a spring where the bar is joined to the steering head. In addition to this the grips are fitted with similar springs so they can be adjusted independently of the bar proper. This latter feature is found in no other bar, and is an immense improvement.

The adjustable handle bar was called for by the great number of riders who found cramps of the hands and wrists resulting from long rides with the hands and arms in one position, as is imperative with the fixed or solid bar. The first adjustable bars, and, indeed, all except this new device, have a shoulder arrangement at the center of the bar over the steering post, which is loosened with a wrench when it is desired to change the position of the bars. This necessitates so much work, however, if a rider desires to scorch or increase his speed while pedaling over the country road, if he comes to a steep hill which calls for low handle bars and hard work he need not dismount and unfasten a nut to change the bar. Remaining on his wheel, he reaches for the center of the bar, touches the spring and releases the bar. Turning it to the desired angle the spring shoots a rod into place in a series of holders, and the bar is as rigid as a solid handle bar. The grips can be dropped or raised to any angle by simply extending the thumb along the grip to the spring and pressing it. When the spring is released it fastens the grip rigidly.

It will be news to most cyclists that even among fast riders there is marked difference as to whether moderately high or low gear is the better. An Illinois club crack said the other evening:

"In spite of the fact that such a large number of riders are adopting such high gears, I am bound to say I am far from convinced that, for all-round riding, there is any advantage or benefit in them. I feel convinced that numbers of young and inexperienced riders are making a mistake in going in for seventy-two or higher gears. For fast riding on dry, easy roads, and especially for short distances, a seventy-two gear may be well enough. I ride every day, in all weathers, on all kinds of roads, and at the present moment I am inclined to believe that my 65-inch gear is too high, and that I should get better all-round results with a combination three or four inches less. It does not, of course, follow that every rider will find the same thing. I simply give my experience for what it is worth."

Another member of the club, also among the speedy ones, took a different view and expressed it as follows: "From my own experience I cannot say that a low gear is the best. When I began cycling, some three years ago, I rode a machine geared at sixty; I am now riding one geared at seventy-seven. My weight has not increased much in the interval. I turn the scales at 140 pounds, and I am 5 feet 10 inches in height and slimly built. I found it considerably more fatiguing to work the sixty gear than the seventy-seven. The latter, of course, requires more pushing, but the pedaling is much slower. Fast pedaling is, I am sure, more exhausting than hard pushing, and one is doing more work to cover less ground. I think, therefore, that the 'rage' for higher gears is justifiable."

It has been said frequently that cycling is not a social pastime—that cyclists, being compelled to look out for the always possible accident are not in a position to avoid going it alone to an extent which destroys opportunity for conversation. This is to a great extent true where riders are mounted on single wheels, but does not hold good in the case of the tandems, which are coming to be recognized as an important element in developing the social side of wheeling. The young man who has a "best girl" is largely responsible for the spread of this discovery. Propinquity of sex is easily attained by means of the tandem, but there is some difference of opinion as to how the riders should be seated. A veteran of the road ventures the following opinion:

"In one thing, at least, it has been definitely settled that lovely woman shall take a back seat. We have been a long time coming to this conclusion, for up to the end of last season the woman was placed in front. In this position she had the full benefit of the head wind and also obstructed the real controller of the machine. This form of cycling should become very fashionable. The vast increase of power which a properly constructed double machine gives to its riders must, sooner or later, be fully recognized by those who have hitherto gone in for two safeties to every pair."

The reasons advanced in favor of tandem combinations are that the woman is free from the care which follows in the wake of the single rider, and that she has nothing to trouble her except to stick on when the pace becomes fast. It is also argued that the man in front, when he feels fit, can go as fast as he pleases without fear of leaving his companion behind; that greater distances can be covered in the same time and with more comfort, and that by such an arrangement there are only two tires instead of four exposed to puncture. The tandem advocate winds up by saying that the "swing" which a pair attain at a fast pace is a pleasure unknown to the rider of a single machine.

Skirted devotees of the wheel are yearly showing increased independence in the matter of going on lengthy trips unescorted by members of the opposite sex. In doing so they take chances on getting into embarrassing situations, which are practically impossible when a girl shares a tandem with a male friend. One of these drawbacks incident to such journeys lies in the fact that the average bicycle girl generally neglects the precaution of bringing along a tool kit, and is often in a sad dilemma in case of an accident. Sometimes a convenient repair shop solves the difficulty, but suburban mechanics have reluctantly arrived at the conclusion that the girl who forgets her kit is equally absent-minded regarding her purse. The repairers cannot live on chivalry, and they are inclined to frown on the credit system to which they have been forced by the carelessness of their fair patrons. When a pretty girl in distress gets an injured wheel patched up and then finds that her only pocket contains nothing beyond a button hook, a handkerchief and a bunch of hairpins, the mechanic "hangs up" the item with a good grace, but when the incident recurs daily and sometimes hourly, patience ceases to be a virtue, and the business instinct of the repairer shows through his veneer of gallantry. Then the trouble begins, and copious tears are needed to soften the heart of the practical bicycle doctor. Why girls will venture abroad so badly protected against emergencies is a mystery, but they do so frequently, or the repairers are romancing.

J. Platt-Betts, the English professional, is fast acquiring a reputation as the fastest short-distance rider in the world. In a recent assault upon records at the Crystal Palace track, and riding a wheel geared to 106 and paced by half a dozen multicycles, he made the following times: One mile, 1:49 4-5; two miles, 3:36 4-5; three miles, 5:26; four miles, 7:15; five miles, 9:04 4-5. Platt-Betts placed the mile record at 1:47 3-5, so that he now holds the records from two to five miles. He proposes to shortly make a trial to reduce the figures from one to five miles, and will be assisted in this trial by the fastest pacemakers available in England.

The Buffalo Enquirer does not take much stock in alchemy and the transmutation of other metals into gold. It says: "There is an easy way to make gold. Here is the formula: Take (1) cold-drawn seamless tubing, (2) tool-steel bearings, (3) hollow rolls of rubber, (4) piano wire, (5) second-growth hickory. Make the ingredients into a $22 bicycle and sell it for $100."

A novel use was made of a bicycle by the manager of a small electric line in a Western town. Being anxious to ascertain the length of a particular stretch of road without going to the expense of having it surveyed, he had a bicycle, equipped with a cyclometer ridden over the route and found the distance within the required limits of exactness.

NOTES OF THE WHEEL.

About four-fifths of all the missionaries who go abroad take bicycles with them.

The legislature of Massachusetts has appropriated $800,000 to be used in road building in various parts of the state.

Bicycling members of the New York Produce Exchange are asking the managers to provide a room wherein those who ride down to business can deposit their wheels.

American wheelwomen who have visited England say that the women riders in that country are the worst in creation. Not to be outdone, the English wheelwomen return the compliment.

The whipping-post has been prescribed for bicycle thieves at Lexington, Ky., where two guilty newsboys were taken to a police cell and soundly thrashed by their mothers, who before the judge set the boys at liberty had to promise to do so.

No one knew till a few days ago that the bicycle is classed in the animal kingdom, but the following copy of a notice posted all along the Lehigh canal gave the information: "Notice—Bicycles, horses or any other animals not allowed in towpath."

An association in England makes it a business to lease bicycles by the year or quarter to women only. It is a cooperative concern, and one of its officers is Mrs. W. T. Stead, the wife of the well-known reformer and writer. Wheels are bought for the lowest cash price obtainable, and the rental calculated to figure up to the usual retail price charged for the cycle in the open market.

THE PELVIC ORGANS.

Some Facts About Catarrh Not Generally Known to the Profession.

In a recent lecture Dr. Hartman stated: "It is a popular impression that catarrh is a disease confined to the mucous membrane lining the nose, throat and bronchial tubes, and other of the respiratory organs. Of late years catarrh of the stomach, and even of the bowels, is sometimes mentioned. The real fact is, however, that all mucous membranes, wherever located, are subject to catarrh.

"The pelvic organs have for their linings a delicate mucous membrane which is exposed to many vicissitudes calculated to cause catarrhal inflammation of these organs. No organs of the body are more frequently affected by catarrh than these organs, which is sometimes so severe as to excite suffering and alarm, and again so slight as to scarcely attract any notice. It is catarrh of these organs that is the cause of that distressing multitude of ills known as female diseases."

Mrs. Benolt, 131 Pleasant street, Cincinnati, Ohio, writes: "I employed three physicians, but they did not help me at all. I was so miserable I wished I was dead. At last I saw Pe-ru-na advertised, and, after I had taken four bottles, I was well. I am stout and well and feel years younger. I can not thank you enough."

The Pe-ru-na Drug Manufacturing company, of Columbus, Ohio, are publishing Dr. Hartman's latest book, written expressly for women. This book will be sent free for a short time.

The evening paper is always carefully read, especially in the home circle, and is therefore an excellent advertising medium. Advertisers in The Evening Herald always get full value.

IN THE LABOR FIELD

There has not been much activity in labor circles during the past week. The barbers are endeavoring to arrive at an agreement for a uniform price for shaves. The members of the union are agreed that it is expedient to fix a uniform rate. The majority, it is said, are in favor of making the price 15 cents. An amendment of the bylaws of the union, fixing it at that price for all shops, has had its first reading, and will come up for passage at the union's next meeting.

There was a threat of squally weather in the restaurant business for a while, the clouds gathering darkest Wednesday afternoon. At that time the special committee of the Waiters' union had under consideration the calling of a general strike to bring the employers to an acceptance of the 11-hour clause. The scale was signed by the obdurate ones at the last moment, and the clouds rolled by.

An aftermath of the Culkin fight seems to have taken up nearly the whole time at the semi-annual convention of the State Federation of Labor at St. Cloud. The matter came up on the question of the adoption of the report of the committee on officers, endorsing the action of the federation council in rescinding the resolution condemning Senator Culkin. There was a bitter fight, and it required hard work and skillful management to avoid a split. It may be said that the preservation of unity was about all that was accomplished aside from the adoption of a measure directing the prosecution of the work of the extension of unionism.

BOSSES OFFER TERMS.

The Chicago Journal says: The builders' conference committee has sent a proposition to the Building Trades' council which, if accepted, would put an end to strikes for at least three years. There seems no possible chance, however, that the affiliated unions will even seriously consider it.

The plan submitted is that the present scales of wages shall not be changed before 1900, and that all differences that arise shall be settled by arbitration, without resort to sympathetic strikes.

In labor circles the sentiment is wholly against the scheme, as there are several unions which are even now figuring on increases in wages, and no doubt will make the demand long before the limit named in the proposition of the masters.

It is said the unions in making their answer will ask a concession of the builders' conference committee. This is that the Chicago chapter of American Architects, which is a member of the committee, specify in all their future contracts that none but union men be employed on the jobs.

ENCOURAGING REPORTS.

The bulletin of the department of labor for May contains the latest reports of the business of building and loan associations in fourteen states, as follows: California, Connecticut, Illinois, Indiana, Maine, Massachusetts, Missouri, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Tennessee, which contain 75 per cent of all the building and loan associations of the United States. These reports show that the total number of associations in these states was 4617 at the close of the fiscal year 1895-96, with 1,355,986 shareholders and $449,613,048 dues paid in, paid up and prepaid stocks and profits. The assets of the associations of that date were: Loans, $402,327,297; cash on hand, $16,103,568; all other assets, $22,251,757; total, $489,659,734. The liabilities were: Dues paid in and paid up stocks, $383,590,588; profits, $66,052,460; all other liabilities, $40,016,686; total, $489,659,734.

The foregoing are the latest statistics of building and loan associations which have been given covering so many states. In connection with them the statistics published by the national labor bureau Jan. 1, 1893, are interesting. At that date the number of associations in the fourteen states named was 4499; the number of shareholders, 9,506,755; the total assets, $403,475,395, of which $378,937,366 was loans. The installment dues paid in, paid up and prepaid stock were $308,705,478; profits, $61,765,802; all other liabilities, $33,004,106; total, $403,475,395.

From the foregoing figures it appears that the number of associations has not increased in the period of three years to any extent. Remembering that the increase in the number of companies has indicated a speculative and dangerous tendency, the small increase in that direction is an encouraging indication. Half a million gain in shareholders proves that the building and loan association as a means of investment continues to enjoy the confidence of small investors, in spite of occasional instances of bad management and loss. An increase of dues collected and profits aggregating $79,172,000 in between two and three years, or 21.4 per cent, shows that the class of people who invest in shares of associations are not so reduced that they have no money to save, and, further, that saving in hard times indicates that a large class of people of small means have learned the trick of putting by a little money and will sacrifice to do it. The associations in the fourteen states reported Jan. 1, 1893, held 76.5 per cent of the investments, the aggregate in the thirty-four states being $403,496,948. If there was a like increase in the three years in all the states as in the fourteen reported the total in 1895-96 was about $545,000,000.

A NEW UNION.

The Compressed Air Workers of America is a new union that has been brought into existence by the work on the new East river bridge, New York. The longest time that the men say they can work in a day is eight hours, and that at a moderate depth. At great depth, where the atmospheric pressure is very great, they say they cannot work over three hours, with intervals of rest between. The schedule of prices and hours of labor, as prepared by the union, are as follows: From 55 to 75 feet depth, $2.75 for six hours' work; from 70 to 80 feet depth, $3 and four hours' work; from 80 to 90 feet depth, $3.25 and two hours' work; from 90 to 100 feet depth, $3.50 and one hour and twenty minutes' work. For overtime they will charge double rates.

IMPORTANT DECISION.

A Mount Vernon, Ill., dispatch says: An opinion of vital importance to railroads and other corporations and employes generally, has just been filed by the appellate court. The suit was brought by a former freight conductor of the road to recover $2000 on a declaration charging that, although the plaintiff had been a faithful employe of the railroad company for ten years, he was discharged without cause, and that the customary letter or clearance card, showing time of service and general capacity, was refused. It is alleged that the defendant road and other railroads have a custom, which is charged to be conspiracy not to employ discharged employe of a road without such letter or clearance card. The court affirms the verdict of $875 awarded to the conductor. In its decision the court says:

"It is almost like depriving him (the conductor) of the right to earn a living by the pursuit of an honorable calling, a right inherent, of which he cannot be deprived by any rule, regulation or practice of employers of men."

AMONG THE SPORTS.

Sports at the head of the lakes have taken a sort of a British turn during the week, for the first time. It is probably not a wave of Anglomania, for of the offending games, golf and cricket, the one has become naturalized, or at least has its first papers, while the other is to be played by real Britishers instead of by Americans who would ape british sports.

* * *

The Golf club came to the surface during the week and a preliminary meeting was held at the board of trade Thursday afternoon. Those who are back of the new sport are John MacLeod, Donald Morrison, Alexander Guthrie, E. N. Bradley, George Palmer, Alexander MacRae, J. P. Scott and others. Of this number MacLeod and Scott are old players, and the new club originated with them. A number of curlers will be noticed among the club members. The Wheeler grounds at the West End will probably be secured, and it is said that they will make a great site for grounds. Superior has a club already formed.

* * *

The cricket part of the program naturally comes in on June 22, the day of the Victorian jubilee. It seems Superior has a cricket club also, and the idea is to have a match between teams from Duluth and Superior, to wind up with a banquet at the West Superior hotel.

* * *

The Duluth team did not win the joint field day with Minneapolis last Saturday, but paradoxical as it may seem, they carried off the honors of the day by winning eight out of fifteen firsts. The day was lost on seconds. The field was poorly managed and the events dragged badly.

The camp of the juniors of the Y. M. C. A. at Pike lake has been waiting for good weather, but the campers to the number of about sixteen will leave next Thursday. They will be under the supervision of J. K. Driver of the Y. M. C. A.

There were a number of ball games last Sunday, and one of them, between the Bachelors and Benedicts, must have been a warm one, for it is said to have wound up in a free fight.

* * *

There will be a ball game next Saturday afternoon at the West End grounds between the street railway employes and the firemen, and a lively game is expected. The proceeds will go to the Children's home. The club of firemen will be as follows: William Randall, catcher; James McIlhargy, pitcher; James Dunbar, first base; Ed Oakes, second base; Charles McIlhargy, shortstop; J. A. Randall, third base; Charles Briggs, left field; William Harvey, center field; Ed Hallam, right field.

The old Whalebacks, the nine of heavyweights who will be remembered as former wielders of the stick, are looking for trouble and are prepared to go against almost any old club that possesses enough daring to risk it.

The first racing matinee of the season is scheduled to take place at the driving park Saturday afternoon, July 3, and the admirers of speedy horseflesh, whose numbers are many, are delighted with the prospect. There will be three races, each with a prize of $60, one for local 3-year-olds, and the other two of a general nature.

Umpire Lynch is heartily in favor of the present coaching rule. "It was the best rule that was ever passed," said the umpire. "This talk of it having robbed the game of a great deal of life is all bosh. No one wants to hear a lot of players yelling and whooping, trying to rattle the opposing pitcher. With the present rule an umpire has a chance to keep coaching within the bounds of moderation. Another thing. Have you noticed how successful the young pitchers have been this season? Look how well Dammann of the Reds, Tannehill of the Pittsburgs, Lewis of the Bostons, and other new pitchers have succeeded. I attribute their good showing in a measure to the present coaching rules. Now, a youngster has a chance to show what is in him. Under the old coaching rules the old players used to make a mark of a young pitcher. They would get out on the coaching lines and yell anything and everything to rattle the new aspirant for major league honors. He had to have a very cool head to keep from going into the air under the fire of their coaching cries. Now there is a chance for him to show his true worth without the additional handicap of the coachers to make him forget what he is about. The league did a sensible thing when it adopted the present coaching rules and it would be the height of folly to change them."

"Did you ever pause and think of the large number of major league in and out fielders who started their career as wind pad artists?" says Earl Wagner in the Washington Post. "Ed Cartwright and Selbach wore the inflated pad when they played in the Southern league. When Gus Schmelz discovered Selbach, the little Teutonic outfielder was the receiving end of a semi-amateur team in Columbus. Finally Selbach, who wasn't exactly hustling for overwork, decided that he could negotiate for enough hits to give him a good salary as an outfielder, and he is today one of the best outer gardeners in the major league. There is Bill Lange, who was one of the crack backstops of the minor leagues out on the coast before Anson brought him to Chicago and made out of him one of the wonders of the age as a center fielder. Ed Cartwright was for years a backstop in minor leagues, and Hughey Jennings was doing service as a receiver geared in a hanky panky team up in Pennsylvania when Jack Chapman delved him from the bowels of the coal regions.

"Hughey was a coal miner by trade. Perhaps that's what makes him such a sure thing in doing the ground hog burrow after those rollers that hug the sward. Hughey never thought he was a short fielder till he became an understudy for the Louisville short field, and was suddenly called on one day when Harry Taylor was injured. Billy Hallman was one of the crack backstops of the Philadelphia league club in '87 and '88. He was on the roster of my Philadelphia brotherhood club in '90, and was one of my star backstops till I switched him to second base. Jack Pickett was my regular second baseman, but he developed a perpetual thirst, and I was compeled to assign him to the bench. Hallman came to me and volunteered to replace the man with the thirst. I put him on the second sack, little suspecting that he would fill the bill, but he developed in a day, and is a valuable man for any team. Reitz, the silent little second baseman of the Orioles, was a backstop in the California league, though he occasionally played the infield before he came East to Ed Hanlon. Lave Cross was one of the most brilliant backstops in the old American association. His third base talent laid dormant till he joined the Phillies. Zeke Wrigley was a receiver general behind the wind pad in a Philadelphia amateur team."

A great hubbub is always heard over the Brooklyn handicap, and it was louder than ever this year after it was all over, owing to the fact that Howard Mann, an eleventh hour entry, won hands down, skinning the talent alive and upsetting the calculations of betting men from one end of the country to the other. The Brooklyn handicap is, of course, one of the greatest events of the year on the American turf, but when it comes to the size of the stake there are several that equal it. The Oakley Derby run at Cincinnati on July 1 comes pretty nearly matching the Brooklyn dollar for dollar, and while it is yet several weeks off there is every indication of the largest field of any of the big Western events. Ornament is now ruling as favorite, but there are a number who will be sent to take his measure or trail in his dust in the hopes of second place. A rich stake to be run, however, before the Oakley is the Suburban handicap at the Coney Island course, which is due one week from next Tuesday, with the prospect of a cracka-jack field.

International rowing has been no more free, says Walter Camp, from bits of feeling than international yacht racing. Whether the eagle screams too loudly or the lion is not over gracious one cannot say, but the fact remains that as one runs back over his history of international racing between Englishmen and Americans he finds considerable differences of opinion. But with the reception accorded one of our crews of last year and the advent of one of the best of English rowing men to cement more closely the good feeling, one may fairly hope that there will be more contests and a new era of good will and good sport. Attempts have been made from time to time to bring together two eight-oared crews from leading American and English universities for a four-mile contest, but they have never yet been crowned with success. One of the most serious obstacles is the fact that the time of rowing the annual races of Oxford-Cambridge and Harvard-Yale differ by so many months. The trans-Atlantic crew to a race and what would have developed into an assured contest had not Harvard defeated Yale, was in 1891. In that year Oxford had practically accepted a challenge from Yale, based, however, upon the condition of Yale's winning her American race. There Harvard upset the arrangements by running off with the victory and leaving Yale stranded. The only distinctively college contest between English and American crews was in 1869, between representative four-oared crews of Harvard and Oxford, the latter winning by a length and a half.

But speaking of boating, from now on until June 25 all those interested in the aquatic welfare of either one of our great colleges, Harvard, Yale or Cornell, must keep their optics open and their wits alert, for many moons will doubtless shine and glimmer upon the classic bosom of the Hudson ere young men wearing the colors of these institutions will again be found struggling for supremacy side by side. This will be the first time these three universities have lined up against each other in an eight-oared race. Yale distinctly does not wish to meet Cornell, or anybody, excepting Harvard. After the race this year Cornell will certainly not desire to pursue the issue. In accepting Yale's ultimatum this year—that Pennsylvania and Columbia should not be permitted to enter—Cornell acted with a degree of generosity which did much, very much, to gain her the full sympathy of every lover of generosity and fair play. I mean that it was a presumption on Yale's part, she herself being an invited guest, which did not redound to her credit. But, as Harvard had to row Cornell this year, on account of the exigencies of the case in a college boy's life, it was the only chance Yale had for a race this year. So, this three-cornered race is the result.

The pugilistic surprise of the season was the showing Tom Sharkey made against Peter Maher in New York. The Irish champion was a 10 to 7 favorite on the theory that he could hit the sailor without much trouble, and that meant he would soon land enough of his sledge-hammer blows to put him to sleep. But Sharkey soon showed he had got a few new notions about fighting. He had learned something of the art of defense and had come to realize the necessity of it. Heretofore he has had a fashion of rushing head first, like an enraged bull, at his opponent, with both hands swinging wildly. He counted on landing with either hands or head. Meanwhile a clever man would meet his fierce rushes with jabs, swings and uppercuts, whereupon Sharkey would wrestle and push his man about until forced to break away. Then he would back off like a mad bull and make another charge.

With this scheme of boxing Sharkey has tired many a good man, albeit he would catch many a good wallop on the jaw in the process. But this was of little consequence to him. He counted some on a man breaking or bruising his hands on his tough head. Choynski could not stop him in eight rounds. Corbett puffed like a man who was nearing the exhaustion point when he tried him. The ex-champion could hit the squatty sailor often enough, but after he had pounded him until his hands were sore and his heart was faint, he showed signs of being nearly discouraged. Fitzsimmons found Sharkey fighting him with great fierceness until the alleged foul was landed. What he might have done but for that questionable blow is a matter of speculation. Certain it is that none of the men in the first class have been able to put an undisputed quietus on the sailor man.

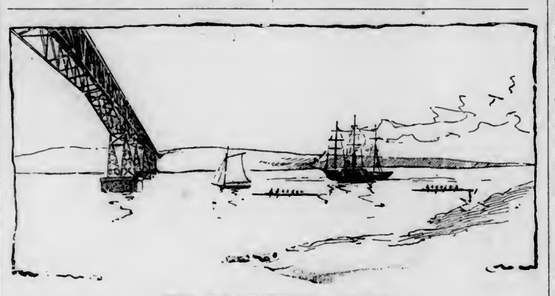
In his recent bout with Maher he adopted entirely new tactics. He tried to save himself as much as possible, and from all accounts he succeeded admirably for seven rounds. His scheme of battle was to go along carefully for about ten rounds and then, with Maher discouraged and some of the speed and force taken out of his blows, to continue the battle on more aggressive lines. When the bout was stopped Sharkey was the stronger of the two and looked as though he would win in the second half of the contest. That was the opinion of many men at the ringside who had put their faith and money on the hard-hitting Irishman.

It is not likely that this pair will be permitted to meet again in New York. Men who are interested in the sport opposed the match from the start, and the police interference which actually took place was anticipated in many quarters. Long contests between heavyweights of the first class are calculated to do the sport a great deal of injury in New York, and in all probability will eventually result in closing the ring to the more moderate boxers. The big fellows should settle their differences in the mountains of Nevada.

"NOW, ALL TOGETHER."

Great Tri-University Boat Race on the Hudson.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 19.—It will be, after all, the English stroke on test in the three-cornered boat race of 8-oared crews from Yale, Harvard and Cornell on the Hudson next Friday. Harvard has a former Oxford coach, R. C. Lehmann, to drill her crew while Coach Courtney did not take his Cornell boys over to England to be beaten in 1895 not to bring back some English ideas for application to future crews. Bob Cook, of Yale, is taking his men back to the English stroke, for after his men were beaten at Henley in 1896 he decided that the old Yankee stroke was not good enough for Yale. Besides the stroke which is on trial this year the 'varsity race will be especially interesting as this is the first meeting in many years of these three universities. Harvard and Yale began their boating contests with a race at Lake Winnepesaukee in 1852. Three years ago Harvard and Yale fell out and the former made a two years' contract to row Cornell. Yale made up with Harvard last winter, but couldn't race with her unless Cornell consented. So Harvard asked Cornell if Yale could come into the race and make it three-handed and the Ithaca lads consented. So this year's race will "be for blood."



THE POUGHKEEPSIE COURSE.

The following are the members of the Harvard crew: Stroke, E. A. Boardman; 7, D. M. Goodrich; 6, J. F. Perkins; 5, J. H. Perkins; 4, A. A. Sprague; 3, E. N. Wrightington; 2, C. Thomson; bow, G. D. Marvin; coxswain, R. G. Heidekuper. Substitutes: S. Hollister, C. C. Bull, B. H. Whitbeck, H. McDuffie. The average age of the crew is 22¼ years, and the average weight is 168 pounds.

Cornell will have these men in the boat: W. Bentley, stroke; W. J. Savage, No. 7; 6, C. M. Oddie; 5, M. M. Odell; 4, A. C. King; 3, S. W. Wakeman; E. B. Carter, No. 2; bow, W. C. Dalzell; T. L. Bailey, W. B. Stamford, substitutes; T. D. Colson, coxswain.

Yale's crew will be made up of bow, Rogers; 2, Whitney; 3, Campbell; 4, Greenway; 5, Capt. Bailey; 6, Allen; 7, Griswold; stroke, Langford.

Experts say the victory lies between Yale and Cornell, and of these two they give the preference to Cornell. The race will be rowed down stream and will be accompanied by an observation train of fifty-one cars capable of holding 4500 spectators.

Those looking for the best fishing grounds are reminded of Lake Tetonka, at Waterville, and Madison lake, on the Minneapolis & St. Louis railroad.

Wall-eyed pike, bass and crappies are found in great abundance at both of these lakes, which have not been fished out to the extent of some of the older and better known localities.

Excellent hotel accommodations, boats, bait, etc., on hand, and all charges are very reasonable.

NICOLLET ISLAND.

How Pierre Bottineau Lost it Playing Poker.

At one of the most interesting games of poker ever played in Minneapolis, Nicollet Island was put up in the jackpot by a man who thought he understood the game, but who found there were others who understood it better, says the Minneapolis Journal.

Fifty-five years ago Pierre Bottineau took up a claim on the spot where St. Paul now stands. A year later he traded it for a horse and cow, which he drove away into the wilderness, never dreaming that the land he had almost given away would in a few years be the site of a great city. For a small sum he purchased what is now the business part of Minneapolis, and put up a log cabin on a little mound in the center of Nicollet island.

Half a dozen of the old settlers, Bottineau among them, had a little poker club. One evening the stakes kept growing larger and larger, until every jackpot contained a small fortune. Mr. Bottineau had been losing heavily, but at last he was dealt a hand upon which he hoped to regain his losses and something beside. He was given four queens, and, drawing one card, secured an ace, leaving four kings as the only hand he could be beaten by. He thought he saw one of the players discard a king, and he considered his hand invincible, and played it accordingly. Soon all but Bottineau and the man opposite him had dropped their cards and retired to watch the game. The table was heaped with money and the personal belongings of its two men. The flickering light of the candle shone dimly on the flushed faces as they watched each other warily out of the corners of their eyes. At Bottineau's possessions lay on the table, and it was his bet. He looked at his hand carefully and then said that all he had left was Nicollet island, which he would bet against $200. The bet was called and Bottineau laid down his four queens with a smile of triumph. Amid a dead silence his opponent laid on the table, face up, four kings and a tray. It was so still you could have heard them breathe. Then Bottineau called for writing materials and made out a deed to the island. From that day he never touched a card or countenanced gambling in any form.

The World of Fashion.

For sea side wear the thin gauzy materials are not sufficient, as there are many days during the summer either too damp or too cool to allow of their being worn. Pique, duck, cotton canvas, and linens have to be the real reliance, and consequently there are many of these gowns now being turned out, says Harper's Bazar. Linen is the coolest of all, but unless most elaborately braided, is not so smart as pique or duck. The coat and skirt pattern is the most popular, but of course there are many different styles of coats. The Eton jacket is a favorite one, with broad collar and revers; the revers bound with dark blue or red, and trimmed with applique of heavy lace, are exceedingly effective. Then there is a short jacket resembling in length and cut the Eton, but made without collar and revers and trimmed at the throat; this style is generally heavily braided in white, a round braid being used as well as soutache. There are also box-coats made with fly fronts, and the never-to-be-suppressed blazer has taken a new lease of life; the revers on both these coats are faced with plain linen of blue, brown, red or white; but one style has no facing, and the revers have narrow braiding. The blazers are cut to fit well at the back, and are quite short; the sleeves are small coat sleeves, the fulness at the top being laid in pleats. The skirts are, as a rule, plain, unless with the all-over braided Eton jackets, when the skirt is trimmed with five rows of braid, put on just below the hips, and graduated up to the belt at the back.

GRADES OF LINEN.

There are many grades of linen used; the smooth is the coolest, and this year seems to be rather smarter than the crash. One style of linen gauze has the sailor blouse, and is most elaborately braided, but this gown is not to be generally recommended, as it 's very expensive, and not becoming to all figures.

Colored linen crash blazer suits in blue, red and green are made up and sold by the hundred. They only cost about $10, and are very smart, but they are not so cool as the linen.

Both white and colored pique gowns are fashionable, and some of the greens and the yellows are charming in tone. A pale green costume has a skirt of medium width, nearly circular shape, and trimmed with five rows of round white braid. The waist, tight-fitting in the back, has a blouse front, which is entirely covered with a pattern of braiding, the round white braid being used. Sleeves, coat-sleeve style, have five rows of the braid around the wrist. Belt and collar of white gros grain ribbon finish this costume, which is markedly noticeable for its severe simplicity. This same pattern is also effective in dark blue.

A white pique with a tiny dot of red is made with the skirt trimmed with a band of red, an Eton jacket with narrow revers of red and brown, with white dimity shirt-waist. This is a pretty and effective gown, and one that will launder well. Many of the white pique and duck gowns have the facings and trimmings of the different colored linens heavily braided, and the braiding shows to far more advantage on the linen than on the pique. On a short jacket, slashed in the back and at the side seams, a narrow cord of red is used most effectively.

COTTON CANVAS.

The cotton canvas gown looks so much like the wool ones it is quite difficult to tell them apart; they are of course much cooler and less expensive, although they are required to be lined throughout. There are many different colors to choose from, but the smartest are the greens. A gown of the new shade of green is lined with black, the skirt trimmed with rows of narrow black velvet ribbon; the waist has just a little fulness in the back, but the fulness is drawn in at the belt; the fronts are gathered on the shoulder, and hang in full blouse effect; straps of narrow black velvet ribbon finished with tiny steel buckles trim the fronts, and there is an inside front of embroidered linen. Turned-over collar of linen with cuffs to match, a bow of black satin ribbon at the throat, and a belt of bias black satin fastened with a steel buckle make the gown very smart. The sleeves are plain—small leg-of-mutton shape—with a puff at the top, and there are bands of the black velvet ribbon put on above the cuff. The material for this gown was 30 cents a yard, and the entire expense was very little. Black cotton canvas is not desirable, as it will surely rub, and there is considerable doubt as to whether all the colors will not fade; but gowns made of this material look smart enough for general wear, and are as cool, if not cooler than ginghams.

When duck is used for gowns, linen duck is generally preferred, as being cooler and notshrinking so much; the cotton duck, on the other hand, is very much cheaper, and wears quite as well; both are used, and make most useful and smart costumes. Severe tailor styles should always be followed for these gowns, for the material is too thick to be much trimmed or elaborately made up.

SUNSHADE SPLENDORS.

Many Styles and All of Them Pretty.

Of parasols to carry with summer gowns there are many styles from which to choose. Mousseline de soie, tulle and chiffon are again in vogue, and many yards can be used in puffings and ruchings, not to speak of the accordion plaited effects. Someone recently wrote an article which rather scathed the maid who would purchase one of the sunburst parasols, but women who possess them, and have been piding for the hot days that give excuse for carrying them, need have no fear, says the Chicago Chronicle. One person's dislike for these sunshades will have little weight against the opinions of the countless hundreds. Some of the oddest effects imaginable are shown by dealers. One which appeared in the window of a well-known firm last week caused countless bursts of admiration, and many of disapproval. The foundation of this particular parasol looked like a huge dish of Neapolitan ice cream, so many colors appeared. Of course it was made of silk, a semi-Roman stuff with stripes which blended into each other. Over the whole thing were ruffles of white chiffon, which were made not overfull.

The report comes from Paris that parasols with handles a yard long are the latest fad. If any woman possesses one of by-gone seasons let her dig it up, throw chiffon and flowers at it and it will be fashionable. It doesn't make much difference as to the foundation so long as you have loads of fluffiness on it. Tie two on the handles, too, or a big knot of flowers. It is correct, for Paris fashions say so. Parasols of vivid apple green are to be used, but it would be well not to carry such a parasol on a yachting cruise, for fear of an attack of mal de mer. Bright reds, with dashing black bows, are among the extremes, but with the whole suits of red they are decidedly chic.

PRICES OF ALL GRADES.

From the height of extravagance to the plainest and consequently most economical; the list of parasols runs. Stripes are run around, and most of the better sunshades are lined. These linings are gorgeous, sometimes even more so than the outside. Some are run with ruffles; others are shirred on small cords, which have edgings of tiny baby lace. Still another conceit is to have the lining of lace, which is decidedly effective. One of the prettiest parasols of the season, which is to be carried with a heliotrope gown, is of pale heliotrope mousseline and trimmed with bunches of violets. The white handle is set with amethysts, and is further decorated with a gigantic bow of white satin ribbon. A sunshade made with striped silk, the stripes fitted into one another in V shape, is another charming design. The black and white stripes are made additionally attractive by pearly bows of bright velvet ribbon.

HANDLES ARE GORGEOUS.

Handles of gold, studded with jewels, in the same order of ornamentation as the gold purses, can be had by those anxious to have luxurious and expensive things, but one can find charming and effective handles in wood. Russian enamel is also popular, strange and weird carvings being in favor. Veritable works of art some of these may be called. Silver, china, imitation jewels, ivory, wood, etc., all are used. Lace parasols are once more to be fashionable, and some exquisite pieces of lace are being brought out of treasure chests to do homage to this new order. White lace shows best over a color, but black over white is considered the quietest of all, and when further improved with knots of cerise velvet is suitable for wear with almost any costume.

Made by the National Cloak Co., West 23d St., New York.

Umbrellas for the feminine sex will be joys forever. Never before have such stylish designs been shown. One of the smartest is of green changeable taffeta, having trimmings of gold, which are carried out on the handle, ferrule, cover—tip and buttons—and all for $8. Red umbrellas have red enamel handle pieces, and blue, green and purple likewise. One new wood handle is called the Arabian vine, and is very novel. It is often seen tinted a trifle to match the silk of the umbrella. Other woods are called the Congo and Russian fir. All of these, as well as the dearly beloved plain white enameled stick, will be used.

FRILLS ON GOWNS.

This is a "frilly" season. Hardly a frock in the light wools and silks, not to speak of the muslins, that does not have ruffles or flounces on either bodice or skirt. And shot silk frills are set on cashmeres and grenadines with success. A grenadine in dull red, for instance, mounted on light blue taffeta, is befrilled with black and red shot taffeta. The bodice has very narrow ones running up and down, three on each side, with headings of bias folds of black satin, the slender vest between being of blue taffeta in lingerie tucks and pouched over a girdle of dull red silk.

Frills top the long sleeves and trim the skirt, three in each case from a bias fold of black, a second bias fold trimming the skirt about the knees. A final touch is given the frock by a cravat of light blue taffeta laid in simple folds about the choker and knotted with jabot-like ends on each side of the chin. Fishnet is very popular, both in silk and in woolen varieties. The latter may be called canvas or grenadine, or whatever you will, but it is fishnet in effect. Such stunning color combinations are got in this way, even some that are more than bazarre, when a blue is set over a lining of ecru, blue and gold plaided taffeta, or a black over a cerise and white checked silk. The array of checks of various colors presented by this last is enough to cause a headache.

SILK NET FOR FROCKS.

Silk net is used for whole frocks and trimmed lavishly with baby ribbon run through the meshes. A black net bodice over white satin is fetching, laid in encircling shingles, white baby ribbon drawn through each shingle and drawing it up into a ruffle. These shingles reach from the throat to just below the bust, the lowest one passing under the arms, the full net being bloused over a white satin girdle. The skirt is shirred thickly about the hips and the bottom is trimmed with a broad entredeaux of black guipure set over a cerise ribbon, the hem of the net below supported by a ruffle on the white foundation skirt. The small gigot sleeves are of black lace laid smoothly over cerise, the stock being of black with lace ends in a filmy four-in-hand.

FANCIES IN HAIRDRESSING.

Elaborateness has nothing to do with the coiffure of the summer girl. Effectiveness is the end to be achieved. Scarcely one of the new styles requires the aid of a trained coiffeuse, and any reasonably clever girl should be able to achieve the whole series in order to find which is most becoming. All styles of faces are suited by the hairdressing arrangements which the fashion leaders of the coming summer have already devised. One of the prettiest is the butterfly coiffure, recently invented by a prominent young society woman and promptly imitated by scores of sincere flatterers. In this the hair is loosely arranged, pompadour fashion, about the face, stray curls falling about the forehead and neck. At the middle of the back of the head the hair is caught in a simple twist, much resembling a Psyche knot, and a brilliant ornament representing a butterfly lends the distinguishing feature to the arrangement.

One of the newest Parisian fancies is a loop rising from a group of puffs at the crown of the head. When this coiffure is worn the front hair is fringed rather elaborately about the face and drawn closely to the top of the head. If the natural hair is not abundant, a few false coils are brought into requisition and the result is massive and architectural. For the woman with naturally curly hair there is the most bewitchingly pretty mode of arranging it. The hair is arranged with great semblance of naturalness and spontaneity in knot of curls at the back of the head, and the knot is surrounded by a band of ribbon, with upstanding bows at the top.

NEW BRAIDED COIFFURE.

More trimly conventional is the new braided coiffure, which gives a decided advantage to the woman with long, abundant hair, as none other can affect its solid simplicity. The entire back of the head is covered with the smooth plaits and the whole is surmounted by a high Spanish comb. An effective new coiffure has been devised to dispose of hair which would otherwise be too short to "do up." The ends are curled and caught at the back by a ribbon, the coiffure consisting of short curls and very large high bows. With the aid of pretty jeweled side combs this is made very girlish and becoming.

Another Frenchy affair is to wear the front hair in a short, pointed, slightly curled bang and to arrange the rest in a series of puffs at the back of the head. This is particularly becoming to fluffy hair. After having been tabooed for a number of years ribbon ornaments for the hair have again come into fashion. Gay colored fillets and bands are now in great demand, and are preferable to the gaudy and overexpensive jeweled ornamentation which has been made a fad.

WHEN TO BUY SHOES.

The early morning is no time for people to buy shoes. If it is remembered that activity and standing enlarge the feet, and that at the latter part of the day they are at their maximum size, there would not be so many complaints of shoes being tight, which at the time of fitting seemed perfectly comfortable. Shoes, like gloves, wear longer and better if kept for some time before using, and it is wise to keep several pairs for a few weeks before wearing them, and several pairs to alternate with. Never wear a shoe too small or that does not fit when you first put it on, for misery more complete than a shoe that pinches does not exist. A shoe should be washed every now and then with a wet rag and oiled over night. In this case a fresh application of blacking restores the brilliancy of the leather. A wet shoe must never be placed too near the fire, for it will become hard and stiff. The way to save a shoe that is wet from an early grave is to wipe it off and then apply an oil or cream by means of a piece of soft flannel or cloth. Wear old shoes in bad weather. Rubbers always spoil a new shoe. Patent leathers should never be handled until warmed, and they can be made smooth and bright by cream rubbed in by a cloth, or by the palm of the hand, which is better.

CARE OF SHOES.

If shoes are washed once a month with warm water and rubbed with oil, they will be soft and impervious to water. Those who suffer from aching feet should occasionally sponge the inside of their shoes with a moderately strong solution of ammonia. The shoes must be perfectly dry before they are put on. The way to clean kid boots which will not bear blacking, is to roll a strip of flannel four inches wide and a good yard long into a wad and sew it tightly. Dip it into a saucer filled with a few drops of olive oil and good black ink. Dab the shoe all over and, taking a fresh flannel, rub the shoe until it is dry. By this means the painful approach of purple and the dreaded white cracks will be delayed. A fine polish and one that will make the leather last longer than the ordinary blacking does, will be obtained if the following mixture is used: Two ounces of ivory black, three ounces of molasses and one pint of vinegar. Mix them together, and, having also stirred five drachms of sperm oil and six drachms of oil of vitriol, work all the ingredients together. Tan shoes should be washed once a week with saddle soap before applying polish, which can be made by mixing one ounce of muriatic acid, half ounce of alum, half ounce of gum arabic and half ounce of spirit of lavender into one-half pint of sour milk. Apply with a flannel and polish with a piece of fresh flannel.

COLLARS AND CUFFS.

Collars, cuffs, belts, ties and studs are more important to the wearer of a shirt waist than even that garment itself. This season she has an unusually large assortment from which to choose. The straight, standing throat band, which came in just at the close of the past season, is one of the most popular shapes. The cuffs that match should be fastened with the regulation button, not links, nor those of the dumbbell order. The next collar in popularity, and somewhat newer and more generally becoming, is called the 2-inch turnover. It consists of a high standing portion, with two turnover sections having square sections, opened back and front. This is to be worn with one of the many fashionable stocks, or with the most fashionable of all cravats at present, the new Windsor tie. This cravat is straight, not bias, as was the Windsor of time past. It is about three inches wide and two yards long. It is carried around the collar from the front to the back, where it is crossed, then brought to the front again and tied in a wide opened bow.

The effect is not as stiff as the stock. Other neck bands to be worn with this new cravat are those that flare around the throat. The most novel one, which is suited only to faces both pretty and fresh, is the Portia. This consists of a band of medium height, closed in front with two studs, and has an outstanding portion of three decided points. The cuffs to match are similar in shape, but instead of flaring lie neatly against the outside of the sleeve. The collars adapted for similar ties or those made up in stiff bows have in many instances turnover hemstitched points. An admirable example has two double points in front, while others have as many as eight or ten put on all around the neck band and failing just the least bit below its lower edge. The new high turnover collar, which should always be worn with a stiff bow, opens in the back as well as the front.

WASH SHIRTS FOR WHEELING.

Shirts being in such general request for morning wear and cycling, much care is bestowed on their cut and fit. The simplest are in colored zephyr and batiste generally, with several rows of tucks or three strips of embroidery down the front. Next come the plain grass lawn, also tucked, or those in open work grass lawn over pink, mauve or blue linen. Of course there are striped and floral cottons galore, but these are ignored by the damsel who respects her appearance. Prettiest of all are the washing silk shirts in delicate hair stripes of blue, pink, mauve and white, very plainly made with a box plait down the front and linen cuffs and collars. It is not everyone, however, who looks well in the severe linen collar, so it can easily be replaced by a small white cambric frill and a stock matching the colored stripe in the shirt. Dainty stocks and ties abound, either simple bows in silk or batiste, or a regular "choker," according to the wearer's fancy. If something more elaborate is wanted, there are muslin shirts in plenty, looking best with a little narrow butter lace for trimming. To insure a good fit the shirts should be put into a narrow band, for the basque under the shirt generally spoils the set.

Cycling corsets are just now attracting attention. Several public lecturers and speakers addressing bodies of women are loud in denouncing tight-lacing among cyclists. Corsets have been denounced for the cycle girl, and, if worn at all, the short bicycle corset has been recommended, the elastic on the hips permitting freedom of motion, etc.

NEW SAILOR HATS.

Wings and quills are the most chic trimmings used on sailor hats. Many of them are smothered in flowers and tulle. With the perfectly plain shirt waists perfectly plain sailor hats are still worn. They vary little from those of last season in their lines, except the crown is a trifle higher and the brim not so wide. A sailor hat of white Panama straw with a high, bell-shaped crown, trimmed with a twist of black velvet ribbon ending in a bow of long loops on the side, from the center of which rises two lace, broad black quills, is a very good style. But the smartest sailor has a straight crown of medium height, is decidedly oval in shape, being quite short in the back. There are folds of moire about the crown, and on one side and well toward the front are a succession of long wings, held in place by rosettes of moire.

MIDSUMMER GOWNS.

Ada Cone Describes Some Striking New Ones.

Light wool gowns are being made of veiling. This material has replaced the alpaca of last year and the crepon of the years before. It unites their advantages and is without their defects, says Ada Cox in her Paris letter to the Indianapolis News.

French fabrication, where alpaca is English, it is better adapted to the French dressmaker's hands. It is hard twisted and durable, and yet at the same it is thin and soft; it plaits admirably and it makes a good ground for appliques, both qualities demanded now by fashion. It is not pretentious, like crepon, nor bald and ugly, like alpaca, but its absorbent surface has a look of modesty and quiet elegance that permits a dress of refinement at small expense.

As to alpaca, it has disappeared with even more celerity than could have been foreseen. This is not saying that it is no longer worn, but that it is no longer a material of first choice and is scarcely offered for gowns, reserved mainly for the seashore wardrobes of small girls and boys. Related to the bouffant period nearly passed away, it was evident to the advised from the beginning that it could not hold the market, and those that took my advice last summer will not have a superfluous gown on their hands this year. With veiling the case is otherwise. It starts its career together with a style of dress to which it is related, and it is likely, therefore, to have a long run.

Veiling gowns are made with the skirt in plaits and the blouse drooping slightly over the belt all the way round. The plaits most used are of the radiating sort that grow wider toward the bottom. These are not properly plaits, but only crimps; they do not lie flat and do not take the width of material that plaits do. A special manner of making them was described in my last letter; an easier method giving a similar effect is to make a gored skirt wide enough to allow for plaiting, that has all the breadths gored on both edges alike, so that the seams, having no straight edges, but being all exactly the same, have all the same relation to the top. This method is particularly used for narrow width materials, including silks. Some striped silks made in this way, the stripes meeting to form Vs in the seams, have a curious and very agreeable effect. Accordion plaits are being used also. In this case the veiling, being wide, is plaited without seams, and the selvedge when decorative is left, without hem or facing, to finish the bottom. Some of the selvedges are of silk and two inches wide, of the same or of a contrasting color.

THE RUSSIAN BLOUSE.

A blouse in great favor falls straight from the armholes down, hanging a little over the belt, as a bolero would do. Sometimes there is a short basque below the belt if the design of the skirt permits it, fitted without wrinkles and decoratively slashed. When braided or otherwise decorated all over and fastened invisibly in the shoulder and under arm seams it looks like a piece of old armor, and the square jockeys that form an extension of the shoulders and are trimmed like the blouse add to this effect.

Black and gray are the colors most used. The liking this year for gray is perhaps explained by the rage last year for ecru. It is a swing back of the pendulum. The gray is very pale, almost white, and so is best suited for dress-up gowns, while the black goes for traveling and other utility wear.

In the way of gray veilings is one with the blouse made as above described and trimmed with appliques of narrow gray satin ribbon. The ribbon is put on in parallel bands running round, and in the middle of the front and the middle of the back the bands curve upward with a loop. Where the ribbon is curved it is drawn up in gathers by the cord of the edge and then sewed down flat and pressed. The jockeys and the slashes of the basque are rounded and are trimmed to correspond. The sleeves are corded from top to bottom in ridges running round, at intervals of an inch apart, and thus are made to form a contrast with the blouse and jockeys, a point to which the reader's attention is called, for it is characteristic of many gowns this year. The skirt is in sun plaits. The neckband round the back has a standing collar that flares; the front is left comfortably low and the fashion is to pass a scarf of tulle, or it might be of lace, round the neck inside the collar of the back, and to tie it in in a big bow under the chin. Ordinarily this bow is of white tulle, but colored tulle is worn also, and a great effect is made with a color to match the hat, as with a mauve hat and a mauve bow under the chin.

OF BLACK VEILING.

A black veiling has the blouse and jockeys all in cords running up and down an inch apart. The sleeves are left plain. The accordion-plaited skirt has a selvedge of striped yellow and white. Other black gowns have the blouse open down the front over a color as red or mauve, with jabot revers down each side faced with the same color. For these facings a novelty is made of overlapping ruffles of narrow ribbon, or narrow ruffles of doubled tulle that gives a broken surface of light and shade more agreeable than plain silk. In default of this, cover the facing with coarse black lace, or appliques of coarse black embroidery, or else stripe them across with narrow black braid.

To return a moment to alpaca, a gown of which very possibly every mother's daughter that reads this has hanging in her closet, these gowns are best modified by trimming them with colored taffeta ribbon. As the material is laid and poor in effect always try the beauty of a contrasting color. If the alpaca is gray bind the ruffles over the sleeve top with mauve, trim the skirt with similar ruffles or else with bands of the ribbon running round; open the blouse over a mauve taffeta front and add a mauve taffeta belt. If the alpaca is ecru, trim it with white ribbon; if light blue, with white or mauve ribbon; if navy blue, with navy blue velvet ribbon; if black—if black, the soundest advice would be that it will make an excellent lining. Black alpaca certainly harmonizes with something; it would suit to perfection the people who figure in Byron's dream of the famine. But if you have it and can not buy it by for a harmonious catastrophe, then trim it with velvet. Thus the eye will find on its surface a little repose.

TENDENCIES IN FASHION.

There is a constant effort to get away from the puff at the top of the sleeve and all reminiscence of the gigot form. Many sleeves are flat at the top, and they no longer look queer. A jockey extends out from the blouse, and satisfies the eye. Sometimes a ruffle or a rosette or a jabot of laces set under the jockey, with a novel and pretty effect. The jockey may be slashed through the middle to allow the lace to push through. At other times, instead of a jockey, there is a cluster of ruffles over the armhole. They are bound with velvet, with a wire in the velvet, and so are made to stand out with a little stiffness. But it should be added that these novelties are principally reserved for silk and cotton gowns, and that wool and other out-of-door gowns have the sleeve with the usual puff, made very small ad as simple as possible.

It loks now as though the old and the natural method of closing the bodice at the front of the neck would come back into fashion. The collar has run up so high that there is no longer a possibility and can scarcely be a pretense of a fastening at the back. The bow so long worn behind has disappeared, and little by little the front begins to be marked. Some of the dressmakers finish silk and cotton gowns with a bow at the front or the neck, or with an oxydized brooch to match the buckle at the belt. Linen collars with a tie in front have been worn for some time, and tulle bows have been spoken of above. It will soon be time to take out from the jewel boxes the breastpins that have lain idle so long. And this return to what was once a matter of course has all the effect of a brand new fangle.

As is usual in summer, ribbons have taken on a considerable importance. The greatest novelty is transparencies. On a foundation of colorless gauze are woven stripes of green, rose, blue satin, in widths from a hair line to a half inch, and when this ribbon is gathered or ruffled or looped in bows, the foundation disappears against the gown and the colored bands stay airily in place without any visible support. Gowns trimmed with such ribbons give new effects. Thus a black silk, the skirt ruffled with ribbon of green stripes, on a foundation of black tulle, and the blouse made entirely of the ribbon in stripes running up and down. If this ribbon is not at hand, it is very well imitated by sewing narrow ribbon on stripes of tulle.

These transparent ribbons are used equally to trim evening gowns of gauze and tulle. The idea is adapted also to cottons and foulards by trimming the ruffles of these materials with parallel rows of narrow ribbon. Thus a black foulard with a pattern in rose has ruffles striped with rose ribbon.

OLD ROSE AND ECRU.

Ecru batiste ribbons striped with satin in color are used to trim gowns of ecru batiste. The ribbon and the ground being alike, the stripes are thrown up in relief. The same ecru ribbon is used to trim gowns of silk, the silk being the same color as the stripes. Both these effects are novel and are extremely good. A model is an old rose taffeta, trimmed with ecru ribbon, striped with rose. Overlapping, knife-plaited ruffles of the ribbon trim the skirt, and there is a blouse of batiste, striped round with the ribbon under a bolero of the silk. The blouse falls low over the taffeta belt in front, and the belt rises high behind to pass under the bolero. A plaiting of the ribbon stands round the back of the neck, inside the high collar of the bolero.

Organdy ribbons with silk embroidered dots and a silk selvedge are provided to trim organdy gowns. These are best suited to young girls and children, in whose dress they play a very useful part.

Flounced skirts have made some headway and appear to have conquered their place. Perhaps one skirt in twenty that one sees is flounced. These are in reality only a variation of the shirred skirts of last summer; they are the same skirts divided into two or three parts. They are particularly used for veilings and foulards, but they are used also for cottons and taffetas. Veiling flounces are bordered with their own selvedges if ornamental, or with a band of ribbon; taffeta flounces may have an applique of lace near the edge; figured foulard does not need to be trimmed, but may have ribbon or velvet stripes near the edge. A model in foulard is divided into two flounces, each one shirred several inches deep, the shirrings of the upper one beginning at the belt. Dinner gowns of embroidered grenadine over colored silk are also flounced.

THE TURN OF LIFE

Is the most important period in a woman's existence. Owing to modern methods of living, not one woman in a thousand approaches this perfectly natural change without experiencing a train of very annoying and sometimes painful symptoms.

Those dreadful hot flashes, sending the blood surging to the heart until it seems ready to burst, and the faint feeling that follows, sometimes with chills, as if the heart were going to stop for good, are symptoms of a dangerous nervous trouble. Those hot flashes are just so many calls from nature for help. The nerves are crying out for assistance. The cry should be heeded in time. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was prepared to meet the needs of woman's system at this trying period of her life.

The Vegetable Compound is an invigorating strengthener of the female organism. It builds up the weakened nervous system and enables a woman to pass that grand change triumphantly.

It does not seem necessary for us to prove the honesty of our statements, but it is a pleasure to publish such grateful words as the following:

"I have been using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for some time during the change of life and it has been a saviour of life unto me. I can cheerfully recommend your medicine to all women, and I know it will give permanent relief. I would be glad to relate my experience to any sufferer."—Mrs. Della Watson, 524 West 5th St., Cincinnati, Ohio.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. HON. FRANK M. NYE

NERVOUS PROSTRATION.

Minneapolis, Jan. 14, 1896.

Gentlemen: The weary months of the Hayward trial involved a severe strain upon my nervous system, and after it was over I was threatened with protracted illness. I needed absolute rest and something to quiet my nervous system. Fortunately a friend recommended Dr. Charcot's Kola Nervine Tablets as a sure specific, and I gave them a trial. The effects were beyond my expectations, as I found almost immediate relief. My nervousness gave way to restful and soothing feelings, and I could sleep and eat far better. For nervous prostration I regard Kola Nervine Tablets as invaluable.

FRANK M. NYE.

Hon. Frank M. Nye is too well known to need further mention. He is one of the distinguished lawyers of the country, a brother of the late Bill Nye. His experience with Dr. Charcot's Kola Nervine Tablets is that of thousands. The remedy is famous for its cures where other medicines had failed. A trial will convince you of its wonderful merit.

Several thousand outside members are expected to attend. There will be three or more sessions daily, covering concerts, church services, musical expositions, business meetings and excursions. The program provides for oratorio performances, with eminent soloists, large chorus and orchestra, concerts of prize works by American composers, orchestral and chamber music concerts, piano and organ recitals, conferences on matters of musical education and banquets. The oratorio performance will be "The Messiah," sung by a picked chorus of 1500 voices.

public school music and popular classes in sight singing. Professor Gaw of Vassar college is chairman of the committee which will control the session devoted to music in the college and university, and Charles H. Morse, organist of Plymouth church, is chairman of the committee in charge of the session devoted to methods and results in public schools. There is to be a large and varied display of musical instruments of all sorts, new devices and inventions, etc. The idea of having a music exhibit in connection with the convention is a new one in this country, and has met with the approval of all the leading manufacturers.

For the prize concerts the M. T. N. A. offers the sum of $500, divided into twelve prizes, ranging from $25 to $75, for the best cantata, unaccompanied part song, string quartet, organ composition, piano composition, violin composition and song. SINGERS

Famous Drinking Horns of the German Societies to Be Exhibited.

Philadelphia, June 19.—The eighteenth Saengerfest of the Northeastern Saengerbund, which takes place in this city all next week, promises to be the greatest thus far held in the United States. On this occasion the full strength of the selected chorus of the entire National Singers' league will be tested for the first time, as this is the first festival offering an auditorium with sufficient stage room to accommodate this army of singers. In order to do this, the Philadelphia United Singers have erected a monster concert hall, which will have a stage ample for 6000 singers and an orchestra of 250 instrumentalists. The saengerfest is held every three years.

The building covers an entire square on Cumberland and York and Eleventh and Twelfth streets, and the dimensions in the interior are 250x470 feet, and 67 feet high. The auditorium will contain 9000 reserved seats, and its total seating capacity is over 16,000. The listed entries for the federation chorus to be heard at each concert numbers 5950. Among the clubs to contest for the various prizes are thirty-three singing societies of New York city, twenty-seven of Brooklyn, twenty of Newark, N. J., eleven of Baltimore, seven of Jersey City and Hoboken, N. J., six of Camden, N. J., three of Troy, N. Y., and two of Washington, D. C., and individual societies of Washington, D. C.; Wilmington, Del.; Elizabeth, N. J.; Buffalo, N. Y.; Egg Harbor, N. J.; Lancaster, Pa.; Bethlehem, Pa.; New Haven, Conn.; Pittsburg, Pa.; Richmond, Va.; Orange Valley, N. J.; Norristown, Pa.; Atlantic City, N. J.; Chester, Pa.; Reading, Pa.; Long Island City, N.Y.; Wilkesbarre,Pa.; Albany, N. Y.; Allentown, Pa.; New Brunswick, N. J.; Perth Amboy, N. J.; Baltimore, Md.; Brooklyn, N. Y.; Cleveland, Ohio; Trenton, N. J.; Scranton, Boston, Providence, Hartford, Syracuse and Rochester, N. Y. The famous Arion and Liederkranz societies of New York, will sing together for the first time at a Saengerfest.

To these will be added the chorus of the United Singers of Philadelphia, comprising thirty-four societies, who are excluded from the contests by the constitution of the league, which prohibits clubs of the city in which the festival is held from competing. The principal feature of the parade of singing societies which will be part of the out door program, will be the carrying in the procession of all the famous drinking horns belonging to the German signing societies of the country.

ARNO LEONHARDT.
President of the National Saengerfest.

The first national saengerfest given in the United States was given in Philadelphia in 1850. Its mass chorus consisted of but 500 singers. This year there will be rendered seventeen distinct mass choruses by 5000 male singers, and in addition there will be school children's choruses of 3000 voices and the mixed choruses of several thousand singers. For a number of years subsequently, the saengerfests were held every year. The second national saengerfest took place in 1851 in Baltimore, the third in 1852, in New York, the fourth in 1853 in Philadelphia, the fifth in 1854, in Baltimore, the sixth in 1855, in New York, the seventh in 1857, in Philadelphia, the eighth in 1859 in Baltimore, the ninth in 1865, in New York, the tenth in 1867, in Philadelphia, the eleventh in 1869, in Baltimore, the twelfth in 1871, in New York, in the thirteenth in 1882, in Philadelphia, the fourteenth in 1885, in Brooklyn, the fifteenth in 1888, in Baltimore, the sixteenth in 1891, in Newark, and the seventeenth in 1894, in New York.

President McKinley has been invited and if he comes he will make an address on one of the days of the fest. Monday the program calls for reception of delegates in the morning and a grand artists' and children's chorus concert in the afternoon. In the evening the United Singers will give a reception concert to the visiting societies. It is at this concert that the president is expected to speak, as well as the governor of Pennsylvania and the mayor of Philadelphia. Tuesday morning there will be a general rehearsal of mass choruses, orchestra, etc. In the afternoon prize singing will be conducted for the first and third classes. In the evening will be held the first grand festival concert.

Wednesday morning the delegates of the N. E. S. bund hold a business meeting and later will come general rehearsals. Prize singing for the second class and city federations will take place in the afternoon, and the second festival concert will come off in the evening. The great street parade will occur Thursday, terminating at a park where a monster picnic and summer night's festival will fill out the day. During the afternoon the prizes will be awarded.

The three musical directors of the saengerfest will be Samuel L. Herrmann, Carl Samans and Eugene Klee. The executive committee is composed of Arno Leonhardt, president; Henry Koch, first vice president; L. Drexler, second vice president; Carl Kuhl, general secretary; George Schumacher, financial secretary; Frederick Lindhorst, treasurer.

A bust of Mozart will be given to the city organization carrying off the highest honors. The bust and pedestal cost $6000. The singers of Philadelphia won the Schubert bust at the Newark saengerfest in 1891. A spectacular part of the musical program will be the closing selection of the concerts on Wednesday. Then "The Star Spangled Banner" will be sung by the mammoth chorus of 6000 male voices and the orchestra, and the audience will join in the singing. The effect of the last number will undoubtedly be of such a character as to astound the auditon. It is estimated that more than 20,000 will join in this chorus and make it the greatest chorus that has ever sung the national hymn.

ELASTIC STARCH has been before the people of the United States for twenty-three years, and is without doubt the greatest starch invention of the Nineteenth Century. Last year its sales reached the unprecedented number of twenty million packages. It is prepared upon scientific principles by men who have had years of practical experience in fancy laundrying. It makes ironing easy, restores old summer dresses to their natural whiteness, and imparts to linen a beautiful and lasting finish. It is the only starch manufactured that is perfectly harmless, containing neither arsenic, alum or any other substance injurious to linen, and can be used even for a baby powder.

the Cleveland company. An anomalous feature of this litigation is that the two corporations engaged in it are partners in the ownership of the Lake Superior & Ishpeming railroad, an ore carrying line running from Ishpeming to North Marquette.

The absurd statement that the Bessemer steamship vessels, commonly known as the Rockefeller boats, are carrying all the ore this season is met with the counter claim from Cleveland that the vessels in question are incapable of carrying more than 8 per cent of the total ore transported this season on the great lakes. As two wrongs do not make a right, it may be stated that the Bessemer line comprises fourteen modern steel steamers of large capacity, built especially for carrying ore and coal, with four other vessels purchased to add to the first-named boats, which were recently built for J. D. Rockefeller. The annual capacity of the fleet may be approximated at 1,500,000 tons, or, under exceptionally favorable circumstances, 10 per cent in addition to this amount. The minimum figures of the 1897 ore output may be placed respectively at 10,000,000 and 12,000,000 tons, so that the Rockefeller fleet will care for 12 to 15 per cent of the ore that is forwarded from the mines this season.

The Minnesota Iron company, operating on both Minnesota ranges, is displaying exceptional activity, having made large sales, and will put out approximately 3,000,000 tons this year if the present plans are successfully carried out. To mine this ore requires a force of a little less than 1000 men. Fifteen years ago all the iron mines of Lake Superior produced about as much ore as the Minnesota company alone will mine this season, and to get it out of the ground required the labor of about 6000 persons at the various mines then active on the Marquette and Menominee ranges. Fifteen years ago wages were much better than at present, though not as high in the period from 1885 to 1890, which was the most prosperous ever known for the iron ranges. With cheaper labor and one-sixth as much of it required in mining the ore, it is not difficult to understand why iron and steel are selling cheaper than in 1882.

The Lake Superior Iron company closed down its section 21 mine on Tuesday of this week, having been unsuccessful in placing the grade of ore produced from that property, and throwing 125 men out of work. The section 21 mine is capable of large production of a fair quality non-Bessemer ore and can be worked cheaply on a large scale. Further suspensions are possible, but not probable, among the Ishpeming mines.

The Norrie, having made considerable sales of ore, has resumed working double shifts, its 900 employes having been working on half time for several weeks. From present indications it is doubtful whether the Norrie mine will be able to dispose of its suplus left over from last year's allotment, and its 1897 allotment of 768,000 tons as well, though now shipping 3000 tons daily direct from the mine, and will soon set steam shovels at work loading ore from its enormous stockpiles.

JOHN G. WOOLLEY.

Great Temperance Orator to Speak in Duluth.

John G. Woolley, who is to speak at the young people's temperance rally at the First M. E. church on Sunday, June 27, excites more than usual interest in Duluth, because for years he was a resident of this state. He is a native of Ohio. Early in the '60s his father moved to Illinois, and at the early age of 17 John held the position of head master in the public graded school, to which position his bright talents had made him eligible, despite his youth. In 1871 he graduated from the Ohio Wesleyan college, after which he went abroad. On his return he entered the law department of the university of Michigan, and when admitted to the bar he the chief justice pronounced his examination the most brilliant he had ever known.

After five years' practice in Illinois he removed to Minneapolis, where he was recognized as one of the best attorneys of the state, and shortly after he became state's attorney. He is said to have conducted the largest commercial case ever tried in the Northwest, the issue of which involved $2,000,000, and to have received the highest fee ever paid an attorney in the Northwest—$500 in gold for a five minutes' plea.

During all these years, however, the liquor habit was growing on him and blighting his prospects. It finally reduced him to dishonor, poverty and shame. All his native brilliancy, his splendid education and his enviable reputation as a phenomenally successful practitioner availed him nothing. He was a moral, social and financial wreck. After most heroic struggles and many failures he completely reformed.

He regained much of his old self, and the way was opened to him into most lucrative fields in his profession. A perfectly responsible legal firm in New York city offered him $25,000 per year to take charge of certain large corporate interests which were in their hands, and Gen. Fiske and his associates also offered him most tempting inducements to ally himself with them. Mr. Woolley declined these propositions, however, and denied himself the comforts of his home that he might become an agitator, with no assured salary and no possibility of an income such as had been offered to him, and devote his life to the salvation of others who have fallen into the toils of the drink demon, and to the destruction of the liquor traffic. On the platform he stands unrivalled. At the great conventions of the young people and of the churches and temperance organizations he is the favorite orator.

BAYHA & TIBBETTS,
UNDERTAKERS.

GOSSIP OF ★ ★ THE STAGE.

Mr. Gillette is quite enthusiastic at the way he and his piece, "Secret Service," have been received by the London public.

"English audiences," he says, "seem remarkably appreciative, considering that "Secret Service" is a very American play. They are much more demonstrative in their approval than American audiences, often standing up and cheering after an exciting act, and calling us before the curtain over and over again. This is, of course, very encouraging to a company of actors who, like us, are far from their native land. We are made to feel at once that we are among friends.

"The few points that they do not understand are more than made up for by their greater enthusiasm. One of the points which always brought down the house at home, and which, as was to be expected, did not bring down the house here, is where, when I am told that I am to go to prison 'until the Confederate army enters Washington,' and I reply:

"'General, you are sentencing me to an eternal imprisonment.'

"Our public at home naturally saw the point, while the Londoners, quite as naturally, did not, at least at first, although they are now beginning to 'catch on' to it."

The vaudeville houses in New York are so pushed for novelties that one of them has engaged two crack pool players to pocket 200 balls a night for a week.

In recognition of his share in making "The Whirl of the Town" successful, Dan Daly has been presented with a gold match box by Hugh Morton and Gustav Kerker, the author and the composer. It is unusual for the writer of words and music to acknowledge that an actor is a factor in the success of their work, so the tribute is unusual. Hugh Morton is, however, an unusual kind of a man. His real name is C. M. S. McClellan and he was at one time the editor of Town Topics, writing almost everything that appeared in its columns. The assumption of Hugh Morton as a name to sign to his work dates from the failure of a really beautiful comic opera, which he wrote for Pauline Hall, who is the wife of his brother. He then vowed never again to write for the stage, so "Hugh Morton" now does that part of his literary work.

Frau Materna, whom all Wagnerian devotees hold in reverence as the chief interpreter of the master's greatest lyrical conceptions, bids a last farewell to public life. Two years ago she claimed her modest pension from the opera house at Vienna, intending for the future to sing in chamber concerts only and to employ her talents in teaching. She has now retired even from this limited sphere, resolved on passing her remaining years in absolute tranquility. The lovers of music and the journalists of the Kaiserstadt gave a brilliant dinner of adieu to the gifted artist, who wound up her speech acknowledging the compliment by reading with much emotion the letters which were written to her by Wagner when she created the role of Brunhilde at Bayreuth. These she described as the most precious and most glorious of her long career upon the stage.

Hoyt's "A Milk White Flag" will go out next season under the management of John W. Dunne, with Mary Marble as the infant daughter set prominently forth. Miss Marble was last season the soubrette of the Eddy Foy company and is very clever, besides being a member of the famous Jefferson family.

DeKoven and Smith have ready for next season a comic opera called "The Highwayman." Its scenes are laid in Scotland, as were those of "Rob Roy," which next season passes into the hands of the Bostonians. It was submitted to them when first completed, but Barnabee and McDonald rejected it.

The Iago of "Othello," now being played by Wilson Barrett at the Lyric theater, London, is Franklin McLeary, a native of Canada and formerly master of modern languages at the Woodstock Collegiate institute. While there he made the acquaintance of James E. Murdoch, whom he accompanied to Boston, where he attended the school of oratory and afterward adopted the stage as a profession. He attributes to Murdoch's instruction his excellence in the delivery of blank verse, which is attracting much favorable comment from the London critics.

The new comedy by George H. Broadhurst, who wrote "The Wrong Mr. Wright," is called by the seemingly happy title of "What Happened to Jones," and George C. Boniface, Jr., is to play Jones.

In Mr. Gillette's "acting edition" of "Secret Service" the author's directions cover fully as much space as the dialogue, in one act more. The directions especially attempt to put check on all emotional manifestations. For instance, Mrs. Varney is allowed to stroke her son's hair only once in the scene when Wilfred enlists in the Confederate army. At the final parting of mother and son these are the injunctions: "No unfolding of arms, no outbreak of emotion." Every movement is indicated for each player. These are Caroline's directions, as Wilfred leaves her sight: "Move a little, eyes still down, starting slowly; not with emphasized slowness, merely not with your usual animated alacrity."

Out of eight sopranos at Covent garden this season five are of American birth. These are Mmes. Eames, De Lussan, Saville, Engel and Strong. If Mme. Nordica appears the number will, of course, be increased—but she will not.

The news about Richard Mansfield this week is that John E. Warner is to be his manager next season and that he has secured the American rights of "Chand D'Habits." He will himself be the Chand D'Habits (old clothes man) of the comedy, which is understood to be pantomimic in character.

Courtney Thorpe, who was with Rosina Vokes in the long ago, when that sprightly actress was adding to the joy of this nation, has made a hit of such large proportions in London as Thorwald Helmer in Ibsen's "The Doll's House" that one critic speaks of him as "a handsome young fellow." Thorpe has a false left arm, which could not be distinguished from the real thing if he did not gesticulate more with it than with its genuine companion on the right side.

Still more honors for Sir Henry Irving—from Germany this time. The duke of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha and the duke of Saxe-Meiningen have united in conferring upon the leading English actor the komthur (commander) cross of the Ernestine Order of the Second Class. This, as far as we know, is the first instance of a foreign order being bestowed upon an English player as such.

There will be a general hurrah from Eastport to Coronado beach at the announcement that "The Old Homestead" is to be on the road once more next season. If, after G. W. and Uncle Tom, there be a third man eligible for first place in his countrymen's affections, that man is Denman Thompson, the original Uncle Josh. He is setting about an elaborate production of the old piece, and it is safe to predict that Pilgrim sons the country over will again turn out to give him his old-time reception.

Actually a new idea—a vivid, daring, once-in-a-century idea—has been dramatized with great success by Francis Powers at the Alcazar theater, San Francisco. "The First Born" is a tragedy of transplanted Mongolian life. It represents the Chinaman in America, not seen by the sneering eyes of the sheltering country, but by the inscrutable slant eyes of the race who have thus far been treated as caricatures on humanity's cartoon. This is absolutely the first time that the Chinese have been treated as men and women first, and as Chinese second, in the English tongue. The drama is one of primitive loves and jealousies, and is treated with such grim realism that a San Francisco paper describes the smell of the East that pervades the theater as "part prayer stick, part dash of sandalwood, and whiff of sewer," which is almost as real as Dickens' description of "one old man who smelt of forty-nine other old men." Powers is also an actor and plays a small part himself.

Joseph Jefferson has a new story. In his talk at the annual meeting of the Actors' Fund he said that he had often observed how strong an affection actors seemed to have for the country. He mentioned a number that had bought farms as soon as they were able. "I felt this same desire to go to the country to live," Mr. Jefferson added, "and I have two farms now that I bought. One is in New Jersey and the other is in Florida, and both of them are for sale now. I went to look at the one in New Jersey before I bought it, and the owner, who seemed very anxious to get rid of it showed me over the place. I turned up the earth in one spot to look at the soil and it was filled with gravel. The owner saw the expression on my face. 'Gravel,' he said, 'is the best thing in the world for securing good drainage.' 'Yes,' I said, 'but isn't it better to have the gravel further down—not quite so near the surface?' 'Oh, that's all right,' the owner said. 'It goes down far enough. It would make no difference how deeply you dug. You never strike anything but gravel anywhere.'"

It has been announced with some show of authority that both Mme. Melba and Mme. Nordica are to lead the list of the women singers who will take part in Col. Mapleson's performances in London. For the first time in several years Mme. Melba is not singing at Covent Garden and it is well-known that she refused to go there because the new syndicate which is managing the theater refused to pay her the sum she demanded for her services.

Oscar Wilde quits jail to find his wife divorced, his children gone, his friends disappeared, his reputation irretrievably ruined, his income stopped, his future apparently a blank, says Hillary Bell in the New York Press. The unparalleled reverses of the past two years would have carried any other man to death or insanity. Certain folk in London, hopeful of his reformation, have subscribed the sum of $2500 to give him a new start in life, and his wife has agreed to allow her part of her income. He is now hard at work, and it is an indication of his lack of shame that he is going to write under his own name. But write he will, and well, too. Before long London and New York will be sitting at a Wilde play and applauding it lustily. Although dead in the law, Oscar Wilde is very much alive. The fact that his first opinions expressed after leaving jail were considered of enough importance to be cabled all over the world is a proof that society admires mentality as much as it condemns his morals. Jones, Pinero and Grundy are in the twilight of their powers. Oscar Wilde is the coming man in the English drama.

The new king of the dudes, J. Waldere Kirk, may be upon the stage.

In Paris Anna Held is playing the title role in "La Poupee," an opera that will be produced by Hammerstein in New York shortly.

Mathilde Cottrelly may be the manager of a theater in Philadelphia next season. German plays will be the attraction.

Since Alice Atherton was here before the stage door chappies of that day have presumably left the turf and taken unto themselves wives and convex waistcoats, says Jessie Wood in the New York World. But another generation has arisen with just as much taste, and Alice Atherton, who is now Mrs. Willie Edouin (in her day known as the most perfectly formed woman on the stage), will find herself on her visit next season before men and women of just as fair judgment as those of a generation ago. She has been engaged by

A MATTER OF INTEREST TO TRAVELERS.

Tourists, emigrants and mariners find that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is a medicinal safeguard against unhealthful influences, upon which they can implicitly rely, since it prevents the effects that an unhealthy climate, vitiated atmosphere, unaccustomed or unwholesome diet, bad water, or other conditions unfavorable to health, would otherwise produce. On long voyages, or journeys by land in latitudes adjacent to the equator, it is especially useful as a preventive of the febrile complaints and disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels, which are apt to attack natives of the temperate zones sojourning or travelling in such regions, and is an excellent protection against the influence of extreme cold, sudden changes of temperature, exposure to damp or extreme fatigue. It not only prevents intermittent and remittent fever, and other diseases of a malarial type, but eradicates them, a fact which has been notorious for years past in North and South America, Mexico, the West Indies, Australia and other countries.

GATHERING OF THE GRAY.

Reunion of Confederate Veterans at Nashville.

Nashville, Tenn., June 19.—The biggest gathering of Confederate veterans since the war will be held in this city next Tuesday at the annual reunion of the United Confederate Veterans' association. Fully 20,000 of the old soldiers are expected for the double pleasure of meeting again and viewing the Tennessee centennial exposition,now in progress. During the past year the growth of the association has been marked, and it now includes more than 900 camps, while 150 newly formed camps are awaiting admission.

The camps are divided among the different states as follows: Northeast Texas division, 81; West Texas division, 55; Southwest Texas division, 33; Southeast Texas division, 31; Northwest Texas division, 17; total Texas, 247; Alabama, 89; South Carolina, 81; Missouri, 71; Mississippi, 63; Arkansas, 59; Georgia, 58; Louisiana, 51; Kentucky, 39; Tennessee, 34; Virginia, 34; Florida, 30; North Carolina, 29; Indian territory, 12; West Virginia, 11; Oklahoma, 6; Maryland, 6; New Mexico, 3; Illinois, 2; Montana, 2; Indiana, 1; District of Columbia, 1, and California, 1.

The reunion will last three days, beginning Tuesday, June 22. One of the most important matters to be considered is the location of the proposed battle abbey for the preservation of Southern relics of historical interest of the war. Charles Broadway Rouss, of New York, has offered $100,000 for the erection and establishment of the abbey, providing the veterans raise a like amount. Every one of the Southern states is anxious to secure the abbey, and particular efforts are being made by Georgia, Virginia and Tennessee in behalf of the respective cities of Atlanta, Richmond and Nashville.

Another matter is the proposed change of the title of the association from United Confederate Veterans to Confederate Southern army or to the Confederate Survivors' association. The subject of perfecting the best method for completing the plans and funds for the $200,000 monument to Jefferson Davis in Richmond will also be discussed. In various parts of the country lie the bones of unknown Confederate dead, and the various camps will be instructed to search the records and identify the graves and furnish the particulars to friends and relatives of the fallen.

A parade will take place on the last day of the reunion, and many of the veterans will wear the old gray uniforms which they wore in war times. Some of the camps will also appear with muskets patterned after those carried during the four years' struggle. The noted Confederate leaders who will be in the parade at the head of their respective state divisions will include Gen. John B. Gordon, of Georgia, commander-in-chief of the association; Gen. Simon B. Buckner, of Kentucky; Gen. W. L. Cabell, of Texas; Gen. W. H. Jackson, of Tennessee; Gen. Bradley Johnson, of Maryland; Gen. Ellison Capers, of South Carolina; Gen. Stephen D. Lee, of Mississippi; Gen. Clement A. Evans, of Georgia, and Gen. Peter Turney, of Tennessee.

One of the picturesque features of the Confederate reunions is the group of Southern girls who act as sponsors of the different states. These girls represent the highest type of Southern beauty, and are chosen for their personal charms quite as much as for their social eminence and the relation of their family to the lost cause. Each sponsor is attended by two maids of honor, and, with three girls from each of the Southern states, the group is an imposing one.

Wednesday the business meeting of the convention will be held in the Tabernacle, beginning at 10 o'clock in the morning and lasting all day. In the evening a Confederate concert will be given at the Tabernacle, after which the Confederate Reunion club will give a reception to the visiting sponsors and maids of honor. Thursday the great parade will take place. Gen. W. H. Jackson will be chief marshal. His escort will be the famous Savannah Hussars. In front of each state division will ride the sponsors and the maids of honor, carrying the coat of arms of their state. Among the sponsors will be Miss Claude P. Middlebrooks, of Georgia; Miss Annie Shelby, daughter of Gen. Shelby, of Missouri; Miss Sarah D. Coffee, of Tennessee; Miss Marie Russell, of Virginia, and Miss Sidney Scott Lewis, of Kentucky. The maids of honor include such charming types of feminine loveliness as Miss Elizabeth Hinsdale, of Raleigh, N. C.; Miss Margaret Sealy, Galveston; Miss Bessie Ross, of Texas; Miss Kate Roulhoc, Sheffield; Miss Goldthwaite, Montgomery; Miss Bernly, Mobile; Miss Culpeuna R. Musgrove, Jaspar, Ala.; Miss Lizzie Hancock, Ellerslee, Va.; Miss Sallie H. Huger, Charleston, S. C.; Miss Clara Wimberly, Adams Park, Ga.; Miss Fannie Moore, Helena, Ark.

An echo of the war spirit of 1861 was heard in the resolutions adopted several weeks ago by Camp Pelham, of Anniston, Ala., against extending a welcome to G. A. R. members, as has been the custom for some years. These resolutions caused a great deal of talk, and, while condemned by certain distinguished Confederates such as Gen. Longstreet, will undoubtedly furnish a subject for lively discussion at the convention.

OHIO REPUBLICANS.

State Convention Full of Picturesque Possibilities.

Toledo, O., June 19.—The Republican committee on fixing the date of the state convention will be held here next Tuesday and Wednesday. The debate in the meeting of the state Republican convention gave an idea of the bitterness that is sure to crop out in the convention between the Hanna and Foraker factions. The Hanna men wanted an early convention and the Foraker men a late one. The Hanna faction won by one majority. The debate was at times exceedingly bitter. Gen. Grosvenor, who was Hanna's chief representative, declared that the Republicans had nothing to fear from a long campaign. If the election last fall had come a month earlier, he said, Bryan would have been elected. To this a Foraker man retorted that if it had come a month later Bryan would have been elected. Gen. Grosvenor was unanimously elected temporary chairman of the convention.

It was freely charged at the convention that the administration was taking a hand in the contest in favor of Hanna. Hugh Bulkeley, of Cleveland, said he was surprised to see so many candidates for fourth-class postmasters in the committee. Committeeman Rose, of Marietta, scored the party for having redeemed none of its promises made before election. It is expected that much the same feeling will find expression in the convention, although the Hanna men are looked to see that none of it finds its way into the resolutions.

A ticket will be nominated for the following offices: Governor, lieutenant governor, state treasurer, attorney general commissioner of public schools, judge of supreme court, member of board of public works. The convention is to have 1052 delegates. It will be the largest state convention in the history of the party in Ohio. Governor Bushnell will be the leading candidate for the gubernatorial nomination, and is conceded to be the mainstay of the Foraker side. Whether Hanna will fight him to get a whack at Senator Joseph Benson Foraker is a question, but there is a general belief that the party cannot afford to "swap horses crossing a stream," and to refuse a renomination to Bushnell would be tantamount to a condemnation of the state administration and would give the Democratic party great ammunition in the campaign. The legislative fight will be one of the most important phases of the election. On the constitution of the next legislature depends the choice for United States senator to succeed Senator Hanna, who was appointed last winter to fill out Senator Sherman's term. It is said the threat is made by the Foraker faction that if their man Bushnell is "thrown down," they will see that the legislature is Democratic, thus ending Hanna's chances for election.

A Sufferer Relieved.

A Tale of Suffering and Subsequent Relief.

From the Press, Columbus, Ohio.

One of the many persons in Columbus, Ohio, who have been benefited by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People is Miss Jerusha McKinney, of 50 South Centre Street. Miss McKinney is well and favorably known, especially in educational circles, as she has been for a number of years a faithful and progressive school teacher.

For some time she has been very ill and the sufferings and tortures endured by her for months have been unusually severe.

The tale of her sufferings and the subsequent relief and final cure which she derived from the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, aroused considerable agitation among her many friends and others.

A reporter was detailed to obtain a reliable account of this marvelous case, and when he called he found Miss McKinney at her comfortable and cozy home where she cheerfully complied with his request. She said:

"The first indication that I had that anything was radically wrong with me was about three years ago. I suffered the most excruciating pains in different parts of my body and was almost crazed at times. My sleep was disturbed by horrible dreams and I had begun to waste away to almost a shadow. To add to my other afflictions the malady assumed a catarrhal turn and I was soon a victim to that horrible as well as disgusting disease. I consulted the family physician who gave me some kind of a nostrum and I was foolish enough to imagine that it benefited me. I followed the advice of the physicians but noticed no perceptible improvement in my condition and was about to despair of ever becoming a strong and well woman again.

"Some of my lady friends were calling on me one afternoon and before them I happened to mention my troubles, when one of them recommended that I try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I had never had any faith in medicines of that kind and paid but little attention to the suggestion. It was not long after this, however, that I again heard the pills highly recommended by several persons, and then it was that I decided to give them a trial and purchased one box of the pills. I soon began to notice an improvement in my condition and before the whole box had been taken my health was so much improved that I was about ready to begin singing the praises of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People.

"I was not yet thoroughly convinced and decided to wait a while before growing enthusiastic over the results, and had begun on the second box before I was confident that I had at last found a medicine to meet the requirements of my case. I discontinued my calls to the physicians and have left them alone since. I am now as well and strong as I ever was in my life; am entirely free from all pains and never felt better in my life. I eat regularly and sleep like a babe. No more are my slumbers haunted with fearful dreams and when I retire at night I go to sleep at once. I regard Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People as my salvation, and would recommend them to all ladies troubled as I was. The pills are more than what is claimed for them and anyone giving them a trial will soon come to the same conclusion regarding their merits that I have."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People contain all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are sold in boxes (never in loose form by the dozen or hundred) at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of all druggists or directly by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. DEFAULT HAVING BEEN MADE IN the payment of the sum of seven hundred thirty-six and 81-100 dollars which is claimed to be due and is actually due at the date of this notice on a certain mortgage duly executed and delivered by Ludwig Rusch, a widower, mortgagor, to Wilhelm Brown, of Duluth, Minnesota, mortgagee, said mortgage bearing date the 21st day of April, 1891, and duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds in and for the county of St. Louis and state of Minnesota, on the 21st day of April, 1894, at 10 o'clock and 45 minutes in the forenoon of that day, in Book 105 of mortgages, on page 148, which mortgage was executed to secure the payment of one certain promissory note of even date with said mortgage in the sum of six hundred dollars, payable in three years after the date of said note and mortgage with interest on said note at the rate of seven per cent per annum from date until paid, which interest was payable and due semi-annually, said note being signed by said mortgagor as maker and payable to the order of and delivered to said mortgagee; and said mortgage containing the provision that the said mortgagor should keep the property described in said mortgage unceasingly insured in some responsible stock insurance company for at least the sum of one thousand dollars, payable, in case of loss, to the said mortgagee or his assigns, and further providing that in case said mortgagor should not effect such insurance or fail to pay the premium therefor, then and in that case said mortgagee or his assigns, should be empowered to effect such insurance and pay all such unpaid premiums, and all sums of money paid for such purpose should be tacked and impressed as an additional lien upon said premises, and should be secured by and be collectible as a part of said mortgage and bear interest at the same rate as the indebtedness secured by said mortgage,

And, whereas, it was further understood and agreed by the terms of said mortgage that said mortgagor should pay all taxes and assessments that should for any purpose be payable, assessed or imposed upon said premises or any part thereof, before the same should become delinquent. And that upon his failure to do so, the said Wilhelm Brown, said mortgagee, was authorized to pay such taxes or assessments, and any and all sum or sums so paid should be tacked and impressed as an additional lien upon said premises, and should be secured by and collectible as a part of said mortgage and bear interest at the same rate as the indebtedness secured by the said mortgage and the note thereby secured, and

Whereas, the said mortgagor having failed to effect insurance as required by the terms of said mortgage, and the said Wilhelm Brown, mortgagee, having heretofore been required to effect the same, and having heretofore, on, to-wit, the 1st day of May, 1897, paid and expended as the premium for the insurance so effected the sum of five dollars, and said mortgagor has repaid said mortgagee no part of said sum so expended for insurance, and,

Whereas, the said mortgagor having failed to pay and cancel the taxes on said premises in said mortgage described for the years, 1893, 1894 and 1895, and the same having become delinquent, the said mortgagee thereafter, and on the 1st day of May, 1897, did pay the taxes on said premises for said years 1893, 1894 and 1895, which with penalties and costs attached to said taxes because of such non-payment amounted to the sum of one hundred nine and 6-100 dollars, and no action or proceeding, at law or otherwise, having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof, or the said amount of taxes and insurance so paid.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided the said mortgage will be foreclosed and the premises described in and covered and conveyed by said mortgage, to-wit: Lot number eighty-six, East Seventh street, Duluth Proper, First Division, according to the recorded plat thereof, on file and of record in the office of the register of deeds in and for St. Louis County, Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances thereunto belonging, will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest and the taxes and insurance heretofore paid by said mortgagee as hereinbefore set forth, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, which sale will be made by the sheriff of said St. Louis County, Minnesota, at the front entrance door to the county court house, in the city of Duluth, in St. Louis County, Minnesota, on the 5th day of July, A. D. 1897, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the date of sale as provided by law.

NATIONAL SAENGERFEST.

Many German Vocalists Are Flocking Into Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, June 21.—From early morning until late this afternoon the German singing societies that will take part in the eighteenth national saengerfest, which will be formally opened here tonight have been arriving in this city. The singers who are to contest for prizes are not the only visitors, but the wives and families, and many of the passive members of the various societies accompany the competitors. As fast as the visitors arrive they are escorted to their respective quarters which had been secured for them by the committee reception.

The first to arrive was the Harrugard Liederkranz, of New Haven, Conn., with fifty singers. Then came the Orpheus, of Pittsburg, 200 strong; the Williamsburg saengerbund, of Brooklyn united singers with 600 voices; the Virginias, of Richmond; Washington saengerbund, New York Maennerchor, Arions, of New York; Liederkranz, of New York, who came over in eighteen special Pullmans; Germania Maennerchor, of Baltimore, and others.

Besides those already mentioned there were scores of other illustrious singing societies, nearly every section of the country being represented. The city is in holiday attire. The display of flags and bunting is not confined to the German clubs and residences, but fluttering flags are seen on all sides, the importance of the event being recognized by citizens generally. The saengerfest will be formally opened at 8 o'clock tonight with a grand reception concert given by the united singers of Philadelphia.

London, June 21.—The queen is now in London. An immense crowd that gathered near Paddington station in the early hours of this morning waited with stolid patience. The early hours were enlivened by the pealing of bells, and in the morning breeze everywhere floated the royal standard. The first point of interest in the day's proceedings was Windsor, where, by 6 o'clock, the short route leading from the castle to the Great Western railway station, was lined by a mass of people gathered to see the queen start. Flags and flowers were everywhere, and the order of the day, "God Save the Queen," appeared on houses and banners without end. The statue of the queen, near the castle, was decorated and gorgeously canopied in the Renaissance style, and tall Venetian masts, with their fluttering pennons, lined both sides of the route.

Queen Victoria left Windsor castle at noon, by the sovereign's entrance, facing the long walk, and traversed part of the high Thames streets of Windsor on her way to the railroad station. Her majesty's carriage was drawn by a pair of grays, with postilions and outriders. The queen was accompanied by her eldest daughter, ex-Empress Frederick of Germany, and by Princess Christian of Schleswig-Holstein, and Princess Henry of Battenberg, who occupied another carriage preceding that of her majesty. The queen, on arriving at the railroad station of Windsor, walked through the private waiting room, leaning on the arm of an Indian attendant, and by a sloping gangway, entered her saloon carriage.

The queen's train, used for the first time today, was drawn up close to the entrance door. The magnificent engine, "Queen Empress," beautifully painted and decked out with gold-leaf, carried the royal arms emblazoned in gold and colors in front, and royal heraldic devices over the splashboards of the driving wheels. The train was composed of six carriages, built on the American corridor system, and connected by the rubber covered passages so common in the states. The queen's carriage, which is fifty-four feet long, occupied the center of the train. It weighs twenty-seven tons, and is mounted on two bogie trucks swung under double-hung suspension guides. Like all the carriages, it is painted in Great Western colors, chocolate with cream panels. The headings are in gold, and the door handles are emblazoned with the royal arms. The running gear is encased in mahogany, with a carved lion's head at each corner, above which is a gilded imperial crown. The interior is divided into three compartments—the center the queen's room, and at one end an open saloon for her majesty's maids, at the other an open saloon for the gentlemen in attendance.

The queen's room has plate glass bow windows and a domed roof, the ceiling of which is white enamel with hand-painted borders. The curtains and upholstering are in white silk. The door handles, curtain-poles and incandescent lamps are silver-plated. The woodwork is mahogany, and the outer doors are carved with the royal arms. Near the windows is the queen's favorite swinging arm chair and sofa. A small folding writing table, on which is an ivory electric bell, completes the furniture of the apartment. Sliding glass doors communicate with the two saloons. That for the gentlemen is furnished in white morocco, that for the dresses in white silk rep. Two other saloons, each fifty-nine feet long, equally rich in decoration and furniture form the suite, a corridor carriage for the officials of the company, and two vans, fitted with all cooking stoves, complete the train. The start for London was made at 12:10 p. m., and for almost the entire distance the train passed between scattered groups of loyal people. Every station of the Great Western, between Windsor and Paddington, had been decorated. The railway employes everywhere stood at the salute, while the platforms were crowded with cheering people.

Paddington was reached at 12:30, the weather being fine. Here the immense terminus had been transformed on the "up side" into a hall of resplendent crimson, garlanded with fringe gold, fragrant with the odors of countless blossoms, walled on either side by parterres of people. The state carriages from Buckingham palace were at the end of the covered way. As soon as the queen had taken her seat the Life Guards drew up in front and rear, as a roar of cheers proclaimed to waiting thousands beyond that she had arrived. Before starting a loyal address was presented by the Rev. Walter Abbott, vicar of Paddington and chairman of the vestry, who was accompanied by the two members of parliament for Paddington.

The queen graciously received the address presented to her by the vicar of Paddington, and handed back to him a written reply, expressing gratification that the generous instincts of her people towards the poor, aged, sick and young had produced such remarkable results. The late prince consort, like herself, the reply of her majesty continued, manifested great interest in charitable institutions, and her children shared that feeling, which formed not the weakest tie between herself and her people.

Over the entire distance, excepting the portion of Great park, every house in the background of the picture was superbly decorated, flags, flowers, banners and festoons, and endless mottoes on the order of the day: "God Save the Queen." At Edgeware road a handsome triumphal arch was erected by the Paddington authorities, and another had been put up by the Marylebone vestry at the end of the Edgeware road.

Throughout, the route was tenanted by an immense assemblage. Every window had its occupants, every roof its sightseers, every available space in the street and square, sidewalk and gardens, the paths and chairs and even the trees and railings of the parks are black with loyal humanity. The queen drove slowly to gratify her people. Her face everywhere loosened the voice of the multitude. In unrestrained strength the rich and tumultuous expression of loyalty and affection broke forth. Volleys of cheers rose clearly above the constant roar of acclamation; hats were thrown in the air; handkerchiefs waved in welcome, everyone vied with his neighbor in active demonstration of loyalty and delight.

Nearing Piccadilly the queen saw for the first time the conspicuous evidence of what had been prepared for the morrow. The grim gray walls of Apsley house were gone in a profusion of decoration; the grand stand, at the side and front of it, garlanded with flowers, flags and mottoes, stood crowded with some of the queen's nobility, no less exuberant in their welcome than that from the packed windows and roof of St. George's hospital and the stands in front, full of the queen's commoners. Through Burton's gate the queen passed on to the garden entrance of Buckingham palace, always between the living lanes of her subjects, always the object of endless ohmage and salvoes of cheers which continued until the gates had shut the queen from view.

Next to Paddington, the crowds selected Buckingham palace as the most interesting point to view the proceedings, as the gathering of the envoys and their suites and the Indian officers, invited to luncheon, to be afterwards presented, had already begun at noon and many were the speculations relative to the identity of the bejewelled and ordered officers as they drove up in royal carriages or smart royal hansoms hired for the occasion. In the latter case the drivers wore cockades and had badges on their left arms, velvet pads with the letters "V. R." embroidered in gold. The police were kept busy attending to fainting women, but the crowds were in the best of humor and chaffed everyone. A number of Americans armed with kodaks, had stationed themselves opposite the palace gate and somebody in the crowd shouted "Now, Yanks, three cheers for your mother," raising a roar of good-humored laughter.

On the right of the palace gateway, the duchess of Connaught and her children and some of the Battenbergs awaited the arrival of her majesty. A few minutes before 1 o'clock a hoarse roar of cheering in the distance announced the approach of the queen. The cheering grew in strength until it amounted to a deafening storm as the sovereign reached the vicinity. The queen was dressed in black and bowed slowly to the right and to the left to the greetings of the subjects. She looked pleased, did not wear spectacles and appeared no more tired than any lady of her age might be expected to be. The Empress Fredrick who sat beside her majesty was also dressed in black. Princesses Christian and Battenberg sat opposite the queen and the empress. The Princess Christian wore a lilac costume and the Princess Henry of Battenberg was dressed in black. Two Scotch gillies rode behind the carriage.

As soon as it entered the palace the carriage passed direct to the quadrangle, Princess Henry of Battenberg waving her hands as she passed, to her children, who, with the duchess of Connaught, saluted her majesty. The Guards then paraded in the palace yard and the duke of Connaught, who followed soon afterwards was warmly cheered. On entering the palace yard the duke saluted the duchess and the children and then was saluted by the Life Guards as they drove off. The queen, after she entered the palace proceeded to her private apartments for luncheon and the royal and other guests had lunch in the state supper room. Levee costume was worn and the suites, who were also in levee dress, had luncheon in the garden and in the vestibule.

In spite of the enormous crowds in London, seats to view the procession tomorrow are almost begging. Many of the city syndicates today are distributing seats gratis among their disappointed share-holders. The capacity of the omnibus companies, which yesterday trebled the rate of their fares, has also had a set back and they in many cases today, reduced prices to the regular rates.

Owing to the recent explosion of bombs in Paris and the arrival in England of many foreigners known to be connected with anarchy, the Scotland Yard authorities have been very active. The whole route of the procession tomorrow has been closely examined and especially the bridges and the stands in their vicinity.

Socialist and anarchist leaflets treating the jubilee in threatening terms have been issued. One of them describes the queen's reign as "sixty years of cowardly wars for gold on ignorant and defenseless savages," and as "an increase of the wealth of Great Britain, but not for the mass of working people whose condition is worse than sixty years ago." The leaflet quoted also says: "The appalling mass of lunatics sent to the asylums yearly have been driven mad by the stress of the difficulties of life during Victoria's glorious reign."

WILL GET A CONSULSHIP.

Friend of Senator Nelson to Go to Germany.

Washington, June 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The report comes from the White House that H. Van Baumback, county auditor for Douglas county, will shortly be appointed to a good consulship in Germany. He is strongly endorsed by Senator Nelson, but has no backing from any other member of the delegation.

COLLINS IS RECOVERING.

St. Louis, June 19.—C. D. Collins, the prominent Southerner, who was badly beaten and robbed at Meramac Highlands last week, is slowly recovering. His physician thinks that Collins' complete recovery is a matter of but a few weeks. In an extended interview, Mr. Collins reiterated his charges against Martin Ensley, his supposed friend, who, he declares, assaulted and robbed him of $6000. An effort is being made to get Martin Ensley out on bail.

WOOLEN SCHEDULE

Senate Finance Committee Practically Reaches Agreement on Wool.

WAITING FOR QUAY

Republicans and Democrats Were Apart on Matches and Fuses.

Washington, June 21.—The senate finance committee has practically reached a conclusion on the wool schedule of the tariff bill but it will not be officially announced till tomorrow. It was on this account the wool schedule was passed over when reached in the senate today. The delay is due to the absence from the city of Senator Quay, who is opposed to the increase proposed on carpet wools which, it is believed, would be injurious to the interests of the numerous carpet manufacturers in Pennsylvania. Mr. Quay is expected to return tomorrow and to make a protest, but it now looks as though the rates agreed upon will be reported. He may, however, secure some modification which will insure the use of wools imported as carpet wools purely for the purpose.

The complaint of the wool men is that much of the wool imported as carpet wool is used for other purposes. The carpet makers admit the injustice of this practice, but say that restrictions can be provided, in the way of bonds or otherwise, which will obviate the difficulties and at the same time allow the wool required in their business to come in at a rate which will be satisfactory to them.

Following are the rates which the finance committee has indicated a willingness to grant: First-class, 10 cents per pound; second-class, 11 cents; third-class, if worth over 10 cents per pound, 7 cents; if worth less than 10 cents, 4 cents. These rates are not entirely satisfactory to the advocates of high wool tariffs, but there is reason to believe that they will be accepted with but little, if any protest. The rate is 1 cent less on both first-class and second-class wools than that allowed in the house bill, but the provision made for third-class wool is so much more satisfactory than that made by the house, that they are inclined to congratulate themselves upon the result of their agitation and to leave the matter where these figures place it. It is now believed that a caucus on the wool subject will be unnecessary, on account of the prospect of a general acceptance of the committee's proposition.

The sundries schedule was taken up in the senate and good progress made. Coal was passed over. On matches a fight sprung up when Mr. Allison moved an amendment, making the rate 8 cents per gross box and in place of the senate rate of 20 per cent. The Democrats opposed the change as in the interest of the match trusts, but the Republicans denied this and carried the amendment. Another fight arose over the duty of 10 per cent on safety fuses, Messrs. Pettigrew and Teller fighting it as a tax on the miner for the benefit of a trust. A tie vote resulted and Mr. Pettigrew lost his amendment making them free.

At 2 o'clock the senate reached the free list of the tariff bill.

PERKINS APPOINTED.

Again Superintendent of the Railway Mail Service For This District.

Washington, June 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—An order was issued at the postoffice department today for the reinstatement of Capt. Norman Perkins, of St. Paul, as superintendent of the railway mail service for the Tenth division, in place of Superintendent Barclay. The latter is reduced to traveling assistant superintendent, with headquarters at St. Paul, at a salary of $1600. The change is to go into effect July 1.

THE DUTY ON GRANITE.

Effort Will Be Made to Largely Increase It.

Washington, June 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Duluth Northwestern delegations are well satisfied with the result of their efforts to secure recognition for the products of their section in the tariff bill. Their principal objection to the bill as it now stands is on the granite schedule. They assert that Scottish and Swedish manufacturers can lay down dressed granite in the Northwest at a profit cheaper than the Minnesota manufacturers can produce it at home without a profit.

The Ortonville Granite company claims that it will reuire an ad valorem duty of 345 per cent on dressed granite to equalize the differential between the Scottish and Swedish wages and the rate paid in the United States. The house bill fixes a duty of 40 per cent and the senate bill a rate of 65 per cent.

Representative Tawney will present these facts before the senate finance committee and endeavor to secure a higher rate of duty on this product and also on kaolin.

BUILDINGS ALL GONE

City of Tehuantepec, Mexico, Blotted Out By Severe Earthquake Shocks.

METEOR IN KANSAS

Wichita and Other Places See a Mysterious Visitor In the Evening Sky.

Oaxaca, Mex., June 21.—The continued earthquake shocks and heavy rains have seriously interrupted telegraph communication with the isthmus of Tehuantepec during the last three days.

Advices were received here last night that the official commission sent to the city of Tehuantepec by President Diaz to investigate the reported formation of a volcano and the extent of the earthquake damages, has arrived at its destination and found the condition of affairs much worse than it had expected.

The town of Tehuantepec contained about 1500 inhabitants and is completely destroyed, so far as houses and buildings are concerned, not one remaining standing. There were a number of substantial and costly buildings in the town. The people are living in tents and in the open air on the outskirts of the place.

The earthquake shocks continue to be felt at frequent intervals and the people are terrified. The heavy smoke and other indications of an active volcano to the west of Tehuantepec are no longer visible.

A NOISY KANSAS METEOR.

Big as a Barrel and Seen By Many People.

Wichita, Kas., June 21.—With a flash that lighted up the city, a ball of white fire shot across the sky here at 10:50 o'clock last night. The flash lasted about one and three-quarter minutes. It seemed about the size and shape of a barrel and bright, stiff blazes flared out from the sides and followed it. The streets became light as day.

In the northwest the thing burned to a bright coal and dropped on down to the horizon, after which was heard a sharp, heavy report that rumbled like distant thunder for fully a minute. George Daisy, who was driving two miles northwest of town, was severely shocked and his horse was knocked to the ground. People ran out on the streets in excited crowds.

Mulvane reports that the shock was distinctly felt there and that the light appeared about as it did here. The night operator at Burnton, northwest of here and between this place and Hutchinson, reports that the shock there was severe and seemed to come from the south. Nothing could be learned at Hutchinson. At Garden Plain, west of here, the chock came from the north.

Hon. E. F. Ware, who is here, Dr. J. H. Johnson, and the local weather observer, Maj. E. Wing, are of the opinion that a great aerolite has fallen northwest of town.

WALL STREET IS TREMBLING.

Bucket Shop Keepers Talk of Retaliatory Arrests.

New York, June 21.—Wall street is promised a fresh sensation growing out of the war on the bucket shops and alleged discretionary pool houses. A new point is to be raised by way of retaliation for recent raids, which may involve men whose names have been as synonyms for probity and honesty. The charge which it is intended to make against them involves rather a technical violation of the law sanctioned by custom, than any suggestion of unfair dealing. Nevertheless, it is not improbable that they may be found liable to punishment under the statutes and be forced to undergo some disagreeable experiences in court.

It is the intention of the friends of Andrew P. Morrison and his associates to apply to the grand jury for indictments against the members of several prominent Wall street firms on the charge of gambling. The basis of the accusation, it is said, will be the business of dealing in "puts" and "calls," which, in the opinion of those who purpose to make the complaint, is a violation of the anti-gambling law.

Mr. Morrison's office was raided by the police last Wednesday, and Mr. Morrison himself was arrested on an indictment granted by the grand jury. He is a member of the consolidated exchange, in good standing, and his friends declare that his arrest was an outrage inspired by certain members of the stock exchange who had suffered from his competition. They say that if the law is to be enforced it must be enforced impartially. They are confident that they will get the indictments. They say the grand jury cannot refuse them on the evidence.

The application to the grand jury will be made by O'Hare and Dinnean, Mr. Morrison's counsel. A. Pearce, a partner in the business, says that half a dozen of the most prominent firms in the street, all of whom he says deal in options, will be presented to the grand jury for indictments.

He had as patrons, in addition to Gen. Grant, Mrs. Abraham Lincoln, her two sons, Robert and "Tod;" Joel Parker, war governor of New Jersey; Samuel J. The wise doctor when he is called in to attend a pain-tortured woman, knows that she could avoid the agony that she endures by taking proper care of her womanly self. No woman can long retain her general health who neglects the health of the organs that constitute her womanhood. She may suffer only locally for a time. Eventually the nerves are ruined by the constant wear and tear of pain. They cease to impart the necessary nervous activity to the various organs of the body. A general and serious break-down follows.

A wonderful medicine for weak, nervous women, who through local troubles are threatened with a general break-down is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It acts directly on the delicate organs that are distinctly feminine. It restores them to vigor and health. It allays inflammation and soothes pain. It gives the tortured nerves a rest and permits them to resume their natural function of directing a healthy activity of all the organs. It prepares a woman for wifehood and motherhood. It makes baby's advent easy and almost painless and insures the child's health. It is the best woman's medicine and more than 60,000 women have said so over their signatures. Druggists sell it.

"I cannot say too much for Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription," writes Miss Clara Baird, of Bridgeport, Montgomery Co., Pa. "I feel it my duty to say to all women who may be suffering from any weakness or disease of the distinctly feminine organism that it is the best medicine on earth for them to use. I cannot praise it too highly for the good it did me. If any one doubts this give them my name and address."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are a sure, safe, speedy and permanent cure for constipation. They never gripe. One is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic.

by John D. Rockefeller, were inhumanly treated, badly housed and poorly fed, is entirely untrue. As a matter of fact, it is declared that the miners at Monte Cristo are better paid, better fed and better housed than any other company in the Northwest.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

The famous Pickwick hotel, cafe and annex in New Orleans was destroyed by fire yesterday. The loss is said to be $160,000.

San Francisco had two severe earthquake shocks yesterday about noon. Clocks were stopped, lamps were broken, but no heavy damage was done.

At Philadelphia the monument erected to the memory of Harry Wright, the "father of baseball," was unveiled in West Laurel hill cemetery yesterday afternoon in the presence of a large crowd of people.

Henry Thomas, a negro excursionist from Birmingham, Ala., fired into a party of Gadsden negroes at Gadsden, just as the train was leaving, and wounded Will Garner, a local cabman. The fire was returned and Thomas was shot in the back and neck and stabbed twice and will die. Whisky was the cause of the trouble.

At Newport News, Va., a cyclone yesterday wrecked several houses and did much damage to growing crops. Considerable damage also was done to the small craft lying at anchor in the James river.

Austin Smith, aged 18, was killed yesterday while playing baseball at Saratoga, N. Y. Smith was at bat when Edward McGinnis pitched a curved ball, which struck Smith under the ear, causing concussion of the brain and almost instantly killing him.

THE SIDEWALK COLLAPSED.

A Number of Chicago People Were Badly Injured.

Chicago, June 21.—A decayed sidewalk collapsed in front of 545 South Union street last evening, carrying with it 100 persons, most of whom were children. They were precipitated ten feet to the ground below and into a pool of stagnant water under the sidewalk. A wild scramble for safety followed, during which quite a number of persons were seriously injured.

Annie Herrmann, aged 16, trampled on and internally injured, was taken to the hospital. It is thought she will not recover. The crowd had been attracted to the spot by the arrest of J. Igo on suspicion of theft.

THEY DENY MEMBERSHIP.

Washington, June 21.—Circulars of an organization styling itself the National Co-Operative Society of American Art, naming Commissioner of Education Harris as president and Apostolic Delegate Martinelli, Chief Justice Fuller, Gen. Miles, ex-Presidents Cleveland and Harrison, the present cabinet, and well known financiers as advisory directors, have given some annoyance to Commissioner Harris. Mr. Cleveland and others. Commissioner Harris says the use of his name is entirely unwarranted; that he specifically refused the invitation to be identified with the enterprise and that to his knowledge the use of the names of a number of others was unauthorized. Ex-President Cleveland, through Editor Gilder of the Century, has written Mr. Harris repudiating the use of his name.

A MYSTERIOUS TRAGEDY.

Waltham, Mass., June 21.—Malone I. Wilson, of this city, shot and dangerously wounded Maggie Hines, a domestic employed in the boarding house of Mrs. Woulton, Wilson's mother, today. Wilson then went into his own room and placing the revolver at his head discharged the weapon, killing himself instantly. Wilson was about 37 years of age. Miss Hines was about 33. The motive for the deed is not known.

BROUGHT YELLOW FEVER.

New York, June 21.—The steamer Finance arrived from Colon today with three cases of yellow fever aboard, three others having died en route. Both passengers and crew have been quarantined. Health Officer Doty says there is no danger of a spread of the disease.

PURCHASE OF CUBA

Ambitious Scheme Said to Be a Pet Project of the Sugar Trust.

WOULD BRING PEACE

Spain's Finances Would Be Improved and the Island Be Benefited.

Washington, June 21.—A story is current that the sugar trust has evolved or accepted an ambitious suggestion that Cuba is substantially for sale, and might as well become a sugar plantation for a gigantic corporation supported by the sympathy and the interest of our country. In other words that we might have a West India company, as England has an East India company and a Hudson Bay company, each of which aided vastly in the extension of the British empire. It is said that the Spanish minister to the United States cabled recently to Madrid reports of the disposition of our government to decline to interfere by force, and also to support Cuban autonomy, and that this cable prevented the recall of Weyler when a change in the Spanish ministry was in the air, to send to Cuba Campos, who closed the ten years' war with cash in hand, and might do the same job now by the same means much cheaper than Spain can keep 200,000 soldiers in the field indefinitely.

Col. J. McCook is the gentleman credited with the imagination to conceive the capture of Cuba with cash as a measure of peace. This, as Col. McCook understands it, is merely a matter of business. The idea runs this way: Spain has already charged to Cuba a debt of $400,000,000, and under Spanish dominion the island can never yield a revenue amounting to one-half the interest. Cuba without a port or town, or ship, has a national debt, and yet there are many who think the credit of the Cuban government should be as good, if not better than that of Spain.

Suppose there was a company commanding money sufficient to take up the whole Cuban debt with the war debt of Spain charged to Cuba, at its market value—say $50,000,000—and $50,000,000 for the Spanish rights in Cuba, and the Cuban rights in the forests and mines, and in settling American and Cuban claims against Spain—and the United States would guarantee bonds to the amount of $100,000,000 at 3 per cent and supervise and administer the customs of the ports of Cuba for the payment of the interest, the government holding the bonds as security, would not liberty and peace and prosperity for the island be accomplished at a cost of $3,000,000 a year taken out of the Cuban custom houses?

Incidentally it would seem that there must be an immense profit to the managers of what might be called the Cuban trust. The advantage to the Spaniards would be peace and the extinction of some hundred millions of hopeless debt, for the creditors of Spain would be glad to scale her obligations, and she could have a large sum in hand, instead of a Cuba of blood and ashes on her hands. The gain to Cuba would be government by a corporation limited, instead of a crown absolute, and there could be a contract guaranteeing civil liberty to the people on United States models. There would be money for roads and schools and sanitary measures, and there would be, as a necessity of internal administration, such measure of self-government as would maintain order through a police force, with American and Cuban volunteers to deal with brigandage.

The municipal problems could be dealt with by the municipalities, and adjustments made for the administration of justice and payment of worthy pensioners. With the introduction of American energies and the security of capital made plain by the visible presence of security, Cuba would yield wealth "beyond the dream of avarice." The revenue in the days of reciprocity with us was in excess of $30,000,000, and it would rise far beyond that figure within a few years of this magnificent business management.

MILLIONAIRE BLAIR DYING.

New Jersey's Greatest Philanthropist Near His Life's Close.

New York, June 21.—John I. Blair, New Jersey's greatest and most generous millionaire, is dying. For months he has been in delicate health and the end is not far off. A trained nurse is in constant attendance upon him. He spends most of his time in bed. But he has "well days," as he good naturedly calls them, when he is able to sit for a short time in his chair on the porch of his house at Blairstown, N. J. These are followed by dangerous sinking spells, during which it is very difficult to keep him from dying. Mr. Blair will be 95 years old Aug. 22 if death does not claim him before. He kept up his interest in business so long as his strength held out.

Mr. Blair is said to be worth $60,000,000. He was born in 1802 on a farm near Belvidere, N. J. He began his business career by working in a store and then operating one. He went into banking, then cotton manufacturing, and the produce business, and in everything he engaged he seemed to be successful. He bought Scranton coal stock, was connected with the Delaware & Lackawanna, and was associated with Oakes Ames in the Union Pacific. At one time he was president of twenty railroads and improvement companies in the West.

In 1866 his friends of New Jersey persuaded him to run for governor. He spent about $60,000 in the campaign and was defeated. He has given more than $500,000 to Blair college. He gave $300,000 each to Princeton and Lafayette. He rebuilt Grinnell college, Iowa. When it was blown down by a cyclone. Hundreds of other institutions have been helped by him. Mr. Blair is a widower with two living children. His daughter married Charles Scribner, head of the publishing house.

SOME FAST RAILROADING.

Pennsylvania Company Makes a New Time Record.

Pittsburg, Pa., June 21.—From Chicago to Pittsburg in nine hours and twenty-five minutes by rail is the latest time, beating the record of the Pennsylvania company. It was accomplished without any flourish of trumpets or advance announcement and was not even known by any of the employes at terminal points. The run was made last Friday and is considered one of the best ever made on a railroad. No preparations had been made for the trip and the engines used were those in everyday service of the company.

The train consisted of three private cars of the officials of the road. James McCrea, vice president, and Joseph Wood, general manager, headed a party of officials who occupied the cars. The train left Chicago in the afternoon and made the run to Crestline, a distance of 279 miles, in five hours and twenty-five minutes. From Lima to Crestline, a distance of seventy-eight miles, the run was made in exactly seventy-eight minutes, or a mile a minute. From Crestline the run to Pittsburg, a distance of 189 miles, was made in three hours and fifty-eight minutes. The train arrived at Pittsburg Union station at 9:13 Friday evening. Old railroad men say it was the best run ever made over the line and the best time between Pittsburg and Chicago.

DENVER BICYCLE HAPPENINGS.

New Road Record---What Sanger Will Soon Attempt.

Denver, Col., June 21.—C. H. Anderson has lowered the road record for one hundred miles from 6:31 to 6:30.30. The former record was made by A. L. Hachenberger last year. Anderson rode to Evans and return making the ride actually 102 miles.

Walter Sanger, who defeated C. B. Hachenberger in a 5-mile bicycle race Saturday has accepted W. W. Hamilton's challenge for a race for any distance from five to twenty-five miles. The race will probably be for five miles and will take place in July. Sanger will make a trial for the unpaced 1-mile record before leaving Denver. He has agreed to ride against the fast pacing horse Albatross that has made some short distance records without a rider or driver.

ANTHROPOLOGICAL BEQUESTS.

Chicago Students Give Their Brains to Science.

Chicago, June 21.—Pupils of Professor Frederick Starr, forming the Autopsy society of the University of Chicago, have entered into a compact to give their brains to science when they die. Each member will also write out a history of his mental processes from the beginning to as near the end of his life as possible, and give a statement of the vices and virtues which have influenced him.

Students of anthropology have found much difficulty in obtaining the cerebral tissue of sound-winded persons. The brains of criminals and insane persons are easily procurable and interesting data has been gathered as to what a person's brain should not be. But to learn the appearance of the brain of a normal person has been hard. By examination of the brains of these students with the accompanying written chart, it is believed that the manifold shades of character may be located in their respective parts of the brain.

THE CAPITAL GOSSIP.

Washington, June 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Senator Hansbrough of North Dakota thinks he has solved the problem of disposing of our surplus production of cereals and at the same time relieving this country from the nightmare of cheap Oriental labor. He has introduced an apparently innocent kind of bill, the title of which states that its object is to popularize American food products in China, Japan and the Indies. The method by which American food products are to be introduced is left somewhat to the imagination so far as the text of the bill is concerned. The real animus of the measure will be revealed in the committee report, if the bill is ever reported to the senate. In brief, its object is to overturn the present frugal methods of the Orientals and inculcate among them habits of extravagance and good living. As long as an Oriental laborer is content with three bowls of rice a day, with a seasoning of fish once a week and a moiety of meat once a month, there will not be much of a market in China or Japan for American wheat and corn. Should these people contract the habit, however, of eating hot rolls for breakfast and sliced bread and butter for lunch and dinner, with a fair sprinkling of ham sandwiches and hominy, the exportation of American cereals across the Pacific would increase prodigiously. Incidentally, the natives could no longer afford to work for 25 cents a day, and with the improvement in the standard of living would come a demand for higher wages. The bill introduced by the North Dakota senator is somewhat indefinite in its provisions as to how this era of extravagance is to be brought about in the Orient, but that is evidently considered a matter of detail which can be attended to later. Such a plan, if it could be carried out, would undoubtedly be of great benefit to the wheat and corn growing sections of this country, but the chances are that it will be as difficult to change the habits of living of the Orientals as it has been to convert them to Christianity.

* * *

The vigorous denials of certain politicians in Minnesota that there is any lack of harmony or concert in the Minnesota congressional delegation are amusing to even the members themselves. J. M. Diment, candidate for collector of customs at St. Paul, visited Washington last week to look over the field and discover, if possible, his chances for appointment. He had scarcely filled his lungs full of the air of the capital before he began to denounce as fakes the newspaper stories that the delegation was not pulling together in appointment and other matters. He had a pleasant interview with the junior senator from Minnesota, and the wily Mr. Nelson pulled the wool over his eyes in the most approved fashion. Whether he secures the comfortable berth he is seeking or not, Mr. Diment will probably go through life with the firm conviction that Minnesota is represented in the upper branch of the national congress by at least one very affable gentleman.

* * *

In this connection it may be stated that the most vigorous denials of any differences among the members of the Minnesota delegation come from the office seekers. The congressmen themselves cannot well deny these reports at Washington, where the facts are patent to everybody. There is probably not a delegation in congress among which there is so much jealousy, and the cause can be easily explained. Nearly every member of the house from Minnesota who is not a senatorial aspirant has his eye upon the governorship. McCleary and Tawney will be the most active candidates when the contest for a successor to Senator Davis begins at St. Paul. Since his election to the house Judge Morris has also been stricken with the senatorial fever, and Mr. Fletcher is putting in some work in this direction in his usual quiet way. Representative Heatwole has not yet decided whether he will make a fight for the governorship or senatorship, but will certainly be in the fight for one or the other. Eddy, like most large bodies, moves very slowly and may not discover that he wants to come to the senate until the whole matter is settled. Mr. Stevens, of St. Paul, is not known to have any higher ambition at present than to succeed himself in the house, but he may become infected with senatorial or gubernatorial ambition later on.

Naturally the two senators do not look with particular favor upon the aspirations of the house members, so that it is rather difficult to see how the Minnesota delegation can be either an united or a happy family. Still, the politicians insist that each one of them is working for the other's interest.

IN THE DAKOTAS.

NORTH DAKOTA.

In the district court at Bismarck a writ of mandamus will be asked for by parties to compel the treasurer of Burleigh county to accept the taxes of 1896 without penalty or interest. It is a friendly suit and is brought to test the very important question as to whether the tax of 1896 becomes delinquent, and whether any penalty or interest can be collected. It is the intention to make an immediate appeal from the decision of the district court, and a special session of the supreme court will be called at once to pass upon the question. This suit is rendered necessary by errors in the revenue law passed by the last legislature, which were pointed out in these dispatches some time ago and strenuously denied in North Dakota. It is the opinion of leading lawyers here that there is no law making the tax of 1896 delinquent or providing for any penalty or interest, but that the supreme court will probably make such a law, as it did in the case where the law providing for assessors was repealed. In that case they held that the old law was still in force, on the ground of public policy. The case will attract great interest throughout the state, as the revenue of every city and county is at stake.

At Courtenay, a drunken street row Friday evening inspired the townsmen to organize for a raid on the soft drinks establishment of the town. As a result a dozen kegs of beer were poured into the street. The job was thoroughly done and the streets are wet, but the town is thoroughly dry. The piggers have escaped the town.

At Fargo Judge Pollock denied a decree in the divorce case of Brand vs. Brand. The plaintiff is a merchant at Winona, Minn., and alleged cruelty as the reason he should be granted a decree. The court could not see it that way.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

Miss Ruth Bailey suddenly disappeared from the home of her parents at Rapid City and was found at Hermosa, a town twenty-two miles from Rapid City. It was found yesterday morning that the girl had not occupied her bed during the night. A sheet was discovered tied to the bed post, by means of which she had let herself down from the second story to the ground. The morning mail brought a letter from the missing girl which she had written herself from Hermosa. She says that when she attempted to retire the night before some inner power impelled her to leave her home as she did. Two great eyes seemed to follow her as she hurried along, she knew not where. Oftentimes she found herself running to get away from her imaginary pursuer. Most of the journey was made on the railroad track. At last she reached a house in the outskirts of Hermosa very early in the morning, where she was allowed to stop by her peculiar tormentor. She was taken care of by the lady of the house, and in a short time became rational. She then wrote a letter to her parents telling of her experience, and was speedily brought home. It is thought that she has been giving too close attention to her studies and suffered from an aberration of the mind. Miss Bailey was a member of the class which graduated from the high school this month, and is considered one of the brightest in the class.

A DECLINE IN WHEAT

The Statistical News Regarded as In Favor of the Bulls.

TRADING VERY DULL

Weather and Crop Reports, the Chief Factors, Favored Lower Prices.

Wheat opened at a slight advance on the Duluth board but easy and lower at Chicago. The statistical news was rather bullish, including small world's shipments, a decrease on passage and prospects of a large decrease in the visible. Northwest receipts were small, 314 cars against 226 last week and 586 a year ago. The influences which most directly affect the market at the present time—weather and crop reports—both favored lower prices. Trading at Chicago was very dull, the vote on the proposed amendment to the rules prohibiting warehouse men from trading in grain in their own warehouses detracting greatly from speculative interest in the market.

The world's shipments of wheat and flour to Europe last week were 6,929,000 bus, which was contributed in the following proportions by the countries named: United States 2,347,000 bus; Russia, 2,570,000 bus; Danubian countries, 216,000 bus. The total world's shipments of the previous week were 5,322,000. The quantity on ocean passage decreased 1,440,000 bus. The domestic visible supply statement showed a decrease of 2,015,000 bus against a decrease for the similar week of the year before of 667,000 bus. The total quantity now in sight is 20,673,000 bus against 18,819,000 bus a year ago.

Trading was dull on the Duluth board today. July wheat opened ⅛c higher at 72¾c, but soon declined to 72¼c. After noon it sold down to 71¾c but reacted to 71⅞c. The close was easy with sellers at 71¾c, a decline of ⅝c for the day. The mills bought 25,000 bus of cash stuff at ⅝c over July, and shippers took a similar amount at ⅝c over July. Following were the closing prices:

Wheat—No. 1 hard, cash, 73c. No. 1 northern, cash, 72⅝c; July, 71¾c asked; September, 64¼c; December, 64¾c. No. 2 northern, 70c. No. 3, 59¾@65¾c. Rejected, 48¾@62¾c. To arrive—No. 1 hard, 73c; No. 1 northern, 72¼c. Rye, 34c. No. 2 oats, 21½c; No. 3 oats, 20¾c. Flax, 75¾c.

Car inspection—Wheat, 119; corn, 1; oats, 43; rye, 3; barley, 24; flax, 8. Receipts—Wheat, 65,828 bus; oats, 22,855 bus; barley, 6027 bus; flax, 804 bus. Shipments—Wheat, 67,345 bus; rye, 6349 bus; barley, 46,016 bus; flax, 24,000 bus.

NEW YORK GRAIN.

GOSSIP.

Received over private wire of B. E. Baker, grain and stock broker, room 107 Chamber of Commerce and 207 Board of Trade.

Chicago, June 21.—The only European market from which we had quotations today was Paris and that was weak. The jubilee in England and the ballot on the elevator question on the board were responsible for a very dull day. A decline of 3c was made on wheat and the selling of long wheat was continuous through the day. On every little rally there was plenty of wheat for sale and in spite of the buying of September against July sales the September wheat was weakest at the close probably in view of the almost perfect weather conditions and very bearish outlook for the new crop. The news from both the Southwest and Northwest fully bears out our previously expressed opinion that this will be one of the banner crop years in the country's history. Cash business small and the decrease in supplies just about what was figured on.

Corn and oats slightly lower but the declines stubbornly contested. There have been but a very few days this season that were good growing days for corn. The bears have got on the long side and the scalping crowd is trying to shake them out.

Provisions quiet and easier on the large hog receipts. The market had a good decline and is in position to rally easily.

Puts, July wheat, 67⅝@67½c.

AT WEST DULUTH

West Duluth Ball Team Defeated By the Cloquet Aggregation.

DIVIDEND ORDERED

The West Duluth Ball club met with another disastrous defeat at the West End park yesterday afternoon. The opposing club was from Cloquet, and the loyal friends of the West Duluths thought, as the visitors had come with a reputation to make, that it would not be difficult to beat them. The game had not progressed far before it became evident that something easier than Cloquet would have to put in an appearance before another victory could be won. The score at the end of the seventh inning stood 14 for Cloquet to 4 for West Duluth.

DIVIDEND DECLARED.

C. E. Peaslee, receiver for the Manufacturers' bank, has received an order from Judge Ensign to pay the creditors of the bank a dividend of 15 per cent out of the funds now in his possession. The time for the payment has not yet been definitely fixed. This is the second dividend ordered within the past few months. Future dividends will depend largely on the ability of the receiver to collect a number of large accounts due the bank at the time of its failure, and on which nothing has as yet been realized.

JACOB STREAM BURIED.

The body of Jacob Stream, a Finlander about 38 years of age, was found floating in the boom at Duncan & Brewer's boom Saturday afternoon. Stream came to Duluth last summer from Aberdeen, S. D., and for the past few months had been boarding with Andrew Mattson in West Duluth. Friday, June 4, Stream went to Duluth, where he imbibed rather freely, and started to return late at night. He got off the car at Twenty-eighth avenue west and it is supposed wandered about Duncan & Brewer's millyard and fell into the water. Stream was out of employment and was not known to have any relatives in this country. He was a member of the Millworkers' Protective union.

The body was buried today at the poor farm. Coroner Eklund viewed the remains at Durkan's morgue and decided that an inquest was not necessary, it being evident that death had been caused by drowning. The address "James Burke, 1924 Tower avenue, Superior," has failed to throw any further light on the case, inquiry at that number having resulted in nothing.

HURTFUL TO TIRES.

The St. Paul & Duluth Railroad company has recently been attempting some much needed repairs to the crossing on Central avenue, and has made a laudable attempt. The street has been covered with a lot of sharp-pointed rock, which may be well enough for loaded trucks, but for carriages and bicycles are more objectionable than the old rut. Several bicycle tires have been so badly cut at this place that their owners have been compelled to purchase new ones. Wheelmen are also complaining of the practice indulged in by some of throwing bottles in the street, the pavement about the corner of Ramsey street and Central avenue today being littered with broken glass.

TEACHERS GOING HOME.

Many of the teachers in the West Duluth schools will spend their vacation out of the city. Miss Waller will go to Menominee, Wis.; Miss Lauman, St. Peter; Miss Lulu Brooks, Geneseo, N. Y.; Laura McArthur, Worcester, Ohio; Emma Freeman, Mankato; Laura Kennedy, Minneapolis; Nellie Collins, Dayton, Minn.; Susie Fortney, Soldiers' Grove, Wis.; Mary Bryson, Good Thunder, Minn.; Miss Carrick, Milbank, S. D.; Miss Kellnan, Seaforth, Ont.; Miss Burnett, Anoka, Minn.; Miss Dickinson, Spooner, Wis.

In a 7-innings game between the Zenith Cities and Athletics at the West End ball park yesterday afternoon the former won by a score of 10 to 8.

Henry Buhler, employed at Mitchell & McClure's mill, received a severe cut on his foot Saturday afternoon and was taken to St. Mary's hospital. It is feared that amputation will be necessary.

PARK BOARD CELEBRATION.

Talking of Having One at Lincoln Park.

The park commissioners are considering the matter of holding a Fourth of July celebration in Lincoln park, either on Saturday or Monday, probably the latter. Vocal and instrumental music, reading of the declaration of independence and speaking will be the feature. If it is decided to hold the exercises an attempt will be made to secure the services of Hon. C. A. Towne as the orator of the occasion.

Personal Injury Suit.

John Marquardt this morning began a personal injury suit against the Pennsylvania Steel company, the contractor on the Duluth-Superior bridge. He alleges on March 30 a heavy beam fell and crushed his foot and leg. He claims that the accident was due to the defective construction of a derrick which was being used in unloading heavy beams from cars, and he wants the company held responsible for his injured member. He asks damages in the sum of $10,000. John Jenswold, Jr., is his attorney.

A Girl Kidnapped.

After getting the child he drove furiously to Fourth street and Fourth avenue east and took in Greenough, the two driving west on Fourth avenue. Washington, June 15, 1897.

In charge of the insolvency affairs of THE MARINE NATIONAL BANK Of Duluth, Minnesota.

To all whom it may concern:

Whereas, upon a proper accounting by the receiver heretofore appointed to collect the assets of "The Marine National Bank of Duluth," Minnesota, and upon a valuation of the uncollected assets remaining in his hands, it appears to my satisfaction that in order to pay the debts of such association it is necessary to enforce the individual liability of the stockholders therefor to the extent hereinafter mentioned, as prescribed by Sections 5151 and 5234 of the Revised Statutes of the United States:

Now, therefore, by virtue of the authority vested in me by law, I do hereby make an assessment and requisition upon the shareholders of the said "The Marine National Bank of Duluth," for one hundred and fifty-six thousand dollars, to be paid by them ratably on or before the fifteenth day of July, 1897; and I hereby make demand upon each and every one of them for seventy-eight dollars upon each and every share of the capital stock of said association held or owned by them, respectively, at the time of its failure; and I hereby direct William B. THE HERALD'S NEW DRESS.

The Herald appears in a new dress today, and it feels well satisfied with the style and fit of the new garment. How it will be regarded by others remains to be demonstrated, because tastes differ, and upon no point so much as in regard to "newspaper style." But when the wearer of a new gown is thoroughly satisfied with its appearance, what difference does it make if others are not equally well pleased?

All the type used in the publication of The Herald today is fresh from the foundry and consequently is thoroughly up to date. The display type will be found especially attractive, and advertisers will certainly be pleased with the great variety and beauty of the various styles which are included in the stock. The type foundry from which this large and fine assortment of advertising type was purchased states that it is the largest order but one ever given by a Minnesota newspaper, and there is only one newspaper office in the Twin Cities which contains such a splendid array of the latest styles in advertising type. Advertisers are invited to test the extent and variety of the plant.

ON THE UPWARD GRADE.

A marked improvement in business is noticeable in many of the prominent trade centers. The reports of the commercial agencies last week were very encouraging in this respect, as they told a story of renewed confidence, of expanding trade and rising values. There are conditions that certainly foreshadow the return of prosperity for which every one has been looking with anxious eyes. There is a distinct decline in pessimistic talk, because the factors which produce pessimism are gradually disappearing. Men do not indulge in croaking when prosperity prevails. It is the season of depression that brings forth the croaker with his tale of woe. He is a natural product of hard times, and he should not be severely censured by those who are differently constituted and are therefore able to remain cheerful under the most trying circumstances. The fact that the pessimists are decreasing in numbers is consequently strong evidence that the reported improvement in business is a stern, hard fact and not a sentimental imagining on the part of some exuberant optimist.

In his last weekly review of the state of feeling, as discerned from Wall street, Henry Clews, says: "Our leading brokers are regaining confidence; our most responsible railroad managers are very pronounced in their belief of better times the coming fall; those who lead are more willing to take the initiative; and many of the evils from which we have been suffering are working out their own correctives. The crop situation is satisfactory. Wheat, corn and cotton are somewhat backward, owing to low temperature and excessive moisture; but in spite of drawbacks there is every prospect of abundance. In the agricultural sections of the country trade reports are favorable. Merchants are in a position to stock up more freely, and the farmers are gradually getting out of debt; in fact, in some portions of the West they are in a better condition financially than in many years. Cheap freights have often more than compensated for low prices. The industrial situation is also improving, and this is a factor of increasing importance to Wall street, in view of our rapid development in this direction. The iron trade, generally considered a fair business barometer, shows increasing activity; some large orders for pig iron, bar iron, etc., having been placed at the Western markets, where prices are low but firm. A better demand is also developing for staple cotton and woolen goods, and in some instances a moderate advance in values has followed. These two prominent industries are still in unsatisfactory condition owing to an excessive productive capacity; but it is encouraging to note a turn for the in unsatisfactory condition owing to an excessive productive capacity; but it is encouraging to note a turn for the better which promises to be maintained."

There is no doubt that activity in some lines of industry is retarded by uncertainty as to the exact form of the tariff bill, as it will be finally adopted. This element of disturbance will soon be removed. The senate is making first class progress with the bill, and the end of the present month may find it completed by that body. Owing to the amendments it will have to go back to the house, and a conference committee will take it in charge. This committee should not be long in reaching an agreement, and the middle of July at the latest should see the bill signed by the president. Then we may expect additional impetus given to the upward movement now plainly noticeable.

DEBS' LATEST SCHEME.

The new movement started by Eugene V. Debs, of American Railway union fame, to better the condition of mankind by peaceable methods, is a subject of very general discussion. Mr. Debs' idea is not a new one. Experiments along the same line have been made before and have failed. The friends of socialism have claimed, however, that the principle has never received a fair test and there are some who now assert that the plan inaugurated by Mr. Debs is not calculated to correctly demonstrate the practicability or impracticability of socialistic cooperation. It must be admitted, however, that it will be the most comprehensive movement in this direction which has ever been made, and that its success would give a strong impetus to the socialistic principle.

The Kansas City Star says that however Utopian and impractical his scheme may be, its promoter must be given credit for sincerity and for a high and unselfish motive. He plainly has a strong hold on the affections and the confidence of the laboringmen of the country and it will not be surprising if he should be able to build up quite an extensive co-operative community and arouse a good deal of enthusiasm among laboringmen all over the country for his project. It will require some money to put Debs' scheme on its feet, and he probably will not have much difficulty in obtaining it, for there are a great many well-to-do citizens of this republic who are inclined to be socialists and who would be glad to subscribe liberally for the purpose of establishing a community to put into practice co-operative theories. Moreover, there are thousands of laborers who, though they are described by Mr. Debs as on the verge of starvation and in a pitiable condition of industrial slavery, are yet able and willing to subscribe small monthly sums for the support of a co-operative community until it reaches a self-supporting stage with the facilities for production in its possession, and its forces properly organized and utilized.

Mr. Debs has demonstrated that he possesses great ability as an organizer and director of men, and with the preliminary expenses of the enterprise assured, he should be able to make a thorough test of the socialistic co-operative plan.

COL. WATTERSON AROUSED.

The Minneapolis Tribune has aroused the ire of Henri Watterson of the Louisville Courier Journal, the special guardian of the "star-eyed goddess of reform." The Tribune audaciously referred to Col. Watterson as "Uncle" and mentioned the star-eyed goddess in a rather disrespectful manner, and it will therefore be seen that the display of anger by the distinguished Louisville editor and statesman is fully justified. Here is what he says:

"Who are you calling 'Uncle?' And how much do you know about 'the star-eyed' one? And, if you should go a-fishing, what do you think you would take along for bait? * * * Look, out, sonny! When the pie gives out, when the ice breaks up—! But Lord! what is the use of warning one of these opportunist Republicans? With them it is ever eat, drink and be merry, for tomorrow ye die!"

The reply of the Minneapolis Tribune to the pertinent questions propounded by the Kentucky colonel will be awaited with interest.

In 1896 there were 10,652 murders committed in the United States, but there were only 122 legal executions. Only one murderer in eighty-seven paid the penalty of his crime. With such a great disparity between crime and its punishment, asks the Philadelphia Press, is it any wonder that the public took vengeance into its own hands and lynched in the same year 131 persons? There is no excuse for mob law. It is better to endure many miscarriages of justice than to permit a mob under the sway of brutal passion to mete out even a just punishment. But for helping to create the sentiment which calls a mob into being the courts with their delays cannot be held blameless.

The New York Sun says it is a good deal of a fact that the water has a peculiar attraction for the people who can't swim. It may or may not be true that a good many sailors are not swimmers, but it is sure enough that a large proportion of the chaps who go out sailing in small boats, especially on Sunday can neither swim nor sail. They will not admit that they don't know how to sail a boat until the event gets them into trouble, and their alacrity in sinking is concealed until the tipover comes. The cheerfulness with which a lot of greenhorns will disport themselves on the water is one of the many evidences of the essential courage of the race.

Benjamin Franklin left $5000 to the city of Boston with a provision that at the end of 100 years the principal should be laid out in public works of "the most utility to the inhabitants." The principal is now $348,000, but the authorities are at loggerheads regarding what now consitutes works of the greatest utility, so the supreme court has been asked to decide.

A bill that has passed both houses of the Pennsylvania legislature provides that any person, firm, corporation, etc., that employs foreign-born and unnaturalized persons must deduct 3 cents per day from each man's wages and pay it over to the county. And yet the Pennsylvania newspapers have the effrontery to ridicule Kansas legislation.

Lord Rosebery is one of the two or three Scotchmen of prominence who do not play golf. He fears that it would engross too much of his time. "When a man in middle life," he says, "makes a deliberate choice of golf as his amusement, he is making a choice second only in gravity to the choice of a wife." This remark may interest those who are forming a golf club in Duluth.

In writing a history of the third republic a member of the French academy is said to have settled on the following epithets for the presidents. Thiers le bref (the short), MacMahon le preux (the brave), Grevy le gaigneur (the economical), Carnot le taciturne (the silent), Casimir-Perier le sage (the prudent), Faure le bel (the beautiful.)

Civilization is making huge strides in the dark continent. During 1894 6,500,000 gallons of gin and rum were unloaded on the benighted, accelerating the pace from darkness to light. In some instances where the recipients objected to alien influences they were maximed for their impudence. Great is civilization with a bung.

Mrs. Amelia E. Barr, the authoress, is quoted as saying: "There is going to be a reaction of the aggressive, athletic, sporty woman to the old-fashioned woman, and when the old-fashioned woman comes in again she will stay in." Let us hope that Mrs. Barr is right.

USE MINNESOTA STONE.

Minneapolis Tribune: The quarrying of stone is one of the important industries of the state. If the capitol commission, in erecting the principal public building in the state, should discard Minnesota stone and send outside for a building material, they would by that act discredit one of Minnesota's industries. If Minnesota stone is not good enough for Minnesota's capitol, how can we expect the public generally to consider it good enough for their use?

Hinckley Enterprise: In the bids for the erection of the superstructure of the capitol, Kettle River sandstone and an Indiana stone seemed to have the call. As between a Minnesota stone and a foreign production, there should be no hesitancy in a choice, even should the home production cost a trifle more. Let the Minnesota stone have first choice. Employ our own citizens, build up our own towns and thus build up the state.

St. Cloud Journal-Press: The great state of Minnesota is building a state capitol to cost $2,000,000. It should not only be built of Minnesota material, but of Minnesota's best material. When it comes to stone, everybody knows that granite is the best, and at the prices submitted would ultimately be the cheapest.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

Quiet and Easy Opening Was the Record.

New York, June 21.—The stock market opened quiet and easier, with the decline slight in the leading railroads. The industrials were quite generally traded in, and scored the most noteworthy fluctuations. Sugar yielding an extreme ⅝ per cent. The tendency of the market continued towards a lower level, with business in light volume. The offerings appeared to be a renewal of Saturday's extensive realizations, and declines were most marked in the grangers, Northern Pacific preferred and a few of the specialties, notably Chicago Gas and Consolidated Gas, the latter receding 2⅛c to 165¾c. There were momentary periods of steadiness. Sugar was well supported at the decline and recovered to Saturday's close, but soon reacted to the lowest. The trading was principally in the leading stocks. Speculation in the London market was stagnant, owing to the general observance of the jubilee festivities.

The receipt of favorable crop advices from various sections created a marked demand for the shares of Western railroads after 11 o'clock, which checked the reactionary tendency of the market and carried numerous shares fractionally above Saturday's final figures. The grangers were especially strong, Omaha, which had been neglected of late, figuring conspicuously in the dealings and rising 1⅝ per cent. Northwest was also active and gained over a point. Renewed foreign purchases of shares of newly reorganized companies and of other internationals accelerated the upward tendency. The specialties developed considerable energy, Sugar and Chicago Gas rising about a point each from the earliest low point. The bond market was quiet and the fluctuations there were unimportant. Sales of stocks up to noon were 98,200 shares.

ROAD'S RECEIVER DISCHARGED.

Atlanta, Ga., June 21.—Judge Newman, in the United States court, has today signed an order dismissing Samuel Spencer as receiver for the East Tennessee, Virginia & Georgia railway. This concludes a litigation that has been in progress for five years and marks the final winding up of the affairs of the road, which now forms a part of the Southern system.

COURT-MARTIALING CUPID.

New York Sun: Ensign Stone is a young man of talent and character, and of a distinguished record in the naval academy. His misfortune appears to be failing in love with the daughter of a family whose older members have not rightly appreciated his intellectual and personal value.

Chicago Chronicle: The naval court of inquiry which has been examining the charges against Ensign Stone has decided that he is not guilty of conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman, and has therefore acquitted him. Now that he has clear sailing before him, it is hoped that he will lose no time in attaining his heart's desire and wed his lady love. Papa Conde might as well give his consent now as later.

New York Herald: Ensign Stone loved Miss Conde. The latter apparently loved the ensign, for, if she had not loved him, she could have easily saved her parents a lot of trouble by sending for the young officer and telling him that she did not care for him. If Secretary Long should have any more Stone-Conde affairs he will do well to suppress them in the navy department. The present appearance of the case looks more like persecution than justice.

Minneapolis Tribune: Secretary Long of the navy department has very sensibly decided that he has nothing to do with the love affairs of his subordinates, and has dismissed the frivolous charges against a young ensign who was guilty of no greater offense than loving the daughter of a wealthy old man. The stern parents preferred charges against the youth on the ground that he was neglecting his duties in paying her court, the absurdity of which became apparent as soon as the secretary looked into the matter.

Washington Post: Young Stone's sole offense seems to have consisted in capturing the affections of Miss Conde at a time when papa had other views with reference to her future. The question was whether, in such a case, the paper could invoke the machinery of the navy department to paralyze the ensign's matrimonial activities and aid him in consummating another alliance for his daughter. As we have seen, that uestion has been decided adversely to papa. It is now settled that a naval officer may love and marry as he will—or can—and that the awful agencies of court-martial and punishment are not to be brought to bear upon offenders in the realm of poetry.

McLEAN AFTER HANNA.

Washington special to Philadelphia Times: John R. McLean is about to bring a lot of miserable chickens home to roost in Mark Hanna's back yard. McLean has employed a number of shrewd special agents to go through Southern states and ascertain exactly what it cost to buy the delegations for McKinley in the winter of 1895-6. They are getting facts with affidavits. McLean sabely works on theory that the fellows who received money more than a year ago are without money now. They want more money. With a little financial inducement they will now talk. Some of them are talking. All of the information which the McLean men gather, and it must be all supported by affidavits, will be published in the Cincinnati Enquirer and republished in the Democratic papers of the state of Ohio.

The experienced Republican politician who gives your correspondent this information says that the corruption in Louisiana and Texas has already been demonstrated. There are also agents of McLean investigating with some degree of success the methods which were used to take the state of Minnesota away from Senator Davis; the state of Illinois away from Senator Cullom; the state of Nebraska away from Senator Manderson, and the state of Vermont away from Speaker Reed. McLean does not employ cheap men. He has the best men to be found for this work of investigation. McLean is out for the senatorship, and he means business. He is going after Hanna with a long stick and a sharp knife. Colonel Ike Hill says "Johnny McLean will go all over Ohio with a whitstone in his bootleg and his galluses down until after harvest."

A Bachelor's Reflections.

New York Press: A new woman always reminds you of an old joke.

A man is as poor as he looks, and a woman as poor as her husband looks.

The main reason why women ought not to be allowed to vote is because they like cats.

The tighter a girl's corsets are the more cheated she feels when a man puts his arm around her.

It is the only starch manufactured that is perfectly harmless, containing neither arsenic, alum or any other substance injurious to linen, and can be used even for a baby powder.

BOIES WILL NOT HUSTLE.

But Will Accept the Governorship If Offered.

Des Moines, Iowa, June 21.—Ex-Governor Horace Boies will not attend the fusion convention here this week, but will not decline a nomination for governor if it is tendered to him. The statement is made on the best authority. The governor says he does not want the nomination and is not seeking it, but has intimated to friends privately he could not shirk party duty. Delegates to the convention are coming slowly.

Secretary Walsh of the Democratic national committee is here advocating the nomination of James Burgess, of Ottumwa, for governor. Fred White will have a large following, in spite of the opposition in his district, but it is not thought he can possibly win if Boies will accept. W. H. Ross, of Creston, is mentioned for lieutenant governor, J. B. Romans, of Denison, free silver Republican, is also spoken of.

DOMESTIC IDYLS.

Chicago Post: "The wedding is to be a grand affair—eight bridesmaids, eight ushers and a full church service, with choir, lavish display of flowers and all that."

"Have you heard how much they get for the veriscope rights?"

Cincinnati Enquirer: "But you are too young," pleaded the anxious mother. "No girl should marry before her mind is fully formed."

"Oh," said the gladsome maiden of 18 summers, "my mind has been made up for more than a week."

New York Press: It has been proved by statistics that women live longer than men. Well, they ought to. Think of all the healthful exercise they get cleaning house, while the men are confined to their stuffy offices.

Cleveland Leader: Trembling suitor—Sir, I can not live without your daughter.

Crusty father—Nonsense! There are plenty of free lunch joints left, if you want to hunt them up.

"No," said Smarticus, "A five-dollar bill isn't brittle enough to break, but I can change it for you."

"Oh, indeed!" retorted Chumley; "you are awfully clever. Still I want the bill changed, so here it is."

Indianapolis Journal: "My mouth is all in a pucker since I ate those olives," she said to him as she turned her sparkling eyes full upon him.

And he was not at all like a young man who could not grasp the suggestions of the situation.

Puck: Mrs. Grimm (looking up from her newspaper)—My goodness, I have just been reading an item about a man who traded his wife for a shotgun. What in the world do you suppose made him do that?

Mr. Grimm—Probably the gun was warranted not to kick.

Boston Transcript: Mrs. Greene—Tell me, aren't there any expresses running to your town?

Mrs. Gray—Of course, there are—plenty of them. Why do you ask?

Mrs. Greene—My husband has told me that he has seen your husband almost every night on his way home, and he always had more than he could carry.

A SONG OF SPRING.

Who saw the Spring come? Saw unfold
The first bud on the highest spray,
Or the first crocus lift its gold

Who heard the first bird sing? What word
Was uttered twixt the night and morn
That every golden throat was stirred,
And many flowers were born?

I know not. Year by year there comes
That whisper to the sad and sick,
And the long withered hope it blooms,
And straight the dead are quick.

Who saw the Spring come? Nay, not I,
Nor the bright eyes upon the spray,
Nor the white cloudlets in the sky,
Yet Spring has come today.
—Pall Mall Gazette.

Hibbing Objects.

Hibbing News: The Duluth Evening Herald, in speaking of the $1000 donation made by Andrew Carnegie to the poor of Virginia at the request of the mayor of that place, credits the whole transaction to Hibbing, and thereby throws discredit upon our city that belongs elsewhere. The people of Hibbing are abundantly able to care for all who may be in need and are worthy of assistance. But our people are not yet subjects of charity, and we do not want any of that kind of notoriety that Virginia is enjoying just now. It is eliciting much unfavorable comment even among the business men of that city, who say the conditions did not warrant any such action on the part of the mayor, and feel deeply humiliated by what they declare is a disgrace to their city.

HYENA JIM IS DEAD.

Lincoln Park's Pride Was Shot to Death.

Chicago, June 21.—"Jim," the Lincoln Park hyena, that gnawed his way out of his cage last Tuesday and has been the case of more or less insomnia ever since by lurking around cemeteries and howling dismally through the night, died today of lead poisoning. He was shot to death near the German Old People's home at Harlem, about fifteen miles southwest of Lincoln Park, after chewing all the courage and one leg from a bull dog.

CAPTAIN BOYCOTT DEAD.

Famous Character of Irish History Passes Away.

London, June 21.—Capt. Boycott is dead. He was about 55 years of age, and became famous through being the first man subjected to the "boycott" in Ireland. He was a land agent in 1881 in the Conemara section of County Mayo, where he collected rents for a number of landlords, notably the earle of Erne. Mr. Parnell made a speech, in the course of which he urged the people of Ireland to abstain from agrarian crimes, and to adopt instead a policy of sending harsh landlords, agents and bailiffs "to Coventry," the old term for boycotting.

Events so shaped themselves that Capt. Boycott was the first man the Irish experimented on in this connection, and hence the now familiar word of "boycott."

VAN NORTWICK SETTLEMENT.

Milwaukee, June 21.—A special to the Wisconsin from Appleton, Wis., says: A complete settlement has been reached with the Van Nortwick creditors and the assignees have been discharged. The manufacturing companies in the Fox River valley and elsewhere were today turned over to the owners. The Wisconsin properties of J. S. Van Nortwick, of Appleton, came through practically without loss. The loss falls principally upon W. N. Van Nortwick and the Western Paper Bag company. The discharge of the assignees was accomplished through proceedings in the United States courts at Chicago and Milwaukee and circuit courts at Batavia, Ill., and Appleton.

PRESIDENTIAL NOMINATIONS.

Washington, June 21.—The president today sent the following nominations to the senate: State—John C. Foster, of Vermont, to be consul general at Halifax, Nova Scotia; William B. Dickey, of Louisiana, to be consul at Calao, Peru.

Treasury—Joseph W. Ivey, of Oregon, to be collector of customs district of Alaska.

Justice—Albert C. Thompson, of Ohio; Alexander C. Bolton, of Montana, and David B. Culberson, of Texas, to be the commissioners to revise and codify the criminal and penal laws of the United States as provided for by an act of congress approved June 4, 1897.

Navy—Commodore Edmund O. Matthews, to be rear admiral; Capt. and Assistant Quartermaster R. S. Collum, to be major and quartermaster United States marine corps; First Lieut. Thomas C. Prince, to be captain and assistant quartermaster United States marine corps.

War—First Lieut. Herbert Deakyne, corps of engineers, to be a member of the California debris commission. Also a list of cadet graduates of the military academy for appointment as additional second lieutenants in the army of the United States.

Which Linens will you choose?

The one of today or the one after the old fashion kind, like the Pharaohs used some thousand years ago? FARMS FOR THE POOR

Dr. Humason Tells of the Great Benefit They Would Be.

RICH SOIL NEAR HERE

Also Advises the Support of Home Merchants and Business Houses.

Dr. G. A. Humason, at the Methodist church last night, read a newspaper clipping anouncing the payment of $250,000, the first installment of the $1,000,000 Baron De Hirsch fund for the alleviation of the suffering poor in New York. He said that he understood most of this money was to be used to assist the poor of the crowded city to locate on farms, where they would be better able to earn a livelihood. Dr. Humason expressed satisfaction at this move and advised the people of Duluth to turn their attention to farming in this vicinity. Land in this vicinity is suitable for agricultural purposes and is capable of sustaining a large population. He referred to the work being done by a gentleman who owned a large tract of land a few miles from town, who is disposing of it in small tracts. He said that a number of families had already located on it and were engaged in building small houses and cutting away the trees. These people are laying the foundation for a home that will afford them permanent support in the future.

Dr. Humason recently visited the country back of Duluth and was convinced that as a farming section it had a future. He admitted that the land abounds in rocks, but declared that it is not as bad in this respect as Pennsylvania, and is much less so than New England. He told of a community of successful farmers at Rice Lake, where good farm land can be procured for $10 an acre, and related a conversation he had recently with a prosperous farmer living in that vicinity. This farmer said that the land in the immediate vicinity of Duluth is as suitable for farming as that on which he had located, but it has all been bought up by speculators who placed such a high valuation on it that farmers could not afford to buy it.

The people of Duluth send too much money away from home for vegetables and provisions which should be produced here, said he. This suggested to the preacher the thought that there were many ladies in his congregation who made a practice of sending to other cities for articles which they might buy of Duluth merchants. He thought they should buy everything at home and help support the institutions that pay taxes and contribute to the upbuilding of the city. He said his living was earned in Duluth, and what money he had to spend would be spent here. Recurring to the subject of farming, he urged those who could not themselves live on a farm to buy one and put it in shape for somebody else to live on, and then they would have a refuge that they might go to in case it was necessary.

CROWDS AT LESTER PARK.

Street Car Service Insufficient to Accommodate the People.

Lester Park was thronged with people yesterday afternoon. Many came on wheels and still others drove out in carriages, but the great majority depended on the street cars as a means of transportation. Between 2 and 4 o'clock the service was inadequate, and at nearly every crossing east of Lake avenue little groups of people waiting for cars were unable to find even standing room, and turned away disappointed when cars approached. Yesterday's experience demonstrated that a 20-minute service on this line is not enough to accommodate the Sunday traffic on bright days.

The park was at its best yesterday. There was a large volume of water flowing in the river, the grounds were clean and dry and the best of order was maintained. Many visitors brought lunch baskets with them and spent the entire day in the shady nooks with which the park abounds.

Cures Talk Hood's Sarsaparilla

"Cures talk" in favor of Hood's Sarsaparilla, as for no other medicine. Its great cures recorded in truthful, convincing language of grateful men and women, constitute its most effective advertising. Many of these cures are marvelous. They have won the confidence of the people; have given Hood's Sarsaparilla the largest sales in the world, and have made necessary for its manufacture the greatest laboratory on earth. Hood's Sarsaparilla is known by the cures it has made—cures of scrofula, salt rheum and eczema, cures of rheumatism, neuralgia and weak nerves, cures of dyspepsia, liver troubles, catarrh—cures which prove

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the best—in fact the One True Blood Purifier.

THEORY OF EVOLUTION.

Rev. H. S. McCowan Discusses It at the Lyceum.

"Lyman Abbott and Evolution" was the subject of a sermon delivered by Rev. H. S. McCowan at the Lyceum last evening. A large audience was present. Mr. McCowan held that science points to a broader and better interpretation of the teachings of religion. He traced, first, the growth of the theory of evolution, which, in its unfolding, had upset many of the beliefs inculcated by the old theology. The old theologists, tenaciously hanging on to the doctrine that all truth is to be found in a literal reading of the Scriptures and relying on invective as their only argument, reminded him, he said, of a certain man with a wooden leg. This man took short steps with the artificial leg and natural steps with the other, walking, consequently, in a circle. To those who pointed out to him that he was making no progress he replied by hurling at them his whole vocabulary of profanity.

The old theology taught that God created the world in a certain period of time and then rested and creation ceased. Science teaches that creation is yet in progress and discloses the plan to be one of constant development. In place of the teaching of the old theology that God first banished man from Eden, then destroyed all but the chosen and finally sent His son as a sacrifice to redeem the world, the speaker advocated as more reasonable the theory that each one must pay the price of his own redemption. Creeds make but little difference; the essential thing is right motive. Many a man backs into heaven without knowing that he is going that way. The Creator can best be served by the man who faces evil to fight it, although his back be turned toward heaven, than by the man who faces toward heaven to avoid a conflict to overthrow wrong.

ON THE MESABA RANGE.

Another Ore Loading Record Made at Mountain Iron.

The big steam shovel at the Mountain Iron mine broke another ore-loading record Thursday, says the Virginia Enterprise. It was intended to give the shovel a full 10-hour test, but it was hardly a complete one, for five or six cars more might have been loaded. As it was, 210 cars were filled with ore mined directly from the deposit, or thirty-six more than the record made early in the week. This is equal to the mining and loading of 12,000 tons of ore.

Work at the Commodore was partially suspended for a time on Monday, owing to advices received in effect that the ore being shipped was running too high in phosphorus. The mine was sampled throughout and the management think they can now, by exercising care, ship ore of the grade required to fill the contract. Work was resumed the following morning, but with a slightly reduced force, some seventy-five or eighty men now being on the pay roll. A double shift continues to be worked, but no hoisting is now being done by the night shift.

The clearing on the right-of-way for the 2-mile spur to the Roberts mine, at McKinley, has been completed and the graders are already at work.

Many improvements are being made at the Roberts, where everything is being put in shape for active shipments as soon as railroad connection is furnished. The shaft house is being repaired and strengthened, and a large engine and boiler house is in course of construction. Capt. William White is in charge of the work at this property.

Nothing definite is yet obtainable as to prospects at the Franklin, further than the information vouchsafed by General Manager Boss that orders had been given to repair the steam shovel remaining here, which fact, in addition to the track work to the stockpiles being done by the Duluth, Missabe & Northern, lends much color to the rumor that the stockpiles are to be shipped in the near future.

CHRISTOPHER EXCURSIONS.

Large Parties Taken Out Saturday and Sunday.

The excursions Saturday and yesterday on the Christopher Columbus were delightful. About 1000 people went out on Saturday and a number were taken on at Two Harbors. The boat stopped an hour at Bayfield and the excursionists went over the town. The boat returned about 11 o'clock.

Yesterday the attendance was from 3000 to 3500. As is always the case on a large excursion a few obstreperous characters were aboard and tried to make trouble at times, but these were quickly squelched. This occurred on the lower decks and there was nothing above to mar the pleasure of the trip. The Duluth City band went out both days and furnished music.

THEY ARE ASSESSED

Marine Bank Stockholders Called Upon For Seventy-Eight Dollars a Share.

TO PAY BY JULY 15

Comptroller of the Currency Has Ordered the Assessment Made.

The comptroller of the currency has levied an assessment of $78 per share, payable July 15, on the stockholders of the Marine bank. The announcement of this assessment is something of a surprise, chiefly because it is made so soon after the bank's suspension. A reporter of The Herald called up Receiver W. E. Lucas today to learn what occasioned such early action. The receiver made the following statement:

"The comptroller requires of receivers of insolvent national banks frequent and detailed statements covering every item from which depositors may expect to realize money; in addition, special examiners, skilled in estimating the probable money value of the assets of failed banks, are commissioned to make separate and supplementary reports. From the facts thus before him the comptroller decides whether an assessment is or ever likely to be necessary; decides whether to levy it early or to wait till assets are converted; decides what amount to call for. From his decision there is no appeal.

"The comptroller has in view the creditors, those whose money is tied up by reason of the bank's suspension, and his action in assessing the stock now is taken purely in their behalf. The assets of the Marine National bank, consisting in part of real estate mortgages, will necessarily require some time for conversion into money; nobody wants to see the assets slaughtered; the stockholders, who are most benefited when assets are most wisely handled, must simply come forward with cash—the depositors must not, in the comptroller's opinion, be called on to do all the waiting. He intends to see them paid, and paid without any undue delay. That is the explanation of this assessment at the present time."

Mr. Lucas was asked how soon he expected to wind up the affairs of the bank, but to this inquiry he said he preferred to make no reply.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES.

Foresters Celebrate Their Twenty-Third Birthday.

Last evening the services at the First Presbyterian church were in commemoration of the twenty-third anniversary of the organization of the Independent Order of Foresters. About 150 members of the order wearing their badges were present and were seated in the center of the church, while a large number with their families were scattered throughout the congregation.

The sermon was preached by Rev. A. H. Carver, of the Lakeside Presbyterian church, and his subject was "The Measure of Life." He congratulated the order on having completed its twenty-third year of existence and thanked the lodges for the privilege of delivering the address. His sermon was along the line of thought that man's work and his recognition of God are the measure of his life and not the number of years he lives, except as the latter gives him increased opportunities for good works and deeds.

Dr. Cleland, who preached in Dr. Carver's church at Lakeside returned before the close of the services and welcomed the Foresters.

$100 REWARD, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address

HIS THIRD ANNIVERSARY.

Dr. Cleland Completes That Year of His Pastorate.

At the First Presbyterian church yesterday morning Rev. T. H. Cleland gave his third anniversary sermon, including therein some statistics of interest. He took his text from 2 Cor. vi, 1: "We, then, workers together, beseech that you receive not the grace of God in vain."

Taking as conceded the fact that the gospel of Christ has been the greatest power in the world, he said that it would excite no debate to add that the apostle in the Gentiles was its most effective agent. Xavier and Livingstone may have approached him in the world-conquering instinct, and Baxter and Whitfield in earnest activity, but none have surpassed him. As a particular church often gives the minister standing in his community, so the momentum of its spiritual life and thought moulds, directs and fortifies his own. "So," said he, "when we today take a survey of our fidelity in the great trust God has committed to us in the past three years, it is a common responsibility, a common task and a common joy of which we shall speak." Passing directly to the church work, he said that they had had five Sunday schools in which every Sunday over 700 characters were being moulded by the word of God, not to include those assisting in the Bethels and Y. M. C. A. During years of financial distress the congregation has raised $32,252, an average of $10,571 per year. The last year's result was $11,728. Of this $5650, about one-sixth, was for benevolent purposes. The healthful feature of the report was that the church had been discharging debt. Every claim against the church, amounting to $4575, has been cleared, except one bonded indebtedness. In the meantime the scale of expenses has been reduced about $2000 a year.

HOSE CONTRACTS LET.

Fire Commissioners Purchased Considerable on Saturday.

The fire commissioners at their meeting Saturday afternoon, let contracts for 3000 feet of hose, as follows: One thousand feet of Emperor, at 75 cents, to Crane-Ordway company; 500 feet of Paragon, at 80 cents, to W. S. Nott & Co., Minneapolis; 500 feet of Mohican, at 70 cents, to W. D. Allen, West Duluth; 1000 feet of National Jacket, at 80 cents, to Northern Hardware company. The hose is to be guaranteed to stand 400 pounds pressure and for four years.

Secretary Truelsen's resignation was received and was laid on the table by unanimous vote.

A protest from Duluth Heights against the failure of the commissioners to furnish fire protection to that locality was received. Thomas Hannibal, who appeared in behalf of the Heights, said that if the Highland fire hall were not opened and a chemical put in, the residents of the Heights would organize a volunteer department, put a man and a team in the hall and take care of themselves. The board agreed to send up the 80-gallon chemical formerly used at West Duluth as soon as the volunteer company is organized. The sum of $5 will be paid for each run. The painting of the interior walls of Central fire hall, excepting the woodwork, was ordered.

The board will take action at its next meeting on the application for a hearing made by John Shea, truckman of hook and ladder No. 1, who was recently discharged.

Will Play Saturday.

Next Saturday afternoon at the ball park there will be a ball game between the street railway employes and the firemen, and for an afternoon the "fare, please," and care of hose and apparatus will give away to base hits, fouls and other incidental accompaniments of the national game. AS SENATORIAL CANDIDATES.

Tawney, Johnson and Dolliver Forging to the Front.

Washington, June 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—If the tariff bill becomes a law with the schedules affecting the Northwestern states practically as fixed by the ways and means committee, it will bring to the front as senatorial candidates Tawney of Minnesota, Johnson of North Dakota and Dolliver of Iowa. It was almost entirely through the efforts of these gentlemen that protective duties were placed on flax, hemp, potatoes and other agricultural products, and Representative Tawney was largely instrumental in fixing the rates upon lumber. So far the senate has accepted the house rates on all the Northwestern products considered, and no changes will be made in conference.

It is practically certain that Johnson will succeed Roach from North Dakota, and Dolliver has a good chance for the place now held by Gear. It is not likely that Tawney would enter the contest against Davis, as it would be a hopeless fight, but the probabilities are that he will be Nelson's principal opponent when the latter comes up for re-election. With the tariff bill operating successfully, his chances of success would appear to be good.

BY THE POET LAUREATE.

Alfred Austin's Poem on the Diamond Jubilee.

London, June 21.—The Times today contains Alfred Austin's poem on the diamond jubilee. It is entitled "Victoria," and is in thirty stanzas. The poet laureate begins by describing how, when—

"They placed a crown upon her fair young brow,
Silent she gazed as one who does not know
The meaning of a message. When she broke
The hush of awe around her, 'twas as though
Her soul that spoke.

"With this dread summons, since 'tis heavens decree,
I would not falter, even if I could;
But, being a woman only, I can be
Not great, but good.

"I cannot don the breastplate and the helm;
To my weak waist the sword I cannot gird;
Nor in the discords that distract a realm
Be seen or heard.

"But in my people's wisdom will I share;
And in their valor play a helpful part
Lending them still, in all obey do or dare
My woman's heart.

"Never be broken, long as I shall reign,
The solemn covenant twixt them and me
To keep this kingdom, moated by the main
Loyal and free."

The poet laureate refers to her "princely helpmate, scorner of wrong and lover of the right," and continues, in the eighteenth stanza of the poem:

"So when the storm of wrath arose that drove Scared rulers from their realms, her throne, deep laid
In liberty and trust, calm shelter gave
To kings dismayed."

The poem then tells of her sorrow at her husband's death, but how "I am upbraided to my people and have won their deathless love," and concludes from the twenty-fourth stanza, as follows:

"Then to winds yet wider was unfurled
The flag that tyrants never could enslave,
Till its strong wisdom governed half the world
And all the wave.

"And panoplied alike for war or peace,
Victoria's England furroweth still the foam.
To harvest empire wiser than was Greece,
Wider than Rome.

"Therefore, with glowing hearts and proud, glad tears
The children rule her Island realm today.
Recall her sixty venerable years
Of virtuous sway.

"Now, too, from where St. Lawrence winds adown
'Twixt forests felled and plains that feel the plow,
And Ganges gewis the Imperial crown
That girds her brow.

"From Africa's cape, where loyal watch dogs bark,
And Britain's sceptre ne'er shall be withdrawn;
And that young continent that greets the dark
When we the dawn.

"From steel capped promontories, stern and strong
And lone isles mounting guard upon the main
Hither her subjects come to hail her long Resplendent reign.

"And ever when mid June muskroses blow
Our race will celebrate Victoria's name,
And even England's greatness gain a glow
From her pure fame."

You may never know it happened if you fail to read The Evening Herald.

Mrs. Kate Etter

OF MISSOURI,

Is Cured of Heart Disease by Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure.

MRS. KATE ETTER wrote from Neosho, Mo., in March last. "Two years ago I was severely troubled with my stomach and kidneys, and a great affliction so unnerved me that my condition became alarming. The telegraph brought a prominent physician in a consultation which resulted in no benefit. I went to Wyoming for change of climate without benefit, was brought back to Atchison where nurses worked with me night and day to keep me alive to reach my friends here. My heart became so bad that my friends gave up all hope. I began taking Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and Nervine alternately and was restored to health. It is now months since and I am perfectly well."

Dr. Miles' Remedies are sold by all druggists under a positive guarantee, first bottle benefits or money refunded. Book on Heart and Nerves sent free to all applicants.

OHIO REPUBLICAN STRIFE.

Warm Contest Over State Campaign Chairmanship.

Toledo, Ohio, June 21.—Although the Republican state convention does not assemble until tomorrow evening, there are many delegates here today. There is no opposition to the endorsement of Senator Hanna for re-election or to the renomination of Governor Bushnell and the rest of the state officers, but there is a hard fight pending between Maj. Charles W. T. Dick, secretary of the national committee, and Hon. Charles L. Kurtz for chairman of the state campaign committee. As the McKinley and Hanna men are supporting Dick, and the Foraker and Bushnell following favor Kurtz, the contest is the feature of the convention.

Nothing else is heard of here today, and this contest for the control of the organization has brought the delegates here early. Dick claims his election with thirteen out of the twenty-one state committeemen. Dick arrived here yesterday and Kurtz will be here tonight. Both have opened headquarters and their rooms are the only points of interest. The Kurtz men claim that the state committee today stands ten for Kurtz, ten for Dick and one doubtful. When the delegates meet by congressional districts tomorrow the members of the state central committee will be selected, and that committee elects the campaign chairman.

The Great Eastern

Good Clothes are Like Good Beefsteaks---

Independence Week

We've made prices so low that every man can have a new Suit for the Fourth!

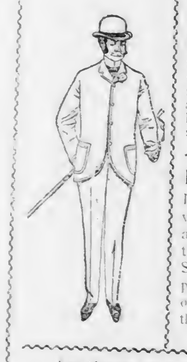
Booming Bargains that will vibrate so pleasantly through every home, office, shop and field! Snapping, cracking offers more brilliant than a wealth of pyrotechnics. TOMORROW we will light the fuse that will set the Suits a'sizzling for the great holiday.

Men's All-wool Business Suits

At a price that, considering the style and the thoroughly satisfactory quality of the Suits, is simply marvelous. You figure it out yourself, cloth, trimmings and the making itself, how can it be done at the price we name for this week..... $6.00 What can you get elsewhere for $6.00?

350 Men's Real Fine Suits

And when we say real fine, we mean it. We mean Suits that anyone can wear without hesitating, for they are as neat and good as the kind that other stores sell for $12. There are Cassimere, Cheviots and Homespuns, in either Sack or Frock styles, and the price—just think of it..... $7.50 What can you get elsewhere for $7.50?



A Greater Bargain Yet!

Are the Suits we offer for this week for $10. Anyone who knows the first rudiments of the clothing business knows that it costs that much and more to make and trim a decent suit of clothes—say nothing of the cloth. Is it not remarkable—is it not more than remarkable—that we should be able to offer you the choice of 400 suberb, stylish, well-made and well-trimmed strictly all-wool Suits of the newest and nobbiest sort—Suits that would be great values at $15 in other stores? This week..... $10.00 Have you ever before bought a Fine Suit for $10.00.

But We Reach the Climax of Value

In a lot of 500 Gentlemen's High-Grade Semi-Dress Suits, that we offer this week at $12. Elegant Worsteds, Beautiful Cassimeres, Nobby Cheviots and Scotch Tweeds, made up and trimmed equal to made-to-measure Suits. Garments that stand unsurpassed by the best, and other stores offer for $18, and all you'll pay for them this week is..... $12.00 Have you ever before bought a Suit equal to fine custom work for $12.00.

Are these not, each and every one of them, Bargains of the first magnitude? Is it not a clear, concise and overpowering demonstration of the fact that no other Clothing store can compare with the Great Eastern in giving Great Values for little money?

WERE NOT SATISFIED

ABILITY IS DOUBTED

Criticisms Made Against Him Were General and Not Specific.

The mandamus case against the city in which Judson D. Holmes, one time assistant city attorney, is relator, was taken up again before Judge Cant this morning, and the forenoon session was spent in hearing the aldermen explain how it happened that they did not vote on March 29 to re-appoint Mr. Holmes assistant attorney, or "associate," as the papers in the case designate the office.

Most of the witnesses who were called this morning seemed to believe that they were pretty well grounded in the sentiments which led them not to vote for Mr. Holmes. Some of them complained against the attorney's office generally, including ex-City Attorney Benham, while others spoke simply of the relator. There was an effort on the part of the relator to get the aldermen to admit that they had made a "deal," "combination" or "trade" by which Mr. Holmes was sacrificed to get Benham out, although they had no objections to Holmes himself. If there was such a political operation it did not appear this morning, for none of the aldermen remembered it.

Alderman Sang said that at the aldermanic caucuses preceding the appointment it seemed to be a foregone conclusion that they did not want Holmes. Witness, Alderman Richardson and others had remarked that he was not fit for the place. He could recall no specific instances of incompetency, as he had not come in immediate contact with Mr. Holmes.

Alderman Richardson said that while he was not familiar with Mr. Holmes' manner of conducting his duties, he had had reasons for complaint, and he instanced two cases where he, as chairman of the council finance committee, tried to get the relator to draw important resolutions, and he failed to do so. He had no knowledge of his legal ability, but he complained of Mr. Holmes' lack of interest in the welfare of the city. He also had heard complaints of the general management of the office. On cross-examination he admitted that he had taken considerable interest in getting Benham out, and that he had told Holmes that that was the principal consideration.

Alderman Rowley said that he had formed an unfavorable opinion of Mr. Holmes, and that he had heard of it both in and out of the council. He thought there was a lack of confidence in Holmes. On cross-examination he did not remember that there was any combination as to Mr. Holmes, though there was an effort to get rid of Benham.

Alderman Tischer also had an unfavorable opinion of the relator, which would affect confidence in his ability. One man had told him that neither Benham nor Holmes were fit for their places.

Alderman Simpson was non-committal, but he did not believe that the re-appointment of Holmes would have subserved the city's interests. He had heard comments both for and against Mr. Holmes.

Alderman Duren also testified that he had heard complaints against Holmes and had observed a lack of confidence in him.

The case was still on at noon.

WILL ARGUE IT WEDNESDAY.

Motion For a New Trial in Spellman Case.

Wednesday morning before Judge Moer C. O. Baldwin and County Attorney Arbury will argue the motion made by the former in the case against Rachel Spellman for an order setting aside the verdict and granting a new trial. Mrs. Spellman, it will be remembered, was found guilty of burning the building at Eighteenth avenue west owned by her husband and herself, with intent to prejudice the interests of the insurance company, which constitutes arson in the third degree. This morning a party of women, including some relatives of the defendant, called on Judge Moer to urge him to instill a good deal of judicial clemency into his handling of the case.

A motion for a new trial is to be argued in the Borgstrom case, but the date of argument has not yet been fixed.

All the labor put in the Merritt-Harris case by the parties and their attorneys have been of no avail owing to the indecision of a jury, the attorneys agreed before Judge Moer this morning to continue the case until the September term. One reason for this is that the attorneys have spent much time on the case and that they have other work to which they owe some time and energy. Another is that the jurors have all been excused and there will be no more until the September term begins. The case will probably be tried again at that term.

Not Yet Settled.

The Promberger case had not been settled up to a late hour this afternoon, and it was said that the prospect that it would be settled was not so bright as it appeared Saturday. It was said this morning on good authority that the amount raised was a large sum shy of the amount necessary. One statement placed the discrepancy at $2000.

BIKE COMPANY HARD UP.

Grand Rapids, Mich., June 21.—The Hamilton-Kenwood Bicycle company, of which Charles R. Sligh is the head, today filed mortgages aggregating $67,000. Morgan & Wright, of Chicago, are the heaviest creditors, their claims amounting to $10,000. Slow collections the cause.

TOMORROW'S CRICKET MATCH.

Personnel of Team That Will Represent Duluth.

Tomorrow the British Americans will have their cricket match at West Superior, on the normal school grounds. The game will be called at 2 o'clock. The Duluth players will leave here on the Eastern Minnesota railway at 1:10 p. m. The team is made up as follows: H. R. Walker, bowler and slip; A. E. Walker, cover point; F. Crassweller, long off; R. A. Eva, mid wicket; W. Barker, bowler and slip; J. M. Ray, square leg and bowler; F. W. Boldrick, wicket keeper; W. W. Harmon, long stop; J. A. Stephenson, long leg, J. I. Thomas long on; Charles McMillen, captain, point and bowler.

The names of the Superior players were not known here at noon. T. W. Hugo will umpire the game. In the evening there will be a banquet at one of the hotels.

EJECTED FROM THE TRAIN.

William Bohn Now Sues For Injuries Received.

A rather odd suit was begun in the United States court today by William Bohn against the Eastern Minnesota railway. He sues for $15,000 damages received on the defendant's railroad. The accident occurred July 26, 1895, according to the complaint. He was at Sandstone where he had been working and on the day named climbed on a car in one of the trains on the defendant's road. He admits that he was not in the road's employ, had no ticket or pass and was trying to get to Superior without paying. He claims that one of the defendant's employes found him and came at him with a club to drive him off the car. In order to escape him it was necessary for him to jump from the rapidly moving train. This he did and fell under the car, a wheel passing over one of his feet and crushing it. Since then he claims to have been constantly disabled. He alleges that the employes of the road had orders to put off anyone caught stealing rides without stopping the train. Alexander Athy, of Superior, is his attorney.

Accompanying the complaint was an affidavit permitting the plaintiff to begin his case without the payment of costs or fees because he is poor and unable to pay them.

Some time between Saturday night and this morning some person or persons took the nuts off of the axles of all of Scott & Holstein's slab wagons, about fifteen in number, that were in the yard at the mill, and this not being enough, some of the nuts were carried away. The mischief was not discovered until a couple of wagons had been loaded and started off. It was found necessary to shut down the mill.

NO LONGER MISSING

City Engineer-Elect McGilvray Arrived From the Woods Today.

WILLING TO ACCEPT

Gay Proposition Will Probably Not Be Put In Tonight.

T. F. McGilvray, city engineer-elect, reached Duluth at noon today over the Duluth & Iron Range railway. He left the train at Lakeside and went directly to his home. Up to a late hour this afternoon, he had not put in an appearance at the city hall. To Alderman Crassweller, who is an intimate friend of his, Mr. McGilvray has, it is said, expressed himself as being inclined to accept the position that has been chasing him through the woods for a week. But he has not communicated a formal acceptance to the board or to the council.

T. J. Weldon is the sleuth who tracked McGilvray to his lair. Weldon left Duluth on June 8 and found Mr. McGilvray's party, consisting of the latter and James Conroy and Frank Kerron, about 130 miles from Tower. Weldon met them on a bend of the Little Fork river about six miles south of the Canadian boundary. Weldon informed McGilvray of his election and told him that he had been sent out to catch him and bring him in. As soon as the work on which the party had been engaged was completed the homeward march was at once begun. They got to Fort Frances Wednesday night on the steamer Bridges. They found Lloyd's boat disabled and the Moose was "hung up" on a rock in the middle of Rainy lake. Mr. McGilvray did not get away from Fort Frances until 1 o'clock Friday. He missed the Crane Lake boat and had to wait at Kettle Falls until Saturday noon. The portage, twenty-six miles, was made on Saturday and the Sunday boat for Tower was caught.

Later—Mr. McGilvray has decided to accept the office and is out this afternoon arranging his bond with a view to having it presented to the council this evening.

TONIGHT'S MEETING.

Unless a breeze is stirred up in the council this evening over the charges made by the expert committee, to the effect that the board of public works has not acted according to instructions in letting the contract for rebuilding the pumphouse walls, the session will probably be a dull one. Aside from the possibility of this matter as a feature, the program will be as outlined in The Herald Saturday. It is not regarded as probable that Mr. Gay will submit his proposition for the sale of the gas and water plant this evening, nor, it is imagined, will the board of public works be heard from with the estimate of the cost of paralleling the present plant. The board refuses to address its request for data on the subject to Mr. Patton as engineer, as he has demanded it should, hence the necessary figures for the board to work on are not forthcoming.

WANTED AT ST. PAUL.

"Dude Charley" Arrested By Detective Donovan at Superior.

A colored gentleman known as "Dude Charley," who is wanted in St. Paul on a charge of indecent assault was arrested in Superior by Detective Donovan Friday night, the "Dude" being engaged at the time in taking tickets at a cake walk. He refused to come to Duluth, but said he would return to St. Paul without requisition papers, provided either Detectives Sweitzer or Gruber were sent after him. A message to this effect was sent to St. Paul and the prisoner was locked up in Superior until Detective Gruber arrived yesterday. The detective left with the "Dude" on the noon train. Three others implicated with the "Dude" are held in St. Paul under bail of $1000 each.

DRUGGIST BANKER FINED.

Must Pay Thirty Dollars For Practicing Medicine.

J. B. Banker, the Floodwood druggist, who was convicted a few weeks ago of practicing medicine without a license, was arraigned before Judge Moer this morning for sentence. Judge Moer ordered him to pay $50 or serve thirty days in the county jail. As Mr. Banker prefered the former alternative he was given until Monday morning at 9:30 o'clock to raise the money, and his bond was continued. He was accused of prescribing by Henry Hendrickson, a county patient, who celebrated the election of McKinley too ardently, who afterwards laid out in the open air until he contracted typhoid pneumonia, and who died from the effect of the combination.

Baron R. de Konig Visited Duluth This Morning.

Baron R. de Konig of Austria wrote his name on the Spalding autograph album yesterday and left this afternoon very reluctantly for Minneapolis. The baron is traveling about the world for pleasure, but it is said that he is a special commissioner of Emperor William, whose duty it is to examine the commercial and railroad system of this and other countries for the German government. He is a tall, slender man, with a full beard, and might easily be taken for ex-Senator Peffer of Kansas, for he has a beard fully as luxuriant as that of the Kansas statesman, although it is not quite as long. He talks just about as freely as the garrulous ex-senator, too, and as he informed a reporter for The Evening Herald, this afternoon, he has been a willing subject of fifteen interviewers since landing in America. He talks so rapidly and with such a strong accent that it is impossible for any one reporter to catch all he says, but he is a much traveled man and the hero of many battles, and has many subjects of interest to discuss.

"This is my first visit to America in thirty-three years," said he. "I came here with seven comrades—all of whom were killed, and fought during the war with the Union army. I was aide de camp to Gen. McClellan for two years. I was also with the army of the Mexican republic and did some fighting against the French, and I have just come from Cuba. I spent three hours with a reporter for the Philadelphia Telegram, just a few days ago, and gave him much information of a startling character concerning the atrocities perpetrated on that poor island by the Spanish. That is a great island, and the people are being terribly abused. I wish I had time to tell you of the things I saw there."

The baron is a warm sympathizer of the Cubans, and believes that they will win in their struggle for liberty. While talking with the reporter the baron was handed a telegram. After he had read it he said: "That is too bad. Here my trunks are checked and my train is about to start, and I need not be in Minneapolis until Wednesday. I would so like to remain here another day."

Just what news was given him by the dispatch that was so disappointing he did not explain, but addressing the bell boy, who was attending him as "Boots," he ordered him to gather up his traps and proceed to the depot with him.

FOR CASH ENTRY.

Tracts in Red Lake Reservation Are to Be Opened Soon.

Washington, June 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—If the plans of Land Commissioner Hermann do not miscarry the new force of pine land estimators will begin work in Red Lake and Beech Lake reservations shortly after July 1, when the new appropriation becomes available. The commissioner has decided to accept the estimates where the Staples and Douglas corps agree, and also to take Inspector Wright's estimates in place of either of the former. Where there is a wide discrepancy between the two first estimates there will be a re-estimate of such tracts.

Commissioner Hermann says there is no doubt that Secretary Bliss will permit sales of pine lands on the basis above stated, and that tracts will be opened to what is known as cash entry in a short time.

MR. McCARTNEY ACQUITTED.

Another Victory For the Sugar Trust Crowd.

Washington, June 22.—Judge Bradley today sustained the motion of the defense in the case of John W. McCartney, broker of this city, on trial for alleged contempt of the senate sugar trust investigating committee and ordered the jury to return a verdict of acquittal. The ground of the judge's decision was that the questions asked were individual questions of Senator Allen's and not committee questions.

Mr. McCartney was the last of the alleged recusant witnesses to be tried, so that the record stands acquittals six, convictions one, namely, Broker Elverton R. Chapman, of New York city, who served twenty-five days in jail.

WATERTOWN'S HORROR.

Building Collapses and Brings Death to Several.

Watertown, S. D., June 22.—At 7 o'clock last night the city was startled by a general fire alarm and a terrible shock accompanied by a loud report. The fire department quickly responded to the scene on Oak street, where the Mulholland building was found in ruins. This is a large 2-story brick building occupied by Berg & Olsen as a saloon, and the upper story filled with roomers.

The walls gave way without any warning. At the time the saloon was full of people, many of whom had come from the country to town to see Ringling Bros. circus. The building is a total ruin and the entire walls have fallen into the basement.

So far two dead bodies, those of D. W. Bradley and Phillip Patterson, have been taken out of the wrecked building. The injured rescued are David Waterhouse, who will die; Henry Zeeck, S. McDowell and Mrs. Austin.

Digging is still in progress and there are more bodies in the ruins.

NO MORE BODIES.

Minneapolis, June 22.—A special to the Journal from Watertown, S. D., says that no more bodies have been found in the debris, although the search has been thorough. Bradley, who was thought to have been dead, turns out to be alive, but badly injured.

COLORADO'S QUEER DISTINCTION.

Denver, Col., June 22.—For the ensuing years Colorado will be distinguished as the only state in the Union where the Fourth of July, Thanksgiving, Christmas, New Years, Washington's birthday and Memorial day are not legal holidays. The discovery has just been made that an act of the late legislature in regard to the negotiable instruments repealed the statute establishing the above named holidays. The only legal holidays left in Colorado are Arbor day, Labor day and the Saturday half-holiday.

JUBILEE MARCHERS

London Sees the Greatest Procession Civilization Has Ever Witnessed.

COLONIAL TROOPS

Her Majesty, the Queen, the Chief Object of Popular Acclaim.

Buckingham Palace, June 22.—The last of the procession is out of sight, the roar of cheers that marks its course up Constitution hill tells the beginning of the story of the queen among her people, while the artillery in Hyde Park, by a royal salute of sixty guns, are thundering the fact to waiting thousands elsewhere. The queen had actually started, and the hearts of thousands of insurance people and members of Lloyds beat more placidly as they remembered the premiums on $5,000,000 that had been wagered with them whether or not her majesty would start.

The procession was practically in three sections, as far as St. Paul's, though the two last en route to the cathedral were consolidated as they moved into Piccadilly. The first to take up position was the colonial procession, which formed on the embankment and moved via the Mall, thence west of the palace, where her majesty viewed it from a window, over the route to St. Paul's. The march began at 8:45 and the great cortege proved a welcome relief to the waiting multitude. The procession was headed by an advance party of the Royal Horse guards. Then followed the band of the same corps, playing the inspiriting "Washington Post March."

CANADA'S DISTINCTION.

Close upon the band came a portion of the picturesque Northwest mounted police as escort to the first colonial premier, the Hon. Wilfred Laurier. The Northwest police, men to whom evidently a saddle has never been a novelty, made a striking appearance; quite as brave and serviceable looking as the New South Wales mounted rifles, with their grey semi-sombreros and black creks plumes, who succeeded them, escorting the premier of New South Wales, the Hon. S. H. Reid. The Victorian mounted troops followed, smart, weather-beaten fellows, in unattractive brownish uniforms, succeeded by the New Zealand mounted contingent, a fine-looking sun-burned lot, drawn from almost every town of any importance in the colony, displaying uniforms intended for the conflict rather than the parade ground. Then the New Zealand's premier, the Hon Richard Seddon.

For the moment Australia gave way, after Africa was allowed a chance, and the Cape of Good Hope mounted rifles—well set-up men—wearing the scarlet, with white helmets, rode by to herald the coming of the cape premier, the Hon. Sir J. Gordon Sprigg, K. C. M. G. Hardly had he been noticed, and to the majority unknown, when attention was claimed for the yellowish-brown Kharkee, lit with bright scarlet from the blazing putgaree on the spiked helmets to the double stripes down the seams of tightly fitting corduroy trousers, with large chamois leather patches where the knee gripped the saddle, which proclaimed the South Australian mounted troops. Lean, long specimens of wiry manhood, they won applause like the rest, and passed on to give place to the premier of Newfoundland, the Hon. Sir W. V. Whiteway. From Newfoundland one was transported to Natal by the Natal mounted troops, a contingent similar in model and equipment to their Cape brothers in arms. Hon. Sir H. N. Nelson, K. C. M. G. rode after them, the official personification of Western Australia.

THE MOUNTED COLONIALS.

The premiers being disposed of, then succeeded a really more attractive display—the mounted trops of the crown colonies, the Rhodesian horse, the colonial infantry, broken by three bands, typical of the United Kingdom, those of St. Georges, the London Scottish and the London Irish rifle volunteer corps and others. Then there passed the splendid contingent from the Canada infantry, 175 strong, uniformed somewhat like the regular service infantry, with Col. Alymer leading. Much applause was bestowed on the fine marching of these men, who, in every way, kept the Dominion to the front.

Following came the real oddities in the eyes of Londoners, of which the Zapties, from Cyprus, divided the honors with the Dyaks, of Borme. Both are military police; the Zapties were mounted on island ponies, and naturally wore the Turkish fez, with a jacket somewhat suggestive of Constantinople and the minarets of Stamboul. The Borneo Dyaks, yellow colored, smallish chaps, were eagerly expected by the crowd, owing to their head hunting proclivities, of which, however, no trace could be noticed in their dress. These and others coming after, emphasized and repeated the fact how widely scattered are the races the queen rules. The Trinidad field artillery, the Sierra Leone militia, with their strange, small blue turbans and depending tassels and knickerbockers; the British Guiana police, with their white curtained caps, the Haussas in the familiar Zouave costumes of long ago, and the royal Niger Haussas—men who fought at Horin and Bidad—in uniforms of Kharkill cloth, trousers, exposing the leg and shaved heads, were all blacks. The Haussas, the blackest of the blacks, wearing "the burnished livery of the sun, were most enthusiastically greeted.

THE MILITARY PROCESSION.

The second procession passed the palace fifty minutes after the Colonials had climbed Constitution hill. It more than eloquently filled in the picture of Britain's war strength; more than magnificently completed the carnival of gorgeous costume and color. Scarlet and blue and gold, white and yellow, shining cuirasses and polished helmets, plumes and tassels, furs and gold and silver spangled cloths, bullion embroideries and accoutrements, splendid trappings and more splendid trappings for men, sashes and stars, crosses and medals—medals for the Crimea, Seringapatam, the Nile, Ashanti, Chitral, South Africa, Corea and dozens of others, and here and there the finest of them—the finest and most highly prized the world can show—the Victoria cross, death dealing weapons, swords and revolvers, carbines and cutlasses, batteries of artillery, men of splendid physique, and horses with rare action, fully entered into the spirit and meaning of it all; the fondly carried colors, for which these men would die, and over all the richest strains of that music they best loved to hear—the sight was one to stir the blood, as only soldiers have stirred it since the dawn of time. But the scores of troops and companies were literally too numerous to mention except as a brilliant whole. It seemed to be nothing so much as some stream of burnished gold flowing between dark banks of human beings gathered to witness its passage to a land of light.

THE QUEEN'S SECTION.

The empire had passed in review and the head of it all was now to come, her majesty. The royal procession proper was interwoven with the crowd of waiting dignitaries of all sorts. First came the aides de camp to the queen, these being headed by the prince of Wales and the dukes of Cambridge and Connaught, and the earl of Weymess. Then followed alone the lord lieutenant of London, his grace the duke of Westminster, in a lord lieutenant's dress. The duke was followed by a glittering cavalcade of officers, the headquarters' staff. To them succeeded field marshals.

Next came three officers of the auxiliary forces in attendance on his royal highness, the prince of Wales, equerries, gentlemen in waiting, and military attaches, foreign, naval and military attaches, a brilliant lot of gentlemen with a glittering array of titles, uniformed in the dresses of all the courts of Europe and half its crack regiments, and wearing all its stars. Then a compliment from the kaiser, a deputation from the First Prussian Dragoon Guards "Queen of Great Britain and Ireland's Own."

After the Germans came the most brilliant group of all the soldiery, the officers of the imperial service troops from India, and their uniforms, a mixture of the English regular army and native dress, were brilliant to a degree not to be witnessed outside of countries where barbaric splendor and ingenuity in embroidery is the rule. Swarthy featured fellows, suggestive, in unmoved countenances, of all the dark mystery of the East. Many also wore massive gold ear rings with enormous stones, while some wore, in addition, gold anklets ablaze with sapphires and emeralds. The special envoys not numbered among the princes followed the Indians—in eleven 2-horse landaus from the royal mews—all painted lake and vermillion. The royal arms were on the panels, royal crowns on the tops. A gorgeous coachman reposed in each box, clad in royal scarlet, white knee breeches and silk stockings, his important head bewigged with white horse hair, and crowned with a magnificent three-cornered hat decorated with ostrich plumes.

CROWD WAS IMPATIENT.

The crowd now began to show more eager interest in the approaching vehicles, they were nearer and nearer to the queen. Five road landaus, painted like those which had just vanished, only horsed by four horses, four with bays and the fifth with the Dutch blacks of the royal mews, appeared first. The occupants of these landaus were princes and princesses of the blood, the closest attendants upon her royal majesty, to say naught of her scores of more or less affectionate cousins from neighboring principalities. Then the first part of the sovereign's escort rode into view, the Second Life Guards. As their well known brilliant uniforms appeared the whisper ran electrically "she's coming." The Guards were soon succeeded by the escort of British and foreign princes. Many faces were known, recognized and cheered. This brilliant escort was composed of the flower of Europe's thrones.

Following the princes came the guard of honor—twenty-two officers of the native Indian cavalry corps—men of a fine physique, picturesque uniform and strange faiths. But for these the crowd had few eyes; for the commmander-in-chief, who followed behind them, none. They could see the queen's horses—it was "the queen at last."

HER MAJESTY, THE QUEEN.

A cheer broke forth that seemed to shake the ground, renewed again and again as her majesty's carriage approached. The famous eight Hanoverian creams, cream in color with long tails, white, cold, almost fish-like eyes and pink noses, their manes richly woven with ribbons of royal blue were now passing. Gorgeous they looked in their new state harness saddle-cloths of royal blue velvet with rich fringes of bulion, the leather work red morocco above and blue morocco beneath, glittering everywhere with the royal arms. The liveries of the postillions were in keeping with the harness and had cost $600 apiece. For once since the prince consort's death the queen permitted the mourning band to be removed from the men's arms and there was no note of sorrow.

The carriage in which her majesty rode now came abreast. It proved to be a carriage with a light running body built about a quarter of a century ago, and of which her majesty is known to be very fond. The body was dark claret, lined with vermillion, the mouldings outlined with beads of brass. Beside her majesty rode the princess of Wales, opposite her majesty Princess Christian. On the left of her majesty rode his royal highness, the duke of Cambridge, on the right his royal highness, the prince of Wales, who was followed by the duke of Connaught, the general officer commanding.

AT TEMPLE BAR.

The boundary of the faithful city has been crossed by her majesty who has received the ancient stately homage from her chief magistrate. The frame in which this picture was set was characteristic. On one side the broken gray pile of the law courts rose from porticres of legal luminaries, most of her majesty's judges in their splendid robes and full bottomed wigs, "Q. C.'s" galore in more somber silk and less voluminous horse hair, ladies in charming toilets and every window filled with eager faces.

The lord mayor and the city officials on horseback arrived ten minutes before the queen was due and very striking was their appearance. Sir Faudel-Phillips wore the earl's robe to which lord mayors are entitled when crowned heads visit the city—a cloak of ruby silk velvet, lined with white silk and edged with ermine. Sheriffs Ritchie and Rogers wore the sheriff's velvet

AN OHIO PROBLEM

Republicans in Convention Differ Over the New State Campaign Chairman.

HANNA VS. FORAKER

Chances Are That Hanna's Man, Dick, Will Be the Incumbent.

Toledo, Ohio, June 22.—The Republican state convention begins here today. It will nominate a full state ticket and endorse a candidate for United States senator. There is no opposition to Senator Hanna, for both the short and the long term, and none to the renomination of Governor Bushnell and other state officers, all of whom are running for their second terms. There is no friction over the resolutions or any of the ordinary issues at conventions. The contest has been from the start for the control of the state central committee which selects the campaign chairman. Each of the twenty-one congressional districts was closely canvassed in advance for committeemen, and both factions claimed a majority of the twenty-one members up to today.

Senator Foraker, Governor Bushnell and others have been untiring in their efforts to retain Chairman Charles L. Kurtz, while Senator Hanna and the old following of President McKinley and Secretary Sherman have supported Maj. Charles Dick for the place. Maj. Dick is now secretary of the national committee. He was chairman of the Ohio state executive committee in both of McKinley's campaigns for governor and in the presidential campaign of 1892. Dick was superseded by Kurtz as chairman in Governor Bushnell's first campaign two years ago and has held the place ever since. In addition to the factional elements represented there has been a strong rivalry for years between Dick and Kurtz, and the fight between them is the distinguishing feature of this convention. It has involved all the party leaders on one side or the other and is the most bitter contest that has been waged within either party for years.

The old state central committee held its last meeting this morning, but owing to the peculiar canvass for campaign chairman none of the contestants were decided for the temporary organization of the convention. These contests were referred back to the district meetings of the delegates this afternoon. Senator Hanna arrived from Cleveland with a large escort shortly after 11 a. m., and held a conference with Maj. Dick. The latter presented an ultimatum from Governor Bushnell. In this ultimatum Governor Bushnell authorized Maj. Dick to say to Senator Hanna that he (Bushnell) would decline renomination if Chairman Kurtz was not retained in charge of the state headquarters.

Hanna and Dick remained in secret conference some time, after which Senator Hanna and Governor Bushnell are to have a final conference previous to the district meetings of delegates at 3 p. m. There are many who say Governor Bushnell will recede from his ultimatum of declination, but in the event of his declination the Hanna men, who largely control the convention, say they will proceed to accept the declination and nominate J. H. Brigham, assistant secretary of agriculture, for governor. Brigham has been largely sought after here all day.

The conference between Senator Hanna and his friends closed at 12:30, when it was announced that the senator would not consent to the withdrawal of Maj. Dick as a candidate for campaign chairman. Among those in the conference room with Senator Hanna were Congressman Grosvenor, State Senator James A. Garfield, ex-Chairman William H. Hahn, Maj. Dick and Col. Myron T. Herrick. They were together over an hour, and then Senator Hanna called on Governor Bushnell, the two being closeted alone.

After being together for an hour, Senator Hanna and Governor Bushnell unlocked their doors and both told their friends, who were in waiting, that they had been unable to get together on any propositions made to each other. Senator Hanna insisted on leaving the whole matter to the district meetings this afternoon. Governor Bushnell requested the withdrawal of Dick so as to avoid the heated conflicts in the district meetings and possibly in the convention, while the friends of both the senator and the governor urged a compromise on a new man. Neither Hanna nor Bushnell would consider such a proposition.

After the senator and the governor conferred with their respective friends, it was announced that Senator Hanna and Governor Bushnell will meet again for a final conference previous to the district meetings at 3 p. m. The Kurtz men accuse the senator and the Dick men with killing time so as to have no understanding previous to the district meetings, which it is said Senator Hanna will control in favor of Dick.

While Senator Hanna and Governor Bushnell were conferring with their respective friends, it was learned that Senator Hanna had proposed to withdraw the name of Maj. Dick and that the latter had consented on condition that Chairman Kurtz also withdraw, and a new man, satisfactory to both Governor Bushnell and Senator Hanna, be selected. Soon after 2 o'clock Senator Hanna and his friends, Governor Bushnell and his friends went to lunch with every indication that there would be no compromise, and that the issue would be contested in the district meetings this afternoon and at the meeting of the state committee tonight. The governor and the senator were in conference during luncheon, but the busy Kurtz men did not indicate any disposition to accept the compromise, and the Hanna and Dick men said they had conceded everything except the selection of Kurtz, and that they could not and would not concede.

MURPHY WILL CONTEST.

San Francisco, June 22.—The heirs of the late Isabella M. Murphy, who died suddenly in England last March, have commenced a contest over her will, dated March 23, 1891. By its terms the deceased bequeathed all her property to her sisters, Mrs. Helen Dominguez and Miss Frances J. Murphy, Lady Anna T. Woolsey, sister, Samuel J. and Daniel T. Murphy, brothers, Eugene B. and Charles Murphy, nephews, offer for probate another will, dated Nov. 20, 1896, by which the whole estate is bequeathed to Rev. W. J. Smullen, of St. Helens, Ongerlin, in Essex, Eng., who, they allege, has renounced all claim to the estate in favor of the rightful heirs.

THE OHIO BIMETALLISTS.

Listen to an Address By Charles A. Towne.

Cincinnati, June 22.—The Ohio Valley Bimetallic league met today at the Pike Opera House building and chose George Washington, of Newport, Ky., temporary chairman. Delegates were present from Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, and West Virginia. Chairman Washington made a brief address, stating the object of the meeting was to organize league bimetallic clubs of the four states named for the purpose of furthering the free colnage of gold and silver.

D. T. Schneider, of Newport, was chosen temporary secretary, after which the convention listened to a set address by Hon. Charles A. Towne, of Duluth. The afternoon was spent in a pleasure ride to the suburbs.

BALDWIN IS TO GO.

Darwin S. Hall to Be Made Chippewa Indian Commissioner Again.

Washington, June 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Authentic information from the state department this afternoon now makes it certain that certain members of the Minnesota delegation will soon secure the official scalp of Chippewa Indian Commissioner Baldwin. His removal will be made within a few days, and Darwin S. Hall, of the Third Minnesota district, who formerly held this position, will succeed him. While nearly every member of the delegation from the lower house has a candidate for this commissionership, Secretary Bliss has informed them that, under the civil service rules, none of their candidates can be appointed, and that only Hall can have the place Baldwin holds, by reinstatement under the service.

MORRIS RETURNING.

He Will Adopt Heatwole's Plan of Settling the Postoffice Contests.

Washington, June 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Representative Morris left here for Duluth today, ostensibly to look after some legal business, but it is generally understood that the object of his return home is to follow the plan adopted by Representative Heatwole in the selection of postmasters. The various candidates can meet him at Duluth and he can discuss the situation with them, examine their endorsements and decide upon the men he will recommend for the various offices.

Heatwole proved himself a wise politician when he adopted this plan, and it is said to be working very successfully, so Morris doubtless desires to profit by his experiment. It is presumed that Morris has notified these candidates whom he desires to meet.

DULUTH INVENTORS.

A Patent Is Issued For a Press Board.

Washington, June 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—A patent for a press board was today issued to Peter M. Carlson and J. J. Hagberg, of Duluth.

DAUNTLESS IS CAPTURED.

With Men, Arms and Ammunition on Board.

Washington, June 22.—The secretary of the treasury today received information of the capture of the suspected filibusterer Dauntless yesterday off Indian Key, Fla., with men, arms and ammunition on board. No further particulars are given.

THE NORWEGIAN LUTHERANS.

Resolve to Continue Madagascar Mission Work.

St. Paul, June 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—There was an instructive discussion this morning at the session of the United Lutheran Norwegian church. One thing of interest to the convention was the report of the board of trustees of Augsburg seminary. It was resolved that the convention express its gratitude to the board of trustees and particularly to Rev. N. C. Brun, for their efforts to come into possession of the real and personal property of the Augsburg seminary. The convention authorized the board to make a collection within the church for defraying the expenses of the case. A suitable recompense is granted Rev. N. Brun, of Lake Mills, Iowa, for the work done. Rev. M. Slettedahl opposed the paying of this amount out of the general treasury.

A surprise was sprung on the convention by Rev. President Dreyer, who has been associated with the mission committee for years. The mission committee proposed that the work in the field at Madagascar be continued. Rev. Dreyer insisted that as the work had not been a success it should be given to the Norwegian Mission society which was able to carry it on. From the speeches that followed it appeared that there was a strong tendency in the younger generation of the church to keep up the work. Mr. Dreyer's motion was lost by an almost unanimous vote.

JOB FOR GOODNOW

The Minneapolis Politician and Baseball Magnate Rewarded By McKinley.

CONSUL AT SHANGHAI

Sam Snider Is to Get Lewis Baker's Place---Swenson For Denmark.

Washington, June 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Goodnow, the Minneapolis politician and baseball magnate, was today nominated for consul general to Shanghai. The post is a very important one from a commercial standpoint and pays a salary of $5000 per annum with perquisites. The Washington correspondent of The Herald predicted several weeks ago that Goodnow was seeking a place of this kind, but he vigorously denied it, as did his friends. He put in a bid for this position either before or shortly after McKinley's inauguration. He came here last week to hurry matters up and succeeded beyond his own expectations. Goodnow will accept the place of course and there is no doubt of his confirmation by the senate.

The appointment is almost a personal one on the part of President McKinley. He turned the state over to McKinley at a critical period before the St. Louis convention, and today got the reward that the president doubtless thinks is due to him. As a mere matter of form he secured the endorsement of both Senators Davis and Nelson. None of the members of the lower house were for him, so far as can be ascertained.

The selection of Goodnow for this position will prevent former Congressman Snider from being appointed minister to China. Snider, however, will be given the position now occupied by Lewis Baker, as minister to the the Greater Republic of Central America, which pays $10,000 per year. It is also known to be a fact that Professor Swenson, of Albert Lea, will be appointed minister to Denmark very shortly.

TODAY'S APPOINTMENTS.

Washington, June 22.—The president today sent the following nominations to the senate: Justice—J. Otis Humphrey, to be attorney for the Southern district of Illinois; Charles P. Hitch, marshal for the Southern district of Illinois; James M. Shoup, of Idaho, marshal for the district of Alaska.

Treasury—Richard Yates, of Illinois, collector of internal revenue for the Eighth district of Illinois.

State—John Goodnow, of Minnesota, to be consul general at Shanghai, China; Horace W. Metcalf, of Maine, consul at Newcastle-on-Tyne, England; L. Edwin Dudley, of Massachusetts, consul at Vancouver, B. C.; William Jarvis, of New Hampshire, consul at Milan, Italy.

Interior—Philip Gallagher, of Washington, to be a commissioner in and for the district of Alaska.

The consulship at Shanghai is one of the best places in the consular service. The salary is $5000 a year, and the fees are very large, amounting to about $10,000, according to the latest estimates. The present consul general is Thomas R. Jernigan, of North Carolina.

WARSHIPS ON LAKES

New Plan Proposed to Aid the Great Lakes Shipbuilders.

Washington, June 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Congressman Smith of Michigan, who, as a member of the house committee on foreign affairs during the last congress, took a great interest in the proposition to abrogate the diplomatic understanding which keeps lake shipbuilders from constructing war ships for the government, has not yet given up the idea. There is no reason to believe that he will not again be a member of the foreign affairs committee, and Smith is accordingly prepared to push the plan to help the great lakes.

He had a long conference with Assistant Secretary of State Day this afternoon, and his enthusiasm got that gentleman deeply interested. The plan they discussed was that of negotiating a treaty to take the place of the present "understanding," and to include in its provisions one that will allow Uncle Sam to build ships on the lakes if he wants to. Day took an earnest part in the conference, and there is no doubt he will do what he can.

LONDON CROWDS

Wait All Night to See the Dawn of the Diamond Jubilee Day.

LAVISH DECORATION

A Blaze of Purple Tempered With Red, White and Blue.

London, June 22.—The last stroke of 12 had not died away in the midnight air when from a hundred metropolitan steeples a tumultuous peal of bells announced Diamond Jubilee day. The vast crowd that filled the miles of streets and squares answered with ringing cheers and here and there the singing of "God Save the Queen." The crowds that peopled the streets and squares all night in hope of a good view of the procession today were amazing in their sublime patience. Waiting for twelve, fourteen and sixteen hours, as many of these people are doing, jammed together, is a feat of endurance that could only be sustained by some over-mastering desire. Quite half of these jubilee waiters were women, many of them with the pale, careworn look of the London worker, yet all enduring the back-breaking tediousness with the utmost good-nature. Some had campstools, some sat on projections of buildings, on curb stones or leaned in doorways, and the angles made by stands. Refreshments were in order everywhere, and the police had little trouble, cheery good humor being the note of the night. During the long hours snatches of song and occasional bursts of cheering showed that the people were determined to enjoy the festival of patriotism and loyalty to the utmost. A clear starlit sky and cool air kept the spirits of the crowd at the topmost point throughout the vigil. With dawn the hope of queen's weather merged in certainty and the world here prepared itself in fullest confidence for a day of pleasure.

The earliest active indication of the great event—apart from the people waiting it—was shortly before 6, the arrival of vestry carts to freshly gravel the roadways, after the fashion which prevailed in the good old days of Sam Pepys. Then a little later the inevitable precursor of any procession, the police, began to arrive in great numbers —8000 being distributed along the line of route. The streets on the north side of the Thames were closed to ordinary vehicular traffic at 7:30; on the south side at 8 a. m. London bridge had been closed to all traffic at midnight and Westminster bridge and other bridges between, at 5 this morning, at which hour all persons were removed from Westminster and London bridges.

The first great difficulty of the police was assisting owners of seats on stands and houses to get to them, they being permitted to drive to them up to 10 o'clock, for there was a vast interval between a title to a seat and actual possession. The crowds on the sidewalks were quite willing to give passage to the favored mortals who owned seats, but to do so was difficult—it was an attempt to divide six into four with no remainder. And the difficulty was further increased by the arrival of the troops, after 8:30, taking up their appointed places. The wise, however, had reached their seats in stands or obtained access to houses where they had bought windows by 7 o'clock to 7:30, and it was only the inevitable late-comers who had to push and struggle in the case of ladies, much to the damage of their toilets. At length order was evolved out of chaos—many of the extreme late-comers were peremptorily shut out and everybody settled down to wait. The picture was complete. The last touches of decorator, upholsterer and florist had been given, the fine effect of the decorations could be viewed, the faces were in their places.

Decoration for her majesty's jubilee has been universal and without stint. Could the queen have passed this morning through some of the wretched streets of her great London, some of those narrow, ill-favored alleys where pale-faced children come to believe the sky is only a yard wide, where there is want and hunger and disease the year round—she could have found no more striking evidence of her abiding place in the hearts of her people. The resplendent West End with its crimson glory, great banners, triumphal arches, parterres of costly blossoms meant no more, if half so much as the tiny paper flag, the yard or so of narrow red, white and blue stretched along a window sill and around a common flower pot with its single rose, modest decorations, which formed today shrines for the children of the shadows in the Whitechapel, Spitalfields, Hoxton or Shoreditch alleyways.

It is, however, to the six and three-quarter miles of the processional route that one must turn for what are considered the jubilee decorations. In describing them it may be said at the outset the art of street decoration is not understood in London. While here and there much that is beautiful meets the eye, it is not possible to escape the fact that the ensemble has been ruined by lack of concerted effort. The means employed have been as varied as the ends achieved. While there is plenty of red, white and blue, the greatest reliance has been placed on royal crimson trimmed with gold. Mottoes are beautiful with scrolls, banners, flags, the royal arms, the imperial monogram, portraits of the queen in every possible form of reproduction, and unlimited allusions to "1837-1897."

In the richer streets are countless costly blossoms, but paper flowers have not been disdained especially in such decorations as are in the streets proper, and the green of evergreen and fir and laurel garment the triumphal arches. Venetian masts with thin, idly waving pennons, shields and standards of flags, flowers and ferns lend more of the picturesque than perhaps anything else. There were no scrolls or decorations stretched across the street, by the queen's express desire, owing to an accident that befel in the jubilee ten years ago, when a faling motto bid fair to frighten the queen's horses and disturb the sweet smile her majesty likes to wear. Naturally the flags of all nations figured conspicuously in this carnival of color.

Buckingham palace itself was undecorated save for the royal standard which floated above it. The stands in front and along the garden west as far as Hyde park corner, which were filled with civil servants, household servants and their friends, were more to be noted for the happy faces of the people contained than for prominence in decoration, although the long lines of national color under the trees were decidedly effective. Indeed it was not until passing Constitution hill that one was face to face with the great effect first noted what the gradual adornment of the last month had led to. All the old landmarks were there, of course, but the streets were transformed beyond recognition. It all seemed some large fair or gigantic festival.

All the houses and clubs of Piccadilly, from Hyde Park corner to St. James' street, were ablaze with multi-colored draperies, relieved with hundred-weights of flowers. Red, white and blue was the prevailing combination, not only in bunting and cloths, but also in blooms—scarlet geraniums, white marguerites and deep blue lobelias. Of the houses, Devonshire house and Bath house were the most prominent, Bath house being by far the most artistic, with scarlet draperies, festooned in a ground of yellow and red stripes, escutcheons and groups of flags, with baskets of flowers here and there. The universal "V. R." with the imperial crowns were not lacking.

St. James' street was completely transformed and presented a brave appearance, with its tall Venetian masts, streamers, laurel wreaths and rich festoons. The Devonshire club was notable—scarlet and white predominating—the rich draperies bearing excellent portraits of her majesty. In Pall Mall much of the color was contributed by the stands. The Bachelors' club, at the foot of Waterloo place, was decked in a suit of red, white and blue. A little further on at the Pall Mall east entrance to St. Martin's parish more ambitious decoration was attempted. Between this point and Exeter hall the vestry had placed eighteen arches, formed of colored globes or balloons of celluloid, of the kind used in Paris during the czar's visit. The supporting poles were about five feet high, decorated with an oriflamme or banneret, and an escutcheon with two flags. The masts carried a garland of 118 globes to each arch, and every balloon contained an electric lamp of ten candle power. Though of course this was to be best at night, still it was by no means ineffective in day time decoration.

At Exeter hall, entering the domain of the Strand board of works, an abrupt change was made from celluloid balloons to a line of Venetian masts, parallel with the footways, extending to the law courts and the city limits. The masts were of gold with bannerets between, in graceful loopings, garlands of paper and muslin flowers, which were quite effective. The design was light and striking. The Griffin—the site of old Temple Bar—was so covered with decorations for both day and night as to be almost unrecognizable. Garlands, shields and national flags were on the four sides, while among the mottoes the least common was "Victoria, Our Beloved Ruler of Great Britain's Realms."

The prevailing color in Fleet street was white and gold, and a light arch spanned the street, unlike the majority of arches, suggesting the Indian empire, as decorative use was made of the elephant. Ascending Ludgate hill the sight was most attractive. High walls of color and immense seas of faces sloping up to the great gray walls of Christopher Wren's masterpiece—(St. Paul's cathedral)—which really seemed to rise out of the hearts of the people—was a sight tremendously impressive. Round the cathedral the roadway had not been decorated, but the abutting premises were clothed from corner to cornerstone with decorations reflecting and emphasizing the whole genius of a people represented here in symbol or in substance.

Turning into Cheapside there was plenty of color, plenty of money spent, but no effect was noteworthy until, passing out of it, the Mansion house stood revealed, perhaps the most gorgeous and artistic bit of decoration on the entire route. From the central flagstaff was flown the royal standard, surrounded by twenty-five national banners, mounted on flower-wreathed poles. In the center of the pediment stood the shield of the city of London, heraldicly colored, backed by a handsome trophy of national flags, and flanked on either side by large cornucopias. On the central cornice was the inscription: "God Bless Our Queen," in gold letters, and on either side the dates, "1837-1897." The windows were decorated with crimson plush draperies, gold ornaments and emblems typical of the nation. A number of heraldic shields, backed by ermine mantles and trophies of national flags, adorned the front of the building. In front of the balcony there was a profusion of blue drapery, ornamented in gold, with imperial crowns and monograms, and finished with bullion fringe, rosettes and tassels. The columns of the building were entwined with wreaths, and here and there between depended rich baskets of flowers.

Passing onward through King William street to London bridge, Venetian masts were again noticeable, bearing golden banners, entwined with floral garlands and having laurel wreaths underneath a crown at the top of the masts. The monument was draped with lines of flags and festoons of lanterns, carried to the surrounding buildings. London bridge was quite effectively decorated. Both sides supported tall masts, topped with royal crowns in gold and bearing banners. The first and each alternate mast carried a floral wreath tied with gold silk, and the inevitable letters, "V. R." The second and each alternate mast was entwined with evergreen festooning, bearing a shield backed by a trophy of five national flags. Each mast and lamp post was connected longitudinally by two floral festoons as well as a festoon of small flags, attached to the top of the floral festoon. Every lamp post bore suspended two floral baskets. At each end of the bridge was a graceful floral arch, the supporting uprights of which displayed the symbolical "60," while the festoons between carried "1837," "1897," and an imperial crown.

South of the Thames the decorations were less extensive, though by no means scanty. The Westminster bridge road was enlivened by two lines of high Venetian masts, with entwined evergreens, surmounted by golden crowns and adorned with trophies of national banners, shields and baskets of flowers alternately. The masts were garlanded together with double lines of artificial flowers. Parliament street had somewhat similar masts with bannerets, crowns and ornate mouldings. The lines taken by the festoons were varied and presented a pretty succession of curves.

In streets off the line of route the decorations were as lavish as was commensurate with the prosperity of the inhabitants. Flags, banners and imperial devices of every sort were displayed, many windows had hangings of some sort, generally scarlet and gold, or red, white and blue, and many others added flowers. In short, by decorations as by everything else, London was transformed into a vast court, at which an empire rendered fealty to its sovereign.

The other day a New Yorker started across Broadway. He was in the heyday of ambitious, vigorous youth. A puff of wind blew an insignificant, almost invisible atom of dust in one of his eyes. It blinded him. He clasped his hands over his eyes and staggered on, only to be run down and killed by a cable car. That man's death was due to an insignificant trifle, an atom of dust that was barely visible under the microscope. It is thus with health. Men find that they are suffering from a trifling disorder of the digestion. It doesn't amount to anything, they think, and time is precious. They don't stop to correct it, but stagger blindly on and are run down in the heyday of ambitious youth by death.

Neglected indigestion is the first cause of all manner of wasting diseases and all forms of nervous disorders. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures all disorders of the digestion. It invigorates the liver, imparts a keen, hearty appetite and causes the life-giving elements of the food to be perfectly assimilated. It purifies the blood and builds healthy tissue. It is the great blood-maker, flesh-builder, and nerve tonic. It cures consumption, wasting diseases and all disorders of the nerves.

"I was a sufferer five or six years from indigestion," writes B. F. Holmes, of Gaffney, Spartanburg Co., S. C., "also from sore stomach and constant headache. I then used Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Pleasant Pellets,' which in a few days gave me permanent relief."

"The People's Common Sense Adviser" explains symptoms of ailments common to every family, and suggests remedies. It has several chapters on woman's diseases and weaknesses. IN SUPREME COURT.

Chief Justice Start Was In a Decidedly Reversing Mood.

St. Paul, June 22.—The district court fared hard at the hands of the supreme court yesterday. Out of six decisions handed down by Chief Justice Start, all but two were reversals.

In the case of Melville E. Bryant vs. the American Surety company of New York, appellant, the lower court is reversed. It is held that an action for malicious prosecution, like those for slander, libel, etc., must be brought within two years of the commission of the act.

In the case of John Madson, respondent, against Erick Madson, as administrator, etc., et al, a dispute over the title to some land, in which the case seems to rest largely on verbal testimony, the order of the lower court is reversed. Judge Start holds that where a married man had sold land, but his wife did not join therein, she is not estopped to assert, after his death, her title to one-third of the land by the mere fact that she knew of the sale and that the purchaser was in possession of the land and made no objection thereto during coverture.

The value of oral evidence also cuts a considerable figure when it comes to testing the validity of the proceedings by which it is sought to lay out a public highway, a good deal more, in fact, than the district judge down in Faribault county seems to have calculated. In the case of Gustave Banze, respondent, against the city of Faribault and Basil Smout, Fred Willie and John Neibuhr, Chief Justice Start, in reversing the order of the lower court, says that oral evidence is competent, in aid of a petition and order for the laying out of a highway, to show that the petition was signed by the necessary number of qualified petitioners.

The question as to what evidence is necessary to establish the existence of a partnership is at issue in the case of H. Rosenbaum, appellant, against E. C. Howard and J. C. Haynie, co-partners as Howard & Haynie, respondents. The district court is held to have erred in instructing the jury that there was no evidence from which they could find that the defendant was in fact a partner with his co-defendant in the case. The supreme court rules that deeds will be held prima facie to be partners as to creditors on slighter proof than is necessary to establish that relation among themselves. In such cases, representations, conduct and circumstances naturally calculated, or likely to beget the belief that the parties as alleged is sufficient to make the question one for the jury.

A debtor that transfers some of his property at the wrong time in order to get it out of the hands of his creditors, sometimes gets the man that purchases it from him in a lot of trouble. This is the case with N. P. Clarke & Co., who transferred some logs to C. P. McClure. The latter worked them up in lumber, and later the assignee of Clarke, Lucas Kells, brought suit to recover the logs and the lumber manufactured therefrom. The court holds that he is entitled to do this, and he is not allowed to pay the price of the logs, nor may he obtain an accounting as to the cost of manufacturing the lumber. He simply has to give it up. The decision of the lower court is affirmed.

In the case of the Security bank of Faribault, respondent, against Robert E. Lucas, et al, defendants, Isaac Waite, appellant, it is said that a promissory note payable to the order of the maker is, when negotiated by him, without indorsement, the legal equivalent of a note payable to bearer. Judgment affirmed.

SENATE EXCITED

First Vote on the Wool Schedule Causes a Big Surprise.

A BITTER FEELING

Allison and Foraker Have a Lively Tilt Over the Result.

Washington, June 22.—The wool schedule was taken up in the senate today. The first contest came on a motion to reduce the rate on first-class wool from 11 cents to 10 cents a pound. It carried by 55 to 13. The announcement of the result was followed by a mild sensation on the Republican side. Mr. Carter said the vote disclosed a purpose to reduce the wool rates, and served notice that a day of reckoning would come when the combination would hear more about the matter. He suggested a postponement of the wool rates. Mr. Foraker, of Ohio, vehemently reinforced Mr. Carter's remarks, and announced that unless the agreement that he supposed had been reached on wool was respected every senator must act for himself. Mr. Allison endeavored to smooth matters and mildly resented the suggestion of a combination. He intimated a willingness to postpone the disputed rates, but with a display of temper said: "Senators are not to be driven, and the senate is not a good place to drive." "And that is why I won't be driven," retorted Mr. Foraker.

"Nor will I," came in Mr. Allison, for the first time flushing and showing great feeling. If there had not been an insinuation of a combination he would have moved a postponement of all paragraphs open to question, but with the senate "thrown into a condition of excitement," he did not propose to submit to threats. "And therefore it is," proceeded Mr. Allison passionately, "I am not to be driven by threats by anybody. We are told we are in a combination, and that the combination will not vote for the bill. I am for the bill, and expect to perfect it and vote for it, and I do not wish to be charged, as a member of the finance committee, directly or indirectly, with dealing with this question in a covert way."

Mr. Foraker had remained on his feet, and with biting scorn he replied to Mr. Allison: "If anybody is excited," he said sarcastically, "we have only to look about the chamber and see who the excited persons are." He proceeded to show that entirely new features had been proposed on the wool schedule which senators had not had an opportunity to examine.

Mr. Quay came in to inquire as to what the agreement was to which Mr. Foraker had referred.

The Ohio senator said the agreement was informal, but Mr. Quay was informed as to it, having been invited to attend a meeting when senators considered what could be done toward an agreement on certain features of the wool schedule. Subsequently the results of this meeting had been laid before the finance committee. "In fact, you were present and a party to the agreement," said Mr. Foraker blandly to Mr. Quay.

THAT KANSAS METEORITE.

Hutchinson Man Captures a Fragment of It.

Wichita, Kas., June 22.—The meteorite which was seen here about 11 o'clock Sunday night was observed, according to later reports, throughout the Eastern Kansas and as far west as Larned. All reports agree as to the remarkable brilliancy of the meteoric visitor, the period of brightness being fully fifteen seconds, and the light being so strong and penetrating that the interiors of houses were light. Several points report the same rumbling shocks that were experienced here immediately after the passage of the meteorite.

Hutchinson reports that a spark from the meteorite fell on B street, in that city, and is now in the possession of a druggist. It is described as granite, bearing traces of iron. Its weight is thirteen and one-half pounds.

CAUSES HEAVY ARRIVALS.

Pacific Coast Importers Forestalling the New Tariff.

San Francisco, June 22.—The expectation of a new tariff law in early operation has resulted in the rushing of cargoes of Oriental goods to this port. Recently the British freight steamers Glenavon, Hupeh and Clauden arrived and the Glenshiel is under way. These four steamers have a joint capacity of nearly 20,000 tons, and that amount of freight brought here, in a period of three weeks, is in excess of the regular carrying trade of the Pacific company's line of steamers.

Repairs and improvements will be made on the house during the summer. The Clevelands remain at Gray Gables until Oct. 1.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

Eau Claire, Wis., has a social sensation. A prominent lady is charged with forgery and uttering bogus deeds.

At Chicago at a meeting of the directors of the Social Democracy of America last night the following officers were elected: E. V. Debs, chairman; Sylvester Keliher, secretary; James Hogan, vice president; William E. Burns, general organizer. The directors who chose these officers and were themselves elected at the meeting were E. V. Debs, Sylvester Keliher, James Hogan, William E. Burns, Leroy Goodwin. The salary of the officers was placed at $100 per month.

The great tailors' strike in New York has ended in a complete victory for the strikers.

The consting steamer Onni, while near Skamnes, Finland, with 140 passengers on board took fire and was burned to the water's edge. Six persons perished in the flames. The rest were saved, though several were severely injured. The fire was caused by the overturning of a spirit lamp.

At Syracuse, N. Y., Tommy Ryan knocked out Tom Williams, champion welterweight of Australia, in the first minute of the second round of their fight before the Empire Athletic club last night.

Fire broke out in the Brooklyn navy yard shortly before 10 o'clock last night and did damage to the extent of about $100,000. The building known as No. 13 was partly destroyed. It was occupied mainly by the ordnance department.

A mob of 300 infuriated peasants have seized and lynched one Dudnik, a murderer, who was being conveyed by the police from Novibourg to Kherson in Russia. Dudnik was charged with the commission of thirteen murders. The police have arrested thirty-five of the ringleaders of the lynching party.

John L. Sullivan will leave Boston today for White Plains, N. Y., where he is to go into training for the summer, under the direction of William Muldoon, the wrestler and trainer. The prospect of a meeting between him and Fitzsimmons is growing more favorable every day.

Thirteen colored persons, who formed part of the 200 sent to Liberia by the International Emigration society in March, 1896, arrived in New York yesterday aboard the steamship Liberia. They say the scheme has been a total failure; that many of their number died of starvation and fevers; that the society did not fulfill the contract and many members of the expedition are stranded in England unable to get back to their homes.

The convention of the Elks, which is to be held in Minneapolis in July has stirred up a hornets' nest between the Chicago-St. Paul roads and there is likely to be trouble before the matter is settled. The roads of the Central Passenger association have made a round trip rate of $15 between Chicago and Minneapolis for the meeting and three of the lines between Chicago and Minneapolis say that they will not agree to the rates nor will they meet them in any way.

Paul Staarie, Norwegian, 45 years old, died yesterday afternoon at Spring Valley, Minn., from blows administered last Friday by his son-in-law, Anton Johnson, who was in a drunken frenzy at the time the deed was committed. Family troubles had existed some time between Staarie and Johnson made good his escape until this evening when he was captured. He will have a hearing Tuesday.

WHEAT ADVANCED

Fears of a Wet Harvest In Illinois Caused By Rainfall.

THE RECEIPTS LIGHT

Exports From the Atlantic Ports Were Also Lower Than Normal.

Wheat opened steady and unchanged here, and easy and lower at Chicago, where the defeat yesterday of the proposed amendment to the rules was responsible for some short selling by people who heretofore have been apprehensive of elevator selling trouble. The opening decline there was quickly recovered. The weather map showed a rainfal of 3.02 inches at Cairo and created fears of a wet harvest. This fear was evidently shared by St. Louis, which market exhibited considerable strength. The Northwest receipts were light, 333 cars, against 395 last week and 820 a year ago. Chicago receipts were six cars and 138,000 bus were withdrawn from store. Exports from the Atlantic seaboard were small, the wheat and flour together amounting to only 200,000 bus. Bradstreet's did not receive any figures on the change in European and on passage stocks, so the world's visible was not forthcoming, but the domestic stocks east of the Rockies were given at a decrease of 2,861,000 bus.

Trading was fairly active on the Duluth board. July wheat opened unchanged at 71¾c, advanced at the end of the first hour to 72¼c, but at noon had receded again to 71⅞c. The close was firm with buyers at 72c, an advance of ¼c for the day. Shippers bought 15,000 bus of cash stuff at 5c over July. Following were the closing prices:

Wheat—No. 1 hard, cash, 73¾c. No. 1 northern, cash, 72c; July, 72c bid; September, 67⅝c bid; December, 65c. No. 2 northern, 68⅝c. No. 3, 59½@65¼c. Rejected, 48½@63½c. To arrive—No. 1 hard, 72¾c; No. 1 northern, 72c. Rye, 34c. No. 2 oats, 21½c; No. 3 oats, 20¾c. Flax, 75⅝c.

Car inspection—Wheat, 153; corn, 2; oats, 70; rye, 10; barley, 34; flax, 36. Receipts—Wheat, 62,440 bus; corn, 1612 bus; oats, 31,132 bus; rye, 1268 bus; barley, 11,-776 bus; flax, 7281 bus. Shipments—Wheat, 180,619 bus; flax, 11,508 bus.

GOSSIP.

Received over private wire of B. E. Baker, grain and stock broker, room 107 Chamber of Commerce and 305 Board of Trade, Chicago, June 22.—Traders were puzzled today by the action of July wheat which advanced a cent suddenly when it became known that a house known to be largely long had transferred its holdings to a well-known shipping house. This suggested either a concentration of the long interest or the possible moving out of the cash wheat if delivered. The advance did not hold but settled back on the impression that some large trader was long through one concern and hedged through another and was merely settling up his trades. September and December wheat were barely steady and received considerable pounding by the bears. Crop advices continue encouraging. No cables except from Paris and Antwerp, both being slightly firmer. Bradstreet's world's visible indicated a decrease of 5,000,000, same as last year. Outside of this the market was featureless and rather dull. July wheat is still a gamble and all sorts of complications are possible, though it is not too early for a long headed manipulator to show his hand.

Corn and oats firmer; receipts large and weather showery but the scalping trade got short yesterday and the strength in wheat caused some covering.

Provisions steady; receipts of hogs smaller and packers moderate sellers, but the trade is friendly to higher prices.

Puts, July wheat, 67¾@68-⅝c.
Calls, July wheat, 69¼@69⅝c.
Curb, July wheat, 68¾c.
Puts, September wheat, 61c bid.
Calls, September wheat, 64¼-⅜c bid.

court dress, scarlet gowns and chains. The "Very Good-bye Sword," known as "Queen Elizabeth's pearl sword," presented to the corporation by the maiden queen at the opening of the royal exchange A. D. 1570, was carried by the lord mayor. The sword is three feet eleven inches long with a fine Damascus blade.

On the arrival of the queen the lord mayor uncovered. Approaching the carriage of her majesty his lordship with all due obeisance presented the hilt of the city's pearl sword which was undrawn. This was the ancient ceremony of dutiful submission. The queen lightly touched it, thus returning it to the lord mayor in token that his submission was graciously accepted by his sovereign. Her majesty then commanded the lord mayor and sheriffs to proceed and the procession moved towards St. Paul's amid roars of cheers that seemed in the narrow streets to be echoed and re-echoed.

Eighth Anniversary of Asbury Church to Be Celebrated Next Sunday.

COMPANY H AFFAIRS

The Maccabees Receive Their Paraphernalia For Lodge Work---Other News.

The eighth anniversary services of Asbury M. E. church will be held next Sunday. The church was dedicated by Dr. Robert Forbes, its present pastor, at that time presiding elder of the St. Paul district, June 23, 1889, and Rev. A. F. Thompson was installed as its first pastor. He occupied the pulpit for one year, and was succeeded by Rev. J. E. Lathrop, who officiated for a few months, and was in turn succeeded by Rev. W. A. Shannon, who performed the duties of pastor. Then Rev. Henry G. Bilble was called and served one year. He was followed by Dr. Robert Forbes, who is now concluding his fifth year. During the pastorate of Dr. Forbes the church has grown steadily in strength, and the congregation has been large notwithstanding the hard times which have been felt as keenly by the churches as in business circles. Dr. Forbes has also built and paid for the Proctorknott Methodist church, where he conducts services each Sabbath. At the morning services next Sunday the pastor will call the roll of the members of the church, and those present will respond to their names, come forward and deposit an offering, whether it be large or small, for use in the benevolent work of the church. In the evening Dr. Forbes and others will make short addresses.

COL. SHANDREW HERE.

Col. J. C. Shandrew and Capt. Hart, brigade quartermaster, were in the city closing up the affairs of the disbanded Company H. All of the property in possession of the company and belonging to the state was turned over to Col. Shandrew, who shipped it to Fergus Falls to be used by a new company just organized there to fill the vacancy created by the mustering of Company H out of service. Capt. Holmberg directed the attention of Col. Shandrew to a number of debts owed by the company, and requested him to have the state send him the money due the company that they might be liquidated. The colonel promised an early settlement.

RECEIVED ITS OUTFIT.

West Duluth Tent No. 2 Knights of the Maccabees has received its long expected lodge paraphernalia and will use it for the first time at the meeting next Monday night, when six candidates will present themselves for initiation. The tent had gathered in about $200 with which to purchase the new outfit, and had the money on deposit in the Manufacturers bank when that institution closed its doors, and has just succeeded in making good its loss. The West Duluth Maccabees are in a very flourishing condition. Last month fifteen new members were initiated, and the indications are that more than that number will join this month. There are now 109 members of the tent and the ladies have almost as large a membership in their organization.

PRODUCTION OF "SNOW WHITE."

The members of St. James' court, C. O. F., have sold many tickets for the performance of the operetta of "Snow White," at Great Eastern hall, tomorrow evening, and a large attendance is assured. Several changes in the program have been made, and a number of literary and musical features added which will greatly improve the performance as compared with the production of a couple of weeks ago.

NO DIVIDEND DECLARED.

C. E. Peaslee, receiver for the Manufacturers bank, says that the report that Judge Ensign had ordered the payment of a second dividend of 15 per cent to the bank's creditors is erroneous. Mr. Peaslee states that he has not yet been able to make collections that would warrant an order for an other dividend and that there is no likelihood of one being declared in the immediate future.

GEORGIA POPULISTS.

Atlanta, Ga., June 22.—The Populist state conference, called to elect delegates to the national conference to be held in Nashville, assembled at noon today. The attendance was small, and there was a notable absence of party leaders. Thomas E. Watson, in the interest of whose middle-of-the-road policy the conference was supposed to have been summoned was not at hand, and the state chairman is in Chicago. Such prominent Populists as were present seemed to attach very little importance to the proceedings.

SUBURBAN HANDICAP.

New York's Big Race Will Have Eight Starters.

New York, June 22.—Despite a beautiful day and a perfect track the outlook for the Suburban handicap today was not brilliant. The eight likely starters were not up to the standard of previous years, the top weight being carried by Ben Eder, who does not by any means rank with Henry of Navarre, the last year's winner. The starters and jockeys as sent out last night numbered eleven, but not more than eight of these are likely to go to the post.

Of this lot Haima, Semper Ego, Volley and Howard Mann are considered doubtful, the latter being the mud horse of the string and his starting depended upon a track such as he had when he won the Brooklyn handicap, which added twelve pounds to his original weight in the Suburban. Ben Brush is the favorite of the light weights, and havoc among the lightly burdened starters.

The betting prior to the race was as follows: Ben Brush, 7 to 5; the Smith stable (the Winner and Belmar), 2½ to 1; Lake Shore, 4 to 1; Havoc, 5 to 1; Dutch Skater, 6 to 1; Semper Ego, 12 to 1; Sir Walter, 12 to 1; Volley, 15 to 1.

The betting at the post was as follows: Ben Brush, 8 to 5; Smith stable, 3 to 1; Lake Shore, 3½ to 1; Havoc, 5 to 1; Dutch Skater, 6 to 1; Sir Walter, 12 to 1; others, 20 to 1.

Later—Ben Brush wins by one length; the Winner second, a length; Havoc, third. Time, 2:07 1-5.

AN ARMOR PLATE PRICE.

WHERE FISHING IS GOOD.

Those looking for the best fishing grounds are reminded of Lake Tetonka, at Waterville, and Madison lake, on the Minneapolis & St. Louis railroad.

Wall-eyed pike, bass and crappies are found in great abundance at both of these lakes, which have not been fished out to the extent of some of the older and better known localities.

Excellent hotel accommodations, boats, bait, etc., on hand, and all charges are very reasonable.

THE QUEEN'S JUBILEE.

This is a great day throughout the British empire, being known as the queen's jubilee day. While the celebration of the sixtieth anniversary of Queen Victoria's accession to the British throne is being extended throughout the week, the principal features of the celebration will be witnessed today. It is safe to say that work will be generally suspended and merry-making be the rule today wherever the British flag waves. In London, the great, dazzling parade of the queen and royal family and representatives of all the colonies of the empire, as well as representatives of the other nations, took place, and the cable dispatches show that it was brilliant and impressive. The aged queen was the central figure, of course, in the lengthy procession, and the hearty cheers of the assembled multitudes testified to the high esteem in which she is held as a woman and a ruler. No event of the century, it can be correctly said, has equalled in splendor the demonstration in London which reached its culminating point today.

Queen Victoria's reign has been a remarkable one in many respects. Since her accession to the throne in 1837, she has seen pass away every duke and duchess and every marquis and marchioness who bore the title when she was called to power. She has seen France successively governed by one king, one emperor, and six presidents, and she has seen seventeen presidents in office in the United States. Only two British sovereigns have had reigns approaching hers in length—George III, her grandfather, whose reign, commonly computed at sixty years, lacked nine months of that period, and Henry III, who reigned fifty-six years. In the history of Europe there is recorded only one longer reign, that of Louis XIV, who nominally reigned seventy-two years. She has outlived all the peers that held their titles when she ascended the throne in 1837 except the earl of Darnley, who was then 10 years old and Earl Nelson, who was 14. Mr. Gladstone is one of the half dozen surviving members of parliament who sat in that year.

During the reign of Victoria the British empire has been greatly expanded. There has been added in India, 80,000 square miles—a space as vast as Great Britain; in the rest of Asia 200,000 square miles—a reign as large as Germany; in South Africa and in West and East Africa, 1,000,000 square miles—or about half the extent of European Russia. Today her possessions in North America and in Australia cover one-ninth of the earth's dry land. The population of Canada has sprung from 1,000,000 to nearly 6,000,000; of Australia, from 175,000 to 4,500,000, while the Cape colony has also grown largely in population and has proven a source of great wealth.

The queen is 78 years old. She was born in Kensington palace May 24, 1819, but there was little expectation then that she would ever become England's queen. There were several lives between her and the throne. Her father, the duke of Kent, was the fourth son of George III. The second son, the duke of York, was still alive, and the third son, the duke of Clarence, who succeeded George IV, had a daughter and was considered liable to have other children, as his wife was still young. This daughter died in infancy, and the death of the duke of York in 1827 without children made Victoria the presumptive successor of William IV. Her nearness to the throne was first made known to her when she was about 12 years old by showing her the royal genealogical table. She was warned at the same time that her uncle, William IV, might yet have an heir. She was baptized Alexandrina Victoria and was so designated in the accession proclamation and other state papers, but by signing herself simply Victoria she quickly caused the other name to be dropped. She was less than a month more than 18 years of age when the death of her uncle made her queen. Her reign has been a long and brilliant one and has witnessed remarkable advances in every department of life, while the British kingdom has made the greatest progress in its history.

A SEVERE ATTACK.

The most severe attack of reform fever which ever struck a town has taken hold of Somerville, Mass., not far from Boston. It is stated that Somerville has always had a weakness in that direction, but it was not until lately that it became so uncomfortably good as it now is.

There is before the board of aldermen at present an ordinance designed to prevent flirting and it will probably be passed. The city has long held the banner for rolling up the biggest majorities for no license, but not content with that, she started in this year to beat all records, enacting first a law forbidding sprinkling the streets on Sundays. Somerville is an especially dusty town on account of its dryness, and as it is a great resort for bicyclists, this law against sprinkling the streets was pretty good as a starter in the way of producing virtuous discomfort.

The next agitation by those who seek the moral welfare of the community regardless of cost was one in favor of Sunday closing of all the drug stores, bake shops, etc. No more soda, tonic, Jamaica ginger or ice cream should be sold Sunday, and people who had been in the habit of having their beans delivered piping hot from the bakery on Sunday morning must do their own baking or submit to a beanless Sunday. This reform movement also includes the forbidding of the sale of Jamaica ginger and similar intoxicants on week days.

The anti-flirting ordinance is now under consideration, and it is likely to create trouble unless made more definite. For instance, the bill does not state just how a policeman is going to tell whether a couple are flirting for fun or are making love in dead earnest. But for that matter the bill does not make any distinction between the two varieties anyhow, and the bluecoat who starts in to arrest everyone who comes under suspicion in that line will have a very hard time, even in Somerville. The bill provides among other things for iron gates to be placed at the entrance of all public buildings, the gates to be closed and locked at nightfall, not to keep people in, but to keep young people and would-be flirters from going inside the porch and sitting on the steps. For the present young men will still be allowed to make love to young women in the latters' homes.

CURING SNAKE BITES.

Another instance of the wonderful things which science is doing for the human race, especially in the matter of saving human life, is furnished by a French scientist's discovery of a remedy for snake bites. The remedy consists in mixing quantities of the poison of the cobra with a solution of hypochlorite of lime. This is injected into the person who has been bitten by the snake and is warranted to cure in a majority of cases, success being dependent upon the time elapsing between the hour when the bite was received and the hour when the remedy was applied.

But the process of producing the serum is as difficult and expensive as that which brings forth the antitoxin remedy, and it would be next to impossible to have the remedy always at hand for a danger so widespread as snake bites. Therefore the Chicago Chronicle concludes that the good old fashion of curing snake bites is not likely to be superseded by the new way. That method, which is a prevention as well as a cure, is very simple, and as the heated term is upon us and many people will soon be going where there is more or less danger of snakes biting them, it might be well to give it for their benefit. First, procure a bottle large enough to contain sufficient of the remedy to last during the trip. Fill this bottle or jug nearly full of spiritus frumenti. Almost anyone will be able to tell you what brand to procure. Cork it tightly and wait for the snakes. As soon as you think you have been bitten or are likely to be, seize the bottle or jug firmly with the right hand. With the left hand pull out the cork by a dexterous motion. Then raise the bottle with the right hand and carry its nozzle to your mouth. Open your mouth to its full extent, throw back the head, and inclining the bottle at the same angle, let the liquor run rapidly down the throat. The amount to be taken depends entirely upon the size of the snake. Water may be taken before or afterward, but the remedy is efficacious without it. The Chronicle contends that this beats any serum remedy all hollow.

ONE HONEST MAN.

One great man, it has been found, had a place in the last Illinois legislature. He was an old farm hand, John Huffman of Bluffs, Scott county, who earns perhaps from his labor in the fields $25 a month. Had he been corrupt, they say, he might have returned home $10,000 richer, but John Huffman of Bluffs was not for sale. The Springfield correspondent of the Chicago Evening Journal writes:

"I took some pains to run over the roll-calls and found that Huffman had voted against all the notorious boodle measures. I watched him after that, and found that he had some good friends among the honest members, and whenever a bill came up upon which he was in doubt he inquired which was the side of honesty and voted that way. He was an outcast in a certain sense. He could not herd with the "good fellows," who were banded together for plunder. Some said the old man was not bright, but he sat in silent dignity, the center of a maelstrom of horse-play, a monument to decency, challenging the respect even of the most corrupt about him."

The Chicago Times-Herald reprints the Journal's story and adds: "He voted on all measures and he voted right. When the noisy crew of thieves, flown with insolence and wine, left Springfield to spend in barroom or brothel the wages of their infamy John Huffman of Bluffs, God bless him, returned to Scott county to earn his daily bread by the valor of his hands. We print this story because it came to us like a ray of clear light out of the clouds of corruption, broken promises and violated oaths of office. The legislature was not all dishonest. There were many men in that body—brave men, honest men, splendid men—who resisted all blandishments and stood by the right to the end. But there is in the picture of the farm hand of Bluffs, simple, silent, but oak-like in his resolution, something to cheer the heart of Americans with confidence in the future of our government."

All the "smart" and "clever" members of legislatures could be easily spared, if there were more John Huffmans in those bodies.

The trustees of Brown university have at last started out to squelch President Andrews and his free trade and free silver views. Dr. Andrews will hear from them when he returns from Europe. His economic teachings are "contrary to the opinion of nearly every man in Rhode Island," and must, of course, be stopped. What is wanted at the head of Brown university, says the Springfield Republican, is a man who teaches such "truth" as the people round about desire and such as those who give money to universities consider "safe" for the "masses." Once a teacher applied for a school. "Is the earth round or flat?" asked the chairman of the examining committee. "Well," answered the candidate cautiously, "some say it is round and some say it is flat. As for myself I teach round or flat, as the majority of the patrons prefer."

The Minneapolis Tribune is urging that ex-Congressman Towne should be nominated as the silver candidate for president in 1900, instead of Mr. Bryan. It says: "If the silver men are wise they will drop Bryan and take up Towne of Minnesota as their leader in 1900. We regard Towne as a man of greater ability than Bryan. He is certainly more scholarly, and his speeches and writings show him to be clearer headed, more logical and coherent in the statement of the monetary question." This is a very flattering statement by a strong gold Republican organ like the Tribune, but when it urges Mr. Towne for president he will no doubt recall the old saying, to beware of "Greeks bearing gifts."

The recent stories sent out from New York concerning a deal between Tammany and Mr. Bryan have been completely refuted by a dispatch from Mr. Sheehan, the Tammany leader, to the Chicago Chronicle. The Chicago Chronicle, which is a bitter opponent of Mr. Bryan, telegraphed Mr. Sheehan for the truth of the report purporting to come from him, and he denied it in toto, and, moreover, showed the impossibility of there being anything in the story whatever.

In the tobacco trust trial in New York Joseph H. Choate, one of the lawyers for the trust, asked one of the talesmen: "What would you do if at the end of this trial you found that eleven jurors are of one mind and you of another?" "I would agree with the eleven," was the reply. "Why so?" said Lawyer Choate. "Because I should probably be in a hurry to get home," was the reply. "You are accepted," said Mr. Choate.

The United States consul to Havre, who was rebuked recently for asserting that French wines were adulterated, insists that he told the truth. That is where he made a mistake. He is evidently not fitted for a diplomatic career, because no diplomat would be guilty of such frankness.

Representative Bailey of Texas when a boy was considered lazy, but he had his ambition awakened by the character of Ishmael Worth in Mrs. Southworth's "Ishmael; or In the Depths," and dates his career from the reading of that novel.

One month from today, a monument to Gen. Logan is to be dedicated on the lake front at Chicago. It is expected that President McKinley will be present. Illinois does well to thus honor the memory of Gen. Logan.

Secretary Sherman favors the annexation of Hawaii, and all reports to the contrary may be set down as false. If he did not favor it, he could not consistently retain a place in the cabinet.

He was a new boy in the business of delivering telegraph messages to United States senators. That was his apology for inquiring: "Is there a man around here named Hanna?"

The Omaha Bee opposes the Hawaiian annexation treaty, and several other Republican papers, mostly in the East, are taking a similar stand.

THE CAPITOL STONE.

Fergus Falls Journal: The capitol commission has opened the bids for the stone work for the new capitol and there is a good deal of discussion as to which is the right one for the state to use. The bids vary greatly, limestone being the cheapest, granite and marble the most expensive. Our choice is granite, either St. Cloud or Ortonville. That will make a substantial building and there will be less criticism over the cost than there will be over a cheaper stone when it begins to show its cheapness. Next to granite, some of our home stone should be used, and the half million which goes into quarrying, dressing and carving it spent here and redistributed among the taxpayers. A few thousand dollars saved by purchasing a stone quarried and dressed in some other state would not only be a blow to the character of our own stone, but it would be a penny wise pound foolish policy.

Little Falls Transcript: It seems remarkable that some of the members of the state capitol commission favor the use of stone from other states for the construction of the new state house. There is no public sentiment in favor of such a policy and the people of the state will generally be disappointed if the material is not taken from the quarries of Minnesota. The Transcript has always favored the plan to build a new capitol at this time, but it would protest emphatically against the commission making any contract that did not provide for using a Minnesota stone. The St. Cloud granite is the best stone now available—but must be Minnesota stone at all events.

St. Paul Globe: The people of the state are vastly interested in this matter. Not only labor, but capital and especially every man who contributes through taxation to the cost of the new capitol, feels a right in having as much of this money as possible expended at home. There would be such a burst of indignation as has seldom been witnessed in this community, by which we mean not merely St. Paul, but every city and village in the state of Minnesota, if the great sum of money to be expended on the superstructure of the new capitol were to be paid out to foreign contractors to furnish us with an inferior limestone from another state because it might be worked at a little lower cost. The vote of the people would be a thousand to one in favor of using the native stone, even if it cost a trifle more to shape it, and the people would be perfectly right.

CONCERNING HAWAII.

Minneapolis Times: Even if we could hope to colonize Hawaii and make in that far-off region an American community—a hope which the climate and the conditions of industry make visionary—the advantages to be gained from it would be a bagatelle compared with the responsibilities and the difficulties it would entail. We shall not believe, unless we are forced to, that Mr. McKinley is directly or indirectly encouraging so mad a scheme.

New York World: Do any of the Republican statesmen imagine that they can distract attention from their internal and infernal domestic policy by bringing forward the old mildewed scheme of Hawaiian annexation? Do we really need to confine 100,000 miles away for another rotten borough? Have we not difficulties enough from every quarter of the globe without taking in the mongrel population of this remote island in the Pacific? Hawaii is too insignificant to serve as a diversion. As a national policy annexation is absurd.

Springfield Republican: The fight is on between the Hawaiian annexationists and the beet sugar protectionists, and the issue at this moment is doubtful. Saturday's Republican senatorial caucus was warmly divided, and no result was reached beyond handing over the whole subject to the finance committee to fix up a compromise. This is one of the several spots where the party's trade and territorial expansion ideas come into collision with the antagonistic high tariff idea. If the Hawaiian treaty is not abrogated and free sugar from the Islands shut out, the budding beet sugar interests will see to it that somebody suffers. But are those islands to be cut loose now of all times when Japan is ready to grab them? And so the jingoes and the big tariff men often found in the same individual, fight for the mastery.

A Beautiful Dress.

When My Dreams Come True.

When my dreams come true—when my dreams come true—
Shall I lean from out my casement in the starlight and the dew
To listen—smile and listen, to the tinkle of the strings
Of the sweet guitar my lover's fingers fondle as he sings?
And as the nude moon slowly, slowly shoulders into view,
Shall I vanish from his vision—when my dreams come true?

When my dreams come true—shall the simple gown I wear
Be changed to softest satin, and my maiden-braided hair
Be raveled into flossy mists of rarest, fairest gold,
To be minted into kisses, more than any heart can hold?
Or "the summer of my tresses" shall my lover liken to
"The fervor of his passion" when my dreams come true?

When my dreams come true—I shall bide among the sheaves
Of heapy harvest meadows, and the grasses and the leaves
Shall I lift and lean between me and the splendor of the sun
Till the moon swoons into twilight; the gleaners' work is done—
Save that yet an arm shall bind me, even as the reapers do
The meanest sheaf of harvest—when my dreams come true!

When my dreams come true! When my dreams come true!
True love in all simplicity is fresh and pure as dew—
The blossom in the blackest mold is kindlier to the eye
Than any lily born of pride that blooms against the sky,
And so it is I know my heart will gladly welcome you,
My loveliest of lovers when my dreams come true.

A Bachelor's Reflections.

New York Press: A woman never completely loves a man unless he is sometimes brutal to her.

Every married man knows a girl that he thinks he might marry if his wife died.

Every girl has the belief that she can cure a certain man's headache by stroking his forehead.

JAPANESE STATESMAN ILL.

Washington, June 22.—Information has reached the Japanese legation here of the illness of Mr. Matsui, the distinguished Japanese statesman, who has occupied the position of minister of foreign affairs, and also at one time was the minister of Japan to the United States. His illness is believed to be serious, as orders have been received by his son, the secretary of the legation in this country, to come home.

THE TURK RAMPANT.

St. Louis Globe Democrat: The sultan has mobilized an army of about 400,000 men, and is waiting for the powers to present a stronger argument why he should not keep Thessaly.

St. Louis Republic: Have the Turk's dirty fingers been used to pull Russian chestnuts from the fire? The Cretan indemnity of nearly $10,000,000 is to go to Russia in payment of the Turkish debt.

Springfield Republican: The sultan seems to have an extraordinary power of pulling the wool over the eyes of the westerners who are brought within the sphere of his personal influence. Some of the officers in Gen. Miles' escort appear to have been melted by his suave and flattering manner, and have joined the list of the apologists for "Abdul the Damned," all of whom apparently have been to Yildiz Kiosk, and have come away cajoled by the sultan's urbane condescension.

Boston Globe: Earnest remonstrances from the representatives of the powers continue to be made against the proposal of Turkey to claim the territory of Thessaly as one of the fruits of her victory over Greece. Abdul Hamid listens with a diplomatic smile to these pleadings. Meanwhile he has 200,000 troops or more encamped on the plains of that region; and while he does not say so in so many words, his attitude clearly declares, "The Greeks are welcome to the territory of Thessaly as one of the fruits of their POWER & SETTLE.

TO OPEN NEW MINES

Consolidated to Work Leased Properties Only as Absolutely Forced to.

TO OPERATE ITS OWN

Sales of Mesaba Ore Made on Differential of Fifty Cents.

The Lake Superior Consolidated iron mines management has definitely decided to open up new mines on the Mesaba range from which to take the major portion of its output and operate the leased properties in the Lake Superior group no more than is required by the terms of the leases. This determination is undoubtedly caused by the failure of the owners of the fee in the Burt, Rust and Hull mines to make any concession in royalties.

C. H. Martz, chief engineer of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern Railroad company, has gone out with an engineering corps to survey an extension of the Hibbing branch into what is known as the Pillsbury property located in the center of section 29, township 58, range 20. As soon as the survey is completed the main track, about two miles in length, will be laid, together with the necessary sidings, and the work of opening up the mines will be commenced. This is the first important step taken toward the consummation of the new development plans of the Consolidated.

The Pillsbury property was purchased about a year ago by the Consolidated from Pillsbury & Bennett, of Minneapolis, the price paid being between $300,000 and $400,000. There is a large body of very high grade ore on the land which numerous tests show runs 63½ per cent in iron and only .032 per cent in phosphorous. The indications are that the ore is fully as good if not better than that found in the Lake Superior group.

It will be remembered that a short time ago the force employed in the Burt mine was transferred by the Consolidated to the Dale, which property is now being worked instead of the Burt. This with the Pillsbury, Ohio and other Mesaba range mines of the Consolidated will be sufficient to supply all the ore that the company will find a market for. The big leased mines in the Lake Superior group will remain practically idle for an indefinite time. The minimum output under the terms of the leases of the Burt, Rust and Hull is 20,000 tons a year each. The royalty paid is 30 cents a ton. Some time ago the Consolidated people informed the owners of the mines that the conditions existing in the iron ore market had changed so much since the leases were executed, that it was now impossible to operate them at a profit unless the royalties were reduced. The owners evidently could not view the proposition in the same light as the lessors, for the steps now being taken by the Consolidated indicate that they intend to pay no more royalties than they are forced to by the terms of the leases and as long as ores have so small a value in the market will operate only such mines as they own outright or have leased on greatly reduced royalties.

The tendency on the Mesaba range this year has been toward radical royalty reductions. The Biwabik, a steam shovel mine, is now paying a royalty of about 20 cents, a reduction from 50 cents, which was effected through concessions made by the owner of the fee and the Consolidated, who sublet it to the present operators. The result of this concession is that the Biwabik is now being operated with a double force and that a sale of 400,000 tons of its ore has been effected. The price, of course, is low, but as the royalty is also low and tonnage for lake transportation is secured until October at 60 cents, a fair margin of profit will be realized. The royalty on the Lone Jack, another steam shovel property, has been cut to 25 cents and the effect of the cut is shown in the large output being made this season.

The Consolidated has a number of properties secured by purchase and lease, representing large investments on which interest charges have been piling up that have until now remained idle. There has not been enough demand for ore to warrant their operation, the capacity of the Lake Superior group having been sufficient for all purposes, but now since the owners of these mines have refused to accept a royalty rental that is considered reasonable by the Consolidated, they will be practically closed and the Consolidated will direct its efforts to securing returns from its investments in other properties.

By the terms of the Bessemer ore pool agreement the Mesaba differential was fixed arbitrarily at 25 cents a ton. The price of Norrie ore was placed at $2.65 and Fayal, a Minnesota Iron company property on the Mesaba at $2.40. The market at Cleveland, however, did not readily accept these terms and for a long time after the opening of the season there were no sales of Mesaba ore reported. Lately, however, big sales have been quietly made and no statements have been given out as to prices realized, the supposition being that the scale fixed by the ore pool was being observed. The Evening Herald can state with authority, however, that this is not the case. Instead of a 25-cent differential for Mesaba ore this has been increased to 50 cents, and the majority of sales effected up to this time have been on a basis of $2.15 for Fayal instead of $2.40. This still further reduces the margin for profit to operators and makes more imperative the necessity for lower royalties.

MENACE TO WHEELMEN.

Pile of Sand on Superior Street Causes Trouble.

There is a small pile of sand on East Superior street at about Seventh avenue which may appear to be inoffensive, but it has caused a considerable amount of damage to bicycles and has endangered a good many necks. After dark it is difficult to see the sand, and wheelmen coming in from London road have run into it and come to grief. Last night not less than a half dozen persons fell there, and some of them were severely bruised and shaken up. Several wheels are in the repair shop today also, and some good-sized bills for repairs will be forthcoming. A small pile of sand is almost as disconcerting to a wheel as a good big rock.

The sand is said to have been put there by the street railway company, to be used in repairing the track. If a private individual had done it the entire board of public works would have been after him long ago. A lantern placed at the spot would prevent trouble, but as it is, there is nothing to warn wheelmen.

ANXIOUS TO KNOW

Aldermen to Find Out Why Pumphouse Specifications Are Changed.

WILL INVESTIGATE

Gay's Representatives Get No Encouragement, Being Denied a Hearing.

The council last evening resolved to assert itself and find out whether it or the board of public works rules the roost. This determination was arrived at after hearing Mr. Patton on the charge that he and Mr. Palmer, the members of the expert committee appointed to suggest changes in the pumphouse, have made to the effect that the board let the contract for the extra work at a higher figure and with different specifications than directed by the council.

The matter was brought up by President Cochrane. He called the attention of the council to a copy of The Herald of June 19, containing the charges referred to. It was time, he said, that the council should make its authority felt. The charges were serious, he continued, and he asked Mr. Patton if he could justify them.

The latter then made a brief statement substantially as published. His attention had been first called to the matter when he taxed Contractor Fredrickson with not doing the extra work properly. The latter had replied that he was conforming to the specifications. Mr. Patton said he could not believe it and was dumbfounded when he read the contract that Mr. Fredrickson produced.

President Smith of the board was then called on. He said that the specifications were all right and proper, and if the contractor had not conformed to them it was not the board's fault. Mr. Smith then retired to get the original contract, politely declining a copy that Mr. Patton offered him.

The original contract was read by the clerk, who then, on motion of President Cochrane, read the specifications Mr. Patton produced as those recommended by the committee. There was a dead silence for a moment at the conclusion of the reading, and then President Cochrane arose and stated that the specifications last read were those directed by the council to be incorporated in the contract, as could be proven. He was making no fight on any person, he said, but the council is charged with the city's interests and it behooved it to look into the matter. He then moved that a committee of three be appointed to investigate the charges and report to the council.

An amendment was made, on motion of Alderman Jefferson, empowering the committee to employ experts, and the motion prevailed by an unanimous vote. Aldermen Jefferson, Cochrane and Harker were named as the committee.

COUNCIL IS NOT ANXIOUS.

The council gave an inkling in two instances that it is not in any particular hurry to purchase the gas and water plants. Those were in its action in refusing to hear arguments from S. T. Harrison, attorney for Mr. Gay, on the question, and the tabling of a resolution offered by Alderman Berg providing for the appointment of a commission of not less than two citizens from each ward to confer with the waterworks people with a view to purchase.

The resolution came first. It was immediately jumped on. Alderman Crassweller objected to the wording, as it seemed to contemplate purchase. It is desirable to investigate, he said, but the city should not be placed in the position of making a proposition—that should come from the company.

Alderman Jefferson averred that he detected in the resolution the entering wedge of a movement to create public sentiment in favor of purchase.

President Cochrane said the motion should be tabled, to at least give the aldermen time for consideration, and tabled it was, despite the argument of Alderman Berg that it was merely intended to give the citizens a chance to advise themselves as to what the council is doing.

Later, President Cochrane informed the council that Attorney Harrison had something to say and suggested that he be heard. Alderman Simpson moved an adjournment, but waived a vote on it to give Mr. Harrison a chance to disclose the subject on which he desired to speak. The latter replied that it was "gas and water," on which Alderman Simpson insisted on his motion, which was carried.

MR. PATTON IS ENGINEER.

On the question of who is city engineer an opinion from the city attorney was read, holding that Mr. Patton is in possession of the office. The question raised by the omission of Mr. Patton to give a bond on re-election was disposed of by the statement that under section 12 of the charter an officer holds over until his successor is elected and qualified.

A resolution was introduced by Alderman Harker, directing the board of public works to no longer recognize D. A. Reed as city engineer. Alderman Jefferson opposed it on the ground that it amounted to an admission that Mr. Reed had been recognized. The measure was defeated.

Alderman Jefferson introduced a resolution directing the ordinance and judiciary committee to investigate alleged acts of neglect by the gas and water company of its duty to consumers, and to direct the city attorney to prosecute claims for damages therefor in behalf of the parties aggrieved. After some debate the resolution was passed with an amendment striking out the clause relative to the prosecution of claims.

The salvage corps submitted a statement of its receipts and expenditures. The total receipts were given as $853.46, derived from the tax on insurance committees and payments by stockholders. The expenditures were given as $5397.61, leaving a balance of $3140.85. There will have to be expended before the taxes of 1897, its sole source of revenue, are due the sum of $4013, it was stated, for equipment and maintenance. The corps, it was stated, is in need of 150 covers, the cost of which will be $1200. The report was referred.

After a long debate, the appointment of C. Johnson to the police force, to serve in West Duluth, was lost.

A resolution authorizing the payment of $63.22, the city's share of the expense of getting up the tri-city charter committee's report, was the occasion of much speech-making. It was finally passed.

AFTER THE FIRE WARDEN.

A resolution by Alderman Sang, abolishing the office of fire warden, started a discussion, during which Alderman Crassweller remarked that the measure was another instance of the practice of the council of trying to do what it could not do and neglecting to do what it ought to do. On his motion the matter was tabled for one week.

The ordinance reducing the licenses on billiard and pool tables and bowling alleys to $5 each was passed.

A long communication from the board of public works was received, advancing arguments drawn from public policy and history, to show why the services of a sprinkling inspector are necessary. The communication was filed.

The city attorney submitted an opinion holding that the city is not required to pay annually the interest on Market House and Armory orders.

The following resolutions were passed: Alderman Duren, directing that the piling of the trestles of the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha and Eastern Minnesota railways at Garfield avenue and Oak street, be replaced by steel trusses; Alderman Sang, directing the board of public works to take steps to cause the removal of the St. Paul & Duluth railway embankment at St. Paul avenue; Alderman Sang, directing the city attorney to enforce the ordinance requiring the stationing of railway flagmen at Fifty-seventh, Fifty-ninth and Sixty-third avenues west.

The council adjourned to 11 o'clock this morning to pass on T. F. McGilvray's bond as city engineer.

A LIVELY TALKING MATCH.

After the adjournment Alderman Rowley and President Smith of the board of public works had a pretty hot tiff over the pumphouse contract matter. The alderman expressed his indignation over the fact that there had been changes in the specifications. Mr. Smith denied that there had been any.

"Well, I believe there has, and I'm going to charge it," responded the alderman, intimating, further, that there had been an ulterior purpose in it.

"Well, you can't show the intent," said Mr. Smith.

"You'll keep on talking until you lay yourself open to a slander suit," said Mr. Smith, as he walked off.

"You couldn't hurt anybody," called the alderman, as Mr. Smith reached the door.

THIS MORNING'S SESSION.

McGilvray's Bond as City Engineer Approved.

The council met at 11 o'clock this morning, pursuant to adjournment last night, and in a very few minutes had approved the bond of Thomas F. McGilvray as city engineer. This was the last act necessary to induct Mr. McGilvray, as he took the oath before City Clerk Richardson yesterday afternoon. The bond is in the sum of $10,000 and the sureties are John Jenswold, Jr., and T. T. Hudson. Mr. McGilvray had not taken possession of the office at noon.

A resolution was introduced by Alderman Jefferson to the effect that no price on the gas and water plants higher than $1,114,000 would be considered by the council. The measure was defeated finally by a vote of 5 yeas to 6 nays. The resolution set forth that the council was not to be considered to be committed to the price named, that figure being merely fixed as a maximum.

The vote was at first 7 to 4 in favor of the resolution. Then, greatly to the disgust of Alderman Jefferson, Aldermen Rowley and Tischer changed their votes. Alderman Jefferson was inclined to blame Alderman Rowley, who presided, for delaying the announcement of the result, thus giving an opportunity for changing votes, and a few sparks flew, the junior alderman from the Third intimating that there was "jugglery." The vote as finally recorded was as follows: Yeas—Aldermen Crassweller, Duren, Harker, Jefferson, Simpson. Nays—Aldermen Burg, Richardson, Shannon, Sang, Tischer, Rowley. Aldermen Dahl, Hanson, Stevens and Trevillion were absent.

Aldermen Shannon, Sang and Richardson explained their votes. The first two named said that, while opposed to levying the plants for any such sum as had been named by Gay & Co., they did not feel like binding themselves to the sum named in the resolution as the maximum. Alderman Richardson said he thought it best to wait for the estimate on the cost of paralleling the plant.

It seemed to be the sentiment of many of the aldermen voting against the proposition that it would be unwise to place matters in a position where the council would be debarred from taking advantage of a possibility of closing out the deal by a slight concession over the maximum stated in the resolution.

HOTEL MENUS

Should Include Viands and Beverages For All Guests.

A properly conducted hotel expects to provide such articles as its guests require," said Willis Howe, manager of the Palmer house, Chicago. "The great variety of tastes, however, make a rather lengthy bill. We have lately added to our menu, Postum Cereal Food Coffee for the reason that some guests find regular coffee a trifle heavy for them and even quite indigestible. Coffee does not agree with me very well so I have been in the habit of using one-third coffee and filling up my cup with hot water, which is not an altogether satisfactory beverage. We serve the choicest coffee we can buy, and also the finest chocolate and cocoa. This Food Coffee has come along in response to a demand of the palate for something with the pungency and piquancy of coffee and which, at the same time, conforms to the requirements of a critical class who require food value and healthful properties in their liquids as well as their solids."

There is but one original Postum Cereal Food Coffee, with many imitations.

Proceedings to Collect Delinquent Taxes of 1897 Are Valid.

Judge Moer has made an order refusing to dismiss the proceedings to enforce the payment of taxes delinquent in January, 1897, on the ground urged by C. A. Congdon Saturday. This was that the court had no jurisdiction because the delinquent list was filed in the clerk's office Feb. 3 instead of Jan. 20, as required by law. Judge Moer did not see it that way, and the proceedings will come to trial next Monday morning upon the other question raised in the answers of the defendants, that the taxes were unjustly levied in that the mines and mining properties were in 1894 and 1895 allowed to escape just valuation and taxation. As the 331 cases of this kind involve precisely the same question, they will, in the nature of things, be tried together, and all abide by one decision.

IN THE DAKOTAS.

NORTH DAKOTA.

The funeral of the late Capt. Hugh Maloney occurred Saturday from St. Michael's church, Rev. E. J. Conaty officiating, at Grand Forks. In the sudden and unexpected death of Capt. Hugh Maloney Grand Forks loses one of its oldest citizens. Capt. Maloney was not only a good citizen, but he was an interesting figure as one of the early pioneers of the Red River valley.

A cyclone formed north of Dawson and traveled eastward for miles, but so far as known without damage. The funnel formed a few miles north of the town, hung in the air for a few minutes and then reaching the ground threw up the dirt in clouds. Rebounding it rose and after traveling for a short distance trailed across the prairie slowly, a second and smaller cyclone, like an eddy, forming in its rear. It passed between two farms, missing all buildings. The clouds from all directions were gathered into the vortex of the whirlwind and after the passage of the cyclone the air was freed of the very cloud. The storm traveled slowly and gradually drew away from the line of railway. Considerable excitement occurred in Dawson as at one time the storm seemed to be headed directly for it. No reports of damage to farms have yet been received.

Rattlesnake knoll, in Emmons county, on the Missouri river, is said to be the great and only summer resort of all kinds of snakes. Here every summer congregate thousands of serpents to dwell together in peace and harmony during the hot season. They bask on the sides of the hill in the hot sun, and the knoll is honeycombed with thousands of holes where they may be seen crawling in and out.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

The postoffice at Aurora was robbed Sunday night. The safe was blown open and everything of value taken. Postmaster Baker has a jewelry store in connection, and all his watches and rings were carried off. The burglars were traced as far as Brookings.

The Sioux on the reservation near Valentine will celebrate the Fourth with a sham battle representing the Custer massacre. The arrangements are being made under the direction of a number of braves, who actually participated in the fight itself. Following the battle will be foot and pony races, a war dance, and other exercises. Reds from all neighboring reservations have been invited.

Bonds to the amount of $25,000 issued by the territory were redeemed May 1 at Pierre. There has been issued a call for $101,000 worth of state bonds, to be redeemed July 1. There is yet $75,000 of floating indebtedness remaining unpaid. In funding warrants issued by banks in Deadwood. There will be $125,000 distributed among the schools of the state July 1, and $127,000 will be placed with the different counties from the permanent school fund, to be loaned in accordance with the law.

Over an inch of rain fell at Huron yesterday morning accompanied by some hail and heavy thunder. Crops were slightly damaged in the northeastern part of the county, and in the city glass on the north sides of some residences were broken by hail. The storm covered a large section of country.

DECK HAND DROWNED

COULD NOT BE SAVED

Attempts to Resuscitate Unavailing---Lived In Marine City.

William Seurynck, 18 years old, a deck hand on the steamer Santa Maria, and whose home is in Marine City, Mich., fell overboard from the vessel and was drowned this forenoon. The boat was lying at the St. Paul & Duluth dock, at the foot of Second avenue west, at the time, and Seurynck was engaged with other members of the crew in painting the vessel, working on a scaffolding slung over the side. In stooping he lost his balance and went into the water. The scaffolding was lowered to the water in the hope that Seurynck could grasp it. His chum, Leonard Cranch, seeing that he was unable to do this, plunged in after him, but the drowning man caught him around the neck and Cranch had to scramble back on the planking to save himself.

The life saving crew soon arrived, and the body was taken from the water at the expiration of about twenty-five minutes. It was taken to the dock and the life savers worked for fully half an hour to restore animation, but without avail. The remains were sent to Bayha & Tibbetts' morgue to be prepared for shipment home.

The captain of the Santa Maria, members of the crew and others say the ferry steamer Bruno passed near and stopped within a few yards while the man was drowning and had the Bruno backed up a little, they say, he could probably have been rescued.

A DIVIDEND DECLARED.

Security Bank Creditors to Get Five Per Cent.

Judge Cant this morning made an order allowing Receiver Macfarlane of the Security bank to pay a second dividend of 5 per cent, and the payment will begin tomorrow. Mr. Macfarlane's petition for the order states that the claims filed amount to $291,646.42, the claims allowed to $285,252.59, the claims paid or settled to $33,545.34, claims allowed conditionally to $198,026.27, and the claims unconditionally allowed and yet unpaid to $198,026.27. The receipts of cash have been $4989.24, of which $5966.48 went out in the former 5 per cent dividend, $10,610.24 in expenses, $6034.13 to the state and $4673.63 in advances to protect collateral. The net balance on hand is $10,484.52, from which the dividend is to come. The nominal value of the assets is $467,238, but the receiver does not venture an opinion as to their real value.

UNDER THE SAME TENT.

Two Trials to Come Off in Municipal Court.

Thomas Bendickson appeared this morning before Judge Edson on complaint of ex-Alderman Cox, who charges Bendickson with having addressed abusive language at him. The defendant pleaded not guilty and his trial was set for Monday next, at which time the charge of assault against Mr. Cox preferred by Mr. Bendickson will be also tried. The two shows will be under one tent, as it were, and some fun is anticipated.

Mrs. Klimert Held.

H. G. Hobart and Mrs. Mary Klimert, accused of taking a table and some other articles from the room of Albert Dahlman, at 1612 East Sixth street, appeared before Judge Edson yesterday for a preliminary hearing on the charge of larceny in the second degree. Mrs. Klimert was held to the grand jury under $100 bail, in default of which she was committed. Hobart was discharged on account of lack of evidence connecting him with the taking.

Has Paid Its Taxes.

The Oliver Mining company yesterday paid in $12,000 in taxes to St. Louis county, including the current taxes and the 1 cent a ton mining tax back to 1892. Ex-State Auditor Sherman held that when a mine held under state lease paid the required 25 cents per ton of its output, it was exempt from paying the 1 cent per ton required of other mines. Subsequently State Auditor Dunn held that such payment was necessary, and as he was upheld County Auditor Halden sent to the Oliver people a bill for back taxes. This was some time ago, and yesterday a check arrived paying up the taxes in full.

The Canoe Overturned.

A fishing party, consisting of F. S. Kelly, J. P. Engels, George W. Powers, E. R. Jacobi and P. Doran came very near producing a few funerals at the Swan River Logging company's headquarters on the Upper Mississippi river yesterday. They were crossing the river in a canoe at a point where the current is very swift. In the middle of the stream the canoe struck a log and was turned upside down as quick as a flash. The men were in a perilous position for a few seconds, but the employes of the camp came to the rescue at once. As it was, they were thoroughly soaked, and had to go to bed while their clothes dried up.

He says he has a list of all the city work done by Mr. McGregor since the latter has been on the board and he is going to make it sultry for him. When asked why he did not put Mr. McGregor out of his misery at once instead of prolonging the agony, Mr. Dacey said his business on the range is very important and will not brook delay.

MAY REVEAL CRIME.

Investigation of a Woman's Death to Be Made By Coroner.

The body of a young woman, whose name is said to Jennie McCarthy and whose home is said to be in Superior, is lying at Durkan's morgue. There is a mystery connected with her death, and the authorities say its unfolding will reveal a crime. She is reported by the Women's hospital to have been removed a week ago last Monday from Mrs. Bank's hospital on St. Croix avenue, suffering apparently from the effects of an operation to anticipate birth.

At the Women's hospital she at first gave her name as Mrs. John Millbrook, and said that her husband lived at Iron River. The matron of the hospital, suspecting that all was not right, questioned her several times, but she stuck to her story until it became evident she would have to die. When she was told that her case was hopeless she, it is said, confessed that an attempt had been made to rid her of the child in order to avoid shame. The name of her paramour she did not divulge.

An inquest was to be held this afternoon.

THE PROMBERGER CASE.

Must Go to Grand Jury Says the County Attorney.

There will be no settlement of the Promberger case at present, at least, according to County Attorney Arbury. Mr. Arbury said this morning that when he heard that an effort was being made to settle the case by paying up the amount of defalcation, he went to see Mr. Promberger. He told him that he had been arrested on a warrant issued after his employers had given up hope of getting their money. He had been arraigned in municipal court, had waived examination, and had been bound over to await the action of the grand jury. The county attorney says that he has no authority to dismiss the case, whether the money is paid or not as his office is not a civil one for the collection of debt.

It is possible that if the matter is settled the witnesses will not appear before the grand jury, but if summoned there will probably be no alternative for them but to appear.

Mr. Promberger was down town yesterday trying to get bail, but without succeeding. He made another trip today, and said that he expected to be able to get his bonds. His efforts were again unsuccessful.

ARTHUR AVENUE CASE.

Taken Up Again Today in the District Court.

The struggle over the possession of Arthur avenue between the Duluth Street Railway company and the Northern Pacific Railway company, with the city of Duluth and the St. Paul & Duluth railroad as interested, but not active contestants, was taken up before Judge Cant this morning. It took up all the morning, and at noon it looked very much as though it was good for the afternoon also. J. L. Washburn took up the morning session reading from a large pile of books, from which he produced a great number of authorities purporting to support the Northern Pacific's side of the argument.

The testimony in the Holmes old soldier mandamus case was all in yesterday afternoon, and when court adjourned for the day City Attorney Richards was engaged in making his argument to the court. He had not concluded, and Judge White, who appeared for Mr. Holmes, had not begun. This morning, however, the attorneys in the Arthur avenue case urged that they were in a hurry, and Judge White gave way to them. The case will be taken up tomorrow morning, or as soon as the railroad case is concluded.

A Chicago Fake.

The Chicago Chronicle of Sunday contained a wild and wooly fake, under a Duluth date line, about a section boss named John Haney, better known as "Little Humpy," who had received $90,000 through a rich relative's death. The article announced it as his intention to charter a special train and take fifty of his friends on a big trip. Though it was, it excited some of the big Eastern papers so much that they wired their local correspondents for the story.

The wildness of the article can be appreciated when it is known that it states that Haney's uncle died "intestate," and yet tells all about the money left him by the uncle's will. In this connection it may be said that a certain newspaper man, known to be something of a "string fiend," who was once a resident of Duluth, is now said to be working on the Chronicle.

THE KODOGRAPH

The best and most practical Plate Pocket Camera in the world. A child can operate it.

It is a handsome Russia Leather covered instrument, carries a fine lense and will do as fine work as any high-priced Camera on the market.

The Kodograph is a handsome Russia leather covered instrument, carries an extra fine lense and will do as good work as any of the highest priced cameras on the market. Its construction is so simple it cannot get out of order. It causes great joy to all. Every person can be their own photographer, as it does fine work and the results are obtained after a few moments' study. A child can operate it as well as any grown person. There are thousands of Kodographs in use and the best advertisement for them is their use, as it then recommends itself. You can produce a beautiful picture of your house, family, residence, surroundings of every nature at so small a cost, it cannot help but deeply interest you, in fact, you will feel lost without it. It being a pocket camera you will get so attached to it you will make it your constant companion. The actual size of picture of the Kodograph is 2¾ by 2¾, which is mounted on a card 3 by 3, thus making a beautiful and handy souvenir. Makes four (4) pictures without reloading. Should you go on a long journey, you can easily carry as many extra plate holders with you as you wish. Each plate holder holds two plates, is not at all bulky, but rather handy to carry. It is fast becoming recognized that the plate camera is the proper thing and is far superior to the film. In the Kodograph the negatives are made from glass. The amateur can get better results from plate than from film. If you use glass plates you can develop your own plates at any time. This is not so with the film; you must wait until you expose the full roll before you can see what you have. You can print as many pictures as you wish from each plate, in fact its results are always better, surer and more satisfactory. They are easier and a great deal less costly to develop, which you can do yourself after a few moments' practice. The actual size of the Kodograph is 3¾ by 3¾ by 6 inches. Can be easily carried in your pocket and is always ready to perform its work. All you have to do is to touch the button—the Kodograph does the rest. Remember the Kodograph has a fine lense, not a mere pinhead exposure, like other cheap cameras on the market, and will produce the best results. The Kodograph is well made, in fact better than a great many of the high priced cameras, with their numerous screws, rolls and wheels; it is simple—there is no complex mechanism to get out of order, yet it is provided with everything necessary.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

Early Quotations Showed a Very Small Advance.

New York, June 22.—The initial quotations of stocks in most instances were fractionally above yesterday's close, the most notable variations occurring in the specialties. Decided strength was soon manifested in Omaha and Northwestern, the latter advancing 1¼ to 112¾, the best price yet attained. Sugar developed heaviness after an early improvement and declined to 123.

The railway stocks absorbed the bulk of the limited dealings of the first hour and considerable firmness was noted generally. The Vanderbilt and standard shares were the leaders in the improvement and recorded the best prices. Lake Shore established a new high record, touching 172½c. Some Boughtation was evident in the low-priced specialties, but without effect on the general market. Tennessee Coal was the chief sufferer and lost a point. The international stocks ruled notably higher, despite the absence of influence from the London market, the exchange there being closed. The market developed dullness at the high level and Northwest, from which the strength of the market radiated, receded ½ after being 113½. The market generally felt the effect and reacted a small fraction and subsequently rallied, together with Northwest Consolidated Gas fell off a point on the talk of an exchange of stock with the East River Gas company. Laclede Gas recovered the early loss of a point while Chicago Gas declined ⅞c under considerable selling pressure. Tobacco showed notable strength and gained 1½ to 74½c. The bond market was dull and the movements of prices very narrow. Sales to noon, 165,700 shares.

FATHER BAART SATISFIED.

Says Martinelli's Decision Practically Upholds Him.

Marshall, Mich., June 23.—Rev. Father Baart, of this city, was presiding judge of the church court which last year, at Dubuque, Iowa, decided the famous controversy between Bishop Bonacum and Fathers Fitzgerald and Murphy, in favor of the priests. Monsignor Martinelli recently reversed Father Baart's decision as to Father Fitzgerald.

Today Father Baart stated that the principal points in the decision of the Dubuque court in the Murphy case had been upheld by Monsignor Martinelli, who declared that Father Murphy is not suspended, excommunicated or expelled. The papal delegate also decides that Bishop Bonacum and Father Murphy each pay half the costs. The chief point established by Monsignor Martinelli's decisions in these cases is that bishops cannot suspend priests arbitrarily.

THINK THEY HAVE HIM.

Richard Smith, who, it is believed, is the man who broke into L. Goldberg's clothing store at 511 West Superior street, a few weeks ago, was arrested in Superior this morning and is now locked up at police headquarters in this city, with a charge of grand larceny against him. The arrest was made by the Superior police. Smith sold a sack of ready made clothing there yesterday and was trying to dispose of more when he was apprehended. Mr. Goldberg has identified some of the goods as his.

MISSING BRITISH BRIG.

Training Ship Sea Lark is Long Overdue.

Portsmouth, Eng., June 23.—Considerable anxiety is felt here at the non-arrival at this port to take part in the great naval review of the British training brig Sea Lark. She was due here last Thursday, but has not been seen since she left Davenport. It is believed the brig experienced the full force of the recent gales, and the brig being under sail and managed by 130 boys, some mishap is feared.

Two special service vessels which were dispatched to search for the missing brig between Portsmouth and Davenport have returned without finding any trace of the Sea Lark. The admiralty officials say it is not unusual for such vessels to be delayed by head winds and they claim to feel no anxiety for her safety.

It is Great Stuff.

The local representatives and owners of the Randolph gold property received today about 500 pounds of quartz from the vein now being worked, taken from the 30-foot level. The rock is quartz of the best kind, and experts surround it with technical phraseology, which, being interpreted, eans that it is great stuff. Visible gold is plentiful without the aid of a glass, and wherever corrosion has eaten away the rock it has left a very enticing gleam of "color."

The samples come from a vein 6 feet 4 inches in width, with walls as clean as a plumb line could have laid them out.

BUSHNELL IN OHIO

Nominated For Governor at the Republican Convention at Toledo.

PLATFORM ADOPTED

National Planks Endorsed---Senator Hanna Makes a Very Short Address.

Toledo, O., June 23.—With the contest for the chairmanship settled so decisively yesterday in favor of Maj. Charles F. W. Dick and the entire Hanna slate, the Republican state convention proceeded promptly at 10 a. m. today with the usual business. The report on credentials was adopted without opposition, as it made no material difference in the control of the convention, which was overwhelmingly with Senator Hanna. The temporary organization, with Gen. C. H. Grosvenor in the chair, was made the permanent organization, and the reports of other committees were rapidly disposed of. There was more than the usual interest taken in the resolutions, and the committee was in session all night trying to frame the platform so as to prevent a contest in the convention in the civil service, Cuban and other resolutions. Chairman Kurtz had intended leaving last night after his defeat, but he did not get away then. He did not attend the convention yesterday or today and left at noon for Columbus. During the day there were conferences between Senator Hanna and Governor Bushnell, and the question of a new man for the state chairmanship was still agitated. The following platform was adopted:

THE PLATFORM.

The Republicans of Ohio rejoice in the magnificent victory of last year whereby the people of the United States overwhelmingly decided in favor of an honest dollar, and a chance to earn it, and elected as president that splendid son of Ohio, William McKinley. The platform upon which that victory was won declares the true principles and policy of the Republican party. To all declarations of that platform we pledge anew our allegiance and unqualifiedly commend the president and congress for their wise and statesman-like execution of its pledges.

The Republican party has always been the friend of the down-trodden and oppressed, and has always deeply sympathized with the struggle of any people for independence. We extend our sympathy to the patriots of Cuba in their efforts to achieve freedom from Spanish cruelty and oppression, and hope that the day of their deliverance is near at hand. We commend the course of the president, and express our confidence in his speedy and patriotic disposition of the Cuban question. We believe that the administration, in negotiating the treaty for the annexation of Hawaii, has acted wisely and we express the hope that the senate will ratify the same.

We denounce the violation of the spirit of the civil service act by President Cleveland in those orders which extended its operation beyond its purpose and intent, and demand such revocation of those orders or modification of the law as will accomplish its manifest purpose.

We favor the passage by congress of such a law as will provide a national board of arbitration to secure so far as possible the adjustment and settlement of such differences as may arise between corporations engaged in interstate commerce and their employes. Faithfully wedded to the principle of protection, we demand for the woolgrowers of Ohio such ample protection for wool as shall speedily increase American flocks sufficiently to supply all American needs.

We endorse the wise and satisfactory administration of Governor Bushnell, and congratulate the people of this state upon the financial condition of the commonwealth, which demonstrates that the legislative power of the state was economically and honestly disbursed by a Republican legislature. We promise a continuance of biennial sessions and such legislation as may be necessary to remedy the present inequalities of taxation. The success of the Republican party will insure the advantages of better schools, better roads and all those progressive ideas which will keep Ohio at the head of the sisterhood of states.

The thanks of the people of this state are due to Senators Foraker and Hanna for their splendid efforts during the present session of congress, and we congratulate the people on their representation in the United States senate.

Desiring to continue such representation and appreciating his services to the party and to the people of the state and nation, and his eminent and proven fitness for the position, we endorse the candidacy of the Hon. M. A. Hanna for United States senator to succeed himself, and pledge the support of the party in the next general assembly to his election to both the short and long terms.

The mention of Senator Hanna's name was treated with loud demonstrations, and after the resolutions were adopted Senator Hanna was called for. He thanked the convention for the expression of confidence, and pledged himself to co-operate with the standard bearer (Bushnell) for Republican success in Ohio. Senator Hanna said the Republicans had been warned that this was a dangerous year. He joined in accepting the challenge. The Republicans of Ohio always fight best when there is danger ahead. The opposition propose to stir up the once threshed straw. They will revive free silver in Ohio, but never again free wool. He discussed the pending tariff bill at length, and paid a high tribute to Gen. Grosvenor for his work in the house of representatives for protection. Senator Hanna said he was now trying in the senate to keep up with Gen. Grosvenor's pace in the house. The senator paid the highest tribute to President McKinley's efforts to bring about prosperity and the best possible conditions for the country. The president had many difficulties to overcome, but he would meet the predictions of his friends and the hope of everybody.

After the platform was adopted the nominations were made as follows: Governor, Asa S. Bushnell; lieutenant governor, A. W. Jones; supreme judge, Jacob F. Burkett; attorney general, Frank Monnett; state treasurer, Samuel Campbell; school commissioner, L. D. Bonebrake; member of board of public works, C. A. Goddard.

Governor Bushnell, Lieutenant Governor Jones and Attorney Monnett accepted their respective nominations. Immediately after the adjournment of the convention, the new state committee met, with Harry D. Daugherty as chairman, C. R. Fisher as vice chairman and Peter Durr as secretary. Daugherty and Durr are Hanna men. Fisher was a Kurtz man in the contest for control of the committee. All were elected unanimously.

The convention adjourned at 12:40 p. m.

BALDWIN MAY STAY

Change of Sentiment is Now Reported at the Interior Department.

Washington, June 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—There appears to have been a change of sentiment at the interior department within the past twenty-four hours with reference to the removal of Chippewa Commissioner Baldwin. Yesterday members of the Minnesota delegation were assured that Maj. Baldwin would be removed and "Dar" S. Hall reinstated to his former position.

Today an official of the department said Maj. Baldwin had made a good record during his incumbency, and that his removal was not so certain as has been represented.

THE 'VARSITY RACE.

Will Occur Late This Afternoon on the Hudson.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 23.—Azure skies and a light but not disturbing breeze from the south marked the earliest hours of the opening day of the college boat race. The struggle of the day between the freshmen crews will merely serve to whet the appetite of lovers of aquatic sport. No such crowd ever assembled in this country to witness a freshman race as appeared here today. The city was freely decorated with the various college colors. Beginning early in the day special and regular railway trains brought great numbers of spectators to view the race and long before noon little groups, baskets in hand, moved leisurely down to the bay from the interior localities and took up their stations at vantage points along the west side of the river. Hundreds thus ranged themselves without knowing that the hour for starting the race had been set back an hour, or between 5 and 6 o'clock, according to the conditions of wind and water.

The river was bright with the gaily decorated craft that, having been assigned to anchorage, had no worry as to position to hurry them, moved here and there with their pleasure-seeking passengers. Small launches established routes between the city and the highland shore and dodged big excursion steamers, regardless of police regulations, in their efforts to lessen the profits of the regular ferry. Not much betting was being done about the hotel corridors. It was noticeable, however, that of the "talkers" Cornell's defenders outnumbered those of Yale and Harvard three to one. This was obviously because the talk of sickness among the Yale youngsters still obtained in some quarters today, and because of the strong convictions as to prowess left by Cornell in her last year's walkover.

MORRIS ALARMED.

The Many Protests Against Senator Culkin Have Made Him Nervous.

Washington, June 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—In connection with settling the postoffice appointments in his district, Judge Morris, while in Duluth, will also decide upon the candidate to be recommended for register of the Duluth land office to succeed Mr. Taylor.

There has been a fierce contest for this place, and Congressman Morris will have a difficult task on his hands. He desires to appoint Senator Culkin, of Wright county, but is alarmed by the strong protests from his friends in Duluth.

AN EXPLOSION FEARED.

Bad Blaze in Progress in New York City.

New York, June 23.—Fire broke out this afternoon in the 7-story manufacturing building at Laight and Greenwich streets, which drove out 300 people who were employed. All of these were gotten out safely except one man who jumped from a window and was badly injured. The principal tenant was R. E. Dietz, lamp manufacturer, whose plant and stock were valued at $200,000.

Dreyfuss' wholesale liquor store occupied a portion of the building. The stock consisted of the great element of danger. A delivery stable adjoined the building on one side. Dreyfuss' stock is valued at $100,000. It is probable that before the fire is controlled the loss will amount to over $500,000. An explosion is feared.

RETURN TO WINDSOR

Very Busy Day For Queen Victoria---Large Number of Receptions.

PARLIAMENT'S VISIT

A Triumphal Procession Back to the Historic Windsor Castle.

London, June 23.—This day was one of the most fatiguing of the week for the queen, the official program demanding the reception of several distinguished bodies of official personages, and the reception of addresses at Slough, Eton and Windsor. The chief event of the day and one of the most interesting of the entire week was the presentation to the queen of congratulatory addresses by both houses of parliament, which occurred at Buckingham palace this morning.

Nearly half a century has passed since the house of commons visited the sovereign in a body, the last occasion being the presentation of an address acknowledging the reception of the queen's message announcing the declaration of war against Russia, and not since the early forties, when addresses were made congratulating the queen on the failure of attempts at assassination, has she received the two houses together. There were brief formalities at Westminster today, the two houses meeting and the formal announcement being made by Lord Halsbury in the house of lords, and Mr. Balfour in the house of commons, that the queen would be pleased to receive the two houses, they proceeded in stately procession to the palace. There they assembled in the chamber adjoining the throne room and after a brief delay the doors were thrown open and the announcement made that her majesty was prepared to give them audience. Thereupon the lord chancellor and the speaker of the house of commons advanced side by side to the throne, each followed by the members of his own house. Lord Chancellor Halsbury knelt at the feet of the throne, read the address there on his knees and handed it to the queen.

After the parliamentary ceremony the queen received in the same manner the mayors and provosts of provinces, and chairmen of county councils, who afterwards were entertained at a luncheon in the palace. They were attired in levee dress, consisting of black knickerbockers and stockings, black velvet coats with steel buttons, black plumed hats and swords. Later her majesty inspected the yeoman of the guard.

The queen left the palace soon after 4:30 p. m. today, returning to Paddington railroad station and to Windsor by the same route as was followed on her arrival and in semi-state.

ARE STILL DELAYED.

Appointments of Snider and Swenson to Come.

Washington, June 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Representative Tawney was the only Minnesotan who scored in today's presidential appointments. He succeeded in getting M. Emery named for postmaster at Caledonia.

For some reason best known to himself, President McKinley did not send in the nominations of Professor Swenson, of Albert Lea, for the Danish mission, and of former Congressman Snider, of Minneapolis, for minister to the Greater Republic of Central America. That these apointments will soon be made, however, is not doubted by those who know the recent combination made for doling out the Minnesota appointments.

CUT HIM OFF SHORT

Commander Booth Tucker's Disorderly Conduct Sentence Suspended.

HAD A FEW REMARKS

But the Judge Would Not Permit Him to Read Them.

New York, June 23.—Sentence has been suspended upon Frederick De Latour Booth Tucker, head of the Salvation Army in America, in the court of general sessions, for keeping a disorderly house and maintaining a nuisance in the barracks on Fourteenth street. He appeared shortly before court opened, accompanied by A. Oakey Hall, his counsel at the trial, and by Gen. Benjamin F. Tracy.

The commander of the Salvation Army in America was in the full regalia of his office and did not look at all disconcerted. Judge Newburger rapped on his desk and suspended sentence in a few words indicating the nature of the prisoner's offense. He had just got as far as "I am informed that you are ready to obey the law," when the prisoner interrupted: "I am not sure I can accept a suspended sentence under such circumstances," said Booth-Tucker, meaning that he would rather be a martyr outright than be let off with a scolding. "I have here a few remarks which I will read," he continued, whipping out of his pocket a roll of typewritten manuscript of about 9000 words in length.

"No, I shall not permit it," said the judge sharply. "I shall not allow any playing to the galleries."

Booth-Tucker looked disappointed and retired with his roll of remarks. Later he gave it to reporters. It dealt with the technical nature of the charge, with the relief of the poor in winter, with Mohammedanism, the rise of Christianity and the battle of Bunker Hill.

FUSION NOT DISCUSSED.

Mr. Bryan's Answer to Prof. Bateman's Charges.

Cincinnati, Ohio, June 23.—The Enquirer today will print the following statement by the Hon. W. J. Bryan in answer to Professor Bateman's attack on Mr. Bryan, sent out by the Associated Press under a Lewiston, Me., date:

When asked by an Enquirer reporter concerning the charges by Professor Bateman, the People's party candidate for governor of Maine last year, Mr. Bryan said: "No conditions were attached to the money turned over to Senator Allen except that it should be used according to Mr. Allen's judgment for the cause of bimetallism. All donations were made for that purpose. The money was divided between Democrats, Populists and Silver Republicans in proportion to the vote cast. To have ignored the Populists in the distribution would have been an inexcusable slight. The subject of fusion was not discussed directly or indirectly. Mr. Bateman, I presume, has reference to the letter as reproduced in my book. I took it from the newspapers. If Professor Bateman proves to me that it was a mistake I shall make the change in subsequent editions."

SMALL NOTES DEMANDED.

Cheery View Indulged in By the Treasury.

Washington, June 23.—The treasury department within the last week has received a considerable number of requests for small notes in unusually large quantities. This inquiry was entirely unexpected and is confidently regarded by treasury officials as an indication of improving business conditions. At least once a year the treasury meets demands for small notes from the West and South—where they are needed for the movement of the crops.

Barely, however, has the inquiry begun earlier than the 10th or the middle of July, and therefore it is assumed that the call for notes of small denominations is not in anticipation of the crop movement. It has become so general, however, particularly in the South, that treasury officials ascribe it to renewed activity in general business.

KIECKHOEFER TO BE TRIED.

Washington, June 23.—Francis J. Kieckhoefer, the disbursing clerk and chief of accounts of the state department, who was summarily dismissed in 1895 and indicted for alleged embezzlement of government funds, probably will be put on trial shortly. The defense is preparing a demurrer to the indictments and arguments and are likely to be heard next week. Kieckhoefer claims he has fully discharged his duties; that he did not have or receive from the United States any of the sums of money specified and that he fully accounted for all the amounts mentioned in the government's declaration. There are two indictments against him, one in connection with moneys passing through his hands as disbursing clerk, and the other as to the trust funds in his care.

A JAPANESE INVESTIGATOR.

Washington, June 23.—Massana Maeda, ex-vice minister of agriculture of Japan, is in the city, a guest at the Japanese legation. He is accompanied by Mr. Furuya, the representative at New York of the Japan Tea Traders' association, of Tokio. Mr. Maeda represents about twelve manufacturing and commercial associations of Japan, and his mission here is to advance, if possible, the trade relations between the two countries. Mr. Maeda says the Japanese are extremely anxious to give the United States a large share of their trade and his purpose in coming here is in part to investigate the prices of railroad and telephone equipment.

SOLDIERS' HOME INSPECTION.

Santa Monica, Cal., June 23.—The national board of managers of soldiers' homes, Gen. Franklin presiding, has arrived and will begin its annual inspection of the home here today. Maj. Birmingham, treasurer of the board of managers, had his foot badly crushed by an electric car at Barrett's landing, near the home, yesterday.

There is no sadder sight than that of the orphan-child bereft of the loving care of a mother. If women would but learn the vital importance of taking proper care of their health, and always look after the health and vigor of the organs distinctly feminine, the pitiful Sabbath day procession of motherless children that goes to the cemetery to "put flowers on ma-ma's grave" would be materially reduced in numbers. Too many women bring a child into the world at the sacrifice of their own life. This sad tragedy may be avoided by any women who will resort to the right remedy. 44

The usual dangers of maternity are banished by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It acts directly and only on the important and delicate organs that bear the burdens of motherhood. It makes them healthy and strong, vigorous and elastic. It does away with the discomforts of the expectant period, insures the health of the newcomer, and makes its advent free from danger and almost free from pain. Over 90,000 have testified to its virtues. Druggists who offer substitutes are untrustworthy.

Mrs. William Vincent, of Sidnaw, Houghton Co., Mich., (care Birgland's Camp, Box B), writes: "When I first began to take your 'Favorite Prescription,' four years ago, I was suffering with local weakness and heart trouble. At times I could hardly endure the pain in my sides, quite low down, and had such a pain between my shoulders I could not sleep at night. Was just as tired in the morning as at night. At times there was a very sharp pain around my heart. When I would stoop over there was a dull aching just under the heart. My head ached and was continually sore to the touch. I took ten bottles of the 'Favorite Prescription' and one bottle of the 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I can most truly say that as a result I never felt better in my life. I was more like a young girl than a mother of a family. The pain all left me, so I know that your medicines will do all that medicine can do."

A headache is a symptom of constipation. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation, promptly and permanently. They do not gripe. Druggists sell them.

ROWDY ILLINOIS STUDENTS.

Disgraceful Melee at the University of Chicago.

Chicago, June 23.—A bloody melee on the battlements of Ryerson Physical labratory, in which heads were thumped and backs belabored, put an abrupt end to the senior class day exercises at the university of Chicago. It was senior day and when the flag of that class was flung to the breeze it was a signal for several hard battles between its defenders and a small army of under-class men. The flag was saved from capture, but the face of President James Scott Brown, of the senior class was badly battered in the conflict, and Harry Coy was thrown down the stairs of the Ryerson tower and picked up at the bottom with a dislocated shoulder. Many other students were more or less hurt.

An investigation of the fight is to be made by the university authorities, and students believe that it may result in the expulsion of some of the leaders in the conflict.

JOHNSON MAY HANG.

Spring Valley Man's Neck Is In Danger.

St. Paul, June 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—A Spring Valley, Minn., special to the Dispatch says: A. Johnson has been arrested and will have a hearing today, the coroner's jury having yesterday returned a verdict that Johnson's father-in-law, Paul Skarie, had come to his death from injuries inflicted by Johnson two weeks ago.

Skarie was an inoffensive old man, while Johnson was quarrelsome when drunk, and sympathy is against Johnson, whose attack on Skarie was apparently unprovoked.

IN THE DAKOTAS.

NORTH DAKOTA.

Knute Hilestad, his wife, son Peter and Peter Hansen were among the witnesses in the Normand trial at Grand Forks. Before she was called, Mrs. Hilestad broke down and for an hour or more sobbed piteously. Her two little boys were affected by the mother's grief, and even Normand had a cry. The story of the murder, as told by Mrs. Hilestad and her son, does not differ from that published at the time the crime was committed. The father was away from home at the time and his testimony was not so important. Peter Hansen traded a shotgun to Normand for the black pony he rode away from the Hilestad home on after the butchery. He does not consider that Normand was insane at the time he made the trade with him. The case will probably reach the jury tonight.

The North Dakota Harness company, which has operated at the penitentiary at Bismarck for several years, has shipped all its tools and machinery to Fargo, where it will locate. The penitentiary trustees did not renew the contract with this firm, owing to the anti-convict labor law passed by the last legislature which forbids the use of convict labor in any industry which would bring it in competition with free labor. The firm employed about half the convicts in the penitentiary, and the problem of employment for them is now a serious one.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

At Vermillion, Cupid and a tandem consummated the wedding here of two Sioux City young people Sunday. They were Gustav Metz and Emma Johnson, and they made the journey both ways on their wheel. They were busy people and wished to be romantic. Vermillion is likely to become the Gretna Green for many similar expeditions.

The dam built at Lake Campbell near Volga, this spring, proved too much of a good thing and a portion of it had to be removed. Battle creek flows into the lake and has been pouring in a large volume of water all season. The lake has overflowed the farms near it in some cases to the depth of several feet.

POSTAL PROBLEM

How Shall the Street Car Mail Service Employes Be Classified?

A PITIFUL CONDITION

American Consul Powerless to Relieve a Suffering and Destitute American.

Wasington, June 23.—The quick growth of the street car mail, which within a short period has become established in a number of the large cities, and from whose development great results have inured in expediting the mails, has created a curious complication at the postoffice department. They are curious to know under what head street car mail employes are to be put, and the result may be a new classification, providing a separate designation for them. In many cases the postal crews were detailed from the railway mail service, and in a few cases from the postoffice clerical force, but the mushroom growth of the system has caused a serious drain on those forces, and numerous requests have been made for additional men in both services.

Railway mail service officials hold that the men should not be charged against them without reinforcement in number, while postmasters object unless their force is also augmented accordingly. First Assistant Postmaster General Heath, Second Assistant Shallenberger, Superintendent of Free Delivery Machen and ex-Postmaster Harlow, of St. Louis, now civil service commissioner, have conferred over the situation, and the matter is giving the authorities some concern as to what jurisdiction these employes belong. There is no specific appropriation for them, and if they do not belong to either of these services, then it is suggested money ought not to be taken from the appropriations for those services. The question is still pending, but the adjustment of the problem probably shortly will be reached.

A DESTITUTE AMERICAN.

Sick in Guatemala But Cannot Be Relieved.

Washington, June 23.—From Central America comes news of one of those pitiful cases that at short intervals are brought to the attention of the state department where our great government is shown to be utterly unable to help in the slightest degree its citizens when in the depths of distress.

James William Scandrett writes from Livingston, Guatemala, praying the secretary of state for help. He says he is an American citizen, having lived in San Francisco for eleven years and has proofs of good character. Going to Salvador to erect machinery, he has suffered the most miserable hardships through sickness, wounds and starvation.

Appeals for help to the American consul were without avail, because the official had no authority to expend money to ship the man to New Orleans. He says the British consul would have sent him home had he been an Englishman, and he prays the secretary for relief lest he die of hardship, as the consul says there is, unfortunately, no fund at the disposal of the state department for the relief of destitute Americans abroad, such as the British service provides.

TRAGEDY AT KASSON.

Lover's Suicide and an Attempted Murder.

Kasson, Minn., June 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Bert Van Nostrand, an architect, last night shot and seriously wounded Jennie Geesie, aged 16, and then placing the revolver to his head, blew out his brains. The couple were lovers, and the cause of the tragedy is not known, although Van Nostrand seems to have deliberately planned the deed.

A KALAMAZOO WEDDING.

Kalamazoo, Mich., June 23.—This city is enjoying a social event of unusual interest in the wedding festivities of Miss Eva Stanley Stearns, daughter of Hon. Allan M. Stearns, mayor of Kalamazoo, and Bernis Wilmarth Sherman, son of Hon. E. B. Sherman, of Chicago. The wedding ceremony took place at St. Luke's church which was crowded with the friends of the bride and guests from Chicago and elsewhere. A reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stearns followed.

SENT FREE TO MEN.

INDIANA MAN DISCOVERS A REMARKABLE REMEDY FOR LOST VIGOR.

Samples Will Be Sent Free to All Who Write For It.

James P. Johnston, of Ft. Wayne, Ind., after battling for years against the mental and physical suffering of lost manhood has found the exact remedy that cures the trouble.

He is guarding the secret carefully but is willing to send a sample of the medicine to all men who suffer with any form of sexual weakness resulting from youthful ignorance, premature loss of memory and strength, weak back, varicocele and emaciation. The remedy has a peculiarly grateful effect of warmth and seems to act directly giving needed strength and development wherever needed. The remedy cured Mr. Johnston completely of all the ills and troubles that come from years of misuse of the naturally ordained functions and is said to be absolutely reliable in every case.

A request to Mr. James P. Johnston, Box 1001, Ft. Wayne, Ind., stating that you would like a sample of his remedy for men, will be complied with promptly and no charge whatever will be asked by him. He is very much interested in spreading the news of this great remedy and he is careful to send the sample securely sealed in a perfectly plain package so that its recipient need have no fear of embarrassment or publicity.

Readers are requested to write without delay.

SCATTERING AN ARMY.

One of the Most Approved Means of Driving Out a Physical Enemy.

When men or women feel depressed or debilitated at the present day, it is common to say, "I think I have malaria." What is malaria? It is only germs that get into the body; germs that thrive and increase unless they are killed; germs that worm themselves all through the system; germs that ruin the health and undermine the life. They are aggressive, they feed upon the body; they must be killed. Many things which have been advocated for killing these germs will not do so. It is known, however, that pure spirits taken in moderation, will kill and entirely exterminate the worst army of germs which ever invaded the system. They cannot withstand it. Under the influence of pure stimulants the germs are killed, and the body is strengthened to expel them from the body, and thus restore the health.

It should not be understood, however, that all spirits will do this—few will.

It requires something specially pure, and specially designed for this purpose, and that is precisely what Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is. It has the highest endorsements of doctors and scientists. Do not be deceived into the use of any other, for there is no other preparation upon the market that can accomplish what is accomplished by Duffy's Pure Malt. You will find that it is kept by reliable druggists and grocers.

WANTS GALTEE MORE.

Marcus Daly Offers $125,000 For the Racer.

Chicago, June 23.—Marcus Daly, the big Montana copper king and turfman, passed through Chicago en route to Butte yesterday. He stopped over one hour between trains, long enough to make the highest bid ever recorded for a thoroughbred in American. The following brief cable dated Chicago tells the story:

"To Mr. Gubbins, Knocknany stud, Knocknany, Ireland: Will give $125,000 cash and half his turf receipts for Galtee More. Signed, Marcus Daly, Bittee Creek stud farm, Montana."

Mr. Daly said to a reporter: "I want Galtee More because I think he is the greatest thoroughbred of the age. I know the stock he comes from and his progeny should be as valuable as his ancestry. For my part I would not care to race him much. I would retire him to Bitter Creek stud after a season or two on the track."

SHATTERED WITH DYNAMITE.

Unfortunate Italian Killed and Others Fatally Injured.

Pittsburg, Pa., June 23.—An Italian laborer's shanty near Brilliant station, on the Allegheny Valley railroad, was blown up by dynamite shortly after midnight and Gaetus Antinello was instantly killed. Tigtorina Sartorilla was fatally injured and a number of others received injuries of a less serious nature. The police believe the explosion was the result of a plot against Antinello and thirteen Italians have been arrested pending an investigation.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

Fire destroyed the plant of the St. Paul Carriage company, at South Park, last night. The fire started about 11 o'clock and within an hour the buildings were in ashes.

Winners at the New York races yesterday, aside from the suburban handicap, which has been previously mentioned, were Clifford, On Deck, Bowling Brook, Archduke and Plushing.

At Leroy, Minn., Mrs. Dave Gittel, formerly Mrs. L. M. Pickett, has been arrested charged with murdering her husband, L. M. Pickett, in Moody county, S. D., about three years ago. Pickett died in a burning house and carried considerable life insurance. It is now claimed that Mrs. Pickett started the fire in the house after she had murdered him.

At Milwaukee Miss Emma Pabst, youngest daughter of Capt. Fred Pabst, president of the Pabst Brewing company, was last night married to Rudolph Nunnemacher, of that city. The contracting parties belong to two of the wealthiest German families in the Northwest.

Beloit college in Wisconsin has conferred the degree of doctor of laws upon Lyman J. Gage, secretary of the treasury.

At Washington a dozen tired young men riding bikes stopped in front of the war department hunding yesterday afternoon and the leader, Maj. R. P. Davidson, dismounted and entered the department and presented to Secretary Alger a message which had been delivered to him just fourteen days and six hours before in the city of Chicago by Gen. Brooke, commanding the department of the Missouri.

On the Louisville & Nashville railroad, between Clarksville and Guthrie about 9 o'clock last night near St. Bethlehem, Tenn., one man armed with two pistols sacked the express car and obtained, according to reports in Clarksville, from $2000 to $4000.

At Cincinnati Harry Magee, aged 24, of Chicago, who for some time past has been filling an engagement at the lagoon, diving from a 60-foot tower into the lake was seized last night while attempting to leap. His body struck the water flat and his neck was broken.

At Paris yesterday afternoon the ceremony of civil marriage between Mme. Yvette Guilbert, the celebrated cafe chantant artiste, and Dr. Max Schiller, of New York, was performed at the office of the mayor. There was no religious ceremony.

THE HOMESTEAD LAW.

An Important Decision By the Supreme Court.

St. Paul, June 23.—The supreme court has affirmed the decision of the Ramsey county district court, in allowing William Banholzer to retain the 5-acre tract of land upon which his brewery is located, exempt from execution, on the ground that he resides there and that it is his home.

The tract is located within the corporate limits of St. Paul, surrounded by platted property, and both the trial court and the supreme court declare a law which will allow a man to retain so large a property for a homestead, while the man on the platted portion of the street can hold but forty feet, unfair, but there seems to be no way of getting around the law. In the syllabus Justice Canty says:

"The court has struggled with this statute ever since its passage in 1875 and has made many attempts to construe it, but was finally forced to adopt the distinction between rural and urban as the controlling principle by which to determine the area or size of a homestead. In order to avoid the most extraordinary and absurd results, results which the legislature never intended, this court was compelled to hold that the mere matter of platting within the corporate limits is not controlling. If the debtor can claim as his homestead five acres in the heart of the city, he can claim eighty acres. From this conclusion there is no escaping. It ought not to require any argument to show that the legislature never intended any such unequal and extraordinary results as such an interpretation of the statute would work. Neither does the letter of the statute require any such interpretation, and the inequality in the operation of our homestead law is sufficiently great without increasing that inequality by any unnecessary interpretation."

Chief Justice Start concurs in the result, but dissents from the proposition that the test is whether the land is in the rural or urban portion of the city, and says:

"The statutory test, as repeatedly held by the court, is whether the tract is itself included within and is a part of that portion of the municipality which is either laid out or platted, and this construction has become a rule of property, and whether it is right or wrong it ought now to be followed. The decision of the court in the case at bar overrules these decisions and substitutes a new and uncertain test for determining the area of the homestead in place of the statutory test."

BIXBY IN WASHINGTON.

Denies He Is There on Patronage Business.

Washington, June 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Tams Bixby is in Washington to get acquainted with Secretary Bliss of the interior department, so that he will be better able to attend to his duties as a member of the Dawes Indian commission, which pays him $5000 and perquisites. At least this is what Bixby informs The Herald correspondent he is here for.

He has been credited by some as coming here to help the president distribute the balance of the Minnesota patronage to "original McKinley men," if any more of this ilk can be found in that state. This Bixby denies, however, and says he would like to see every good party worker in Minnesota get a good position, but he realizes that this is impossible.

Washington, June 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dan W. Lawler, of St. Paul, is in Washington. He said to The Herald correspondent this morning that his mission was not a political one. Today he attended the commencement exercises of the Georgetown university, and declares that he came to Washington for this purpose.

INDEPENDENT TELEPHONES.

A Serious Split in the Opposition Ranks.

Detroit, Mich., June 23.—Before the convention of owners of independent telephone systems resumed their session today, the Detroit Telephone company, the largest represented, announced that it would not unite with the newly organized Independent Telephone Association of America. President Holmes, of that company, said his people did not propose to join any organization whose object is litigation with the Bell company. Alex. McLeod, of the Detroit company, who was a candidate for secretary of the new organization, withdrew his name.

The Detroit people say they do not propose to be assessed 50 cents per telephone and 25 cents per mile of wire to help fight legal battles concerning appliances in which they are not interested. The adoption of the constitution is still under discussion in the morning session of the convention.

DENVER'S LATEST SENSATION.

Denver, Col., June 23.—The special grand jury appointed to investigate the robbery of ballot boxes and other frauds committed at the late city election has returned thirty-eight indictments against nineteen election officers for violation of the election laws. The names of the indicted have not yet been made public.

The evening paper is always carefully read, especially in the home circle, and is therefore the best advertising medium.

Catarrh

Mrs. Josephine Polhill, of Due West, S. C., had a severe case of catarrh, which finally became so deep-seated that she was entirely deaf in one ear, and part of the bone in her nose sloughed off. The best physicians treated her in vain, and she used various applications of sprays and washes to no avail. Fourteen bottles of S. S. S. promptly reached the seat of the disease, and cured her sound and well.

TRADING WAS DULL

The Wheat Market Was Quiet Today But Values Were Higher.

BEARISH CROP NEWS

The Talk of a Deal In July at Chicago Affected Prices.

Wheat opened strong and higher today. The market was helped by too much rain in the winter wheat belt which was expected to delay the harvest now in progress, but prices were affected most by the talk of a July deal at Chicago, which was revived yesterday afternoon by the transfer of a lot of July wheat to Armour and to traders supposed to represent Armour. The fear was not universal by any means as was indicated by the amount of wheat which came on the market there at the opening advance, and which caused a decline. That realizing out of the way, the market showed its buoyancy again and soon reacted. Northwest receipts were light, 179 cars against 167 last week and 370 last year.

The second cables from Liverpool reported a firmer feeling than at the opening, which was probably caused by the advance at Chicago which they must in the meantime have heard of. On the other hand the news from California was bearish. Cutting had commenced there and quantity and quality were both declared satisfactory, one dispatch from San Francisco claiming the situationoimoi Francisco claiming the condition to be 90 instead of 75, as given in the last government report. Washington and Oregon were also claimed to be giving a fine promise, owing to recent favorable weather, so fine, in fact, as to indicate a heavier yield than they had ever had before. Closing cablegrams reported Paris flour and wheat each a shade lower and Antwerp unchanged. Export clearances of wheat and flour were equal in wheat to 235,000 bus.

Trading was dull on the Duluth board. July wheat opened ¼c higher at 72¾c but soon declined to 72c. It quickly rallied and sold up to 72¾c. An hour later it eased off to 72¼c but recovered to the high point, and closed firm with buyers at 72c, being unchanged from yesterday. There was good business in cash stuff, the mills buying 100,000 bus at ½c over July for round lots and ¼c over for car lots and shippers taking 15,000 bus at the July price. Following were the closing prices:

Wheat—No. 1 hard, cash, 72¾c. No. 1 northern, cash, 72c; July, 72c bid; September, 61½c bid; December, 65c. No. 2 northern, 69¾c. No. 3, 55¼@65¾c. Rejected, 48½@52¾c. To arrive—No. 1 hard, 72¾c; No. 1 northern, 72c. Rye, 34c. No. 2 oats, 21c; No. 3 oats, 20¾c. Flax, 76¼c.

Car inspection—Wheat, 89; corn, 3; oats, 22; rye, 3; barley, 11; flax, 22. Receipts—Wheat, 58,626 bus; corn, 1362 bus; oats, 60,803 bus; rye, 2392 bus; barley, 28,431 bus; flax, 7680 bus. Shipments—Wheat, 5000 bus; oats, 152,000 bus; flax, 37,927 bus.

GOSSIP.

Received over private wire of B. E. Baker, grain and stock broker, room 107 Chamber of Commerce and 207 Board of Trade.

Chicago, June 23.—The Liverpool cables came a shade lower but the weather was reported wet in various sections of the winter wheat country, which caused some apprehension. Beerbohm cables also estimated a shortage of 12 per cent in the Hungarian crop and 25 per cent in Bombay. Northwest receipts were light. There was a renewal of the talk about a deal in July wheat and that future was nervous and at times excited, while September and December dragged badly and closed at the put price; July closing ¾c higher than yesterday. Some buying orders for July demonstrated the fact that there was little for sale and a good deal wanted while the active interest so late in the month demonstrated the presence of a large number of open contracts. September wheat now in Chicago is 13c under cash red winter which makes a rather alarming discount for a short seller to run up against.

Corn weakened on general liquidation and the report that rates from Missouri river points would be reduced. Oats declined in sympathy with corn.

Provisions more active and higher; receipts of hogs decreasing and the trade is predicting a good advance in port products.

$100 REWARD, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address

AT WEST DULUTH

Baseball Club Is Being Reorganized and Strengthened In Some Positions.

PROSPECTING PARTY

New Cycle Club Will Meet Tonight---May Have a Track.

The West Duluth Ball club is undergoing a process of thorough reorganization, and it is believed that when it again appears on the diamond that it will prove itself worthy of the name it bears. Two years ago West Duluth had a very strong team, and some of the players who were in the old organiaztion will fill in the weak spots, and the team will be strengthened all along the line. The inglorious defeats met with the past two weeks have aroused local pride among the fans, and they are determined that these humiliating experiences will not be repeated. There is lots of good material in the West End for a first class nine, and a determined effort is being made to get it together.

TO PROSPECT FOR GOLD.

An expedition for exploration work in the gold country, on the Canadian side of the boundary line, is being organized in Oneota. A number of the Merritt family are interested in the enterprise, but just what section the work is to be done in is not given out. The expedition will leave here in a few days, and will go equipped to remain until late in the fall. The object is to develop some gold mine prospects that have been recently acquired.

CYCLE CLUB MEETING.

The West Duluth Cycle club will meet at Ketchum's bicycle store tonight for the transaction of business necessary to getting the organization into working order. As yet no ladies have joined the club, but they are expected to after a while. It is probable that arrangements for securing the old skating rink for the use of the club will soon be consummated. It is proposed to make a cinder track in the rink, which will make it an excellent place for holding racing meets. Since the organization of the club, last week, quite a number of applications for membership have been received by the secretary, Dr. I. B. Kenney.

GOOD TEMPLARS MEETING.

The reorganized lodge of West Duluth Good Templars met last night in the church at the corner of Wadena street and Fifty-seventh avenue west, and a number of new members were initiated. The officers of the new lodge are: Mr. Ross, chief templar; Mrs. Schroder, vice templar; Mr. Gilpan, past chief templar; Blanch Murray, chaplain; John Cook, secretary; Herbert Spohn, financial secretary; May Smith, treasurer; Eugene Smith, marshal; Miss Farleigh, superintendent of juvenile templars; Georgiana Ross, guard and sentinel.

WEST DULUTH BRIEFS.

The regular bi-weekly meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance union will be held at the Congregational church tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The meeting will be conducted by Mrs. Grey, and the subject for discussion will be "How Far and for What Shall We Educate Our Children?"

Mrs. J. M. White and children left last night for Ada, Minn., to join Mr. White, who went there recently to locate permanently.

Between the acts of the operetta, "Snow White," at Great Eastern hall tonight, Miss Flannigan will render a number of recitations.

J. I. Lauermann will leave immediately after the Fourth of July festivities for a visit to a number of Wisconsin towns in search of a place in which to locate and engage in business. He expects to dispose of his interests in West Duluth.

Ring up tel. 3969, West Duluth Steam laundry.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

Renewed Firmness Apparent at the Opening.

New York, June 23.—Renewed firmness was displayed in the early operations in the stock market, with the grangers leading the upward movement. Business was in light volume and an easier tone developed in some of the higher priced specialties, notably Sugar and New Jersey Central, which lost a fraction each.

The inquiry for the granger stocks became very marked after the opening, blocks of 1000 shares changing hands frequently at advancing prices. The improvement in this group was communicated in a slight degree to other railway stocks, Southwestern roads being especially prominent. The industrials stocks lagged generally and trading in them was restricted to the leading properties. The announcement of an additional shipment of $650,000 in gold by tomorrow's steamer stemmed the upward movement somewhat and caused a partial reaction and a contraction in the volume of dealings.

Purchases by commission houses soon steadied the market, and material gains were shown in the inactive stocks, including Pullman and Canadian Pacific. Fluctuations in the prominent stocks were unimportant until near midday, when the bulls took hold of the industrials and, on large purchases, advanced Sugar and Chicago Gas over a point, and Tobacco 3 points, the latter recording 1¾c. The preferred stock of the latter made an exceptional rise of 3 per cent to 1.08. The Vanderbilts were less prominent, but firm. London was a buyer of international favorites. The best prices in the present bull movement have been attained in a number of shares, chief among which were the grangers and Chicago Gas, the latter touching 91¼. Bonds were quiet and firm. Sales of stocks to noon were 129,500 shares.

CRUISE FOR A FLY SPECK.

The recent sailing of a steamer from Victoria bound for Cocos island to dig up the rich plunder supposed to be buried there has brought out a number of contradictory reports about the authenticity of that treasure legend, the latest being to the effect that it was discovered and carried away early in the 90's, says the Portland Oregonian. A water-front man was reading this yarn in an office yesterday and when he finished, exclaimed:

"That shows that great results sometimes hinge on very small matters. I know a couple of men who would have probably recovered all that treasure if it had not been for a fly."

The exclamations of surprise and incredulity which greeted this remark were all the encouragement needed and the veteran proceeded:

"It was along in the latter part of 1879 that Thomas Doig, Eric Johnson, William Masters and M. D. Staples, who had been running an independent pilot service at the mouth of the river, with the schooner Rescue, were driven off the bar by the Flavel monopoly. Having no further use for the schooner, Masters and Doig sailed south in her to do a little discovering on Cocos island, and to eventually sell the vessel in some port on the lower coast. Staples dug up some old charts of the Pacific, which, though a trifle worn with age, were supposed to be accurate, and in due season the craft sailed out of Astoria never to return. Cocos island was noticed on the map, but there was no name attached to it. In due season the Rescue and her fortune hunters reached the latitude and longitude where the island of riches showed up on the map. They almost went blind straining their eyes to catch sight of the land, but their search was unrewarded, and, like Noah's ark in the song, they 'jes' kep' a sailin' and a sailin'.' Every time they would get past that spot on the map they would double back on their tracks again, but the island would not appear.

"There is no telling how long this state of affairs would have lasted had it not been for the discovery made by Doig one morning. Masters had the old chart spread out on the table and was figuring away for dear life when Doig came down from the deck. He leaned over Masters' shoulder, drew his sheath knife and made a scratch on the paper. Cocos island disappeared and Masters as soon as he regained his composure said: 'Well, I'll be durned if it wasn't a fly speck.'

"This discovery disgusted them so much that they bore away for San Jose de Guatemala, where the schooner was sold and Doig became an admiral in the navy at that point, and it was only about a year later that this outfit came along to Cocos and dug up a schooner load of Spanish doubloons, showing plainly that if it had not been for that fly Doig and Masters would have found the treasure for if the fly had kept off the paper they would never have sailed without a map showing the island, and, of course, if they had found the island before the treasure was taken it would have been theirs."

NEW WATERPROOF MATERIAL

Atlanta Constitution: In a recent consular report F. V. Deuster describes a gelatinous fluid called "pegamoid," just invented by a London photographer. Mr. Duester says: "Paper, leather, cotton, linens, silks, woolens, cloth and other goods treated with pegamoid are waterproof, protected against vermin and remain entirely smooth, soft, flexible, unsusceptible to the change of temperature and climatic influences. There is no doubt that pegamoid leather in future will prove to be a great competitor of the genuine morocco leather, being cheaper and as fine in appearance, with the advantage of not getting soiled. All kinds of wall paper can be cleaned after the treatment with pegamoid without suffering loss of color. The invention can so easily be applied that scarcely any object in daily use exists in which it might not be of great advantage."

The evening paper is always carefully read, especially in the home circle, and is therefore the best advertising medium.

HAWAIIAN ANNEXATION.

Strong opposition is being offered by a number of Republican newspapers to the proposed annexation of the Hawaiian islands. Prominent among the opponents of annexation is the Omaha Bee, which expresses the belief that the treaty submitted to the senate by President McKinley "will be a sore disappointment to that large body of American citizens who have confidently believed that in this matter the administration would give heed to the conservative sentiment of the country and be governed by the traditional policy of the government." While it may be true that the traditional policy of this government is opposed to the acquisition of territory outside the American continent, there is a strong reason why this policy should be abandoned in the case of Hawaii. Secretary John Sherman has been opposed to the annexation of outlying territory, urging that the domain of the United States is already extensive enough, but, as he pointed out the other day in an interview justifying his apparent abandonment of his former attitude, the United States must take possession of Hawaii, or Japan will seize the little republic. This country has already given notice that no foreign nation will be permitted to assume sovereignty over the islands, and there now exists a treaty with Hawaii providing that no privileges shall be extended to a foreign nation without the consent of the United States. The last Republican platform declared that "the Hawaiian islands should be controlled by the United States and no foreign power should be permitted to interfere with them." This was understood by the people to mean an endorsement of the project of annexation. President Harrison, towards the close of his administration, negotiated a treaty of annexation. It was subsequently withdrawn by President Cleveland, and this action aroused much popular indignation, proving conclusively that, outside of a certain element, the American people favor the acquisition of the islands.

But the Omaha paper opposes the annexation treaty for other reasons in addition to it being a radical departure from the traditional policy of the government. It is "unable to see what advantages or benefits the United States would derive from possessing these islands, while there are obvious possibilities of much trouble and large expense in governing them, to say nothing of the danger of international friction." The islands are 2000 miles distant, it says. This is true, but in these days of cables and fast steamships, distance cuts but a small figure. Modern facilities have wellnigh annihilated distance. The annexation of the islands would speedily be followed by the construction of a cable. The "population of ignorant and indolent natives, Chinese, Japanese and Portuguese, would be found troublesome to govern," adds the Bee. This is merely a surmise. The native Hawaiians are not troublesome, but, on the contrary, are docile and law-abiding, as the experience of the Hawaiian republic has demonstrated. We have Chinese and Japanese in this country, and we are not seriously troubled by governing them. The restrictive laws which we have applied to the Mongolians will apply to them also, so far as Hawaii is concerned. We have Mexicans in the Southwest, and the Portuguese are not less law-abiding. Equally unfounded is the danger of international friction. The danger of such friction is greater with the islands nominally under our protection.

The Omaha Bee's final objection is that "Hawaiian annexation would be a menace to the sugar industry of the United States, the development of which is of the highest importance." Last year the imports of sugar from the islands were over 400,000,000 pounds, and under the reciprocity treaty all came in free of duty. Unless it is proposed to abolish the reciprocity arrangements, the sugar industry of this country will be as much menaced without annexation as with it. How can the Republican party, with which the Bee affiliates, consistently abrogate a reciprocity treaty? No doubt the sugar trust would prefer legislation that would compel the payment of a duty on Hawaiian sugar, but there has been no demand from the people generally for such legislation, and the attitude assumed by the Republican senators shows that there is no probability of such legislation.

Thus it will be seen that all the objections to the annexation of the islands are trivial and not entitled to serious consideration. The ruling element on the islands desires annexation; it is certain that, if we do not annex the islands, we must be prepared to see them fall under the control of Japan or England or fight for their protection. Annexation is preferable to either of these contingencies.

A LIBEL RETRACTED.

A tardy apology has been tendered by the News Tribune to Mr. Towne for the publication of a gross libel against his character during the last political campaign. At that time it charged him with all the political crimes in the calendar, but the one to which Mr. Towne naturally took exception, and for which he promptly demanded a retraction and, failing to secure this, began suit for damages, was a charge affecting his personal integrity. The assertion was made in an article published by the News Tribune that Mr. Towne was converted to the silver cause by becoming interested in some silver properties in the West, and it was broadly insinuated that he was then in the pay of the silver mine owners.

There was not even the slightest foundation for this accusation. It was manufactured solely for political effect, and contained not the least atom of truth. Although Mr. Towne promptly denied the statement, and The Herald called upon the News Tribune for proof of its serious charge, the morning paper failed to either retract or produce any evidence to sustain the charge. Even when Mr. Towne formally demanded a retraction, it had not the decency to give him that justice to which he was entitled. Consequently he had no option but to start a suit for damage, and thus vindicate himself.

Mr. Towne was not after damages, however. He desired a vindication from the vile aspersions cast upon his motives in the last campaign, and having now secured the full apology which was his due, and all his legal expenses having been paid by the libeler, he is content to drop the suit.

This experience should prove a lesson to the News Tribune to be more decent in its treatment of opposing candidates during political campaigns. Its virulent abuse of Mr. Towne last fall was disgusting to the great majority of the people, and no doubt cost its party many votes. In strong contrast was the treatment which The Herald accorded to Judge Morris, and for which he expressed his gratification at the close of the campaign.

THE OHIO CONTEST.

Senator Hanna and the power of federal patronage won a victory over the Foraker-Bushnell faction in Ohio yesterday. The election of Maj. Dick, the Hanna candidate, as chairman of the campaign committee, over National Committeeman Charles L. Kurtz, who was backed by Governor Bushnell for that position, is not calculated to promote the harmony which is necessary to enable the Republicans to have a good fighting chance to carry Ohio this year. The result will be a continuation of the bitter feeling between the Hanna and Foraker factions, and probably the election of a Democratic legislature and the election of John R. McLean, free silver Democrat, to succeed Mark Hanna in the United States senate.

There is a tradition in Ohio among the Republicans that the governor should have the appointment of the chairman of the state committee. Last year Mr. Kurtz was distasteful to President McKinley, but Governor Bushnell insisted on his appointment, and the McInley men waived the point. Now the friends of Mr. Hanna assert that the campaign, as directed by Mr. Kurtz, was not made with the intention of carrying the state for McKinley. They point to the Republican plurality of 135,000 in 1894, while in 1896 McKinley carried the state by only a few over 50,000. This year they claim the conditions are ripe for a more successful turning of the knife. John R. McLean is a rich candidate. He is alleged to have put $1,000,000 at the disposal of the Democrats. In addition to this, Ohio, since the war, has made periodical changes from the Republican to the Democratic column, and it is now two years past the usual time for the change in the political complexion of the state. Because of these reasons Maj. Dick and the rest of the Hanna men say the utmost care must be taken in the conduct of the campaign. The least treachery would turn the victory into a defeat.

But the Foraker-Bushnell men say, that it is they who should fear treachery. The present senatorial apportionment of Ohio was made by the Republicans when Governor Campbell was at Columbus. The apportionment was not made by the legislature, but by the state officers. Campbell was in the minority, and an apportionment was fixed up which will allow the state ticket to be defeated by 15,000 votes and yet allow the Republicans to control the legislature. The Bushnell people claim this fact puts them at a disadvantage and that with a Hanna man in control of the state committee a very little knifing would be necessary to defeat the state ticket and still leave Mark A. Hanna in control of the situation. For this reason they insisted that the usual custom of the head of the state ticket naming the manager of the campaign should not be disturbed. But Mr. Hanna has carried the day. It was given out that to stand by Bushnell and Kurtz meant the loss of all hope of federal patronage and recognition, and as nearly every Ohio politician wants an office the crowd soon made a rush for Hanna's procession and took their places in the line. But the fight has made some hard feeling which will not be easily dissipated, and the effect of it will be seen at the polls.

The late Senator Daniel W. Voorhees of Indiana, for many years one of the most prominent men in public life, left many valuable manuscripts, including three lectures which he had prepared in his later years, dealing chiefly with his recollections of the prominent men and events with which he was connected. His son, ex-Congressman Charles S. Voorhees, will collect these manuscripts and publish them in one large volume.

It is so difficult to reach corruption by ordinary means that the framers of the new constitution of Delaware deny trial by jury to persons accused of bribery. Under this constitution bribers can be sent to the penitentiary by a commission of judges. This looks like an extreme measure, says the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, but there has been great provocation for it in Delaware.

William Jennings Bryan said recently in an address to the boys at the Saratoga, N. Y., high school that when he was a boy he was always disappointed when he saw a prominent man, and always thought that they ought to be taller and stouter. There is no doubt that most boys are similarly disappointed.

The St. Paul Dispatch says that John Goodnow's appointment as consul general at Shanghai "may not be wholly acceptable to the Republicans of his own city, but that is a matter which they will probably adjust later on." The wily John will not be much worried, however, so long as he holds the fat job.

If Li Chang has not a host of young nephews he ought to have, for he is a handsome giver of "tips." Even when the recipient is his own royal mistress the present is magnificent in amount. The douceur which he recently handed to the empress dowager was a little check for 800,000 taels—in other words, $150,000.

H. B. Chamberlain, formerly of Denver, Col., who died recently in England, made a failure of thirty-six branches of business before he started to boom Western real estate. He conducted his operations on such a large scale that when he died he owed $15,000,000. He certainly made a magnificent failure.

Governor Mount of Indiana is known as the farmer governor, and is looking forward to the time when he can go back to his farm. "When my term expires," he said recently, "I shall return to the farm and shall not be a candidate for another political office." It is not every governor who is so sensible.

Governor Pingree of Michigan, when on a recent visit to Lansing, could not buy a white vest in town large enough to circle his ample waist. Evidently the Michigan governor has now reached aldermanic proportions.

Gen. Grosvenor, addressing the Ohio Republican convention, said the Republican party did not promise prosperity. What about the McKinley lithographs labelled "The Advance Agent of Prosperity?"

Again the rumor is afloat that Dan Lamont is to be elected president of the Northern Pacific railroad. Whenever news gets scarce in railroad circles they revive this story.

The Cleveland Leader says: "Mr. Hanna, barring the president, is the most conspicuous Republican in America." Why except the president?

TEN YEARS SICK.

Victim of Nervous Dyspepsia and Nervous Prostration.

The Experience of a Grateful Woman Cured By Dr. Charcot's Kola Nervine Tablets.

Onalaska, Wis.—For ten years I have been the suffering victim of nervous prostration and nervous dyspepsia. I cannot begin to tell you or remember the remedies I have taken or the prescriptions I have tried. Take what I would, I grew worse instead of better, and was well nigh discouraged. Then came the grateful change. One month ago—on the advice of my brother, who sent me a box—I commenced taking Dr. Charcot's Kola Nervine Tablets. I have taken one box and gained five pounds, but that is nothing compared to the physical relief I have experienced. I am better and happier than I have been for five years. If I could make the recommendation stronger, I would gladly do so. Yours gratefully,

MRS. LULU GLEASON.

LAUREATE AUSTIN'S POEM.

Chicago Record: Let the merriment of the queen's jubilee go on unchecked. Remember no one is compelled to read Alfred Austin's poem.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat: Laureate Austin's poem on the Victorian jubilee has the one merit of avoiding an effort to be brilliant. It is mere commonplace, without a striking phrase or a fresh thought. Mr. Austin should write one more poem, his swan song.

Indianapolis News: Think of a poet laureate speaking of "girding a crown about" the brow of the "maiden with majestic mien," or using "vow" as the equivalent of "prayer." The "poem" ends with the declaration that the queen's people, gathering "from near, from far," unitedly indulge in this prayer:

Longer and longer may she reign,
And, through a summer night serene,
Whence day doth never wholly wane,
God spare and bless our empress queen!

"A summer night serene whence day doth never wholly wane" is great, is immense, is Austinian—but what does it mean?

Chicago Tribune: The coincidence is well worth remembering, for instance, that—

The dew was on the summer lawn.
And that—
The roses bloomed, the woods were green.

When "a maiden with majestic mien" went into the reign-record-making business, and so consistent has been her conduct and the manifestations of nature that—

Now the cuckoo calls once more,
And once again June's roses blow.

In token of the expiration of sixty years. There are so many hidden delights in the poem that there is danger of missing some of them at a first reading.

St. Louis Republic: The sweetly juvenile sentiment of Mr. Austin's latest and most notable effort as a laureate is in itself most winning. After trotting the queen of England out in the dew of the lawn, he makes the cuckoo sing to her and the roses blow again, and tells her that it is the "greatest greatness to be good"—which is nice for Vic, but rough on the prince of Wales—and gives her a crown and a trident and a helm, regardless of expense, and makes much of her generally, just as the most gushing of class poets would do. And he wants her to stay, too, until he has occasion to sing to her again, because, after making her people "pour" round her throne and vow and lift their hearts and pray, he pipes:

Longer and longer may she reign,
And through a summer night serene,
Whence day doth never wholly wane,
God spare and bless our empress queen.

Isn't that nice? You don't have to dig deep for any thought in it—it's a regular trundle-bed cinch, so to speak—and then, as before, the rhyming is so sweetly familiar. It isn't necessary now to ask Time to turn backward in his flight and make us children again just for a night—a surrender to the spirit of Mr. Austin's jubilee muse is all that's needed to attain the Nirvana of second childhood.

FORMING A CLUB.

They talked travel, art and books
Gave politics some rubs,
Of music spoke, and drifted last
To the theme of woman's clubs.
"I've joined my six-b," she said with pride,
"Each seemed so good a cholce,"
And on the word he courage took
His treasured hope to voice.

"Oh, Phyllis, dear—forgive the name—
But will you make it seven
And join a club I know about?—
Its charter comes from heaven—
Its fee is drafts on Cupid's bank,
Its dues are kisses sweet,
Its membership is limited,
But not its times to meet.

"Already half the number's got—
A single smile from you
Will fill the list and found for aye
This happy club of two.
Nay, sweet, look up—you think you'll join?
Oh bliss that crowns my life!
You shall be all the officers,
And be, besides—my wife."

IN ABSENCE.

Watch her kindly, stars;
From the sweet protecting skies
Folow her with tender eyes,
Look so lovingly that she Cannot choose but think of me;
Watch her kindly, stars!

Soothe her sweetly, night;
On her eyes, o'erwearied, press
The tired lids with light caress;
Let that shadowy hand of thine
Ever in her dreams seem mine;
Soothe her sweetly, night!

Wake her gently, morn;
Let the notes of early birds
Seem like love's melodious words;
Every pleasant sound my dear,
When she stirs from sleep, should hear;
Wake her gently, morn!

Kiss her softly, winds;
Softly that she may not miss
Any sweet, accustomed bliss;
On her lips, her eyes, her face,
Till I come to take your place,
Kiss and kiss her, winds!

RED BANANAS.

Luscious red bananas make a delicious breakfast salad. While they do not possess the tonic bitter of the grape fruit they offer a refreshing change, says the Philadelphia Times. This banana is the result of grafting the root stock of the common yellow banana and is raised chiefly at Baracoa. The little Guinea or fig banana, with a flavor as sweet as honey, is not often brought to this country, because the entire supply issued in the tropics These bananas are occasionally found in the markets of New Orleans and other subtropic cities. The banana when served in the tropics, where it grows, is generally divided lengthwise. For breakfast chill the banana and sprinkle a dash of brandy or marachino over it. The ordinary red banana will need a little sugar unless it is "dead ripe," but the fig banana with its melting honey tincture pulp will need no such addition.

SMILING TIPS.

Detroit Free Press: "Popper, what is a ministering angel?"

"A ministering angel? Well, it is a woman who loves to run a lawn mower.

Harper's Bazar: "That oracle is a corker for absurdity," said Diogenes to Capt. Kidd. "I asked her if I would be immortal, and she answered, 'Thou—shalt—die—ogenes.' You never can get a woman to answer a plain question."

Philadelphia North American: Orator—I tell you, gentlemen, there is something radically wrong with this nation. Man on the Edge of the Crowd—Heavens! Another office-seeker has left Washington in disgust.

Washington Times: "What did that man do to make himself so famous?" asked the Alturian, gazing curiously on an individual who formed the center of a social group.

"To the best of my knowledge," replied the cynic, "he did the public."

Indianapolis Journal: "Seven dollars for a room and breakfast? Great Scott! man, that is awfully steep. And awfully high," said the victim.

"Yes," admitted the summer landlord, "it is so high and steep that I don't see how I can come down."

Yonkers Statesman: Crimsonbeak—Wait a moment. I just thought of something. Yeast—Well, what is it? Crimsonbeak—Why, you know a great many celebrations are postponed on account of bad weather." "Yes," "Well, the queen's jubilee is different. It will be held on account of the reign."

Washington Star: "A woman," remarked the man who would fain be facetious, "always reads the last of a story first."

"Yes," replied Miss Cayenne, "and yet the men are so stupid as to go on putting the advertisements in that same place, as if we weren't on the lookout for them all the time."

Detroit Journal: It was the eve of their bridal day. "Perhaps, after all," he faltered, gazing tenderly yet seriously down into her lustrous eyes, "we shall make a mistake in marrying."

"How you frighten me, Edwin," she exclaimed with a shiver. "Come, let us rehearse again, and make assurance doubly sure."

Chicago Tribune: "I know I play chess very poorly," said the young woman, moving her knight to the wrong square, "but I do so love to learn."

"I wonder," replied the young man, preparing to mate in three moves, "if you could learn to love!"

Her answer was very soft and gentle, but it broke up the game at once.

THE SUGAR SCHEDULE.

Philadelphia Record (Dem.): The people of the United States will be asked to pay $90,000,000 tax on the sugar they consume. They would pay it cheerfully if the tax went into the federal treasury. But the trust gets $20,000,000 and the treasury only $70,000,000. That is the consideration which fills the minds of the taxpayers with bitterness and makes them doubt the good faith or honor of the men who hold caucuses and make tariffs for them in congress.

Milwaukee Sentinel (Rep.): The Republicans will make a mistake, we cannot help thinking, if they rest their defense of the sugar schedule upon its superiority to the schedule in the tariff of 1894. No doubt this method of defense is an effective retort upon their Democratic critics in the senate. Comparatively few persons, however, care very much which schedule goes further in putting money into the pockets of the sugar trust. A great many persons would like to know why either party should give the sugar trust as much as it got by the tariffs of 1890 and 1894, or as much as it is likely to get by the tariff of 1897. To voters who ask, "Why give the sugar trust so much?" it is no answer to say, "The Democrats gave it more."

Chicago Tribune (Rep.): The senate has settled the sugar question as far as it is concerned. The schedule presented by Senator Aldrich and reported by the finance committee has been abandoned. It met all the requirements of the sugar trust. But the schedule which was adopted Friday by a vote of 32 to 30 gives the trust more than the house bill does. The latter gives the trust at least an eighth of a cent on the pound protection. The senate schedule gives it at least a fifth. According to Bradstreet's: "The increase in the duties embodied in the new sugar clause of the bill over those in the original house bill is considered very favorable to the American Sugar Refinery company, which it is alleged will profit enormously from the additional value given to its large stock of raw sugars, estimates of the amount running from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000. Sugar stock on Friday rose to 125¼." How does it come that the senate is always so solicitous for the welfare of the sugar trust? * * * The time will come, if this perpetual pampering of the sugar trust is not stopped, when the people will take the matter in hand and clean out those whom it believes to be responsible for that sort of misfeasance in office.

A Bachelor's Reflections.

New York Press: Marriage is the embalming fluid of love. It often makes a lovely corpse.

Women have a theory that a bad man can never like to watch a sunset or smell flowers.

A man can always get the respect of a woman by letting on that he doesn't tell all he knows.

No matter how good he is to her, a woman will always have a horrible doubt whether her husband will meet her in heaven.

When a woman wants to call her husband down before company she needn't say anything. She only needs to smile in a sort of deprecating way.

Some women's idea of taking care of a man is to have a lot of fussy sachet bags to put in the bottom of the drawers he keeps his shirts in.

WOMEN DO NOT TELL THE WHOLE TRUTH.

Modest Women Evade Certain Questions When Asked by a Male Physician, but Write Freely to Mrs. Pinkham.

An eminent physician says that "Women are not truthful, they will lie to their physicians." This statement should be qualified; women do tell the truth, but not the whole truth, to a male physician, but this is only in regard to those painful and troublesome disorders peculiar to their sex.

There can be no more terrible ordeal to a delicate, sensitive, refined woman than to be obliged to answer certain questions when those questions are asked, even by her family physician. This is especially the case with unmarried women.

This is the reason why thousands and thousands of women are now corresponding with Mrs. Pinkham. To this good woman they can and do give every symptom, so that she really knows more about the true condition of her patients through her correspondence than the physician who personally questions them. Perfect confidence and candor are at once established between Mrs. Pinkham and her patients.

Years ago women had no such recourse. Nowadays a modest woman asks help of a woman who understands women. If you suffer from any form of trouble peculiar to women, write at once to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., and she will advise you free of charge.

And the fact that this great boon which is extended freely to women by Mrs. Pinkham, is appreciated, the thousands of letters which are received by her prove. Many such grateful letters as the following are constantly pouring in:

"I was a sufferer from female weakness for about a year and a half. I have tried doctors and patent medicines, but nothing helped me. I underwent the horrors of local treatment, but received no benefit. My ailment was pronounced ulceration of the womb. I suffered from intense pains in the womb and ovaries, and the backache was dreadful. I had leucorrhœa in its worst form. Finally I grew so weak I had to keep my bed. The pains were so hard as to almost cause spasms. When I could endure the pain no longer I was given morphine. My memory grew short, and I gave up all hope of ever getting well. Thus I dragged along. At last I wrote to Mrs. Pinkham for advice. Her answer came promptly. I read carefully her letter, and concluded to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. After taking two bottles I felt much better; but after using six bottles I was cured. My friends think my cure almost miraculous. Her noble work is surely a blessing to broken-down women."—GRACE B. A LITERARY CHOICE.

I've read and I've read and I've read
O'er hundreds of books I have pored,
But give me the book that reads as if it
Was writ with the point of a sword.

Ink's all very well in its way,
But I don't want ink any more;
The book that I want is the one that's been writ
With grewsomely gurgling gore.

And while I am fond of my sleep,
My nods and my naps I'll forsake
For the tale that is warranted night after night
To keep me a-staring awake.

A tale that is made up entire
Of thunder and blizzards and sea,
And muskets and cannon and sabres and shot,
Is the tale that will satisfy me!

SENATOR COKE'S INTERVIEW.

The late ex-Senator Coke, of Texas, though as a rule a taciturn and reserved man, had a sense of humor and was something of a diplomat, says the Pittsburg Dispatch. Shortly after his appearance in the senate here, years ago, he was approached by a newspaper correspondent for an interview on a leading question of that day. The request had come from the home office, as the correspondent explained.

"Sit down, my young friend," said Mr. Coke, "and tell me, the first thing, if I can trust you?"

The correspondent said pleasantly that he regarded himself as a safe risk.

"Why I ask that," continued the senator, with a smile, "is because I have a confession to make. I don't know much of anything about the question you mention, but I can't afford to admit that to your newspaper. I take this request for my views as a compliment. I'm a new man on the scene, and an interview in as prominent a paper as yours will help to introduce me. I ought to have some views. What do you know about the question?"

The correspondent replied that he had read the bills recently introduced bearing on the subject, had listened to speeches in advocacy of them, and so forth.

The senator's face lighted up. "My young friend, do you want this interview right away?"

"No, sir. It goes by mail. Tomorrow will do."

"Then you go and get copies of some of those bills and of a few of those speeches, and bring them here and we'll have a conversation."

The correspondent agreed to this and left the senator. It was an amusing experience, but an agreeable one, because of the frankness of the senator and his cordiality.

The correspondent returned in an hour with a bundle of papers, and he and the senator went over them together. The senator would put in a word, and then the correspondent would put in a word. Finally, the senator said:

"Now you go home and write out the interview and bring the copy here."

This also the correspondent did, and upon his return his greeting was a cordial one. Senator Coke read the story twice over, repeating portions of it aloud, and, then handing it back, said:

"My young friend, we work in double harness together admirably. That is all right, and you can send it on to your paper. Now, you stand up for me and I'll stand up for the interview."

The story was well displayed in print, and it established a friendship between the senator and the correspondent which continued to the end.

CUBAN BELLIGERENCY.

Knights of Labor Declare in Its Favor.

Washington, June 23.—The general executive board of the Knights of Labor has adopted the following resolution:

Resolved, that the general executive board of the Knights of Labor do hereby request the house of representatives and president of the United States to at once take action recognizing the belligerency of Cuba, and,

Resolved, that we recommend that the local and district assemblies of the Knights of Labor everywhere use their influence in their respective towns and cities to make the celebration of the Fourth of July, 1897, an occasion for the adoption by the people of resolutions calling upon the president and house of representatives to take immediate action of the granting belligerent rights to Cuba—to the end that the cause of freedom and independence in that island shall be aided to win a speedy and complete victory.

Made Superintendent.

George L. Phippen, well known in Duluth as one of the pioneer Northern Pacific railroad men, has been promoted, on the Duluth, Missabe & Northern road, to the position of superintendent of construction, with headquarters at Burnett station.

Commencing yesterday, double crews were placed on the work, which will be pushed from now until the winter season. Superintendent Phippen holds the record for rapid construction work in the Red River valley and will probably make some dirt fly in his new position.

PRAISES FOR VICTORIA.

Eulogized as a Womanly Queen at W. C. T. U. Meeting.

The Central W. C. T. U. held a missionary meeting at the First Methodist church yesterday, which was well attended and very successful. All of the foreign mission societies of the city were represented, the object being to arouse common interest in the work of the various societies.

Mrs. W. E. Woodbridge delivered an entertaining address on well-known missionaries, describing the efforts and successes of Mrs. Mary Clement Leavett, Miss Jessie Ackerman, Dr. Kate Bushnell and Mrs. Andrews, the two last names being remarkable for their success in correcting English army abuses in India.

Mrs. G. Hood Thompson presented a paper appropriate to the British ocean son, the queen's jubilee. She said that two years ago on that date she was in London as an American delegate, telling old friends about the Americans and their ways. She thought that world's convention was the best object lesson she had ever seen to prove that distance has no power to sever sisterly ties. "Over in that great kingdom today," she said, "they are celebrating the jubilee of a womanly queen who gives glory to God and her people. We rejoice with her, for better than the scepter of a hundred kings is womanliness."

Class of '96 Reunion.

The reunion of the class of '96 of the central high school was held last evening at the home of Miss Gertrude Longsteel, of 1227 East Third street. The class at the time of graduation numbered fifty-six, and twenty-nine were present last evening. A number of the others sent letters of regret. The reunion proved to be a delightful one. The home and lawn were prettily decorated. Games were played and refreshments served. Those present were: Misses Maud Wigdahl, Gertrude Wiggans, Pearl Swingle, Lizzie Coultra, Rena Smith, Jo Carey, Betty Brearley, Katherine Logan, Rose Butler, Jessie Cox, Ora Grilley, Belle McKay, Mary Cullyford, Minnie Jeffrey, Anna Burnham and Bertha Stahlbusch, Milton Stuart, Arthur Knauf, Douglas Bostwick, Gudmandson, Richard Close, George Raymond, James Shannon, George Litteau, Charles Meinhardt, Harry Burnham, Mildred Smith, Ralph Davis and Roger Weaver.

Making Plans Already.

Plans for the reception of the Scandinavian sangerfest in 1898 were launched last night at a meeting at Central hall in the West End. The convention of the Scandinavian singers of America, which was held at Minneapolis this year, decided that next year's meeting should be held in Duluth. The Norwegian singing societies, Normanna Mandskor, of Duluth, and Nordron, of Superior, met, therefore, last night to begin preparations. The opinion was that the two cities should join, as the jubilee is an elaborate one, and singers from all over the country will come. A committee of five members of Mandskor and four of Nordron was appointed to make the preliminary arrangements. The committee follows: Duluth—P. Anderson, Jens Flaaten, J. N. Sodahl, A. Sauer and Odin Halden; West Superior—R. H. Maller, J. Gyldenskog, H. Waaler and J. Sorenson.

SETTLED THE SUIT

Charles A. Towne's Damage Case Against News Tribune Is Dismissed.

A RETRACTION MADE

Costs and Attorney's Fees Paid---Dispatch Case Is Still Pending.

The libel suit of Charles A. Towne against the Duluth News Tribune has been settled on the basis of a retraction by G. G. Hartley, who was the owner of the paper at the time of the publication of the alleged libelous article. It may be remembered that during the campaign the News Tribune reprinted from the St. Paul Dispatch an article impugning Mr. Towne's motives in advocating the cause of silver. It was asserted in that article that Mr. Towne was an employe of a "silver trust," and that his warmth on the side of silver was due to the alleged fact that he was interested in silver mines.

Mr. Towne demanded a retraction, and what purported to be a retraction was published. This was not satisfactory and suit was begun. For the last three months negotiations for settlement have been pending. Yesterday afternoon they were finally concluded, and this morning the News Tribune published the following letter:

Editor of the News Tribune:

During the political campaign of last fall, the undersigned owned and controlled the Duluth News Tribune, and during that time an article appeared in this paper taken from the St. Paul Dispatch reflecting upon the character and integrity of the Hon. Charles A. Towne, who was then a candidate for re-election to congress. This article was placed in the columns of the News Tribune without the actual knowledge of the undersigned.

Although it would seem at this time entirely unnecessary, yet in fairness to Mr. Towne, I desire to repeat that I do not now, nor did I at the date of the publication in question, believe, or have reason to believe, that the charges contained in said article had any basis of truth. G. G. HARTLEY.

While the retraction was the basis of settlement, it is understood that Mr. Hartley will very naturally and properly settle Mr. Towne's attorney's fees and costs.

The suit against the St. Paul Dispatch, which was brought at about the same time and which is for $75,000, is still pending, and it will probably come up for trial at the fall term of court in Ramsey county. S. T. & William Harrison and L. C. Harris were Mr. Towne's attorneys.

NELSON IN HARD LUCK.

His Latest Anti-Trust Amendment Doomed to Defeat.

Washington, June 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Senator Nelson continues to play in hard luck, but he bears his grief like a man. Ten days ago his pet anti-tax trust amendment to the tariff bill was sidetracked by the Republican caucus by an almost unanimous vote, and he had to withdraw it. Then he prepared another amendment on less radical lines, which he hoped to get adopted.

It is now learned from inside sources that this amendment is also doomed to failure. It will probably not be withdrawn, but will be brought to an open vote in the senate, as Nelson is desirous to put his colleagues on record. The Nelson amendment will be defeated, however, and Pettus' anti-tax trust amendment, which is aimed especially at the sugar trust, will be adopted in its place. Senator Nelson is not discouraged, but is now incubating new ideas which will be developed in due time.

Baseball Games.

Saturday afternoon at the West End ball park the firemen and the street car men will have their ball game, the proceeds of which will go to the Women's and Children's home. A light admission fee will be charged, and there is every reason to believe that a large attendance will be secured and a fair sum for the home. The line-up of the teams has been published in The Herald.

As stated in The Herald last Saturday, the old Whalebacks club is looking for trouble, and they are out now with a challenge directed especially to the Missabe-Consolidated ball club for a game to be played at the latter club's convenience. The proceeds will go to St. Mary's hospital.

For packing and moving household goods go to Duluth Van company, who are headquarters for that business, at reasonable prices. 212 W. Superior st.

DUE TO BLOOD POISONING.

Verdict of the Coroner's Jury In McCarter Case.

The inquest yesterday afternoon in the case of Jennie McCarter, the circumstances connected with whose death, which occurred Monday at the Women's hospital, were such as to arouse suspicion of criminal practice, resulted in a verdict that death was caused by blood poisoning. The witnesses examined were Mrs. Sarah Banks, proprietor of the private hospital on St. Croix avenue, from which the dead woman had been removed to the Women's hospital; Dr. Slaughter, who attended the woman at Mrs. Banks' place, and Drs. Braden and Stocker, who made the post-mortem examination.

Mrs. Banks testified that the woman went to her place about five weeks before her death. She then seemed to be suffering from medicines she told Mrs. Banks she had taken, both to anticipate birth and cause death. The medicine taken for the latter purpose was laudanum. The girl said she had procured the drugs from a druggist in West Superior. She had at first said that she lived in West Duluth, and then that her home was West Superior. The witness had given her simple remedies to overcome nausea, with which she was afflicted to such an extent she could retain no food. Witness denied that she had performed an operation. Dr. Slaughter had been finally called in. He had operated on the woman. Witness had helped him. This was the sixth or seventh day after she went to Mrs. Banks' place.

Dr. Slaughter testified that he had been called on the case. The patient had been unable to retain on her stomach anything he had prescribed, and he judged that it was imperative to operate upon her. He called in Dr. Murray for consultation in regard to the matter, and the latter had agreed with him as to the necessity of an operation. The girl had told him that she was a servant; that when she found herself in a precarious condition she had gone to a West Superior druggist and told him her state, and that he had given her drugs, which she had taken.

Dr. Braden testified that he had been called to the Women's hospital on the case. He was told she had typhoid fever. He could find no evidence of typhoid, but had discovered well defined evidences of blood poisoning. On a careful examination, after death, he had concluded that the blood poisoning had ensued from a criminal operation. She had admitted than an operation had been performed.

Dr. Stocker's testimony was to the same effect as Dr. Braden's, so far as the symptoms and conclusions therefrom were concerned. Neither could tell, they said, whether instruments had been used.

To the Editor of The Herald:

The woman is reported to have made a full statement, after she had been told she was going to die, to the effect that Mrs. Banks had performed an operation on her. This, however, she refused to repeat to the county attorney. She said that the best thing for her had been done, and that it had been in accordance with her wish. She has a child about 3 years old in a children's home in West Superior, it is said. Her mother is supposed to reside in Ironwood, Mich.

THE SWAN LAKE ROAD.

A Settler Who Wants a Change All Around.

To the Editor of The Herald:

The taxpayers and settlers in general are everywhere stirred up over the way the road work on the Swan Lake road is conducted. The trouble started when some poor settlers were discharged off the work when Mr. Kauppi, the county commissioner, had informed the settlers here that they were to work on the road before the paying began. The settlers went to Mr. Kauppi and were furnished written orders to be employed, but some of them were even then refused, the foreman saying that he had orders from the road overseer to "change off," and he was going "to show Mr. Kauppi that he was running the work."

Now in these times it is a very good idea to "change off" and give the largest number possible a chance to earn at least enough to keep body and soul together and pay taxes so as to keep the tax collecting machinery in order. It takes most of us farmers here one-sixth of our work to pay our tax on 160 acres. Therefore we think it proper to "change off" the foreman's five teams, his boarding house, expenses that are paid by the county, and the foreman that cannot superintend the work without an army of "subforemen." And the men that have to board in the camp or be discharged would like to have the bill of fare "changed off." Even the road superintendent could be "changed off" without any serious damage to the county. Yours for a "change off."

GIVEN TO COMPANY C.

Thomas Dowse Presents a Rare Print to the Company.

The following letters will explain themselves:

Duluth, Minn., June 4, 1897.—Capt. Resche, Company C, Third regiment, N. G. S. M.—Dear Sir: Wishing to express appreciation of what in the past by protection and other services on several special occasions, our local soldiers have rendered the maintenance of law and order in Duluth and St. Louis county, and feeling a sincere sense of honest pride in the high grade of inspection which your company has just so honorably passed, I would ask the company's acceptance of the accompanying lithographic picture of the "Capture of Sebastopol," (1854, I think), which is correctly made from a government historical painting of the same in Paris. It is offered, with the hope it may add to the attractiveness of the company's room in our city Armory and a further strong desire that it may become a "stepping stone," an incentive, of many similar acknowledgments by other of our citizens to your and other companies of our state guards upon whose efficiency so very much for the sustaining of good government depends. It is a picture I have had many years. The great variety of similar copies of the same in this country perhaps, may add additional value to the aforementioned sentiments of esteem of Company C and their brother comrades in their own and other regiments in this sympathetically young, beautiful and real "Key Stone State" of this great American nation, which latter was established, redeemed and must ever be protected and safely transmitted, by the loyal assisting services of our citizen soldiery. With kind respects and many hopes of a pleasant and useful future for you all, I am very respectfully yours, THOMAS DOWSE.

P. S.—I would suggest your keeping the picture in its old frame. A willing and ready respect paid to "age" by the "young," is the most graceful tribute they can yield, and is alike honorable to both. The frame is older (I guess) than many of your members. T. D.

Duluth, Minn., June 21, 1897.—Thomas Dowse, Esq.—Dear Sir: At a meeting of the members of Company C, Third infantry, held the other night, our secretary was instructed to convey to you our sincerest thanks for the rare print, "The Siege of Sebastopol," which you were so generous in presenting to us, and more yet for the spirit in which it was given; also for your kind and interesting letter. We assure you, kind sir, that we shall never forget the interest shown by you in our organization, especially in times like these, when it seems to be the fashion amongst so many of our fellow citizens to belittle the efforts of the truly patriotic youth of our glorious republic. Such words so nobly spoken, are indeed a balm for many of the boys whose unselfish devotion to the cause we represent, will spur us on to greater work, thereby hoping to maintain the high standing that we were enabled to achieve. It would give us much pleasure to see you now and then at our armory. The beaming faces of our boys will in some measure repay you for your kindness. We remain, faithfully yours,

The Officers and Men of Company C, Third Infantry.

A COUGH does not always indicate consumption. Mr. W. H. Palmer, of Waterloo, Iowa, writes: "I was taken with a nervous stricture of the bronchial tubes, which developed into nervous prostration. I was so weak I could not sit up. I got no sleep for days except when under the influence of opiates. For four months I suffered agonies and prayed that I might die and be at rest. One physician said I had consumption, for I had a cough that gave me no rest. But a good old physician whose medicine had failed, advised me to use Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine and I thank God that it has brightened my days, lengthened my life and saved me from the horrors of nervous prostration."

"CRAGGENCROFT" SCHOOL.

Young Ladies' Classical Institute Located at Woodland.

The Rev. John Mason Duncan, nine years president of Coates college for young women, has leased for a term of years the beautiful Woodland school property. President Duncan will, in September, open a young ladies' classical institute. The school will be advertised as "Craggencroft." Its distinctive characteristic will be, says Mr. Duncan, the entire absence of an iron-clad arbitrary curriculum to which all girls, wise and otherwise, must be squared and fitted, and withal abundant provision for the most liberal courses of preparatory education, and of young ladies culture in special lines of study. In other words, parents seeking preparation for college entrance for their daughters will find at "Craggencroft" a school whose president's and whose faculty's character and work stand approved the length and breadth of the land, and parents not desiring college preparation will find at "Craggencroft" special elective courses in any department they may desire.

"Craggencrof's" diploma will attest, not the completion of a prescribed course of subjects and books, but the having done meritorously a fixed number of hours of school work judiciously distributed over complementary subjects, arranged agreeably to parents and professors. "Craggencroft" will offer work in the following departments: 1, Kindergarten and child school; 2, primary and intermediate; 3, a strictly preparatory form; 4, a school of philosophy, language and history; 5, a school of piano and singing; 6, a school of painting and drawing.

Mr. Duncan desires especially to organize a seminary, under his own instruction, of English and philosophy and history for ladies "out of school." The modern languages of "Craggencroft" will be in the hands of Fraulein Mynna Felicitas Haberstitch, A. M., a charming instructor of ten years' well approved experience. History, economics and English, it is hoped, will fall to Miss Jane Boys Creighton, L. L. A. (St. Andrew's university, Scotland.) Latin, Greek, philosophy, collegiate English and the English Bible will be taught by President Duncan himself. Miss Grace M. Lee, B.Sc., has been engaged for mathematics and science.

"Craggencroft," in its preparatory courses, will offer preparation for the sophomore class of any and all representative colleges for women, and of the same class in any co-educational university. After twenty years of experience although yet under 45 years of age, Mr. Duncan is persuaded that the best education of young girls is often sacrificed to the arbitrariness of school courses. "Craggencroft" is, therefore, to be an institute whose aim is individual culture and character. Prices will probably remain the same. Mr. Duncan will reach Duluth about July 1. Later notices will appear of more fully developed plans. All correspondence should be addressed, "Rev. John Mason Duncan, president of Craggencroft, Duluth, Minn."

"TO HIM THAT HATH."

Poor Mrs. Mason went back to her bed, but not to sleep. As long as the night was, it was not long enough, for th dread grew upon her of being obliged to face her colleagues after the dreadful error would be known, says June Lippincott's. (She had put $21,000 in the wrong column.)

She remained at home all the morning, waiting for a ring of the door-bell that never came. At noon the postman's whistle aroused her, and she went to the door herself to take the mail from him. There were three letters, which she tore open in nervous haste.

The first was from Mrs. Bemas Burns.

"I am so delighted to read," it ran, "of your great success. I see you have $21,000 surplus in the treasury. Isn't it delightful? I have long put off becoming a member. You may put me down now as a patron at $25 a year, and having kept you waiting so long I really feel that I owe you the enclosed check for $100 to make up for my dilatoriness."

The second was from Mrs. Melrose Montagu.

"I enclose a check for $500," she wrote "for your magnificent and successful work. It gives me such pleasure to know that you are getting on so well. If nothing happens, I shall be glad to repeat this subscription next year and the year after that. I am going to get my mother and my sister both to be patrons, for certainly you deserve the support of all thinking women."

And the third was from the treasurer: "I hear on all sides nothing but praise for the beautiful Appeal. We shall succeed, thanks to your skill and devotion. I rush to my desk to let you know that I met our funny old neighbor Mr. Wintry this morning, and he says he was much pleased with our report, and hints that he may have one of his houses in the neighborhood for us rent free. Don't say anything yet; but isn't it touching how the people are coming forward at last?"

FOR CANNIBAL ISLANDS.

Missionary Barkentine Morning Star Starts Tomorrow.

San Francisco, Cal., June 23.—The Morning Star, with its captain and crew of Christians, is ready to make another tour among the cannibal islands in the South sea. The vessel will be manned by men who will preach the gospel to the natives. Two young ladies will also go out as missionaries. They will make their future residence on some little islands, where they will do their work for life. The Morning Star is a barkentine rigged vessel with auxiliary steam engine and is owned and maintained by the American board of missions.

The ladies in the party which will sail tomorrow are Miss A. Olin, Miss C. Huppen, who will start a training school on Kosale, one of the Caroline group, and Miss Beulah Logan, who has been attending school in Buffalo. Miss Logan will rejoin her mother on the Carolina group and take up kindergarten work among the natives.

A Celebrated Case.

F. P. Mills, formerly agent of the Cleveland Iron company, but now engaged in gold mining in California, was in the city yesterday on his way home. Mr. Mills had been to Ishpeming to testify in a lawsuit that has been in progress there for more than a week between the Cleveland Iron company and the Lake Angeline company to determine the ownership of a large amount of valuable iron property. The suit is the outgrowth of the pumping of the water from Lake Angeline, which laid bare a great quantity of iron ore. The suit is to determine the riparian rights of the Angeline company and has aroused a great deal of interest in mining and legal circles. D. H. Bacon, president of the Minnesota Iron company, who was also at one time agent of the Cleveland company, was also at Ishpeming as a witness in the celebrated case.

BOARD VS. EXPERTS

More Particulars as to the Controversy Over Pumphouse Contract.

MEMBERS EXPLAIN

Detailed Estimate of Committee and Items Allowed By the Board.

The pumphouse investigation committee was to hold another meeting this afternoon, when, it was expected, the members of the board of public works and the members of the expert committee, Messrs. Patton and Palmer, and Mr. Fredrickson would appear and be heard.

President Smith of the board of public works said this morning that it was the intention of the board to make the specifications for the additional work "substantially according to the expert committee's recommendations." When asked why the board had not incorporated the specifications word for word as they were set forth in the committee's report, Mr. Smith said the board had reasons for not doing so, which he did not care to divulge until the investigating committee should inquire into the matter. Mr. Smith's attention was called to the fact that the specifications of the contract did not call for tearing down the walls of the engine and boiler room as recommended by the committee.

"Well, the work has been done just the same; they are down," replied Mr. Smith.

"The boiler room walls?" was asked.

"Why, yes," said Mr. Smith. "That is, I couldn't swear to it," he continued, after a minute, "but it was my impression that they had been."

Mr. Smith said the board in making the contract for the extra work had been working in the dark somewhat, and that if there are any differences between the specifications recommended by the committee and adopted by the council they are due to errors of judgment and not intent.

Mr. Wilson of the board said that if the specifications set forth in the committee's report were produced at the sessions of the board when the contract for the extra work was being considered, he did not see them. The only specifications he saw were in the shape of a pencil memoranda produced by Mr. Fredrickson, which, hte latter said, he had jotted down from information given him at Mr. Palmer's office. The lump sum named in the discussion at the meeting was $22,162.50. Later, he found that the sum of the items of the bill of extras added to the price in the original contract amounted to $24,001. He called the attention of the clerk to the matter and the latter told him that the prices of the items were as dictated to him by Mr. Smith.

Mr. Palmer, of the expert committee, was present, it appears, at the meeting of the board when the items of the bill of extras were being talked over. His suggestions were, it is said, in nearly every instance, ignored by the majority of the members of the board. One item which he tried to have reduced is the allowance of $1300 on account of cut stone on the ground. This, he assured the board, was largely in excess of its value. The allowance recommended in the committee's report for stone, mortar and labor rendered useless by the revised plans is $700.

The allowance for new material made by the committee is $250. The allowance in the bill of extras passed by the board are more liberal. The items are rather indefinite. One item is as follows: "Stone, $650." Another is, "cut stone according to new plan, $1300." The committee allowed $100 for tearing down the walls of both engine and boiler rooms. The board allowed that amount for tearing down the engine room walls only. The board also allowed $600 for cement in place of lime, whereas the committee recommended an allowance of $200 on account of the change from lime and cement mortar to cement and mortar.

The following are the estimate of the committee and the items of the bill of extras allowed, the committee estimate being given first:

POWER & SETTLE'S

THE CRICKET MATCH.

The Duluth and Superior Teams Had a Very Lively Game.

The cricket match between the British Americans of Duluth and the British Americans of Superior took place yesterday on the Normal School grounds at West Superior and was a lively one. Duluth won the toss and decided to go to the bat. The first ball bowled to Capt. McMillen hit his leg and the umpire decided that he was out leg before wicket. This did not look very promising for the Duluth score, but H. R. Walker, who was McMillen's partner, was joined by J. M. Roy, when things went considerably different, for the runs began to come steadily until Mr. Roy was bowled by Robinson for a well-earned 9 runs. H. R. Walker was then joined by his brother, A. E. Walker, but after scoring 3 runs was unfortunately run out. F. W. Boldrick then joined H. R. Walker and the runs began to come pretty fast, until Mr. Walker was cleverly bowled by Harris for a splendidly-played inning of 17. W. W. Harmon joined Boldrick at the bat, and for about ten minutes the ball was kept going for 2 and 3 hits, first by one batter and then by the other, until Harmon was caught out by Ballantyne after playing a very fast inning of 14 runs. The balance of the batters were disposed of with only a few added runs and the innings closed for 83 runs, Boldrick being not out for 9 runs. The Superior team was very unfortunate, owing to some wild bowling, for the large sum of 23 extras was scored in favor of Duluth.

The Superior team then went to the bat, having 83 to make to tie the first inning of the Duluth. The first players to bat for the team were Howard Cundy and A. R. Heitland, and after a few balls Mr. Heitland was cleverly bowled by H. R. Walker. P. Harris then joined Mr. Cundy, and these two kept the fielders busy for a while, when Harris was caught by Roy for a well-played inning of 10. F. Ballentine then joined Mr. Cundy, and still the runs came thick and fast, and it looked as if Superior was going to have no trouble in catching up to the score of the Duluth players, but a fortunate change made by Capt. McMillen both in the fielding positions and the bowling was made, and Ballentine was soon booked by Walker. After this the Superior team made very few runs, both the bowlers being on the wicket, and when Mr. Cundy was finally bowled by Walker he had made the highest individual score of the day, being 23. It was a splendid exhibition of good cricket.

The fielding of the Duluth team was very poor at parts of the game and other times very good, but all showed the lack of practice, and were certainly not as good in the field as the Superior team. The score for the first inning of the Superior team closed with 59 runs, being 24 runs behind the Duluth score for the first inning.

Duluth then entered on her second inning, with McMillen and Boldrick at the bat, the bowling for the Superior team being entrusted to Harris and Robertson. It was soon evident that the practice the bowlers had in the first inning was to their advantage, the bowling being much better. After McMillen had made 6 runs he was caught by the wicket keeper, and the Duluth players, none of whom made any long stands, were finally disposed of for 32 runs for the second inning. Boldrick was the only one succeeding in getting a double figure, he having made 11. This made the total score for both innings for Duluth 115, leaving the Superior team to make 56 runs in their second inning to tie. Superior put into bat Cundy and Heitland against the bowling of H. R. Walker and Charles McMillen, and it was soon demonstrated that both bowlers were on the wicket, for the side was retired for 27 runs, none of the Superior team having succeeded in getting double figures. Walker was credited with five wickets and McMillen five wickets. This left the Superior team beaten by 29 runs. The credit for the victory of Duluth must be given to H. R. Walker, both for his splendid bowling and his batting in the first inning. One feature of the fielding in the second inning was a brilliant catch at cover point by J. I. Thomas, which elicited great applause from the spectators. It has been arranged to play the return match on the same grounds on next Saturday afternoon, game commencing at 2 o'clock.

Subjoined is the score of the match yesterday:

OLD CASE SETTLED.

Timber Contract Suit Against Northern Pacific Adjusted.

The settlement of an old case was filed in the United States court today. It was the suit of Jacob Bean and John G. Nelson against the Northern Pacific railway and Central Trust company of New York. The complaint alleges that the Northern Pacific repudiated a contract made with persons who assigned it to the plaintiffs under which they were to have the privilege of cutting a large amount of timber from the railroad's lands. They placed their damage at $100,000 and sued for the enforcement of the contract. Dwight M. Sabin, of Stillwater, and Charles A. Pillsbury, of Minneapolis were interested in the contract. The suit was begun in 1892. The stipulation for dismissal says the case has been settled and compromised for a valuable consideration given by the receiver of the Northern Pacific company.

HORRIBLY BURNED.

Daniel Sheehan, Five Years Old, Was Seriously Burned This Morning.

Daniel Sheehan, 5 years old, residing on Eleventh avenue east, between Third and Fourth streets, was badly burned this forenoon, and it is feared that his injuries may be fatal.

He was on the street at the time playing with some matches with some other children. His clothing ignited and in an instant he was all ablaze. The cries of his playmates attracted attention and several persons ran to the rescue, the flames being finally extinguished by rolling him on the ground in a quilt. He is badly burned about the neck, chest and back. He was taken to the Woman's hospital.

LARGE EXCURSION PARTY.

Meeker County's Old Settlers Pay Duluth a Visit.

The Meeker County Old Settlers association is in Duluth and riding over the Duluth & Iron Range railroad today, four hours later than they expected to when they left Litchfield yesterday morning, the delay being occasioned by an accident on the road. There were 392 of them and they were a very tired and hungry crowd when the train pulled into the Union depot. They rushed for the hotels, and the St. Louis gave a hurry up midnight supper to 131 of them.

This morning all but about 75 of them left for a trip over the Duluth & Iron Range railroad, visiting Tower and Virginia. They will arrive here this evening and leave on the return some time tomorrow, the exact hour of departure to be determined by a vote of the excursionists on the train today. Those who remained in Duluth put in the day in visiting points of interest and riding about the harbor.

One of the "Old Settlers" in an interview with a Herald reporter said:

"We expected to take a ride in one of Mr. Hill's boats on the lake, but none of them are in town. He said we might go on one of his whalebacks but they are all away too, and we are very much disappointed."

The Mr. Hill referred to is the railroad magnate who is on very chummy terms with Meeker county's old settlers.

The party is being chaperoned by Senator Peter Hanson and the Eastern Minnesota train was in charge of W. J. Dutch, St. Paul city passenger agent of the company.

The association is twenty-two years old and consists of about seventy-five members. The officers are: Andrew Nelson, president; T. J. Jewett, secretary, and W. H. Greenlear, treasurer. This is the association's first excursion, but not, say its members, its last.

WATCH AND CLOCK OILS.

The importance of the oils used in lubricating watches, chronometers and clocks is forcibly illustrated in a little book by William T. Lewis, president of the Philadelphia Horological society, says the Philadelphia Record. He states that even the best made watches cannot keep accurate time from year to year unless lubricated with the finest quality of oil. The curious source of many of the oils thus used is given below.

Porpoise jaw oil and blackfish melon oil have become widely known and justly celebrated in all parts of the world, as they were found to be better adapted for the purposes of lubricating fine and delicate machinery than any other.

Blackfish melon oil derives its name from the mass from which it is extracted, taken from the top of the head of the blackfish, reaching from the spout hole to the end of the nose and from the top of the head down to the upper jaw.

The supply of porpoise oil and blackfish melon oil comes mostly from Massachusetts bay, the trap and gill net fishermen bringing them into Provincetown, Mass.

Sperm oil is the best of all the lubricants and is for several purposes one of the most excellent. It is obtained from the large cavity in the head of the sperm whale, which contains oil and solid fat. It is not very largely used, however, in watch work.

Bone oil is made from the fat obtained by boiling the bones of animals. The finest quality is obtained from the big bones of recently killed healthy young cattle.

Neat's foot oil is largely used in the arts. The best oil, that used for clocks, is extracted by placing the thoroughly cleaned feet of cattle in a covered vessel near the fire or in the sun.

Olive oil has been used as a lubricant since the earliest days of clock making. It is obtained from the olive of Europe, the pulp of which contains as high as 70 per cent of oil. This oil is the most perfect non-drying oil known.

Sperm oil is used for the heavier bearings of large clocks because of its good qualities of resisting evaporation and oxidization.

Of the mineral oils petroleum is obtained from many different localities. Paraffin, both liquid and solid, is obtained from the distillation of crude petroleum.

Neutral oils are refined paraffin oils varying in specific gravity from 0.8641 to 0.8333. They are largely used for the purpose of mixing with mineral or vegetable oils.

STOCK-REDUCING SALE.

The Duluth Art Tailoring company makes announcement in another column of a special stock-reducing sale that cannot fail to interest anyone having in mind the purchase of a suit of clothes. The style and good points of the suits made by this company are known to all, they being recognized as the leading tailors of this city. The low prices quoted are made possible by the desire to reduce the large stock of woolens as soon as possible.

POLITICS IN IOWA

State Democratic Convention With Many Delegates Meets at Des Moines.

A RED HOT ROAST

Chairman Fred White Denounces Millionaires of the Rockefeller Stripe.

Des Moines, June 23.—About 1000 delegates were present when State Chairman M. F. Healy, of Fort Dodge, called the Democratic state convention to order today. All counties were represented by delegations, most of them equal to the authorized number. The attendance of visitors was small. The tabernacle was not decorated except with a few flags. The announcement that ex-Congressman Fred E. White, of Keokuk, the leading candidate for governor, would preside as temporary chairman was received with cheers, which increased when a large picture of W. J. Bryan was unfurled at the rear of the stage. Three cheers were given for Bryan, and then Mr. White made his address.

The Hon. Frederick E. White, temporary chairman, said in part: Jeffersonism today constitutes the crowning glory of all our institutions, as it is, indeed, the only barrier the cumulative wisdom of ages has been able to erect to protect a free people against the approaches of despotism. If they should ever either through ignorance, indifference or actual connivance let go of this Jeffersonism but one thing will happen, must happen, is inevitable and that is a radical change in the entire structure of the government. You will then have fastened upon you either a socialism or a despotism. Judging from the accumulating evidences on every hand I fear that when that evil day comes it will be a despotism—not the despotism of ecclesiastism, not the despotism of and old-fashioned feudalism, not the despotism of a militaryism, but the despotism of money, the most merciless, the cruelest master of them all.

Are the present conditions just and natural, such as ought to prevail? None but veritable demagogues and reckless partisans will resent the statement that the conditions throughout our country are not only not satisfactory, but deplorable, not only deplorable, but actually alarming, and becoming more alarming with the lapse of each succeeding day. These conditions are sought to be intensified and made perpetual by a certain class of people who are the direct pecuniary beneficiaries and, while comparatively few in number, are powerful in their influence. The vexatious part of the problem is that the multitude who are the victims are afflicted with an inexplicable indifference, the most remarkable part of their conduct being their traditional immobility.

The cause of true reform suffers immensely because a great many people rest secure in the belief that their freedom remains unimpaired so long as they are not actually sold upon the block. This monster delusion has in the past from time to time deferred and is now deferring the regeneration of the political life of this nation. It is this wretched hallucination, stupefying the powers of comprehension among so many people, that gives the opportunities and furnishes the license to the pirates in our midst to devour our substance with impunity. Once let the people learn that they may be reduced to a condition of practical servitude while still permitted the use of forms and ceremonials to which they were accustomed in a state of actual freedom, but which are now empty forms and shallow meaningless ceremonials, devoid of power and harmless of purpose. Let the working classes once thoroughly comprehend that the power to fix wages and determine prices is the omnipotent power in this material world—the power that can most effectually create the autocrat upon the one hand and the menial on the other, that can afflict specially at the same time with the two-fold curse of multimillionaire and pauper. Once let these truths penetrate the popular understanding and the carnival of the thieving and gambling fraternity would abruptly come to an inglorious end.

The interesting question then is, is it possible to arouse the masses to a real sense of the danger hanging over them before this danger culminates in a calamity and overwhelms them? There are indeed, at the present time, many indications of a popular awakening. Unless we set the people down as incurable idiots it will be impossible for us to believe that they will much longer continue to submit to the almost wholesale confiscation of their political inheritance. The criminal operations of the multi-millionaire conspirators are growing so recklessly bold and frequent, the effects of their operations are so far reaching and disastrous, that public attention is being aroused as it never was before and, unless our people are exempt from the operations of the natural law that governs elsewhere, and are amenable to another, the workings of which we do not understand, public indignation will follow, and the inevitable outcome will be a readjustment of conditions where the Jeffersonian doctrine of political equality of men will be assigned its rightful place and the administration of justice be the moving, governing principle.

That class legislation has now reached the imminent danger point, to maintain which will involve the permanent degradation of the producing classes is beyond all intelligent dispute, and yet in their utter madness the beneficiaries of this legislation are planning and demanding that the fields of their operations be widened. With one accord they are asking such an extension of license and power to plunder, that should all their demands be granted, as the Republican party now contemplates, as it is in fact anxious to grant, an imperialism of wealth will rule this country such as this world never saw—an imperialism without conscience, destitute of mercy, rioting in the very debasement of the common people, reviving the damnable doctrine of despotism, enforcing the cruelties of the ancient Pharaohs compelling the people to make bricks without straw.

Equality in the owning of property is an ideal condition for which the Democratic party is not contending. The equality we demand is the equality of all citizens before the law. It is equity not equality that we plead for. It is justice, impartial justice, we are battling for. We freely concede the natural superiority of some men over others, but we never will concede that Rockefeller's brain is 28,000 times bigger or 28,000 more active than other people's brains. Not content with controlling the coal fields, the oil fields, the ore deposits, the timber supplies, the provision market, the labor market, the transportation lines, the telegraph and telephone, to say nothing of the illimitable value of municipal franchises; not satisfied with owning the executive, the judiciary, the congress and most of the state legislatures, and the entire metropolitan press, these multi-millionaires have determined to possess themselves of the vast additional power of controlling the people's finances. Should they succeed they will have completed their ownership of the last thing upon earth. They will own the people themselves. The odious relationship of master and slave will then have been established without the physical presence of the auction block.

The program is to utterly destroy the use of silver for primary money—to make it artificially scarce so as to mark the price of labor and its products down, down, and to legislate the value of the gold dollar up. But the Democratic ship that has sailed upon so many turbulent waters, that has been whirled in so many furious eddies, that has triumphantly outridden all the storms of over a century, is still afloat. This historic craft, under the temporary command of a treacherous captain, was recently anchored in the mud holes of Republican landing places. But the patriotic crew refused to remain or obey. They unceremoniously threw the captain overboard, thoroughly renovated the old ship, readjusted her machinery, and installed a new captain. He immediately weighed anchor, quit the foul waters of Republican ports, and today William J. Bryan is navigating the proud craft upon the blue waters of the high seas, not according to the rules formulated in Wall street, but with the aid of an old-fashioned Jeffersonism compass. Behold the old ship how proudly, how magnificently she rides, headed for the deep, clear waters of a true Democratic harbor. Salute her as she passes, not with the coarse belchings of a barbarous cannonade, but with the ringing cheers of the patriotic multitude. Throw to her the kisses of your soul's affections, bless her with your benedictions and in troublous times defend her with a manly devotion.

The announcement of committees selected at the morning caucus followed Mr. White's address. A committee on resolutions was appointed, a majority of whom favor the incorporation of a plank favoring the "Temple amendment," prohibiting railroad companies from avoiding by contract their liability for damages to employes. Ex-Congressman White's speech as temporary chairman was well received, especially the references to socialism and the policy of the Republican party in favor of a centralized government. Bryan's picture and every mention of his name brought tremendous applause, though the attendance was smaller than usual.

In the eighth district caucus, the district through which the Burlington road runs, the Temple amendment to kill the Burlington Relief association was adopted, 71 to 50.

After Mr. White finished his speech a heavy rain began. The roof leaked, and delegates were much incommoded. The state central committee created a conference committee to meet committees of the Populists and Free Silver Republican conventions on the ticket and other things. The Democratic committee on resolutions is as follows: 1, B. M. Ecker, Washington; 2, W. L. Hayes; 3, John S. Murphy, Dubuque; 4, J. D. Blaise, Cerro Gordo; 5, John M. Terry, Linn.; 6, G. M. Tripp, Jasper; 7, E. Evans, Polk; 8, Frank Q. Stuart, Guthrie; 9, G. W. Cullison, Shelby; 10, Menhealy, Webster; 11, Judge A. Vanwagenen, Woodbury. Adjourned till 2 p. m.

FREE SILVER REPUBLICANS.

McKinley's Prosperity Reproached For Its Tardiness.

Des Moines, Iowa, June 23.—The Free Silver Republican state convention opened today at the auditorium with about 150 delegates present. State Chairman Amos Stickel, of Bloomfield, called the convention to order, and J. B. Romans, of Denison, was chosen temporary chairman. Mr. Romans in his address arraigned the Republican party for its failure to bring the prosperity promised during McKinley's campaign, and predicted a victory for the allied silver forces in Iowa this fall. He urged a fuller consolidation of the silver element in state and nation.

At the close of his address the regular committees were appointed, together with a conference committee to meet with like committees from the delegates from the Populists and opposition forces. The conference committee will ask the full committee to agree to the nomination of ex-Congressman Daniel Kerr for governor.

THE POPULIST CONVENTION.

A Free Silver Republican Called to Preside.

Des Moines, Iowa, June 23.—Five hundred delegates were present at the Populist state convention which commenced in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium today. State Chairman J. Bellanger called the convention to order and announced C. O. Holly, of Des Moines, as temporary chairman. Mr. Holly is a Free Silver Republican and was named by courtesy. His address was a defense of the free coinage of silver at 16 to 1. The regular committees and a committee to confer with the Democratic and Free Silver Republican committees were named at the close of Holly's address.

The largest cargo of ore ever loaded on the great lakes was put on the schooner Amazon, one of James Corrigan's new boats, at the Missabe ore dock yesterday. It consisted of 5329 gross tons of Biwabik ore, or 5917 net tons. The 5000 gross ton mark was never before reached in a shipment from this dock, although a cargo loaded at Ashland a few weeks ago was within 200 tons as large as that taken on by the Amazon yesterday.

NEW ANN ARBOR TERMINAL.

The Toledo & Ann Arbor Railway company has at last secured a terminal for an all-winter route between Frankfort and the Michigan peninsula by purchasing a line of railway built by the Chicago Lumber company from Manistique to within six miles of Munising, a distance of thirty-five miles. The company will at once complete the line to Munising and also build an air line to Negaunee on the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic, and Chicago & Northwestern roads, from a point ten miles south of Munising, thus making the length of the entire line sixty-three miles. A ferry slip is to be put in at Manistique, which point can be reached throughout the entire winter, whereas the ice formation in Green bay has heretofore shut the ferries out from Menominee and Gladstone by the latter part of December. The Ann Arbor road has had two ferry steamers in commission for four winters now, running principally to Kewaunee and Manitowoc from Frankfort, and the intention is said to be to build a third one solely for the new route. The object of the extension is to secure the flour trade of the West via the South Shore and the Northern Pacific, and also to open up a rich timber country between Manistique and the Marquette iron range.

By Alderman Harker:

Be it resolved by the common council of the city of Duluth, that the board of public works be and is hereby directed to no longer, in any way, countenance or recognize D. A. Reed as an official of the city of Duluth.

Upon motion of Alderman Crassweller the council took a five minutes' recess. Absent: Aldermen Hanson, Shannon—2.

Alderman Simpson moved that when we do adjourn, we adjourn to meet Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock, and the motion was declared adopted.

Alderman Cochrane addressed the council upon charges which had been published in The Duluth Evening Herald June 19, against the board of public works and called upon City Engineer Paine to verify the reports relative to the manner in which the amended contract for the construction of the pump house was executed and is being carried out.

Alderman Cochrane moved that a committee consisting of Aldermen Jefferson, Harker and Simpson be appointed to investigate these charges and report the same to this council and that said committee be empowered to employ expert assistance. Upon motion of Alderman Simpson the name of Alderman Cochrane was substituted for Alderman Simpson, and the motion as amended was declared adopted upon a vote by acclamation.

By Alderman Jefferson:

Be it resolved by the Common Council of the City of Duluth: That,

Whereas, reports which appear to be well authenticated, are now in circulation to the effect that a proposition for the purchase of the present plant of the Duluth Gas and Water company, is about to be submitted, either by the Duluth Gas and Water company, the holders of bonds secured by mortgage on said plant, or by both; and

Whereas, it is desirable to avoid unnecessary expense or annoyance to all concerned in this matter; therefore,

It is resolved by the council that they will entertain no proposition for the purchase of said plant for a higher figure than one million one hundred and fourteen thousand dollars ($1,114,000); and

Resolved further, that it is not intended by this resolution to commit the council to the policy of purchasing the plant even at that figure, but simply to declare that under no circumstances will any higher proposanon be considered than the above sum of one million one hundred and fourteen thousand dollars ($1,114,000), which is the engineer's estimate of the cost of duplicating said plant.

JOINT MEETING PROPOSED.

Lake Superior and American Institute May Meet Together.

Arrangements are now being made for a joint meeting of the Lake Superior Institute of Mining Engineers and the American Institute, which will reach Duluth on its annual excursion Wednesday morning, July 14. The Lake Superior institute met last year at Ishpeming, and it was expected that it would meet at Ironwood this year, but it has now practically been decided that the meeting be held in this city simultaneously with that of the larger organization. The probabilities are that the engineers will arrive in Duluth on the train from the ranges Thursday afternoon and that a business session will be held here in the evening.

The special train for the accommodation of the distinguished visitors on their excursion over the Iron Range and Missabe roads will undoubtedly be the largest and best equipped ever run to the Minnesota ranges. It will be made up of private cars, sleepers and diners, sufficient in number to provide all the comforts and luxuries of travel for 200 or more persons. A committee will be sent to Sault Ste. Marie with charts of the cars, and every person in the party will be assigned a berth before arriving here, so that no delay will be necessary in transferring to the special train and starting on the trip.

McGILVRAY TAKES HOLD.

Is in Possession of the City Engineer's Office.

City Engineer McGilvray took possession of his office this morning without formality. He said that he would first busy himself in cultivating an acquaintance with the routine of the department, and that he would make no appointments for several days yet.

In connection with the latter subject, which is of great interest to many anxious ones, it may be said that Mr. McGilvray's attention will be directed to Architect Palmer as a man whose appointment as inspector of the work at Lakewood would meet with favor. Several of the aldermen have interested themselves in securing Mr. Palmer's appointment.

As the result of Mr. McGilvray's advent, the aspect of things in the office this morning suggested the breaking up of a hard winter. The vault, which has been kept closed since the Patton-Reed controversy began, was open, as were the doors of the draughting room, which have also been locked and barred during the unpleasantness. Col. Ayers was warbling like a merry little bird, and there was a general air of "spring has come."

J. M. GEIST DEAD.

Well Known Citizen Expired Last Night From Bright's Disease.

Joseph M. Geist, whose serious illness was reported in The Herald last evening, died last night at the home of his sister, Mrs. Marie Erd, in St. Paul. Bright's disease was the cause of death. Mr. Geist has suffered from ill health for a long time, but his death had not been anticipated until within a day or two.

Mr. Geist was one of the most substantial business men in Duluth. In fact, no merchant in Duluth was in better circumstances or had a higher reputation for integrity. He was 40 years of age two weeks ago last Sunday. He was born in Wurtzburg, Bavaria. He lived there until he was 15 or 16 years of age and then went to London, England, where he remained for a year or two. He then came to the United States and joined his brother, Emil Geist, in St. Paul, in the jewelry business. In 1881 he located in Duluth and established himself in the jewelry business in which he continued to the time of his death. He leaves a wife and one daughter, Miss Katchen, 13 years old. Today is the fifteenth anniversary of the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Geist. Mrs. Geist is a sister of C. F., O. C. and A. W. Hartman Mrs. C. E. Van Bergen and Mrs. C. J. O'Donnell of this city and Mrs. M. J. Donnelly, of St. Paul. Mr. Geist has three brothers, Carl, who was with him in the store; Emil Geist, the well-known jeweler in St. Paul, and Frank Geist, a lawyer, of Minneapolis. He also has a sister, Mrs. Marie Erd, of St. Paul, an accomplished musician.

It was Mr. Geist's wish that his body be sent to Germany for burial. This disposition will ultimately be made, but for the present it will be placed in a vault at St. Paul.

Warning to Bicyclists.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I wish to warn your bicycle readers of bad boys in the city who have invented a stick with a piece of knife in the end of it so they can pass a bicycle and hit the tire and cut it so that it will not burst until you hit the car track or a hole in the street. The stick is two feet long and the knife so placed in it that it goes in the wheel and does not let the wind out. I wish you will print this so bicyclists will be careful of their wheels and catch one of these bad boys. A VICTIM.

Duluth, June 23.

Arthur Avenue Case.

When J. L. Washburn began to argue the Arthur avenue case before Judge Cant yesterday morning he had on a good head of steam for he kept going until 5 o'clock last night and then he did not get through. When court adjourned it adjourned until 2 o'clock this afternoon, when the argument was resumed once more. There was no session this morning, because the Northern Pacific asked for time in which to prepare affidavits counter to those introduced by the city, relative to the occupancy of the disputed avenue.

DENIED A NEW TRIAL

Judge Moer Refuses to Give Mrs. Rachel Spellman Another Chance.

WAS ARGUED TODAY

Validity of Insurance Cuts No Figure, Judge Moer Thinks.

Mrs. Rachel Spellman, who was recently convicted of arson in the third degree, will not get a new trial from the district court. Judge Moer refused to grant one this morning, and the only way she can get one will be through the supreme court. It has not yet been decided whether an appeal will be taken or not, but the chances are that it will.

The motion for a new trial came up for argument this morning, the time for which it had been set. C. O. Baldwin appeared for Mrs. Spellman and George E. Arbury for the state. Mr. Baldwin's principal contention was that the court erred in charging the jury that the house was insured. There was some controversy on the trial as to the evidence of the insurance, and Mr. Baldwin this morning claimed that it took away from the jury the decision of a fact for the court to charge the jury that there was insurance.

Judge Moer admitted that that might have been an error, but he could not see how it was prejudicial to the merits of the case, as the jury could not have found otherwise had it been left to them.

"But there is no telling what a jury might do," urged Mr. Baldwin, "and the defendant has a right to avail herself of the caprices of a jury."

Judge Moer in deciding the motion said that in any event he did not believe that it made any difference whether the insurance was valid or not. If the defendant thought it was valid, her interest was just the same as though it was valid. At any rate, as the jury could not have found otherwise than that the building was insured the error could not be prejudicial. The claim is merely technical, and Judge Moer said that he did not believe that a verdict should be set aside unless a court is forced to do it.

"The evidence is of such a nature," he said, "that I could not set the verdict aside unless compelled to do so. I think the woman was fairly tried and fairly convicted."

Mr. Baldwin asked that he be allowed until Saturday to find out whether the defendant desired to appeal or not, and the request was granted. The present bond of $2500 was continued, and a new bond of $1000 will be furnished in case an appeal is taken.

WAS HIMSELF TO BLAME.

Frank Trecott Made Trouble on the Steamer India.

A man giving his name as Frank Trecott, and his residence as Buffalo, appeared at police headquarters this morning with a rather incredible story to the effect that he had been maltreated on the steamer Japan, on which he said he was a passenger, last night en route from Ashland to this port. Trecott said he was set upon without provocation by some of the crew, a rope was tied around his neck and he was dragged around the deck and kicked. In support of his story he showed a red mark around his neck, and bruises on his arms. Chief Hansen sent him to the county attorney.

At the latter's office he could not recollect the name of the boat, but thought he could locate her and pick out his assailants, who, he said, were deck hands. Assistant County Attorney McPherrin suggested that he apply to the federal authorities for redress, whereupon he said he had been to them for a warrant and had been refused.

Owing to the fact that Trecott had no corroboration for his story, and that he seemed to be somewhat hazy in his statements, Mr. McPherrin refused to take any steps until more evidence could be secured. Trecott then started out with Detective Troyer to see if he could find the boat and pick out the men who, he alleges, assailed him.

At the Anchor line office, it was stated that Trecott was a deck passenger from Buffalo on the India, instead of the Japan, as he had stated. His conduct was such that it had been found necessary to place him under restraint. He had given trouble all the way from Buffalo. His first act, it was said, was to commit a nuisance on the main deck in the presence of a number of passengers. He was ordered to the lower deck, where the deck passengers are quartered. He repeatedly went onto the main deck, and it was found necessary to eject him by force. At last he became so obstreperous, the captain stated, that he was tied in a chair to keep him quiet. Trecott was coming to Duluth, it was understood, to fill an engagement as a variety actor.

VERY SAD EVENT.

Mrs. William Harrison Died at Mexico, Mo., From Heart Failure.

Mrs. William Harrison, of this city, died last evening at 8 o'clock at Mexico, Mo., of heart failure. Mrs. Harrison had never fully recovered from a severe attack of typhoid fever which she had a year and a half ago. Some time ago she went to Missouri in the hope of improving her health, but the trip was of no avail. Mr. Harrison was with her at the time of her death. She leaves a daughter 3 years of age and a son 6 months of age. Mr. and Mrs. Harrison were married in September, 1891, at Los Vegas, New Mexico, and at once came to Duluth. Her father resides at Colorado Springs and her mother has been dead several years. Mrs. Homer Collins, of Duluth, is a sister of Mrs. Harrison. Mrs. Harrison was prominent in social and musical circles in Duluth and was much beloved and admired. She had been a leading member of the Cecilian society and was actively interested in its work, as well as musical work generally. The funeral arrangements are not known here as yet.

AWFUL MASSACRE

Baron Dhanis and 600 Followers Killed By the Mahdist Fanatics.

DETAILS ARE FEW

Report as Yet Lacks Official Confirmation---Career of Dhanis.

Brussels, June 24.—The Reforme says it learns from a good source that the entire Dhanis expedition to the headwaters of the Nile, including Baron Dhanis himself, has been massacred. Baron Dhanis last year enlisted 6000 men in the Congo Free State to take part in this expedition. The British government allowed a number of its hussar troops to join the expedition, but it was officially denied that an Anglo-Belgian movement had been concerted against the Mahdists.

The general impression, however, was that this force was intended to act in conjunction with the Anglo-Egyptian expedition up the Nile and take the Mahdists between two fires and eventually complete the reconquest of the Soudan. In August last Baron Dhanis was reported to have arrived at Lado, north of the territory of the Congo Free State, on the White Nile, and some 225 miles north of the Victoria Nyanza. It was then understood that the Dhanis expedition would push on northward in the direction of Khartoum.

Early in December last it was reported that the expedition had met with disaster and that Baron Dhanis had been killed. Later it was authoritatively stated that there was no ground for the report and that when last heard from, in September, the baron was at Stanley Falls, 600 miles from the nearest Dervish forces.

Baron Dhanis was born in London in March, 1862, of a Belgian father and a mother of English extraction. He was educated in Scotland and in Belgium and entered the military school at Brussels in 1882. In 1884 he became a lieutenant in an infantry regiment, and later he was entrusted with a mission to Zanzibar by the International African association.

He soon displayed considerable ability and was appointed by the Belgian government to the command of the expedition to Katanga. He defeated Gongoluttete, one of the most aggressive of slave trading Arabs; defeated Zefu, the son of Tippoo Tib, and Munie Moharre, and captured Nyangwo and Kassango. Dhanis also inflicted a crushing defeat upon Rumaliza with the result of completely overthrowing the Arab rule in the Tanganyika district.

Later he returned to Belgium and was made a baron by King Leopold. His appointment to the command of the Anglo-Belgian secret expedition against the Mahdists was the next chapter in the career of this officer.

WILL MAINTAIN RIGHTS.

Curzon's Reply Regarding the Hawaiian Annexation.

London, June 24.—In the house of commons today the political secretary for the foreign office, Mr. Curzon, replied to the question of Mr. Beckett, Conservative, regarding Hawaiian annexation. Mr. Beckett's question was whether the government was aware that "Queen Liliuokalani has been deposed by a small body of Americans, who, without right or title, have assumed sovereignty over Hawaii, and now, to save themselves from the resentment of the people, have requested the American government to annex Hawaii, and whether Great Britain proposes to allow this most important coaling station to pass into the hands of the United States without protest."

Mr. Curzon said her majesty's government did not feel called upon to express an opinion relative to the circumstances out of which the present situation in Hawaii had arisen. The government was aware that a proposal to annex Hawaii to the United States had been submitted by the president of the United States for the consideration of the United States senate, but no decision had been reached. Mr. Curzon added that it should be the object of her majesty's government to see that whatever rights, according to international law, belong to Great Britain and British subjects are fully maintained.

FATAL METAL EXPLOSION.

Pittsburg, Pa., June 24.—By an explosion of molten metal at the Duquesne plant of Carnegie, three men were badly burned, and it is said damage was done to property. The injured are: George Bauhamer, G. W. Holderman, Elmer Berwick. Bauhamer will probably die. The explosion was caused by a twenty-ton ladle of metal overturning into a pool of water.

RIVER COMMISSION MEETS.

New York, June 24.—The Mississippi river commission convened in the Army building here today and immediately went into executive session to deliberate on and possibly make some changes in the annual report of the commission. The report, as soon as it has been put in the desired form, will be forwarded to Secretary of the Navy Long some time between the first and tenth of July. Until the report reaches Secretary Long, the commission will not disclose its tenor.

UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN.

Milwaukee, June 24.—A special from Madison to the Evening Wisconsin says: With tonight's alumni meeting will close what is by common consent called the most eventful year in the history of the university. Six orations were delivered at the Gymnasium hall this morning, which in point of delivery and composition were excellent.

THE TREASURY CONDITION.

Washington, June 24.—Today's statement of the condition of the treasury shows: Available cash balance, $233,260,305; gold reserve, $143,594,587.

CONGRESSIONAL GLOOM.

Caused in the House By Mr. Cooke's Death.

Washington, June 24.—An air of gloom pervaded the house today owing to the death of Mr. Cooke of Illinois, who died suddenly at his hotel this morning. He was very popular with his colleagues and his untimely death was a severe shock to them. The desk which he occupied on the extreme right of the hall was draped in mourning and covered with white roses and magnolia blossoms. The blind chaplain in his invocation referred feelingly to Mr. Cooke's death as a great public calamity.

After the reading of the journal the speaker announced the reception of an invitation from the present Belgian chamber of deputies to the members of the house to attend the international parliamentary conference in favor of arbitration which commences Aug. 8.

Mr. Foss of Illinois, on behalf of the delegation then announced the sad news of the death of his colleague, Mr. Cooke. He gave notice that at some future time he would ask the house to pay tribute to the character and public service of Mr. Cooke. The customary resolutions were adopted and a committee to attend the funeral was appointed consisting of the following members: Messrs. Foss, Prince, Belknap of Illinois; Moody of Massachusetts; Updegraff of Iowa; Royce of Indiana; Bailey of Texas; Hunter of Illinois, and Dinsmore of Arkansas. Then as a further mark of respect to the memory of the deceased the house adjourned until Monday.

SURPRISES THE SENATE.

Washington, June 24.—Mr. Hale (Maine) came forward today with a surprise in the form of a proposed amendment to the senate rule admitting to the privileges of the floor of the senate only ex-senators "who are not interested in any bill pending before congress." Added to the text of the proposed change is the following:

"The purpose of the proposed amendment is to prevent ex-senators enjoying the privileges of the floor of the senate for the purpose of urging or opposing claims or bills in which they are employed as attorneys."

JAPAN'S DESIRE.

She Would Like to Acquire Control of the Hawaiian Islands.

Washington, June 24.—Hawaiians in Washington insist that the reason for the protest of Japan against annexation is that Japan really desires to acquire the islands herself. The main point of contention between Japan and Hawaii over the treaty between the two countries, it is learned, is as to the wording of the treaty which Hawaii seeks to abrogate. This treaty has a provision "that it may be terminated at any time by mutual consent."

This is construed by the Japanese government to mean that the treaty cannot be terminated without the consent of both governments, and as long as Japan insists upon keeping it in force it cannot be abrogated. The Hawaiian contention is that the words have no such meaning, and that any contract or agreement can be dissolved by mutual consent as a matter of course; that if the claim of Japan was valid the treaty would be in effect permanently. It is understood that Japan insists that her present claims must be acknowledged and accepted by the United States in case of annexation, although protesting against annexation.

SINGERS LACK HARMONY.

German Societies Are Bothered By Threats of Withdrawal.

Philadelphia, June 24.—There was considerable excitement among the German singing societies last night over the rumor that several of the large societies of New York and Brooklyn would probably withdraw from the Northeastern Saengerbund. As reported the dissatisfied societies included the Arion, Liederkranz, Eichenkranz and possibly Beethoven Mannaerchoer of New York, and the Arion of Brooklyn.

What the recalcitrants are alleged to object to is the expenses of training choruses and sending large delegations to the triennial fests. President Leonhart of the United Singers of Philadelphia today stated that the Arion of Brooklyn had proposed to withdraw, but that since the City of Churches had been selected as the next meeting place, the members of that society had partly withdrawn their objections, and he felt assured that the Arion would continue a member of the bund.

BEER TAX OPPONENTS.

Washington, June 24.—Senator Spooner, acting for Senator Cullom, in the latter's absence from the senate, today sent a petition to the senate, signed by 103,000 citizens of Chicago, protesting against the proposed increase in the tax of beer. The petition filled a wooden box 2 by 3 feet in size, and was carried out of the senate chamber by two men.

MRS. RATCLIFFE IS DYING.

New York, June 24.—Edward J. Ratcliffe, the actor, who was arrested yesterday in Chicago on a dispatch from this city, was indicted by the grand jury today on a charge of assault in the second degree committed on his wife on June 12. At the office of the lawyers who are representing Mrs. Ratcliffe it was said today that she was dying.

GULF COAST DEVELOPMENT.

Austin, Texas, June 24.—Governor Culberson today issued a call for the assembling of a convention at Rock Port, Texas, on Aug. 25, for the purpose of considering the developing and opening of the chain of bays, lakes and bayous lying parallel to and along the gulf coast from the mouth of the Rio Grande to the Mississippi. A general attendance of delegates from Louisiana and other interested states is invited.

MILLER REPORTED LYNCHED.

Paducah, Ky., June 24.—It is reported here that Miller, who assaulted the 5-year-old daughter of J. B. Withers, at Eddyville, and was taken to Princeton for safe keeping, was lynched at Princeton last night.

A KENTUCKY EARTHQUAKE.

Louisville, Ky., June 24.—A special to the Post from Hopkinsville, Ky., says: During a heavy storm here this morning two earthquake shocks were distinctly felt. The walls of the large buildings were shaken so as to be perceptible to everybody. The shocks occurred at 11:04. The vibrations were from west to east.

DEADLY CYCLONE

Vicinity of Salina, Kansas, Visited By a Death Dealing Twister.

THREE KNOWN DEAD

Many Others Dangerously Injured---A Little Baby's Miraculous Escape.

Kansas City, Mo., June 24.—A special to the Star from Salina, Kan., says: News has just reached here of a terrific cyclone which passed fifteen miles northwest of this city about 10:30 last night. As far as heard three are dead and a number dangerously injured. The dead are:

Mrs. Anna Geesy, aged 34.
Nona Geesy, aged 13.
Ida Geesy, aged 9.

Four other members of this family are also badly hurt. Mr. Geesy was away from home. The remainder of the family had retired, and when the storm struck they made for their cave. Before they had gotten out of the house, however, the tornado had destroyed it.

The three dead were found about fifty feet east of the house, and near them the baby, alive but buried to her waist in dirt. The other three were found some distance west of the house. A 2-by-4 scantling was driven through one of Mrs. Geesy's limbs. The bodies were removed to Mrs. Dean's, the mother of Mrs. Geesy.

At Mrs. Story's, a half mile east of the Geesy place, the family were sleeping in a stone basement with a frame upright part. The frame work was blown away and the timber blown on to the family below, but none of them were killed. The stone work was uninjured.

At G. W. Morris' the kitchen was torn down and a grove of trees leveled to the ground. The track of the storm was narrow but very winding. It tore down three sides of the Geesy pasture without passing through the middle of it. It came from the east, and after doing its damage here the main storm divided, part going west and the rest north. There are rumors of other casualties, but particulars are meager.

A MANKATO FAILURE.

Its Large Department Store Was Closed By the Banks Today.

St. Paul, June 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—A Mankato, Minn., special to the Dispatch says: Another disastrous failure was precipitated in Mankato today at 11 o'clock by the closing of the large department store of Longini & Thomas. The store was opened to the public Nov. 1, 1895, and has never enjoyed the amount of patronage anticipated by the owners. The National Citizens' bank, of this city, applied to Judge Severance of the district court yesterday, asking that a receiver be appointed. Both the National Citizens' and the Mankato National banks are creditors to the amount of $6000 each.

The store has been in charge of the sheriff since last Friday, during which time every means possible has been resorted to to raise the necessary funds, but unsuccessfully. The heaviest creditors are believed to be Chicago parties. The liabilities are estimated at near $70,000, with assets from $120,000 to $130,000. The closing of the store throws about forty people out of employment.

THEY WANT THEIR MONEY.

Trenton, N. J., June 24.—The situation in Morrisville, Pa., where 300 Italian laborers have threatened violence unless their money is forthcoming, is still precarious, although there is a a cessation of hostilities. Sheriff Aaron, of Doylestown, arrived this morning and swore in twenty deputies. These deputies are guarding the Hoagland house, where Contractor Wheeler is hiding from the dissatisfied laborers.

INTERNATIONAL CRICKET.

London, June 24.—At the oval today the gentlemen of Philadelphia began a cricket match against an eleven representing Oxford past and present. The home team won the toss and went to the bat. Their first wicket went down for twenty-one runs, when Scott was bowled by King for ten runs. Rowley was next caught by Wood for twenty-three runs. Two wickets were down for forty-six runs.

ANTI-SCALPER BILL DELAYS.

Washington, June 24.—Another effort was made in the senate committee on interstate commerce today to get the anti-scalper bill advanced with the view of getting it reported to the senate as soon as possible, but failed. The opposition voted down a motion for a meeting next Saturday and refused to agree to any meeting before the regular meeting day next week.

COOLER AT NEW ORLEANS.

New Orleans, June 24.—The temperature this morning was down five or six degrees from yesterday morning and a stiff breeze followed by a refreshing shower helped materially to temper the intense heat from which New Orleans has been suffering for the past four or five days. No deaths have been reported today, but in twenty-four hours ending last night there had been about ten prostrations.

RAILROAD WAS NEGLIGENT.

New York, June 24.—The coroner's jury at Inwood, L. I., which has been investigating the collision at the Merrick road crossing at Valley Stream, which resulted in the killing of five persons on Decoration day, rendered a verdict today that the Long Island Railroad company was criminally negligent in not having the signal bell at the railroad crossing in working order.

DECIDED FOR JOHNSON.

Secretary Bliss Decides a Duluth Land Contest.

Washington, June 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Secretary Bliss today affirmed the land office decision in the case of James Cattanach against Gust Johnson, from the Duluth land district. The secretary holds that Johnson is entitled to the land in controversy on the ground that, while Cattanach was certainly on the land and did more or less work, his home was at Tower, and that he had lived in Duluth. This indicates that his presence on the land was not of a character that shows him to be a bona fide settler on the land, and Johnson's entry, although made subsequent to Cattanach's, will be allowed to remain intact.

MAY BE LYNCHED.

A Murderer in a Piece of Woods Surrounded By a Posse.

Chicago, June 24.—Louis Schimmeyer fatally shot Mrs. Amelia Bloden at Hammond yesterday because she would not reciprocate his love, and escaped. At an early hour this morning Schimmeyer was discovered in a piece of woods near Dalton, Ill. The authorities were notified, and a posse, headed by Chief of Police Malo of Hammond soon surrounded the fugitive.

Schimmeyer was armed with a revolver and declared he would not be taken without a desperate battle. In the posse were Ernest and Emil Bloden, sons of Schimmeyer's victim. They were heavily armed and determined to capture their mother's assailant. A large crowd is gathering and a lynching is possible.

Later reports from Hammond, Ind., say that Schimmeyer was captured in the woods near Berg's mill today after a struggle.

NAMED BY McKINLEY.

Another Minnesota Man Has Secured an Office.

Washington, June 24.—The president today sent the following nominations to the senate: Treasury—George W. Esterly, of Minnesota, to be deputy auditor state and other departments.

Interior—William Ryan, of Idaho; Thomas A. Davis, of Idaho, and George A. Black, of Washington, to be commissioners to examine and classify lands within the land grant and indemnity land grant limits of the Northern Pacific Railroad company in the Coeur d'Alene land district in Idaho.

A FURIOUS STORM.

St. Louis Charitable Buildings Damaged By the Wind ---Frightened Inmates.

St. Louis, June 24.—Reports from the terrific winds and rainstorm which prevailed at an early hour today are just coming in. It was very destructive in the southwestern section of the city, where are located several of the city institutions. The poorhouse suffered most. One of the buildings, in which were sheltered seventy-five inmates, all of them cripples, was partly demolished, and glass was shattered in the others. When the roof was taken off the bricks fell in among the patients, hitting a number, but none were seriously injured.

The storm also struck the insane asylum. Not much damage was done there, but the patients, who were terror stricken, yelled and prayed. The weather bureau officials report the downpour of rain the heaviest this season.

The storm was particularly severe on the river towns, Keokuk, Alton and Quincy suffering. Reports from Springfield, Decatur, Effingham and other Illinois towns say the rain was very heavy there.

STORM NEAR LEXINGTON.

Lexington, Mo., June 24.—The worst storm of the season visited this section last night, wrecking barns, hay racks, trees, etc. No loss of life is reported.

CONFEDERATES AT NASHVILLE.

Nashville, Tenn., June 24.—The parade of the United Confederate Veterans today, in which more than 10,000 veterans took part, was the largest in the history of the organization and one of the greatest ever seen in this city. Gen. W. H. Jackson was the chief marshal. The stars and stripes and the Confederate flag were conspicuous in the long line that reached from the public square to the Tennessee centennial exposition gates. Rain fell at intervals during the procession, though this caused only a brief halt.

HEADQUARTERS WILL MOVE.

Cleveland, June 24.—An important result of Mr. Hanna's decisive victory in the Toledo convention will be the transfer of the state political headquarters from Columbus and Cincinnati to Cleveland. The headquarters will be in the Perry-Payne building, in which Mr. Hanna managed his famous presidential campaign for McKinley last year.

THE FISH CULTURE

Work of United States Fish Commission Was Enormous Last Year.

BILLIONS OF EGGS

Plantings of Fry Were Made All Over the Entire Country.

Washington, June 24.—The work of the United States fish commission during the past season has been enormous. Over 100,000,000 cod fry hatched at Gloucester and Wood's Hole have been planted at the fisheries on the New England coast, and 200,000,000 shad collected in the Potomac, Susquehanna and Delaware rivers were distributed along the Atlantic coast from Massachusetts to Florida.

About 100,000,000 lobster have been taken at Rockland, Maine, and New London, Conn. These are being liberated by several vessels engaged in the work. It is said that 50,000,000 more will be collected before the end of the season.

Mackerel work is now in progress at Wood's Hole, Gloucester and Casco bay, Me.

From the hatcheries on the great lakes, devoted exclusively to white and lake trout, 125,000,000 white fish fry and 15,000,000 lake trout fry have been hatched and planted.

The hatcheries at Quincy, Ill.; Neosha, Mo.; Manchester, Iowa; Leadville, Col., and San Marcos, Texas, have collected and distributed 3,000,000 trout and about 100,000 bass. New stations will be established under the recent appropriation bill, at Black Hills, S. D., in New Hampshire, and at Irwin, Penn., and auxiliary stations are in contemplation on the Clackamas, Rogue and Salmon rivers in Oregon, Puget Sound and the Little White Salmon river in Washington, and on the McCloud, Battle Creek and Trinity rivers in California.

The work of planting Pacific salmon which last year reached an aggregate of 57,000,000 will be continued next fall. The salmon industry on the Pacific coast is of vast importance, but is not as yet extensive on the Atlantic. Probably 25,000 would cover the Atlantic salmon catch last season.

Over 90 per cent of the work of the commission is devoted to commercial fish, embracing the cod, shad, white fish, pollock, mackerel, tawing, scup, sea bass, lake trout, salmon, steel head trout and lobsters.

In the Northwest some interesting work has been mapped out for this summer and fall under the direction of Dr. Smith of the scientific bureau. The study of the conditions in the Columbia basin, with especial attention to the biological features, will be continued. Some years ago it was found that the salmon did not run in the Upper Columbia as formerly, nor in its tributaries like the Snake river. Investigations were made to ascertain whether this was due to obstructions in the river but no impediments were found that had not always existed. The failure of the salmon in the Upper Columbia is concluded, was due to the multiplication of fishing apparatus on the Lower Columbia and the enormous catch.

This year some interesting biological investigations will be made at Wallowa lake in Northwestern Oregon, and other series of investigations on the chain of lakes beginning with Upper Klamath and extending eastward through Central Oregon, including Summer, Albert and other lakes. These waters have never been investigated and it is not known what fish they contain. It is believed to be only a question of time when they will become very valuable as sources of food supply, and the present inquiries are for the purpose of determining what fish abound in their waters and what species of the limny tribe they can be stocked with.

The United States fish commission vessel Albatross which has been in past years engaged in patrolling Bering sea and the investigation of the seal rookeries, will this year do legitimate fish commission work. It will be well equipped and will go to South Australia to investigate the conditions on the salmon streams. Quantities of salmon are being taken from those streams by the fishermen and unless adequate legislation for the protection of these fisheries is soon enacted they will be exhausted. Last year over 60,000,000 pounds of salmon were taken from those streams. The proceeds from the Alaska salmon catch alone every three years aggregate in value the amount paid for that territory by the United States to the Russian government. Alaska has, it is said, paid for herself many times over from the proceeds of the seal fisheries. Between 150,000,000 and 200,000,000 pounds of salmon are annually taken for food purposes on the Pacific coast.

In addition to this general work Charles H. Gilbert, of Land Stanford university, a well known ichthiologist, under the direction of Commissioner Baird, is engaged in the study of fish life from the Golden Gate to the Columbia.

A RAILROAD HATCHERY.

San Francisco, June 24.—The San Francisco & Northern Pacific railway has established a hatchery for trout in Gibson canyon, near Ukiah. The hatchery has a capacity for several million eggs. In Marion, Sonarcia, Marin, Sonoma, Mendocino and Lake counties there are over 300 streams.

For the past four years this road has been stocking its streams with trout. The management have now determined to increase the supply of trout and have erected a hatchery. This is said to be the first instance of a railroad resorting to this method of increasing their travel.

FAST FREIGHT MAN DEAD.

St. Louis, June 24.—Isaac V. W. Dutcher, Jr., Southwestern agent of the Rome, Watertown & Ogdensburg and Ontario Dispatch lines, died of pneumonia after an illness of ten days. Mr. Dutcher was born about 50 years ago in the city of Quincy, Ill. After serving with several railroads in different capacities Mr. Dutcher, in 1888, organized the fast freight lines known as the Rome, Watertown & Ogdensburg, and Ontario Dispatch, and became their Southwestern agent, which position he held at the time of his death.

When a young couple runs away to get married half the world says: "How Romantic!" the other half says: "How silly!" But you can't tell either way until the "honey-moon" is over. When this young couple get settled down to the regular hum-drum of life, they'll manage all right and find solid happiness in any case, if they have good hearts and sound health. All depends on that.

It's wonderful how much health has to do with married happiness. Sickness affects the temper. You can't be happy nor make others happy if you're ailing. When you find yourself irritable, easily worried, beginning to "run-down" it's because your blood is getting poor. You need richer blood and more of it. Your blood-making organs need to be vitalized by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It imparts new power to produce an abundance of the healthy, red corpuscles, and gives you a fresh supply of pure, rich blood. It's a blood-creator; it is for everyone whose blood is impure or in a poor, "run-down" condition. It prevents the germs of disease from getting a hold on your system. Even after disease is settled on you, it is driven out by the blood-creating properties of the "Discovery." It is a perfect cure for general and nervous debility, catarrh, malaria, eczema, erysipelas, scrofula and every form of blood-disease. It isn't called a consumption-cure but even consumption,—which has its roots in the blood—is driven out by the "Golden Medical Discovery" if taken in time.

The "Discovery" is the prescription of one of the most eminent physicians and medical writers in this country.

GROUND HIM TO DEATH.

Veteran Printer Instantly Killed at South Evanston.

Chicago, June 24.—Robert Fergus, 82 years old, the veteran job printer and retired newspaper man, was instantly killed by the fast suburban train on the Northwestern line at the Main street crossing, South Evanston, last evening. In the blinding rainstorm the sturdy octogenarian tried to cross the tracks in front of the fast-moving train and was ground to death. Partial deafness was one of his afflictions, and this was the cause of his failure to notice the approach of the train.

Mr. Fergus enjoyed the distinction of having originated and printed the first Chicago directory. Among the books on which Mr. Fergus set type, when he learned the printer's trade in Glasgow, where he was born, were Walter Scott's "Marmion," "The Lay of the Last Minstrel" and "The Lady of the Lake," Sturm's "Reflections," and Professor F. Meadow's French, Italian and Spanish dictionaries.

IN SUPREME COURT.

Jeweler Trask of Grand Rapids Released---Other Decisions---Reversals.

St. Paul, June 24.—The supreme court has ordered the release of William Nisbett, Jr., of Grand Rapids, from custody. The court holds:

"The governor of a state has the power to revoke his warrant for the surrender of the alleged fugitive from justice at any time before he is taken out of the state. In a proceeding in habeas corpus on behalf of the alleged fugitive, if it appears that the warrant has been revoked, he must be discharged, and the grounds for such action cannot be inquired."

Justice Mitchell rendered the opinion. Nisbett is a young jeweler of Grand Rapids who was arrested on an indictment procured in Chicago by a firm of wholesale jewelers that wanted to get him down there and compel him to pay the firm some money or give bonds for its payment. The indictment charged Nisbett with having obtained credit by misrepresentations. Governor Clough first granted the requisition of Governor Tanner, and issued the extradition papers, but before Nisbett could be taken from the state Nisbett sued out a writ of habeas corpus, and in the meantime the facts in the case were laid before the governor. After granting a hearing to both parties, Governor Clough revoked his warrant and refused to allow Nisbett to be taken from the state against his will.

The Chicago parties then appealed to the supreme court and the court sustains the governor.

Other decisions by Justice Mitchell were: W. J. Anderson, appellant, vs. John Liston et al, defendants; Herman Wallis, respondent; judgment affirmed. John A. Arnold, appellant, vs. Fred Hoschildt et al, respondents; judgment reversed. Eva T. Reynolds, appellant, vs. Atlas Accident Insurance company of Boston, respondent; order affirmed.

Justice Collins in his decisions yesterday reversed the decision of the lower court, in three out of four decisions handed down by him.

One of the reversals was in the case of H. S. Mooers, appellant, vs. Northern Pacific Railroad company, respondent, in which Mooers attempted to recover the value of some horses killed by a locomotive belonging to the company. The supreme court holds that while men running a locomotive are not bound to keep a lookout for animals on the track, nor to suppose that they are there having notice of the fact that they are there, they are bound to exercise reasonable care to avert the injury. The question as to whether such care was exercised in this case, is held to have been for the jury.

Other decisions by Justice Collins were as follows: E. Walther and James E. Trask, as assignee of James E. Trask, respondents, vs. Warren S. Briggs, appellant. The order is reversed.

YERKES' DREAM

Centralization of Street Railway Appliance Manufacturing at Last Realized.

BIG CONSOLIDATION

Which Will Reduce Cost of Manufacture Down to Lowest Figure.

Chicago, June 24.—The Times-Herald says: "The long cherished plan of Charles T. Yerkes, the street railway magnate, to manufacture all machinery needed by street railroads in Chicago, New York, Philadelphia and Pittsburg has at last been realized. The Siemens-Halske Electric company, with its big factory in Chicago, is now being consolidated with the Pennsylvania Iron works of Philadelphia. A majority of the stock of the Chicago company has already been exchanged for the stock of the Pennsylvania. The minority of the stockholders have been given sixty days in which to accept the offer of the Eastern concern. With a combined capital of $6,350,000, the two companies will manufacture street railway machinery for the four big cities.

The first news of the projected consolidation of the two companies was gleaned from the results of the annual meeting of the Chicago concern. The directors at that meeting elected were as follows: Charles T. Yerkes, Chicago; W. L. Elkins, Jr., Philadelphia; R. Sidydam Grant, New York; Charles E. Yerkes, Chicago; B. F. Grist, Philadelphia; F. W. Whiteridge, New York; W. D. Butler, New York; E. T. Rice, Jr., New York; Martin Maloney, Philadelphia.

The directors then elected a set of officers, headed by Charles E. Yerkes, a son of Charles T. Yerkes, of Chicago. Whether the name of the Chicago concern will be dropped or changed has not been decided. The entrance of the big street railway men of Chicago, New York, Philadelphia and Pittsburg into the field of manufacture is the cut, it is said, a tremendous figure with the electric companies that have practically had a monopoly of supplying machinery for the railways. By the consolidation of the companies Mr. Yerkes and his colleagues will be able to manufacture electric machinery at the lowest cost, and will have the contracts from all the big street car companies in the country filled at Chicago.

GUNNING FOR NEGROES.

Queer and Fatal Freak of a Southerner.

Birmingham, Ala., June 24.—John West, a prominent citizen of Montevallo, who has recently been showing evidences of a failing mind, last night entered James Kroell's store and declared that certain negroes had accused him of burning the stables of Dr. Acker, which were recently destroyed by an incendiary, and that he proposed to kill every negro connected with the accusation.

Before he could be prevented, he secured a pistol and shot and killed the first negro to enter the store, who happened to be Will Isope, an inoffensive man. West then went out and began chasing two other negroes with pistol in hand, but was overpowered and disarmed. He is crazy.

IRON RANGE LITIGATION.

St. Paul, June 24.—The arguments in the case of Walter S. Cobb against the Duluth & Iron Range Railroad company, Governor Clough, State Auditor Dunn, State Treasurer Koerner and Attorney General Childs were begun yesterday before Judge Lochren in the United States circuit court. Attorney General Childs, Judge Belden, of Minneapolis, and W. P. Warner appeared for the state, and Davis, Kellogg & Severance for the plaintiffs.

The case involves the right of the state to deprive the railroad company of the lands granted to the company in 1871 and since that time, amounting in all to 606,000 acres in St. Louis, Cook and Lake counties. The case comes up on a application by Walter S. Cobb for an injunction restraining the state from reclaiming the lands in question. Defendants yesterday entered demurrers denying the jurisdiction of the court in the case.

SOLDIERS' HOME INSPECTION.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 24.—The annual inspection of the soldiers home by the board of managers took place this morning. The showing was satisfactory. It is said that Governor Rowland will be transferred to the soldiers' home at Leavenworth, and the present governor of that home, Col. A. J. Smith, will be put in charge of the Pacific branch at Santa Monica.

WHERE FISHING IS GOOD.

Those looking for the best fishing grounds are reminded of Lake Tetonka, at Waterville, and Madison lake, on the Minneapolis & St. Louis railroad.

Wall-eyed pike, bass and crappies are found in great abundance at both of these lakes, which have not been fished out to the extent of some of the older and better known localities.

Excellent hotel accommodations, boats, bait, etc., on hand, and all charges are very reasonable.

SOUTH AMERICAN TOURISTS.

Put in a Very Lively Day at Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, Pa., June 24.—Twelve consecutive hours of hustling from one industrial establishment to another is the program arranged for the South American merchant tourists today. They were routed out of bed at 7 o'clock this morning and two hours later took special trolley cars in front of their hotel for the first stage of their journey. The most important places on the visiting list were the Carnegie Steel works at Homestead; the United States Tin Plate company, at Demmler station; the coke bi-product plant, the United States Glass company's factories.

The entire day tomorrow will be occupied in viewing other plants, notably the Westinghouse industries at East Pittsburg and Wilmerding, and as soon as they return in the evening, dress suits will be donned for the banquet at the Duquesne club. After this function the tired delegates will take their special train at 1:10 a. m. for Dayton, Ohio.

COCAINE FOR FIREMEN.

Valuable Discovery of a New York Physician.

New York, June 24.—An experiment has been made at a fire in the downtown district, which may prove of immense benefit in fighting flames. Dr. Gustav Schoeler, who is attached to the fire department, went to each company stationed at the blaze, and with a little brush put a drop of cocaine in the eyes of every fireman. This was the result of some tests which have been going on in the department by which it has apparently been proved that the cocaine would enable the men to look through smoke for fifteen minutes or more.

A THRILLING ACT.

Captain Plunged From p Steamer's Bridge to Save His Child.

Cleveland, June 24.—Information reaches here of a thrilling act of heroism performed by Capt. Matthew Mulholland in a trip down the lake.

He lives here and is captain of the big barge George L. Stone. On a trip from Duluth to Buffalo he desired to transfer his wife and little daughter to a tug off this port to be brought here.

The captain stood upon the bridge, fifty feet from the water directing the transfer. Just as the little girl was about to be swung down to the tug she slipped and fell overboard. The lake was rough, and a cry of horror went up as the child disappeared beneath the big waves.

Without a word or a second's hesitation Capt. Mulholland plunged from his dizzy perch into the lake. A moment later he came to the surface bearing up the girl's unconscious form. They were taken aboard the tug, and it was found that the girl was uninjured. The captain then boarded his vessel and proceeded to Buffalo, while his wife and daughter were brought here.

MILLIONAIRE SUTLIFFE DEAD.

Worked For Forty Cents a Day Until Lately.

Meridan, Conn., June 24.—John Sutliffe, one of the wealthiest men in this place, is dead, aged 95 years. He was born in Walcott, Conn. When he was 16 years old his father gave him $100 and he started out in the world. He came here and began the manufacture of screw combs. He became in a few years the member of Forster, Merriam & Co., and in 1885 became president of the joint stock company formed, and was its president at the time of his death.

When he retired from active management he went to the bench in the shop and worked by the day, although worth about a million dollars. Toward the latter part of his life he was so feeble he could earn only about 40 cents a day, but he retained the job as long as he could work.

LONDONDERRY'S DESIRE.

London, June 24.—A representative deputation from Londonderry, headed by Edmund Francis Vozey Knox, member of parliament for the city of Londonderry, accompanied by the duke of Abercorn, lord lieutenant of Donegal, had an audience today with the Canadian premier, Sir Wilfred Laurier, at the Hotel Cecil, to urge the claims of Londonderry as a port of call for the new Canadian line of mail steamers. Subsequently the delegation had an audience with the duke of Norfolk, the postmaster general, to ask the government to make arrangements for increased train facilities, so as to make the scheme complete. Both Mr. Laurier and the duke of Norfolk promised to carefully consider the suggestions made.

UTAH CENTRAL PURCHASED.

Salt Lake, Utah, June 24.—The Rio Grande Western railway has purchased the Utah Central railroad. The price is near $325,000. The Utah Central is a narrow guage road, running from Salt Lake to Park City, the famous silver camp, and was recently sold under foreclosure proceedings to New York parties, who now sell it to the Rio Grande Western.

The big engine in the Northern Lumber company's mill at Cloquet broke down yesterday and the mill's output will be curtailed considerably until repairs are made.

At Kansas City, Mo., eight women and a boy were the victims of an elevator accident last night in the manufactory of the C. K. Baker Tent and Awning company. The operatives had been kept late and all made a rush for the freight elevator. After eight women had crowded into the car the boy in charge lost control and the elevator crashed down into the basement forty feet below. Several of the women were taken out in an unconscious condition and all were injured. One will probably die.

When an old trunk was opened in the home of Joseph Melton, near Bordley, in Union county, Ky., the father found his two little girls in it, smothered to death. THE HOFFMAN INQUEST.

San Francisco, June 24.—At the Hoffman inquest, B. Joseph, a money broker, who had a desk in Hoffman's office related a sensational conversation with Figel, the bookkeeper for Hoffman. The conversation occurred soon after the tragedy. The bookkeeper asked Joseph to say he had lent money to Hoffman instead of him (Figel), and also requested Joseph to say that Hoffman disputed the receipt. When he refused Figel stepped behind him and said that he would have to take the consequences. At this Joseph became alarmed and promised to say what Figel asked him

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE.—Default having been made in the payment of the sum of four thousand twenty-seven 20-100 ($4027.20) dollars principal and interest, which is claimed to be due and is due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage duly executed and delivered by Henry H. Hawkins and Emma E. Hawkins, his wife, mortgagors, to Sarah C. d'Autremont, mortgagee, bearing date the tenth day of December, 1891, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds in and for the county of St. Louis and state of Minnesota, on the eleventh day of December, 1891, at eight o'clock a. m. in Book 71 of mortgages, on page 583. And whereas said mortgagors failed to pay the taxes on the premises covered by said mortgage for the years 1892, 1893, 1894 and 1895 and suffered and allowed the same to be sold for said taxes for the years 1892, 1893 and 1894 and suffered and allowed the taxes for the year 1895 to become delinquent. Dated May 27, A. D. 1897.

BENJAMIN SHARPLESS,

BUSINESS WAS DULL

Wheat Was Strong Again at the Opening of Today's Market.

TRADING WAS LIGHT

Receipts Were Small and Closing Cables Reported Rise at Liverpool.

The strength of July wheat was continued at the opening of the board today. Talk of manipulation in that month was general at Chicago and shorts were evidently much frightened by it. Opening quotations for July there ranged from 70⅝@70⅞c compared with yesterday's closing price of 69¾c. Even at that sharp advance there was a marked scarcity of offerings, and not until July had been bid up to 70⅝c did enough wheat come upon the market to cause a reaction. The exceeding nervousness of the market made prices fluctuate rapidly on a small amount of trading. Northwest receipts were small, 231 cars against 219 last week and 449 a year ago. Chicago received 13 carloads and 126,000 bus were withdrawn. The exports of wheat and flour from the principal Atlantic ports were equal to only 320,000 bus. Closing cables reported 1d advance for the day at Liverpool, 12½ centimes decline for American at Antwerp, and no change in wheat but 10 centimes decline in flour at Paris.

Trading was extremely dull on the Duluth board, the transactions being very few in number. July wheat opened ⅜c higher at 72¾c, but soon declined to 72⅜c. Then it ruled very dull but firm and was bid up again to 72¾c without any sales. The close was at that figure being ⅜c higher than yesterday's closing quotations. The mills bought 10,000 bus of cash stuff at ⅛c over July, and the elevators took 100,000 bus at the July price. Following were the closing prices:

Wheat—No. 1 hard, cash, 73¾c. No. 1 northern, cash, 72¾c; July, 72¾c; September, 69⅜c; December, 69⅝c. No. 2 northern, 70⅜c. No. 3, 29⅝@67½c. Rejected, 39½@69c. To arrive—No. 1 hard, 72⅜c; No. 1 northern, 72¾c. Rye, 34c. No. 2 oats, 20c; No. 3 oats, 20½c. Flax, 78c.

Car inspection—Wheat, 56; oats, 21; rye, 2; barley, 15; flax, 11. Receipts—Wheat, 110,944 bus; oats, 48,946 bus; rye, 3500 bus; barley, 21,063 bus; flax, 15,567 bus. Shipments—Wheat, 328,156 bus.

GOSSIP.

Received over private wire of H. E. Baker, grain and stock broker, room 107 Chamber of Commerce and 207 Board of Trade, Chicago, June 24.—Trade in wheat today was fairly active and the interest again centered in the Jul option which closed strong at the advance, most of it being gained over night. Some July was sold soon after the opening by parties who called it yesterday. Outside of this the offerings were limited and readily absorbed, mainly by shorts. The trade is still largely in July, showing a large open interest for this time in the month. September and December gained only ⅝c. Th short interest in September is particularly large but crop advices rather encourage sellers at present. Foreign crop news is rather bullish, continental cables today noting damage to the Russian rye crop which started some buying here. Clearances light and but little cash business done. The main point in the market is the possible July manipulation.

Corn was firmer, some unfavorable reports came, particularly from Nebraska. Shorts were good buyers and yesterday's rumors of reduced rates on Western lines lost its effect. Oats strong with corn.

Provisions firmer early, but packers sold freely and the market closes dull.

NEWS OF THE LAKES.

Large Coal Contracts For Delivery at Fairport Have Been Made.

Cleveland, June 24.—According to the Leader, President J. J. Hill of the Great Northern railroad and Northern Steamship company has made a contract with the Robbins interests for the delivery of 200,000 tons of coal at Fairport this season. The price is $1.37 free on board of vessels. Mr. Hill is also inquiring for prices on two lots of 100,000 tons on the Pittsburg & Lake Erie railroad, which connects with the Erie road at Youngstown. The coal to be delivered at Fairport will come from the Wheeling division of the Baltimore & Ohio road, and is the sequence of the Great Northern-Baltimore & Ohio traffic alliance. There is an impression that some of the coal recently contracted for is going to the Northern Pacific, which Mr. Hill is said to control.

A contract for 50,000 tons of coal to be delivered at Green Bay, secured by M. A. Hanna & Co., will be filled for $1.67 delivered. The scarcity of cars is retarding shipments from the mines to Cleveland and other lake ports.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. AT WEST DULUTH

Stamp Mill For Butchart's Mine Made By Prescott Works.

THE BICYCLE CLUB

Rink Will Be Rented and a Cinder Track to Be Put In.

A new 2-stamp mill for W. W. Butchart's gold mine in the Rainy Lake country has just been completed at the Prescott Iron works and will be shipped to the mine today. The mill is an entirely new pattern and while it has but two stamps, it is said to have a capacity of an ordinary 5-stamp mill, and is expected to crush fifteen tons of rock daily. It has been given a thorough test at the works and has shown that it will do all that has been claimed for it.

THE BICYCLE CLUB.

The West Duluth Cycle club met last night at L. O. Ketchum's bicycle store and perfected a permanent organization, the officers elected at the first meeting held last week being only temporary. The new officers of the club are, president, W. E. Shipley; first vice president, C. W. Phillips; second vice president, S. W. Hanchett; secretary and treasurer, H. R. Keuney; captain, Henry Brearly; first lieutenant, A. J. Sang; second lieutenant, G. H. Davis; whipper in, Henry Gifford; standard bearer, J. C. Johnson. A constitution and by-laws were adopted and green and white were selected as the club's colors. Meetings will hereafter be held every other Thursday evening. While it has not yet been officially decided to rent the West Duluth rink and fit up a cinder track in it for the use of the club, it is certain that it will be done, probably at the next regular meeting. The club is expecting a challenge soon from the Duluth club for some races, and when it comes it will be accepted. Henry Gilbert and A. J. Sang are expected to carry the club's racing colors to victory in any racing events that may be arranged.

HAVE GOLD PROPERTIES.

Mosher & Knittle, of West Duluth, own several good gold mining properties in Canada and now have a prospector employed in looking them over. Mr. Mosher said today that they did not expect to do any work on them this summer, but expect to put in a stamp mill next winter. They are also considering the advisability of putting in a stock of goods in the gold country at some point yet to be decided upon.

TOWNER-TOOR WEDDING.

The marriage of Miss Lizzie Towner and George A. Toor was celebrated last night at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Towner, on Wadena street. The ceremony was performed by Dr. Robert Forbes, pastor of Asbury M. E. church. The bride was attended by her sisters and Miss M. Matthews. C. Towner acted as best man. Mr. and Mrs. Toor have already begun housekeeping at the corner of Sixty-fourth avenue west and Wadena streets.

OPERETTA "SNOW WHITE."

There was a good attendance at Great Eastern hall last night to witness the production of the operetta "Snow White," under the auspices of St. James' court C. O. F. The performance was a great improvement over the one given a few weeks ago and elicited many demonstrations of approval. "Snow White" was rendered by Miss Clara Kenny, the queen, by Miss Kennedy, and the prince by James Lynn. Miss Finnegan recited the "Lightning Rod Agent" between the acts.

WEST DULUTH BRIEFS.

A. Boyd and family, who formerly lived in West Duluth, but who moved to Canada about two years ago, have returned and taken up their residence in the Munger row.

The Ladies' Aid society of Asbury M. E. church met yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Joseph Cochrane, 610 Fifty-sixth avenue west yesterday afternoon.

BASEBALL GAMES.

Series of Three to Be Played This Week.

There has been a great dearth of base ball this year at the head of the lakes, but this week is to see a fair amount of it. This afternoon the Minneapolis central high school team is playing at Superior against the normal school team over there. Tomorrow afternoon Company G's team will play the University Minnesota nine at the West End grounds in Duluth. The make-up of Company G's team will probably be as follows: Wisted, catcher; Chapman, pitcher; Dennis, first base; Young, Dr., second base; Meining, third base; DeLeuw, short stop; Totman, right field; Wigdahl, center field; Naughton, left field.

Saturday afternoon Company G and the Superior Normals will play. The Nautilus will leave the Northern Pacific dock at 2:30 p. m. After the game the boat will return and leave the Northern Pacific dock at 7:30 p. m. for an excursion on the lake.

AN OLD COUPON FOUND.

There was found this afternoon in the lock of the grating door of the jail what is probably evidence of a crime committed long ago, in the shape of two coupons of bonds of the Duluth Iron company. One of them had been torn in bits by the process of taking the lock apart, but the other was as easily deciphered as when it was stowed away, at least seventeen years ago in all likelihood. This coupon is numbered 92. It is for $25 and the date when payable is July 1, 1881. It is signed by "C. H. Graves, secretary," and is made payable at the American Exchange bank of New York.

The door was used at the county jail up to seven years ago. Old timers around headquarters say that it is probable that it was at the jail that the coupons were hidden in the lock. The theory is that some suspect, eluding the vigilance of the officers, hid the coupons where they were found.

THE UNITED LUTHERANS.

St. Paul, June 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—A large gathering of delegates was present at the closing session of the United Lutherans today. An important matter came up in the morning session to divide the society in three parts. The idea is to have three synod annual conventions and a meeting of the whole church every third year. The proposition was indefinitely postponed. The president was authorized to name a committee on uniformity on school books. At present the names of the preachers and professors who have joined the free church are found in the parochial reports of the secretary. The question will be also referred to a special committee.

Nine preachers having transgressed the constitution of the church, article 4, section 1, and also spurned the resolutions of 1895 with reference to the ordination of theological candidates, were practically excommunicated from the church. It is very probable that many more will be excommunicated at this convention, as it is reported that there are seventy-two ministers who favor the Augsburg side of the case.

A lively discussion arose over the resolution of thanks for the manner in which the publishing house had been conducted. The resolution went through in a modified form.

A flutter was caused in the convention when Rev. Skaret moved that all patent medicine advertisements be taken out of the church paper Lutheraneren. The motion was carried. Rev. Brun offered the following proposition on behalf of the board of trustees of Augsburg seminary:

Resolved, that the convention authorize the board of trustees of Augsburg seminary to do what seems to them best.

THE WEATHER.

United States Agricultural Department, Weather Bureau, Duluth. Synopsis of weather conditions for the twenty-four hours ending at 7 a. m., (Central time), June 24.—The barometer is lowest in Kansas, whence a trough of low pressure still extends to the Lake Superior region, accompanied with cloudy weather and rain in Southern Wisconsin, Southern Minnesota, Illinois, Iowa and Missouri. Rains have fallen also in South Dakota and Montana. The heaviest rainfalls reported during the past twenty-four hours are as follows: St. Louis, .74 inch, Rapid City, .68; Chicago, .32; Milwaukee, .30; Helena, .46.

A marked fall in temperature has resulted throughout the Northwest from the advance of an area of high pressure which is central in the region north of Montana. At Williston, N. D., the thermometer registered 36 last night, equalling the lowest ever recorded at that station during the third decade of June. The temperature is also generally lower than yesterday morning in the Mississippi and Lower Missouri valleys and the Southwest.

Duluth temperature at 7 a. m. today, 58; maximum yesterday, 70; minimum yesterday, 53.

Local forecast for Duluth and vicinity: Generally fair tonight and Friday; cooler; fresh northwest winds, probably veering to northeast Friday.

JAMES KENEALY,
Local Forecast Official.

Chicago, June 24.—Forecast until 8 p. m. tomorrow: For Wisconsin: Showers in south portion this afternoon; partly cloudy tonight and Friday; cooler in west portion tonight; fresh northwest winds. For Minnesota: Showers in south portion this afternoon; partly cloudy tonight with cooler in east portion; Friday fair; fresh northwest winds.

AN IMPORTANT DECISION.

Judge Shiras of the United States district court has handed down an important decision in the case of E. F. Waite, of Minneapolis, in which the respective jurisdictions of the state and the federal courts in certain cases are stated very clearly. Mr. Waite was a pension examiner who was detailed to ferret out the Van Leuven pension frauds. In the prosecution of his duty he sought to procure a certain affidavit from one Andrus, of Howard county, Iowa. Andrus accused Waite of using threats to extort such affidavit and procured his indictment by the grand jury of Howard county on a charge of violation of an Iowa statute. He was tried and convicted, and the conviction was sustained by the supreme court of Iowa. Then he filed in the United States court a petition for a writ of habeas corpus, averring that he was unlawfully imprisoned by the Iowa sheriff.

Judge Shiras has ordered his discharge on the ground that the state court and its officers acted without due authority and warrant of law. The sole question before Judge Shiras was as to the jurisdiction of the state court, and the decision is that an officer or agent of the United States, engaged in the performance of a duty arising under the laws and authority of the United States, is not liable to criminal prosecution in the courts of a state for acts done by him in his official capacity. "Broadly stated," says Judge Shiras, "it involves the proposition whether the operations of the government of the United States, in matters within its sole control, and which operations must of necessity be carried forward by means of officers and agents duly appointed, can be interfered with by criminal proceedings instituted in the state courts, and based upon acts done by such officers or agents within the scope of the duties imposed upon them."

Upon the answer to this question, Judge Shiras pointed out, might depend the possibility of the federal government's preserving it own existence. If it cannot protect its own officers and agents in the performance of their duties it may as well go out of business. In illustrating the point of the distinct and exclusive jurisdiction of the federal courts in matters pertaining to purely federal affairs, Judge Shiras says that if an indictment had been found against Andrus charging him with perjury in the testimony he gave in his pension case, the state court would have lacked jurisdiction to try him, because the payment of pensions is a matter of purely federal concern. In like manner, if Mr. Waite committed an offense (which Judge Shiras says he does not assert or believe) it is for the government of the United States, and not for the state of Iowa, to call him to account. Thus the inherent power of the federal government to maintain its own existence has again been broadly asserted.

OUR WAR RESOURCES.

A census of the entire American militia has been completed by the war department, probably with a view of ascertaining our military resources in the event of a war with some other nation. The census shows that we have today in this country over 112,000 uniformed and organized state militiamen, who might at any time be added to our 25,000 regular soldiers. This would make a total of over 137,000 organized soldiers ready to fight at a day's notice. But even this is only one-sixth of the estimated armed strength of Great Britain. In case of war we should have to depend upon volunteers or a draft, and at our maximum quota we could place in the field 10,037,576 men.

The Boston Globe figures that those liable and available for military service between the ages of 18 and 45 years in the United States, if placed in a long, single rank, side by side, with the usual space between, would reach from New York to San Francisco without a break. This is greater than the estimated strength of any other nation in the world, except Russia. It is well to know our possible strength, even if we never again have occasion to fully test it.

DEPRESSION IN CANADA.

The annual meetings of the Canadian banks were held last week, and, as usual, speeches were made at the shareholders' gatherings on the present condition of business and the outlook. While some of the speeches were hopeful, it is stated that the general tone was rather gloomy, the speech of the general manager of the Bank of Montreal, the largest financial institution in Canada, being particularly gloomy. He said:

"In Canada the future is still shrouded in uncertainty. The past year has been very disappointing, a year of increasing business depression, full of unsettling incidents, and there have been a considerable number of failures. More will have to follow unless some improvement takes place this year. The position, so far as I read it, is this, and it seems a very delicate one: Any further depression coming on a community already weakened by a long fight against adverse circumstances will precipitate a very serious state of affairs, worse than anything we had yet encountered."

The Bank of Montreal has branches in every leading city and large town in Canada between the Atlantic and Pacific and is a very strong institution. Its extensive business places the management in close touch with the conditions in all parts of the Dominion, and consequently the views expressed above by the manager of this bank may be accepted as a very fair presentation of the situation. The people of the United States, who have been passing through a period of great depression, will sympathize with their Northern neighbors over the rather blue outlook.

WHEN IT IS A FAILURE.

A column of correspondence is being published daily by the New York World on the subject of matrimony. The purpose is to bring out testimony as to the success or failure of marriage, and naturally there are some queer letters. A young man, who signs his name "Clarence," writes as follows:

"I am thinking very strongly of getting married, but am receiving only $5 per week. The young lady to whom I am engaged receives 12 per week. Will your readers please tell me whether I should marry her (she being willing) and both of us continue working, or is it possible to live on $5 married and how can it be done?"

The Sioux City Tribune expresses the opinion that this Clarence is a "bird," to use a comprehensive expression of the street, and so is the cooing dove who is willing to give up a $12 a week position to embark on the mill pond—to say nothing of the sea—of matrimony on $5 a week. Marriages of this sort are just what furnish the material for the doleful letters some write to the World telling of the "failure" of wedded life. It is evident from his letter that "Clarence" has no conception of the true purpose of marriage, and neither can the "willing" girl have. The proposition that both retain their positions after marriage shows this no less than does the suggestion that they could get along on $5 a week. That would not be wedded life at all as it should be in order to invite happiness. Marriages commenced on faulty foundations create business for the divorce courts and start unhappy mortals to declaiming about the "failure" of matrimony. It is undoubtedly a failure in their cases, but farming, for instance, would be a complete failure, also, if the farmer planted his crops in midwinter. The Tribune asserts that marriage is not a failure, but some people who enter the state force a failure through misconception of the assets needed to offset its liabilities.

In Mrs. Catherwood's charming "Spirit of an Illinois Town" there is this sentence describing the straggling street of a new prairie town: "We were literally walking through a square mile of Ohio cheer, New England thrift and conscientiousness, Kentucky hospitality, New York far-sightedness with capital to back it and native Illinois grit. The very air, resinous and sweet, had a peculiar tingle that a man, having once felt, cannot forget. Everybody was going to succeed, and on the way could put up with a few inconveniences."

Miss Mary C. Collins, the well-known missionary to the Sioux Indians, thinks that the slang word "hobo" for tramp is of Indian origin, and instances several cases of its use by the Sioux. While it would seem peculiarly appropriate that the word should come from a nomadic race, it is more likely that Miss Collins' examples simply show the pervasiveness of the tribe of weary wraggles.

The small boy is in a quandary, says the La Crosse Press. If he spends his money for fireworks he can't go to the circus, and if he saves his money for the circus he misses a chance to burn his hand so he won't be able to split wood for the balance of the summer.

A noteworthy incident of the Republican convention in Ohio was the hissing of Senator Hanna's name. When Chairman Grosvenor referred to the senator in glowing terms the Hanna delegates cheered, but above the cheers came a loud hiss from the delegates opposing him, showing that there were many present who were intensely bitter toward his aspirations and his political tactics.

Every man should judge himself by Dr. Charles W. Purdy's standard of living. In the North American Review he says that "if a man who is born of healthy parents, and who is himself healthy at birth, becomes seriously disabled in health before the age of from 65 to 70, barring accidents or infectious diseases, it is solely because he has not lived properly."

It is said by the Chicago Journal that the engineer of a locomotive which plunged into the Chicago river last week broke his leg when he struck the water. The Herald has also heard that the river was cracked open for a long distance by the fall of the locomotive.

Gen. Lew Wallace says that after a diligent search for a short name for the hero of his great book he came across the name "Hur" in the Book of Genesis, and by adding "Ben," which means "the son of," he obtained a name both short and odd.

The Chicago Chronicle has a cartoon representing Hanna and Foraker, the former having in one hand an apple from which he has bitten a large piece. Foraker asks: "Will you gimme the core?" Hanna's reply is: "There ain't a-goin' to be no core."

Chief Justice Fuller said in his address at the centennial celebration in Augusta, Maine, Wednesday: "The past teaches us that our fathers knew not only how to command, but how to obey and that true freedom flourishes best when self-restrained."

The Larned, Kans., Chronoscope says: "We drank about 30,000,000 gallons less whisky last year than usual." How much would the Chronoscope's editor drink if he lived in a wet state?

It is evident that London is having a high old time with the 4,000,000 bottles of champagne specially imported for the jubilee festivities and the several million more which were not imported.

The Springfield Republican says: "President Andrews is popular with the alumni of Brown university and will not want substantial support in the present attack of the trustees."

Those who predicted that Queen Victoria could not stand the strain of jubilee week were much mistaken. She is not so feeble as some reports have represented.

An appropriation of $800,000 for good road construction was made by the Massachusetts legislature, which shows that the good road agitation is bearing fruit.

Another sign of returning prosperity is found in the fact that the railroad earnings for May show an increase of 75 per cent over the earnings for May of last year.

An Eastern doctor has written a book on "How to Eat." Most people are more interested in getting something to eat than learning how to eat it.

According to a New Orleans dispatch a negro died there the other day "without the aid of a physician." Probably he was run over by a trolley car.

A Princeton professor has invented a cannon to be placed in the pitcher's box and send out swift ones. Thus does education make steady progress.

And now it is suggested that Barney Barnato committed suicide because so many new relatives were making their appearance.

"Is there one honest man in Minneapolis?" asks the Anoka Union. The answer depends upon your definition of honesty.

Minneapolis is hoping that John Goodnow will take that ball team to Shanghai.

The new Baltic ship canal shows a deficit of nearly $250,000 for its first year.

The French journals call it the "Jubile," with an accent on the "e."

The whole issue at Toledo was Hanna.

THE HERALD'S NEW DRESS.

La Crosse Press: The Duluth Herald comes out with a spanking new dress, and there is an improvement on even its old time neat and tasty appearance.

St. Cloud Journal-Press: President McKinley has evidently favored The Duluth Herald with a call. In any event The Herald has made connection with the prosperity wave to the extent of a new dress.

A "LOADED" SAWLOG.

At Valley View, Ky., a log was converted into lumber at the Southern Lumber company's mill, says the Louisville Dispatch, which caused considerable comment among those who were present. It was a poplar log sixteen feet long, and as the saw cut its way through it, and the boards began to fall on the receiving table, it was found to be filled with leaden balls, in size from .32 to .45.

Upon investigation and inquiry it was found that the mill company had purchased it near Hazard, Ky., on Big creek, near where Joe Eversole and Combs were killed from ambush by the French faction. Eversole was killed outright and Combs fell mortally wounded, when a ball from a pistol in the hands of "Bad Tom" Smith corroborated the oft-repeated statement that "dead men tell no tales."

The number of bullets found in the log was over 200, and it is believed to have been used in a barricade during the long and bloody feud between the French and Eversole factions in and around Hazard.

Rooms are quickly rented when advertised in The Evening Herald. It costs but 1 cent a word.

ANNEXATION OF HAWAII.

Minneapolis Times (Dem.): On business grounds alone the proposed annexation commends itself to every clear-headed American. It would place the United States in permanent possession of a region which is capable of almost unlimited trade development and with which the whole future of American commerce in the Pacific is vitally associated.

Chicago Times-Herald (Rep.): The people of this country will give a hearty welcome to the territory of Hawaii, soon, we hope, to be a state of the Union. It brings new wealth and power to us, and we in return extend to it the blessings of free and stable government. The heart of every true American will beat with pride at the thought of the flag flying, not for an hour or a day, but forever above the white buildings of beautiful Honolulu.

St. Louis Republic (Dem.): If we take distant Hawaii, why not near-by Cuba? If Cuba, why not any other country whose people would like to shift their troubles and responsibilities on our broad backs? We have no interests that the possession of Hawaii would help us to protect or further. On the contrary, its acquisition would vastly increase our responsibilities, expenses and dangers. Our shore line for naval defenses would be nearly doubled. It is impossible to see compensation for the new responsibilities we would assume.

Brooklyn Eagle (Dem.): We are about to plant our flag where it will be cordially welcomed, nor are we assuming obligations which will be especially difficult of fulfillment. The annexation of the islands, however, will not be altogether without influence as far as Cuba is concerned. It will be susceptible of but one interpretation in Madrid. The Spaniards will take it for granted that at what the president may regard as being the right time, decided action will be taken at Washington with reference to the future of the ever faithful isle. The cases are anything but parallel, but Spain will not go into details; for her the annexation treaty will have a sinister significance.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat (Rep.): While it is true that annexation will impose responsibilities and bring complications which many conservative people would be glad to see the country avoid, yet to a certain extent, as already mentioned, these are forced upon us. It has been a vital principle of our diplomacy that Hawaii should be either independent or American, and it has seemed to many of our statesmen that the first named status could not be much longer maintained. Nor will the complications be quite as serious as many persons assume. The dominant race in the islands are the Americans and Europeans, and these, by an overwhelming majority, have favored annexation for years.

Chicago Tribune (Rep.): Hawaii should be annexed because we need it. Its government is now American, but it cannot hold out against foreign aggression without our help. The way to help it is to hoist Old Glory as the sovereign flag of the islands. They are rich and fertile islands, and their productivity has been developed by American enterprise. New England alone has nearly $60,000,000 invested there. We cannot afford to lose that productivity or to allow its commerce to be absorbed by another nation. It has a splendid harbor, which is needed to meet the wants of our rapidly growing commerce and as a coaling station for our war and commercial marine. Nine-tenths of the property is owned by Americans, and that property must not be menaced by foreign occupation.

Cleveland Plain Dealer (Dem.): Cuba is at our doors. Hawaii a long way off. It is less that 100 miles from Key West to the capital of Cuba; from San Francisco to Honolulu is 2100 miles. Our trade with Cuba last year, notwithstanding the great falling off on account of the war, was $47,548,649; with Hawaii it was $15,729,050, or not quite one-third as much as with Cuba. In both cases the exports from the United States fell far below the imports into the United States, being about one-third in the case of Hawaii and one-fourth in that of Cuba. Practically all the exports of Hawaii are to the United States, and nearly all the imports are from this country. Cuba sends us from two-thirds to three-fourths of its exports and gets about one-third its imports from the United States. The gain to our producers and manufacturers would be far greater by the annexation of Cuba than by the taking in of Hawaii.

GOODNOW'S FAT JOB.

Minneapolis Journal: The appointment of John Goodnow to one of the best consulships is undoubtedly a personal matter on the part of the president. Goodnow doesn't owe his appointment to anybody else, and it is doubtful if he could have obtained the indorsement of the Minnesota delegation if he had asked for it. John Goodnow is unquestionably one of the most adroit and skillful politicians the state has ever produced. He is a young man of very marked ability in that direction, as well as in others. But he has become unpopular for reasons that need not be elaborated here, and Mr. McKinley while probably recognizing what he believed to be a deep personal obligation to Mr. Goodnow, has by this appointment done nothing to strengthen his hold upon the favor of the Republicans of Minnesota, and the people generally.

St. Paul Globe: John Goodnow, baseball impressario of Minneapolis, is going to be consul general at Shanghai, China. Nobody need be surprised to hear that Goodnow has purchased the flowery kingdom from Li Hung Chang and other interested parties.

Minneapolis Press: Goodnow is the Shanghai rooster who is doing the crowing just now. Domestic or political troubles, short baseball receipts, busted state machine, or what not, it is all the same to John. The world is one vast clover patch to him. Selah.

Minneapolis Times: Mr. Goodnow goes to Shanghai where the long-legged chickens come from, it does not follow that they will roost higher hereafter.

Forgiven.

"I dreamed so dear a dream of you last night!
I thought you came. I was so glad, so gay
I whispered—those were foolish words to say—
I meant them not—I cannot bear the sight
Of your dear face. I cannot meet the light
Of your dear eyes upon me. Sit, I pray,
Sit here beside me; turn your look away,
And lay your cheek on mine." Till morning bright
We sat so, and we did not speak, I knew
All was forgiven; so I nestled there
With your arms round. Swift the sweet hours flew.
At last I waked and sought you everywhere.
How long, dear, think you that my glad cheek will Burn—as it burns with your cheek's pressure still.
—HELEN HUNT JACKSON.

A Bachelor's Reflections.

New York Press: The harder you run up against the devil the more his horns hurt.

Every married woman gets an idea that she has to have lots of patience with her husband.

The average man thinks most about owing a duty to his family just before the church collection.

The women whose husbands talk most about their wives being domestic in their tastes generally have to be.

When he hears the excuses some men make to the minister for not coming to church more the devil blushes.

Every wife is pretty sure there was another woman, but very few are bright enough to make their husbands think there was another man.

RAILWAY ECONOMIES.

Railway economy has taken some curious forms. "Every line its own manufacturer," says the London and Northwestern Railway; and hardly a thing it needs, whether a locomotive or a printed label, is made for it by people not belonging to the company. It is its own artificial legmaker. When an employe has had the misfortune to lose a limb on the line, a wooden leg or arm, as the case may be, is sent to him from the carpenter shop at Crewe. The legmaking department of the Northwestern employs a couple of expert instrument-makers, working constantly to supply the demand. At Wolverton, on the same system, you will see in the carriage works a man engaged in etching fancy designs upon the plates of the ground glass used in first-class compartments and saloons.

The Midland company has found it advantageous to have a "photographer in ordinary." If a bridge shows a sign of decay, or an embankment is likely to slip, the engineer-in-chief, on report, sends him to photograph the "accident" (they call everything an accident on the railway), thus saving a personal visit. In the case of a "smash-up" the photographer immediately takes several photos of the train, or trains, from different points of view, so that, when the board of trade inquiry comes on, there can be no dispute as to where the engine and carriages were lying.

LAUGH AND GROW FAT.

Detroit Free Press: "What does that man Slickly do for a living?"

"For board and lodging he does the hotels and for clothes does his tailor. Outside of that he does the best he can."

Chicago Record: "What do you think of Tesla's scheme of telegraphing without wires?"

"That's nothing new; my wife has kicked my shins under the table for twenty years."

Philadelphia Record: "It isn't always safe to pick a quarrel with a meek-looking man," says the Manayunk Philosopher. "An egg is a mild thing, but some of them are very gamey."

Cincinnati Enquirer: "I wonder," said the landlady, "just what Mr. Kipling meant by 'a rag, a bone and a hank of hair?'"

"It sounds to me," said Asbury Peppers, "as if he were attempting the description of a plate of hash."

Indianapolis Journal: "That speaker seems to be very popular with the audience."

"I have my doubts," replied the contrary man; "I noticed they applauded him a great deal more for getting through with his speech than they did for commencing it."

Truth: "It's surprising how impractical some very learned men are." "Yes, there's Professor Lingwist, for example. He spent over half his life in acquiring fluency in nine or ten different languages and then went and married a woman who never gives him a chance to get a word in edgeways."

Washington Star: "I'll tell the people who talk about employing you that you are incapable of a falsehood!" said the warm friend.

"Don't go as ever so much; only express it carefully. There is a good deal of difference, you know, between saying that a man 'cannot tell a lie' and declaring that he 'has no diplomacy.'"

WHAT IT LACKS.

What joy to sit beneath some tree
Beside some sparkling rill,
And loll at ease,
Fanned by the breeze,
And read or fish at will!
But as the dullest fool can see,
Such bliss
As this Brings little grist unto the mill.
And never helps to pay a bill!

LINCOLN'S BLOOD.

On the Play Bill He Held When Shot.

An interesting and valuable relic, which brings vividly to the mind the historic scene in Ford's theater, Washington, on the night of April 14, 1865, is owned by Col. James S. Case, at one time a resident of Philadelphia, but whose home is now in Brooklyn, says the Philadelphia Times.

It is only a play bill, but upon it is a discoloration made by a tiny drop of President Lincoln's blood. It was picked up just after the tragedy by John T. Ford, the manager of the theater. He found it on the floor of the box where it had fallen from the president's hand when the bullet of Assassin Booth pierced his head. It lay beneath the chair in which the citizen-hero received his death wound. There was a tiny spot of blood, still red and warm as it came from the great heart of Lincoln on the edge.

Mr. Ford, who was also manager of the Holliday Street theater, Baltimore, and the academy of music, in this city, carried the precious paper home, and only parted with it at the request of the late A. K. Browne, of Washington, who was a warm personal friend of the manager. It came into Mr. Browne's possession while the nation was still mourning its idol, and soon after his assassin had met a justly-merited fate at the hands of Sergeant Boston Corbett.

The play bill is somewhat yellow from age, but is otherwise in an excellent state of preservation. The blood stain is now a dark brown. The program is of "Our American Cousin," which was being given for the benefit of Laura Keene. The blood stain is near half way down the program, opposite the names of John Dyott and Harry Hawk, Miss Keene's leading support.

This relic came into Col. Case's possession nineteen years ago, it having been bequeathed to him by Mr. Browne, who was his uncle and a well known Washington lawyer. The bill is preserved in a large frame, which also contains affidavits in support of its genuineness and authenticity. One made by Mr. Ford at the solicitation of Mr. Browne reads:

"I, John T. Ford, on oath say that I presented A. K. Browne with a program of the play, 'Our American Cousin,' which I picked up near President Lincoln's chair when he was assassinated, and I have every reason to believe that the one hereto attached is the identical one. JOHN T. FORD.

"Teste: D. W. BLISS, M. D.

"Subscribed and sworn to before me this 15th day of November, 1879."

"TH. HARRIS HODGES,
"Notary Public."

The other affidavit is signed by Mr. Browne and witnessed also by Dr. Bliss, who attended the late President Garfield during his final illness, caused by Assassin Guiteau's bullet.

Col. Case prizes dearly this precious memento of Lincoln's death. He has received many offers to part with it, but his one answer has been that it will be an heirloom of the Case family.

There is an interesting story of late years connected with this program. A short time before the death of Edwin Booth, an actors' fair was given in New York for the benefit of the actors' fund. A stage friend of Col. Case, who knew of his possession, suggested to the committee having the fair in charge that the program be secured for exhibition with other rare programs. Col. Case consented, but the day before the fair opened. Booth heard of the action of the committee and made a personal request that the program be not exhibited.

The member of the committee to whom Booth made the request is authority for the statement that this little incident, done unthinkingly and without the intention of causing him sorrow, had the effect of casting a gloom over those friends of the great actor who knew of his aversion to even a thought or consideration of the desperate and insane act of his brother.

The evening paper is always carefully read, especially in the home circle, and is therefore an excellent advertising medium. Advertisers in The Evening Herald always get full value.

WHY JAPAN PROTESTS.

Annexing Hawaii Would Block Japanese Business.

Washington, June 24.—The gist of the protest of Japan to Hawaiian annexation which was read to the senate committee on foreign relations yesterday is as follows:

The acquisition of Hawaii by annexation to the United States would deprive the resident Japanese in the islands of rights to which they are at present entitled under the present treaty with Hawaii. At present there are 25,000 Japanese in the islands with large property rights and under the present conditions they are entitled to become citizens of Hawaii. In case of annexation these Japanese could not become citizens of the United States, as the decisions of United States circuit courts are to the effect that no Asiatic can become a citizen of the United States.

By annexation the Japanese now resident in Hawaii would be subject to any measures that might be adopted by the United States. They would lose the right to become citizens and to vote, the large interests owned by Japanese citizens in the islands would be greatly jeopardized; therefore the Japanese government must firmly protest against the proposed annexation.

A CHANGE OF DOCTORS.

What Bryan Thinks the American People Need.

Lamar, Mo., June 24.—Hon. W. J. Bryan spoke here for ten minutes this morning from the car platform to a crowd of 1000 people while en route to Carthage. He was cheered lustily. He said that people had discovered their ailment, but they had taken the wrong medicine. "What is needed," he added, "is a change of doctors."

He spoke of the recent attack made upon him by Professor L. C. Bateman, of Auburn, Me., and said it was unworthy of notice, but stated his answer was made in the United States senate yesterday by Senators Allen and Butler.

JOUETT AND THE CADET.

Admiral Jouett—now on the retired list of the navy and familiarly known as "Fighting Jimmy"—was acting secretary of the navy once when the commandant of the academy at Annapolis came over and reported that he had been compelled to discipline a cadet who had behaved in a most unaccountable manner and had disgraced the academy, the department, the government and all civilization, says the Chicago Record. He then proceeded to relate how this cadet, when passing through the lower regions of the town of Annapolis had somehow or another become involved in hostilities with a tough citizen and proceeded to polish him off. The friends of the tough came to his rescue, the cadet backed up against a wall, and whipped five of them in succession, and then nearly hammered the life out of two policemen who attempted to arrest him. He was in the custody of the civil authorities, and the superintendent of the academy was seeking the aid of the secretary of the navy in having him transferred to the navy authorities in order that he might be court-martialed and punished.

"Court-martial that fellow!" roared Jouett. "Licked five toughs and two policemen; not by a blankety blank sight, while old Jim Jouett is living. The boy ought to have a medal. What in blankety blankety blank are you doing down there, anyhow? Do you suppose the government of the United States hired you to raise a lot of boys to play checkers?"

FOREST OF WATERSPOUTS.

The British ship Herat, which arrived yesterday, 130 days from Calcutta, reported sighting what one of the sailors spoke of as a forest of waterspouts, says the New York Times. That was on March 25, when the vessel was about two degrees south of the equator. There were light, variable winds, and the sea was smooth. The spouts were two miles distant, and presented a magnificent spectacle, the sky being almost black at their heads, amid surrounding blue, while their spiral columns glistened in the sunlight. They gradually broke without coming nearer the ship, which kept her course.

NEED MINING LAWS.

Fred J. Bowman Says Congress Should Extend Them.

Fred J. Bowman, editor of the Rainy Lake Journal, in an interview with an Evening Herald reporter today, said that the gold country on the Canadian side of the boundary was literally filled with prospectors hunting for the precious, while on the American side practically nothing is being done. The mineral formation on the American side, he said, is just as good as on the Canadian, and the only reason that it is being neglected is because American laws do not offer prospectors the protection afforded by Canada. This condition, Mr. Bowman says, will continue until the federal mining laws are made to apply to the northern part of Minnesota.

Speaking of the likelihood of congress taking the desired action for the relief of American gold hunters, Mr. Bowman said that he had been informed by close political friends of Page Morris that he would introduce and urge the passage of a bill at the regular session of congress next winter extending the mining laws to the Rainy Lake district, and that there is no doubt of its passage. Until this is done Mr. Bowman believes there can be no extensive development on the American side.

Work on the Crane Lake road from the dam at the foot of Lake Vermilion to Crane lake is progressing finely, and it has already shortened the trip over the long portage materially. The southern ten miles of road is in splendid condition, being smooth and hard, but on the northern seventeen miles there are still many bad places, which makes progress over it not only slow, but exceedingly uncomfortable. He still insists that a railroad must soon be built to Rainy lake to give direct communication with Duluth, which is the natural trading point for the entire country. The Canadians are not slow to appreciate the importance of it, for the government has made an appropriation of over $9000 a mile for a line to be built from Port Arthur to Fort Frances. Work on this line will be commenced next month.

Mr. Bowman will return to Rainy lake today.

New Labor Paper.

A new labor journal, to be issued semi-monthly, will shortly be launched here. It will probably be called the Duluth Labor Gazette, and its mission will be to promote the patronage of union restaurants. The enterprise was decided on at a meeting of the Waiters' union held Tuesday evening, and that organization will back the publication. W. B. Willcut will be editor and James Murray, business manager. The union elected officers for the ensuing year, as follows: J. F. McDonald, president; Patrick Henry, vice president; James Murray, secretary; W. B. Willcut, financial secretary; W. E. Jamison, treasurer.

MISS SHEPARD'S PUPILS.

Piano Recital at Pilgrim Church Last Evening.

The piano recital by pupils of Miss LaBurtte Shepard last evening at Pilgrim Congregational church was well attended and was a pleasing musicale. The audience was greatly interested and pleased with the work of the pupils and applauded generously. Misses Gridley and Shepard played the opening number, a minuet and romance by Tours. Miss Rebecca Bailey played a sonatina in three movements by Kuhlan; Miss Myrna McGuire, "Morning Glory" by Lichner; Miss Lilly Abrahamson, "The Fountain," by Behm; Miss Hannah Oleson, a rondo by Bold; Miss Ada Burke, "Dance of the Pages," by Aletter, and "Village Dance," by Carter; Miss Janie Frederick, first movement of a sonatina by Clementi; Miss Antoinette d'Autremont, "Fresh Life," by Spindler; Miss Ada Burke, "To Elise," by Beethoven; Miss Burnsen, "Fairy Tale," by Raff. Miss Burnsen is the most advanced of Miss Shepard's pupils and is an exceptionally fine performer. She has a fine touch, both in the light and heavy passages, and her execution is remarkably good.

Miss Moon assisted and sang two numbers, "Ave Maria," by Santley, and "Little Boy Blue," by d'Hardelot. Both were encored. Miss Moon has a soprano voice of excellent quality with ample strength and resonance. It is a voice that promises well.

Y. M. C. A. BICYCLE RACES.

Will Be Held Saturday Afternoon on London Road.

The bicycle races of the Y. M. C. A. Cycle club will be held Saturday afternoon on London road. They were to have been held last Saturday at the Driving park, but the arrangement fell through and they will be held as above stated. There will be a 5-mile handicap and a mile handicap, and there are about a dozen entries in each event.

The race is the first of a series of four for the medals, one gold and two of silver. The three winners in each of the first three races will gather in a fourth race, and the winners in this will get the medals. The races will be scattered at convenient periods through the summer. Besides the three medals there will be a number of useful prizes for the racers. The medals are on exhibition in the window of A. B. Siewert & Co.'s store and they are quite handsome.

Superior Normal Graduates.

The first graduates of the Superior normal school, three in number, went forth from that institution this morning. The graduating exercises took place at 10 o'clock and were attended by a large number of people, among whom were many of prominence from outside of Superior. Dr. Ostrander, of Chicago, and President E. D. Coe of the state board of normal school regents were present. The diplomas conferred on the graduates entitle them to state teachers' certificates.

THE STOMACH CANNOT BE FREIGHTED

With greater trash than a violent drastic purgative. True, such a medicine relieves constipation for the time, but at the expense of great injury to the intestinal canal, which it both inflames and weakens, thus unfitting it for the performance of its proper functions. Widely different is the action of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a tonic aperient which produces effects prompt, indeed, but never violent and convulsing. The purity of its botanic ingredients, its unobjectionable flavor, its genial influence upon the mind, and the thoroughness of its remedial action in case of constipation liver complaint and dyspepsia, combine to render it a most desirable family specific. It increases both physical vigor and substance tranquilizes and invigorates the nervous system, and gives an unwonted relish for the food. A wineglass three times daily is about the average dose.

DREDGES AT WORK

Williams, Green & Williams Have Their Entire Outfit In Operation.

BARKER TO GO AT IT

City Engineer McGilvray Is Receiving Many Applications For Jobs.

The work of dredging under the continuous contract project for the improvement of the harbors at the head of the lakes is well under way, so far, at least, as Williams, Green & Williams are concerned. They have had five dredges at work. Yesterday one broke a spud and this necessitated repairs that will not be completed before about next Monday. The dredges are working in the basin at this end of the harbor and along the Rice's Point channel on the east side.

Some idea of the amount of material being taken out will be of interest. Each dredge is averaging from 1200 to 1500 cubic yards a day. The highest record so far made is 2000 yards in a day. At this rate five dredges will be unable to take out the amount which the government engineer requires to be moved each year. In fact, it will be necessary to practically double the present plant.

Capt. Barker expected to put two dredges at work this week and may do so. His dredges are more powerful and will probably average 2500 yards a day. One of them has a record of 3400 yards in a day, and since that time they have been placed in better repair.

MANY ARE AFTER JOBS.

City Engineer McGilvray Greatly Besieged By Applicants.

City Engineer McGilvray was found with a vengeance yesterday and today by a horde of job-seekers. They had been on his trail ever since his foot touched Duluth soil Monday. This, it is said, is literally true, it being asserted that as he alighted from the train at Lakeside he was tackled before he got both feet off the car step. They hung around the city hall Monday evening during the council meeting and looked in the windows. They buzzed around in fairly large numbers Tuesday and Wednesday, but it was this morning that they began to swarm. They accumulated while Mr. McGilvray was at Lakewood this morning, and when he returned he found a formidable array of them. All were met with the announcement made yesterday to the effect that no appointments will be made for several days.

Today was the first time the new city engineer had visited the pumping station, a thorough inspection of it and the tunnel was made. A visit to the trenches and the reservoir site will follow.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR TRAINS.

Denver, Col., June 24.—The special train schedule of the Denver & Rio Grande road for the Christian Endeavor movement from the East is completed. The result is gratifying to officers of the road and gives intimations of a rush of travel wholly unexpected earlier in the season. A month ago it was estimated that the low rates would bring 6000 visitors into Colorado and through the state. The special train schedule of the Rio Grande road shows that the trans-continental travel to the coast during the first few days of July will exceed the estimate by several thousand. Between the morning of June 30, and the evening of July 5, twenty-seven special trains will arrive in Denver, Colorado Springs, and go west over the Rio Grande.

SEA LARK REACHES SPITHEAD.

Portsmouth, Eng., June 24.—The training brig Sea Lark, concerning whose safety anxiety was expressed, as she was due on Thursday last, from Queen's Ferry, in order to take part in the naval review of Saturday next, reached Spithead safely today. The brig had been disabled in a gale and had also been detained by head winds. She had on board forty-one officers and seamen and eighty boys belonging to the training ship Caledonia, to which vessel the Sea Lark served as a tender.

MORE SPANISH TROUBLE.

Madrid, June 24.—Serious rioting has taken place at Mieres, in the Oviedo province, which was supposed to be due to the increased taxes on food. There were heavy fighting between 8000 miners and the Spanish troops, consisting of the civil guards and the Princes' regiment. Two rioters were killed and five severely and many slightly wounded. Two soldiers were killed and several wounded.

THE NEW AIR LINE.

Plans Are Claimed to Be Very Near Perfection.

The Minneapolis Journal yesterday printed a story regarding the proposed air line railroad between Duluth and Winnipeg, in which it is stated that the plans of its projectors are so near perfection that it is confidently asserted that the road will be completed in time to carry its share of next year's wheat crop to Duluth. It is claimed that Premier Greenway has almost succeeded in making a contract with the capitalists who are to build the line which insures perpetual low rates on grain and other commodities, this contract being all that is required by him before the province of Manitoba will become surety for the payment of interest on the bonds of the company.

It is claimed that it is now proposed to change the proposed route of the line, running it further north than was originally intended so that it will cross the lower waters of the Big and Little Fork rivers, the principal logging streams of the northern part of the state. The Manitobans want to haul American logs to Winnipeg and saw them up there, or get lumber sawed in Northern Minnesota, so that they can get cheap lumber. For the same purpose the premier intends to have the line touch the Rainy river. It will not be possible without making too great a detour to have the road touch the Rainy river at Koochiching opposite Fort Frances, but a branch line will be built to that incipient city. A company will begin building a paper mill at that place to use the immense forests of spruce in the Rainy Lake country, as soon as the work of building the road is begun. This factory will be large and will utilize the Koochiching water power. It will be ready before the railroad is completed.

Another reason that is powerful in persuading the promoters of the road to swing it somewhat northward of an air line is that they can thus largely avoid the swamps of the more southerly route.

GOODNOW OPPOSED.

Washburn Has Protested But President Urges Prompt Confirmation.

Washington, June 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Serious opposition has developed to the confirmation of John Goodnow, who was on Tuesday appointed consul general to Shanghai. Yesterday Senator Frye, chairman of the committee on commerce, to which the nomination was referred, received telegraphic request from ex-Senator Washburn not to consider Goodnow's nomination until he could reach Washington and present a formal protest against his confirmation. This action has been taken.

Today, however, Assistant Secretary of State Day informed Senator Frye that Goodnow's appointment was a strictly personal one and that the president would be much gratified to have it confirmed as soon as possible. With such strong backing from the chief executive, it is not thought that Mr. Washburn will be able to hold up Goodnow's confirmation, unless he can present some very serious charges against him.

It is suspected that Congressman Tawney and Fletcher are also bringing what influence they can to bear upon friends in the senate to prevent this confirmation, but neither of the Minnesota senators will oppose it. Goodnow says that he has little fear of his nomination being rejected by the senate.

CONGRESSMAN COOKE DEAD.

Sudden Call For One of the Illinois Delegation.

Washington, June 24.—Congressman Edward Dean Cooke was found dead in his room at the Cochran hotel this morning about 5 o'clock, presumably of heart disease. Mr. Cooke retired about 11 o'clock last night, apparently in good health. At 2 o'clock this morning Night Clerk Cochran was called to his room and found him suffering from nausea, but he soon recovered and declined to have a physician called. He returned to bed and nothing further was thought of the matter until Mr. Cochran returned to the hotel about 5 o'clock this morning and went to Mr. Cooke's room to inquire for him.

Mr. Cooke was dead and the physician who was immediately summoned, said that he had apparently been dead for several hours. The members of the Illinois delegation were at once notified and the sergeant-at-arms took charge of the body, which will be prepared at once for shipment to Chicago. Mr. Cooke was a native of Iowa and 48 years old. He was educated in the public schools of Dubuque and later was graduated from the Columbian university law school of Washington and admitted to the bar. Since 1873 he had practiced law in Chicago. In 1882 he was elected to the Illinois legislature and served on important committees in that body. He was elected to the Fifty-fourth congress from the Sixth Illinois district and then re-elected to the present congress.

THEIR JUBILEE DINNER.

Princess of Wales Feeds the London Poor.

London, June 24.—The princess of Wales' jubilee dinners to the poor today were very successful. About 3000 denizens of the slums were sumptuously entertained at the various centers. The princess, accompanied by the prince of Wales, Princess Victoria of Wales and Prince and Princess Charles of Denmark, visited the principal halls where the feasts were given. The places visited by the royal party were the People's palace, in the East End of London; the Central hall, Holborn, and the Wesleyan school house at Clerkenwell.

At the People's palace the royal visitors were received by the lord mayor, Sir George Faudel-Phillips, and the lady mayoress. The guests consisted of 1000 ragged children. After the national anthem had been sung the children were served with a good feast of roast beef, potatoes, pies, tarts, jellies, apples, oranges and ice cream. The fare at the other places was the same. The princess of Wales and her party received an ovation everywhere.

The princess of Wales requested the lord mayor to deliver a message to the diners as follows: "Although I am unfortunately unable to be present at all the dinners for my poor, I shall be with them in spirit. I hope they will enjoy themselves and give three cheers for their queen.

In the vicinity of Larned it was hot enough to curl the leaves of vegetation.

AN AGGRESSIVE CAMPAIGN.

What the Cuban Leaders Are Mapping Out.

New York, June 24.—A meeting of prominent Cubans, presided over by Delegate Tomas Estrada Palma, was held last night at the Astor house and was largely attended by planters, merchants and others having property or interests in Cuba. The meeting, which was private, had for its object the agreement upon a plan for raising within a short time the necessary funds to carry on a decidedly vigorous campaign against the Spanish government in Cuba next winter, in case the absolute independence of the island is not by that time established.

The plan, in short, is to make one great effort to anticipate one year's supplies, so that the Cuban army may undertake an aggressive policy, instead of following the present defensive one, which a lack of sufficient supplies compels it to observe.

IN THE DAKOTAS.

NORTH DAKOTA.

The district court at Grand Forks was occupied yesterday in hearing testimony as to the mental condition of Normand. Mr. Hotchkiss, of Granite Falls, Minn., testified that he knew the Normand family and never considered the prisoner right in his mind. Dr. Taylor, of this city, considered Normand insane. Normand was here recalled and cross-examined by the state and stated that when coming to Grand Forks he pointed out to the officers the Hillestad house. Deputy Sheriff Collins testified that he had never heard Normand express any regrets. Chief Ryan and Deputy United States Marshals Hennessy and Hannah testified that Normand pointed out to them on his trip here the Hillestad house, the road he took in making his escape and the crossings over which he passed. Mrs. Hillestad was recalled and testified to having found the lantern. The defense here rested their case.

There is an osteopathic row on in Fargo and the old school physicians are having all sorts of fun watching its progress.

Burt Foster and George W. Robinson were arrested at St. John, at the instance of Bessie Hennessy, an 11-year-old girl of Cando. She tells a story of abuse and outrage. Robinson is the husband of a 16-year-old sister of the little girl, they having been married last winter.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

There is a strong sentiment in Deadwood against the way the Salvation Army is at present conducting its evening services. Every evening the Army parades the streets and everything has to make way for the drum and cornet. Several accidents have recently occurred on the streets by the frightened teams from the noise of the drum and the singing, but the army moves on undisturbed. Both the press and the city council have been requested to "roast them" for their carelessness. Since the Army has begun work in Deadwood there is no question but that a great good has been done. Its numbers are steadily increasing. To the old-timers in the Hills its methods seem extremely new and more after the fashion of the Omaha dance of the Sioux.

The Schlitz building that collapsed at Watertown was constructed of grout, a mixture of cement and gravel laid up between boards and allowed to dry before the boards were removed. The cement was poor and wet weather hurt it. Several of these building have collapsed, one being the armory some time ago. The council will cause remaining grout buildings to be condemned.

The parties who shot and robbed David Mitchell at Huron have not yet been found. The ball has been extracted from Mitchell's head and he will recover.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

Market Opened Up Strong and Slightly Higher.

New York, June 24.—The stock market opened stronger and higher, the improvement, however, being small in the more prominent stocks. Bay State Gas was in brisk demand and moved up 1¼ to 15. Chicago Gas improved slightly, but soon developed heaviness and reacted sharply a fraction. Changes in the international stocks were extremely narrow, but the tendency was towards a higher level.

The absence of any large commission house orders, coulped with demonstrations against individual stocks by the bear contingent, gave considerable impetus to the selling movement and depressed values of a few shares severely. The anthracite coalers, after being marked by considerable firmness in the early callings, were offered freely. New Jersey Central losing a point. Sugar has not shown great activity, but moved in harmony with the rest of the list. The bond market was moderately active, but changes were narrow. The new Lake Shore 2½s, listed yesterday, were dealt in at 103¾. Sales of stocks to noon were 104,000 shares.

GOBBLED BY ROCKEFELLER.

Standard Oil People Control Bay State Gas Company.

Boston, June 24.—The Traveller today says: A big gas transaction by which the Standard Oil people secure absolute control of the Bay State Gas company, of Delaware, was consummated in New York yesterday. The conference in which the arrangements were completed was the last of a series and was of a most important character. Messrs. Rogers, Coudert, Addicks, Carter and gentlemen, prominent in gas affairs, were in attendance. Addicks accepted the proposition of the Standard Oil people that he should refund about $2,000,000 in cash, or its equivalent to the company in consideration of which all litigation is to be ended.

Mr. Addicks, by virtue of the arrangement, retires from the gas field and the next move will probably be a reorganization of the entire business on a simple basis. When business at the stock exchange opened this morning Bay State Gas advanced ⅞c.

HOMEOPATHIC CONVENTION.

Buffalo, N. Y., June 24.—The annual convention of the American institute of homeopathy will convene in this city at 2 o'clock this afternoon. The materia medica conference opened yesterday. This morning "Purification By Means of Normal Standards," was discussed by Conrad Wesselhaeft, of Boston; Martin Desepore, of New York, and J. B. G. Custis, of Washington.

IS OUT ON BAIL

John Promberger Furnished Bail and Was Released This Morning.

HAS THREE SURETIES

Case Cannot Be Brought Up Until September When Court Meets.

John Promberger, who was arrested about ten days ago on the charge of embezzling $1400 from the Delaware & Lackawanna railroad, of which he was formerly an agent, was released on bail this noon. His bonds, which are in the sum of $4000, were approved by Judge Cant. The sureties are B. C. Church, A. D. Thomson and W. H. Magie.

Mr. Promberger has been engaged for two or three days in an effort to secure bail, and the effort was not fully successful until this morning. The last signature was secured this morning, the bonds were presented to Judge Cant for approval at noon, and immediately upon their approval the defendant was released. The release is important to him, not only because of the liberty gained, but because of his interests, which would suffer in his absence.

His case cannot now be brought up before Sept. 1, when the fall term grand jury will meet. It will then go before that body and during the same term he will be tried in district court, providing a true bill is found.

VOLUNTEER DEPARTMENT.

Duluth Heights Citizens Organize to Fight Fires.

A volunteer fire company of thirty-three members has been organized at Duluth Heights, and the executive committee was instructed to wait on the fire commissioners and notify them that the Heights is all ready for that chemical that has been promised. A meeting will be held Tuesday night, at which the fire commissioners will probably be present, when the arrangement of details will be perfected. It has been arranged to have a team quartered at the hall nights, the owner to have the use of the living rooms on the second floor for himself and family. Feed for the horses will also be furnished free, probably. It is intended to inaugurate the company with a grand ball, the plans for which are now in the hands of a committee. The following officers were elected: President, W. W. McEwen; secretary, John Blackwood; chief, Samuel Maghan; assistant chief, H. H. Colton; foreman, B. Wood. The executive committee is composed of H. M. King, J. Gibson and R. Rankin.

Formal Dismissal Filed.

The dismissal of the Towne suit against the News Tribune was filed this morning. It is as follows: "It is hereby stipulated and agreed by and between the plaintiff and defendant that the action be and is hereby dismissed, the said case having been fully settled between the parties and the plaintiff hereby admitting that he has received full satisfaction."

It is signed by S. T. Harrison and J. L. Washburn as attorneys for Mr. Towne, and by Neff & Hartley as attorneys for the defendant.

The two suits of Locke Perfitt against the St. Louis Bay Land company and Joseph Sellwood, to recover on notes given to secure the bonus given to the Ironton Structural Steel company, have been dismissed.

Low Reservoir Contract.

It is expected that the contract for the construction of the low level reservoir at Fourth street and Thirty-fourth avenue east will be awarded by the board of public works in time for the council to act on the award Monday evening. The bids have been held by the board in order that the specifications might be submitted to City Engineer McGilvray. The latter will go over them at once.

New Drills Ordered.

H. Ratishauser, of Detroit, Mich., one of the stockholders in the Foley Gold Mining company, arrived in the city today from the gold country. In an interview with an Evening Herald reporter he said that at a meeting of the company, held last Friday, it was decided to buy a new compressor and ten new diamond drills. Only two drills are being worked at the mine now, which is not sufficient to keep the stamp mill supplied with ore. With the new compressor and ten additional drills this trouble will be overcome and the mill will be kept busily at work.

Board of Review Meeting.

The board of review will meet at the city hall Monday, June 28, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. It will continue in session one week, at the expiration of which time the books have to be turned over to the county auditor. Assessor Hawkes says he hopes that those who are under the impression that their assessments are too high will take advantage of the opportunity to appear and register their kick in due form.

THE McCARTER CASE.

Dr. Slaughter Explains His Connection With It.

To the Editor of The Herald:

The report in your last evening's paper of the McCarter inquest wherein I testified, places me in such a false light that I am compelled to request your correction of nearly all the facts, so far as I was concerned. I was called to Mrs. Banks' hospital to see a desperately ill woman, whose name was given as Jennie McCarter. She told me that she had previously taken drugs with the intention of producing an abortion and, these failing, had attempted suicide. My judgment dictated that her only chance of life was in an immediate operation, which I proceeded to perform, relieving her of a four months' foetus in an advanced stage of putrefaction. After this she rallied for a few days so far as to be able to sit up. It is therefore absolutely unjust to associate my name with any "criminal practice" and Drs. Stocker and Braden agreed with me that I had done what they also would have done under like circumstances. Furthermore, I did not state that she had typhoid, but in my judgment her subsequent illness was due to pyaemia. Respectfully,

CHARLES SLAUGHTER, M.D.

(Nothing contained in the report in yesterday's Herald associated Dr. Slaughter's name with any criminal practice in connection with this case, and the facts which he states above do not differ in any essential particular from the report of his evidence given yesterday. However, as Dr. Slaughter fancies that such an insinuation was made, his communication is given above.—Ed. The Herald.)

EXCURSIONISTS.

Taking a Trip on the Lake and Harbor This Afternoon.

The Meeker County Old Settlers' association excursionists are still in the city and are having a fine time, at least they say they are and that is the only way to tell. This morning C. D. Harper, northern passenger agent of the Eastern Minnesota railway, which has the excursion in charge arranged for a boat to take the party out on the bay and lake. It was impossible to secure a steamer but finally the barge Grenada and a tug were arranged for and this afternoon the party went out. They went out on the lake and around the horn. They will stop at Superior on the way back and see the mills and points of interest.

Senator Hansen, who is in charge of the party said today: "We have had a most delightful trip and one we will long remember. Everything that could be done for us has been done and we greatly appreciate it. The Great Northern road, through its local representative, Mr. Harper, has been exceedingly kind and thoughtful and we are very grateful for their courtesy. We are all very much pleased with Duluth."

County Treasurer John Paulson of Meeker county, who is with the old settlers' excursion from Meeker county, was at the court house this morning looking over St. Louis county institutions and meeting the officials. He is an old acquaintance of County Auditor Halden, and this afternoon they took a boulevard drive together.

Mr. Paulson said that he, as well as all other visitors, are greatly pleased with their trip, and especially with Duluth, which they are kind enough to believe is the coming city of the state. Those who took the range trip were delighted, and say they would not have missed seeing the mines for anything. After comparing the lives of the miners with their own sturdy independent farm lives, they are supremely content, and one of them remarked that the miners earn everything they get.

These plain but wholesome looking citizens whom Duluth and St. Louis county have been entertaining for a day or two are not only among the oldest settlers of the state, but the solidest and best. They pre-empted and homesteaded land back in the early '70s, broke the soil, tilled it, backset it, sowed it, reaped, season after season, each year's labors adding to the value of the land and to the improvements thereon. The population is about 70 per cent Scandinavian of the sturdiest, steadiest, most valuable class, largely Norwegian. Not only has the value of the land increased, but year by year these economical settlers have lined their pockets comfortably and most of them are worth from $25,000 to $75,000. Besides this, they are independent, comfortable, happy and usually content, a lot much to be envied by city people in times of industrial depression.

Not a few of the visitors took occasion to do their shopping while in Duluth, and the result has been that a number of merchants have received a noticeable increase of cash business, and the money the visitors have left at shops and hotels will be an increase to the circulation of currency that will be very acceptable.

The party will leave tomorrow morning on a special train at 8 o'clock. They will go to Minneapolis via St. Cloud and from there will return home.

Buried in Duluth.

The remains of Jennie McCarthy, who died at the Women's hospital Monday morning from blood poisoning, following an operation to produce abortion, were buried in Calvary cemetery this afternoon. Her brother-in-law, John Schrader, of Sparta, Wis., who arrived here this morning, made the arrangements for the interment. The dead woman's stepmother, who lives at Iron River, called at the morgue yesterday. She is in poor circumstances and was unable to provide for the burial.

Pavilion Performers Arrive.

Jule Kusell, proprietor of the Pavilion, arrived today and is quartered at the Spalding. Walter Rosser, late of J. Litt's company, accompanied him. The balance of specialty artists will arrive Saturday. Ross Snow, the original tramp in Rice's "1492," arrived this morning and is at the Spalding. He opens with his great specialty act Sunday afternoon at the Pavilion.

CULKIN IS SLATED

Congressman Morris Will Make Him Either Register or Receiver.

IS AT HOME TODAY

He Thinks Little Legislation Will Be Enacted at This Session.

Congressman Page Morris arrived home from Washington this morning and went direct to his home from the depot. He did not come down to his office until after dinner, and by that time the politicans had heard of his arrival and began to call on him. He will remain here until Saturday only, when he will return to Washington.

To a reporter for The Evening Herald this afternoon Mr. Morris admitted that the question of patronage was causing him considerable concern. He really wishes he had a few more offices at his disposal, for he has many friends in the Republican party to whom he is under obligations, and he would like to reward them all.

"If there had been any fight against me in the party," said he, "I could settle the appointment question mighty quick, for I would give the places to my friends, but you see the party was not divided in the convention. They were all for me, and so they are all my friends. I have invited a number of my friends from different parts of the district to meet me here and talk over the situation in the different localities, but I am not attempting to form any general plan for the distribution of offices, and will discuss individual cases only. I am inclined to permit present incumbents to serve out their terms, and I am concerned only in filling the few vacancies that now exist.

"In regard to the land office one thing is settled, Senator Culkin, of Wright county, is to have one of the positions. That is settled if my recommendation has anything to do with it. The only question about him is as to whether he will be given the position of register now vacant by reason of the resignation of Mr. Taylor, or whether he will wait and take the position of receiver."

"Who is the lucky man selected for the other land office position," asked the reporter.

"I do not know. That, like the post-office is still open for discussion."

Mr. Morris has taken an active interest in bankruptcy legislation and has been urging the passage of some one of the many bankruptcy bills that have been presented to congress. He has little hope that anything will be done at this session, however, as he expects that an adjournment will be taken immediately after the passage of the tariff bill which he believes will be disposed of about July 4. He is impatient at the dilatory tactics pursued by the senate and holds that august body responsible for the failure of congress to enact the legislation that is demanded by the people. He said that a bankruptcy law would now be on the statute books if it were not for the senate. The leaders in the house will oppose the Nelson bill because they do not thing it goes far enough in the item of involuntary bankruptcy and they consider it manifestly unfair to creditors. Mr. Morris does not believe that the Nelson bill is the best that could be devised, but he said that he would vote for it rather than have no bill at all.

In regard to the tariff bill, Mr. Morris said that the senate had receded from its most important amendments, and that there would not be much work for the house committee to do. It is on this supposition that he bases his prediction that it will be passed and ready for the signature of the president in a very short time. He would not be surprised if it was finally disposed of next week, although it may take a good part of the week following to get it out of the way.

The sentiment in Washington, Mr. Morris said, is decidedly in favor of Hawaiian annexation, and he has little doubt that the treaty now before the senate will be ratified, although he has made no special effort to talk with senators on the subject.

Mr. Morris has taken some pains to investigate the demand made for the extension of the United States mining laws to Northern Minnesota. He found that it would be impossible to secure the passage of a bill for that purpose at this session, but that if he found that the prospectors, the men who will go into the field to look for mineral, want such legislation, he will fight for it regardless of any opposition that may come from other sources.

ALLEGES A CONSPIRACY.

"The people in this city are engaged in a conspiracy to keep me from getting work, and you know it," excitedly remarked John Lowe in municipal court yesterday afternoon, shaking his fist at Judge Boyle.

He was up to answer a charge of vagrancy, and he had been explaining that he had tried to get work and failed when he broke out as above. He also made other vague and incoherent statements, He was given a sentence of ten days for vagrancy, and this morning information of insanity was filed against him in probate court. Lowe has been seen lurking about Ironton and Smithville since a week ago last Sunday, hiding himself in the bushes and acting suspiciously. He was arrested Tuesday by Officer Briggs of West Duluth and sent up yesterday afternoon. This morning it became evident that he was more lunatic than vagrant, and an information was filed. He was to be examined this afternoon.

ARGUMENTS STILL ON.

Attorneys Continue Talking on the Arthur Avenue Case.

The Arthur avenue case is still on before Judge Cant today. Henry F. Greene, the attorney for the street railway company, having got himself well started to catch up with Mr. Washburn's talking record. Mr. Washburn concluded yesterday afternoon and sat down before a table on which was a scattered mass of books, through most of which he had waded during his long argument. Mr. Greene then took up his side of the case, and he was still engaged upon it at noon.

He began by tearing to pieces the affidavits submitted by the Northern Pacific to prove its adverse possession. He claimed that Gray's mill was built in 1881, and that the track was extended across Arthur avenue in 1883, and he said that none of the road's affidavits contradicted that, except one or two that were not worthy or serious consideration. He said that while one of their affidavits said that the mill was built in 1881. Theodore Macy swore that the track was built to the mill in 1878, three years before the mill was built. Other affidavits showed the same inconsistency, according to Mr. Greene.

AT LINCOLN PARK.

Arrangements For the Celebration Being Made By the Board.

Secretary Helm of the park board says that the outlook is favorable for a celebration at Lincoln park on the evening of July 5. Arrangements will be made for the services of a band, and there will be vocal music. A feature will be 10-minute speeches. Mayor Truelsen has accepted an invitation to be one of the speakers and W. M. Severance will speak also, probably an effort will be made to induce Gen. Baker, of Mankato, who will speak here at the exercises held by the Sons and Daughters of the Revolution, on Saturday, to remain over and speak at the park. Hon. C. A. Towne, it has been found, will be absent from the city. Congressman Morris, who, it is thought, will be here then, will be asked to speak. Mr. Helm says that 10,000 people can be accommodated at the park and that the board hopes that many will be present.

BRIDGE INVESTIGATION.

Trades Assembly Committee Was at Work Today.

J. H. Baker and J. C. Findley, comprising a committee from the Trades' assembly, spent some time at the court house yesterday examining the plans of the Short Line Park wagon bridge, recently built by the county. They were accompanied by C. M. Horton, whose company first had the contract, which was afterwards taken from him and let to King & Steele. Mr. Horton was explaining to the committee that the bridge was not what the contract called for, that the county was losing money on it and that he could have put up a cheaper and better bridge. He claimed that the bridge will cost $4000, while he could have put up a better one for $3500 or less. The committee is to make a report on the matter to the Trades' assembly. The investigation is the result of a complaint made to the assembly that the bridge is made of wood instead of steel, which the contract calls for.

MADE LARGE PURCHASES.

Power & Settle Secures a Fine Stock From the East.

J. E. Power and W. S. Settle returned last evening from Chicago where they went on Saturday in response to a telegram to meet a representative of one of the leading Eastern manufacturers and importers who was there for the purpose of disposing of the balance of his summer stock. This gentleman is a personal friend of Mr. Settle and having sold Power & Settle a large amount of dry goods since their store was opened here, gave them the opportunity to choose from the varied stocks, such merchandise as they could use. The balance has since been purchased by one of the leading stores of Chicago and St. Louis. It is one of the largest purchases of varied stocks ever made by a Duluth house and, as Mr. Settle says, he has often seen stocks sacrificed at the close of a season, but never before did he see prices so phenomenally low, the backward season throughout the country having been a hard one on manufacturers and importers. The goods are now arriving and as soon as they can be checked off and marked will be placed on sale, announcement of which will soon be made in these columns.

Sues His Former Partners.

Robert Clendenning this morning began a peculiar suit against J. S. Shinners and G. D. Lucore, involving a partnership difference. He claims that on Jan. 1, 1894, he purchased a third interest in the wholesale confectionery business of J. S. Shinners & Co., including a third interest in the outstanding book accounts, which aggregated at the time about $10,000. He declares that the defendants agreed that all these accounts would be paid, and if they were not paid by Jan. 1, 1895, they would become personally responsible for his share. He alleges that they were not entirely paid, and he sues the defendants for $656.65, his third of the accounts remaining unpaid to the firm. C. A. Nye, of Minneapolis, is the attorney.

Failed to Give Bail.

Richard Smith, who, the police suspect, is one of the men who stole a quantity of clothing from L. His examination was set for Monday morning, bail being fixed at $500, in default of which he was committed to jail.

CORNELL WINNER

Her Eight Crossed the Finish Five Lengths In the Lead.

YALE WAS SECOND

Harvard Was Very Tired---Time a Little Over Twenty Miuutes.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 25.—Big 'Varsity day opened gray and hazy. The wind was dead south with indication of showers. Chances were considered about even for each crew. For first place the Harvard eight was a slight favorite and the Cornell men were anxious to bet that their crew would beat Yale. Coxswain Wilson and the Cornell contingent were willing to bet that to win the race the record made by Cornell last year would have to be broken. Their record was 19 minutes and 9 seconds for four miles.

There was little betting aside from private wagers. Bookmakers offer of 12 to 10 against Harvard went without takers.

At 2 o'clock Referee Mikleham announced that the race would be started promptly at 3:30 p. m., and rowed down stream. It had been suggested that the ebb tide might be spent, or slack water at that time, but Mr. Meikleham said that that would make no difference, he thought that the tide would be still running strong enough to suit every crew.

3:45 p. m.—They are off, Cornell leads slightly.

First mile: Cornell, first; Harvard, second; Yale, third. Yale is gaining on Harvard. Yale fought up gamely from last place. Harvard's long stroke is telling on Cornell.

Second mile: Cornell, first; Yale, second; Harvard, third. Time at the second mile, 10:39.

At the third mile Cornell is two lengths ahead, Yale second, Harvard third. Harvard is apparently getting very tired. Cornell is rowing easy. The stroke of Yale's eight at the start was 38, but gradually dropped to 32, and worked up and down from that point. Harvard's start was about 38 and dropped to 31. Cornell wins by five lengths; Yale, second; Harvard, third. Harvard four lengths back. Time, 20 mins. ¾ sec.

SKETCHES OF THE CREWS.

Records of the Men Who Form the Eights.

Harvard crew—George D. Marvin, of New Rochelle, N. Y., rowed at number three in his freshman crew of last year, which won the class races. Charles C. Bull, of Melmont, Cal., rowed four years on his freshman crew and captained in his sophomore crew, in which he rowed six. He also stroked the trial eights last fall. Edgar N. Wrightington, of Brooklyn, Mass., rowed bow D in the '95 'varsity crew and seven in the '97 sophomore crew, but was absent from the 'varsity of last year. Albert A. Sprague, of Chicago, captained his freshmen crew and rowed six on last year's 'varsity crew. James H. Perkins, of Milton, Mass., rowed last year, when he rowed in the 'varsity boat. John F. He was a substitute to the 'varsity crew at Henley last year.

Cornell crew: S. Wiley Wakeman, Bridgeport, Conn., was captain of the freshmen eight and rowed at No. 3, both in this crew and in the Annapolis race. Wilton Bentley, of Fluvanna, N. Y., was a substitute on the Henley crew and in the Annapolis race contingent. Clarence S. Moore, Olean, N. Irvin G. Dudley, of California, Has Been Selected For the Mission.

State—Irvin G. Dudley, of California, to be envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to Peru. To be consul—Frank Dillingham, of California, at Auckland, N. Y.

Navy—Capt. George C. Remy, to be a commodore; Commander William H. Whiting, to be a captain; Lieut. Commander Frederick M. Symonds, to be a commander.

A BRACE OF HANGINGS.

Clark Lewis Sings a Hymn on the Scaffold.

Cincinnati, June 25.—A Times Star special from Fayettville, W. Va., says: Clark Lewis was hanged here today at 12:49 p. m., in public before a large and orderly crowd in a natural grove. The condemned man sang a hymn on the scaffold. Lewis was hanged for the murder of Charles Gibson, whose death appeared to be desired by Mrs. Gibson to enable her to continue uninterrupted her carousals with Lewis and one or two others who were jointly convicted with Lewis.

QUARRELED ABOUT A DOG.

Atlanta, Ga., June 25.—Terrell Hudson, a negro who was to have been hanged two weeks ago for murder, but who was reprieved at the last moment, died on the gallows at Decatur today. The drop fell at 11:40½ and fourteen minutes later Hudson was pronounced dead, the fall having broken his neck. Hudson killed Seaborn Malcolm, another negro, in a quarrel about a dog.

A ST. PAUL BLAZE.

Big Livery Stable Gutted By a Fire Early This Morning.

St. Paul, June 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fire broke out at an early hour this morning at the livery stable of E. W. Shirk at Seven Corners, and the loss is estimated at $12,000, nearly all the buggies and sleighs of the firm being either entirely destroyed or so badly injured that they are beyond repair.

The fire started in the feed loft on the second floor, and the flames had progressed to such an extent by the time the fire department arrived that the second floor was almost completely gutted before the fire was extinguished. The horses were on the ground floor and were saved by the quick action of the members of the fire department.

Mr. Shirk carried $11,800 insurance. The building, owned by Peter Berkey, was damaged about $3000.

OPPOSITION WANING.

Little Doubt Felt Now About Goodnow's Confirmation.

Washington, June 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The opposition to John Goodnow's confirmation seems to be on the wane, and it is not believed now that ex-Senator Washburn will be able to hold it up.

Goodnow has succeeded in convincing the two California senators that he is as well posted upon the commercial relations between this country and China as any man from the Pacific coast, and they are now both pledged to support him. He has made quite a canvas of the state during the past three days and now has a number of friends in that body.

DAUNTLESS CREW DISCHARGED.

No Evidence Showing Any Hostility to Spain.

Key West, Fla., June 25.—The crew and the Cubans who were on the Dauntless, and who were arrested yesterday, were discharged by United States Commissioner Julius Otto, on the ground that there was no evidence to show that they were a military organization or intending to commit acts hostile to Spain.

FURIOUS STORMS

A Tornado Ravages Rich Hill, Missouri, Inflicting Very Heavy Damages.

HOUSES TORN DOWN

Fatality at Sedalia---Cars Blown Away and Crops Destroyed.

Rich Hill, Mo., June 25.—A tornado struck the northern portion of this city last night. The damage will amount to thousands of dollars. One set of kilns and one set of furnaces of the Cherokee Lanyon Smelting company were blown away, and caught fire and were totally consumed. The blacksmith shops and other buildings at the plant were blown away. The Rich Hill canning factory was totally wrecked. The brick block of the M. S. Cowles Mercantile company was unroofed and the water poured in, greatly damaging the stock. The Buckeridge block was unroofed, and the buildings occupied by the Daily Review were badly damaged.

The city hall was unroofed and the Wiseman brick block unroofed and the front blown in. The Blump block was blown in. The Amphitheatre house, horse stalls, sheds and Floral hall together with agricultural halls and other buildings at the fair grounds were completely demolished.

The streets are blocked with trees, fences and outbuildings, signs and plate glass. The Christian and Episcopal churches were wrecked. The round house of the Memphis route is a total wreck and freight cars are blown from the tracks in the Pacific & Memphis yards.

No lives were lost, though Thomas Smith was badly injured and several others more or less seriously injured. The damage to crops alone will reach thousands of dollars. The storm lasted for thirty minutes. The rain fell in blinding sheets accompanied by hail.

A SEDALIA FATALITY.

One Man Killed and the Crops Utterly Destroyed.

Sadalia, Mo., June 25.—An electrical, wind and rain storm struck this city this morning doing much damage. Trees were uprooted and barns, fences and many small houses completely wrecked. A Missouri, Kansas & Texas passenger train ran into a couple of box cars that had been blown from the siding near Montros. The engine was partially demolished and an unknown man who had sought shelter in one of the cars was killed. Crops have been utterly destroyed in many sections of this county.

HEAVY KANSAS RAINS.

Fort Scott, Kans., June 25.—Six and thirty-four-hundredths inches of rain fell here last night making the greatest precipitation recorded by the weather observer in many years. There were two washouts on the Memphis road between Hammond and this city, delaying all passenger trains.

HOSTILE TO TRUSTS.

Senators Are Trying to Frame Legislation to Strike at Them.

Washington, June 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Republican members of the senate judiciary committee have been for some time working to draft an anti-trust bill which will stand the test in the courts, but so far without success. Senator Nelson believes his bill covers the ground and Senator Pettus also has a measure of the same kind. The objection to the Pettus bill is that is does not go far enough.

Senator Pettigrew introduced an amendment yesterday providing for a tax of 10 per cent on all products of trusts, but it is declared unconstitutional and will be further considered. Senator Hoar has also been working on the same lines for several days but has not been able to draft a satisfactory measure.

There is a very strong feeling in the senate in favor of legislation which will strike at the great trusts, and many of the members are giving much time to the problem, and it is expected some successful method of procedure will be found this session.

THE IMITATION CHEESE.

Being Shipped in Large Quantities to Europe.

Washington, June 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The large exportation of American cheese to England following the passage of the filled cheese bill is likely to seriously fall off. The law simply prescribes that a bond stating the nature of the product shall be pasted around each roll of cheese. It has been discovered that after this imitation cheese has passed the inspection of the internal officers, this band is removed and it is exported as the genuine article. As a result all kinds of American cheese are looked upon with suspicion and the trade is largely falling off in Europe.

Representative Tawney intends to introduce a bill early in the regular session providing that every roll of cheese shall be deeply stamped with the words "unfilled cheese" so that it will be impossible to obliterate the mark.

HANGED IN TEXAS.

Houston, Tex., June 25.—Jim Williamson, who was convicted of complicity in the murder of the Crocker family in 1895, was hanged today at Wharton. The murder was the result of a feud over some land in which Mrs. Crocker first killed a member of the Williamson faction named Day. Crocker and son, a small boy, were then murdered by a mob led by Williamson, who afterwards hunted down Mrs. Crocker and brother to death.

JOCULAR PUGILIST

Bob Fitzsimmons Gives Sullivan's Challenge a Very Merry "Ha! Ha!"

IS SORRY FOR JOHN

But Will Accept His Defi Under Some Very Novel Conditions.

New York, June 25.—When questioned by a Journal and Advertiser reporter concerning John L. Sullivan's challenge, Robert Fitzsimmons said: "Yes, I saw John's challenge, and it really makes me feel merry. Ha! Ha! John L. Sullivan back in the ring again, and says he means it. Sometimes I feel sorry for John. Don't he understand there is no positive show in the world for him to win a fight with a man like me? Perhaps I should not say that, however, because he is evidently sincere in what he imagines he can do. And then, again, he is over there training with Billy Muldoon, and if any man alive can put him in condition to make a fight, Muldoon is the man.

"I will accept the challenge to this extent: First of all, it is not to be a finish fight, so far as I am concerned. Do you think I want to jeopardize my liberty by striking John L. Sullivan hard enough to knock him out? He would simply drop dead. To fight a finish fight with Sullivan would be committing manslaughter, and I do not take a fancy to it. I will go further, and give him a chance that no other pugilist has ever had, and if it is not the queerest proposition you ever heard then suggest something else that is and I will agree to it.

"First of all, I wish not to fight him to a finish, but, better still, he can fight me to a finish, if he can do it, in a four or six-round go. I will spar for points and treat him nicely, while he can fight for a knockout. I will positively agree to let him try just as hard as he can to stop me in that time, and as an additional assurance to John that nothing disastrous will happen to him, I merely intend to keep away from his smashes, and show him that I can hit him at will."

THE FAIR WILL CASE.

Attorney Aitkin Gives Some Startling Testimony.

San Francisco, June 25.—In the Angus-Craven trial the plaintiffs' counsel called John R. Aitkin to the stand. The plaintiffs rely mainly upon the testimony of this witness to prove the alleged conspiracy to secure the property of the late Senator Fair. Mr. Aitkin stated that he first met Mrs. Craven at her residence on Guerrero street July 3, 1896, where he was taken by Martin Kelly. Mrs. Craven was in bed, but Miss Craven was present during part of the interview. After discussing the case for two hours he called again a few days later and was then shown the deeds.

Attorney Delmas, on behalf of Mrs. Craven, made a desperate effort to keep Aitkin's story from the jury, arguing that anything which passed between his client and Aitkin was in the nature of professional confidence, Aitkin being an attorney. Judge Slack concluded to admit the testimony of the witness, in view of the fact that an attorney was present at the interviews, providing that the other side could prove the criminal nature of the statements made.

After many objections and more debates, Attorney Aitkin was called to state that on July 9, 1896, the date upon which he first saw the deeds, Mrs. Craven said that she had been recommended to see him by Governor Budd. She realized that she had many difficulties to overcome and that she would meet with considerable opposition; but she intended to have no scruples of conscience. She then showed him the pencil deeds, and announced that she wanted him to be able to say that he had seen them in 1895, and desired him to testify to that effect. As this was the first time that he had either heard or seen them, he refused.

BOB HEYDLAUFF IN TROUBLE.

Ashland, Wis., June 25.—A warrant has been issued for the arrest of Robert C. Heydlauff, chief engrossing clerk of the state senate, on a charge of forgery. This proceeding is the result of an inquiry carried on before the court over the discovery that county orders, on which payment had been made by County Treasurer Nelson, were fraudulent. They had been raised from small amounts to sums of considerable size, one being increased from a trifling figure to $3051.24. There are said to be many of the same kind. Heydlauff, who is well known in political circles about the state, protests his innocence.

A LOST OPPORTUNITY.

Washington, June 25.—American tobacco dealers lost a fine opportunity to make heavy sales in Nicaragua after the abolition of the tobacco duties there last October. United States Consul Wiesike, at Managua, reports to the state department now that owing to financial necessity the government has reimposed the duties, and meantime the Jamaican and Mexican dealers have filled the markets with their tobacco.

HELPS TRAVELING MEN.

Washington, June 25.—A report that will be a valuable contribution to the efforts now being made to expand the American export trade has been submitted to the state department by United States Consul Stephan, at Annaberg, Germany. It is a close but sufficient summary of the requirements of foreign commercial travelers in the various European states, giving to the drummer much information in respect to identification, licenses, fees, customs duties on samples, etc.

ASK FOR A RECEIVER.

Chattanooga, Tenn., June 24.—A bill was filed in the chancery court this morning by A. A. Dickey and Charles Frimm and Charles Fagan, citizens of Ohio, stockholders in the Hamilton Building and Loan association, of this city, seeking to wind up the affairs of the association. The bill charges that the concern is insolvent and losing money and has been for years, and asks that a receiver be appointed to wind up its affairs. It also charges that the association has been charging usury and cannot collect money claims that it has now out.

Is there anything more wholesome, more beautiful, more completely pleasing than a womanly woman? Such a woman is even tempered, intelligent, strong and healthy. Health really tells the whole story. Health means strong nerves and strong body, and they go far toward bringing good looks and amiability.

A woman worn and wearied by the dragging weaknesses peculiar to her sex, cannot be expected to find zest in any duty or amusement. Life is all one dead monotonous gloom to her. On her face is written the story of weakness and pain. The wholesomeness of health is lacking. The cheeks lack fullness, the eyes lack sparkle, the hair lacks luster.

Doctors have learned to locate nine-tenths of womanly sickness in the organs that ought above all others to be strong and healthy.

Sensitive women shudder at the thought of consulting a physician on such matters. A natural feeling of modesty makes them dread the examination, and subsequent stereotyped treatment by "local applications" on which most doctors insist.

Much more often than not, this is unnecessary. It should not be submitted to except as a last resort.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has cured thousands of severe cases of "female weakness." It works in a natural, sensible way. It begins by subduing the inflammation that is always present. Then it strengthens and invigorates the whole body, particularly the organs distinctly feminine. It promotes regularity, cures inflammation and ulceration, and stops the debilitating drain caused by them. Of all dealers.

IRON RANGE WINS.

Land Grant of the Company Is Secure and Has Been Earned.

St. Paul, June 25.—At the close of the arguments yesterday in the United States court, Judge Lochren handed down a decision in the case of Walter F. Cobb and others against David M. Clough, governor, Robert C. Dunn, auditor, August T. Koerner, treasurer, and Henry W. Childs, attorney general, holding that the grant of lands to the Duluth & Iron Range Railroad company made by the act of 1875 had been fully and completely earned by the company, and that the company had complied with the grant in every respect, and that it was entitled to receive the total number of acres granted by said act.

Judge Lochren further held that the act of the legislature of April, 1897, in which it undertook to forfeit to the state of Minnesota the grant of the Duluth & Iron Range, was unconstitutional, and that it impaired the obligation of the contract between the state and the railroad company, and that the same was void; that the circuit court of the United States had jurisdiction in a suit against the officers of the state to enjoin them from selling and disposing of the lands of the Duluth & Iron Range Railroad company, or from bringing a multiplicity of suits to cloud the title thereof, and directed that an injunction issue against the state officers.

The case was continued until July 9 for the purpose of settling the form of the decree and to hear the parties on the question of whether the state officers might not be permitted to bring one suit to test this question, but the court decided that it would not allow a multiplicity of suits to be brought against the grantees of the railroad company.

THE COLONIA WON IT.

Close Yacht Race For Emperor William's Cup.

Heligoland, June 25.—Of the thirteen yachts which started from Dover, Eng., on Wednesday last in a race for the cup presented by Emperor William of Germany, in commemoration of the sixtieth year of the reign of Queen Victoria to be raced for by yachts belonging to a royal or recognized British yacht club, the Colonia, a schooner yacht of 203 tons owned by Lord Iveagh, arrived first at 7:49 this morning. The Ariadne, schooner, 380 tons, the property of Hon. Mrs. Moynell-Ingram, crossed the finish four minutes later. The race was for yachts of forty tons and upwards, owned by British subjects and built in the United Kingdom or Ireland.

INTERESTING BICYCLE RACES.

Denver, Col., June 25.—An agreement has been signed for one of the most interesting bicycle race meets of the season. The principal races will be between Hamilton, of Denver, and Walter C. Sanger, of Milwaukee, each of whom heads a number of world's records. The meeting is to be held July 6 and 7. There will be three races between Hamilton and Sanger for a bet of $1000, the winner of two of the races to take all. The races will be one mile unpaced, two miles paced, five miles unpaced.

BETTERS BACK HARVARD.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 24.—Yesterday's defeat of Cornell's junior oarsmen, of whom so much had been expected by local enthusiasts, has sent the stock of Ithaca 'varsity below par with the betting fraternity. The Yale contingent, however, have been wonderfully moderate in their jubilation. Because the Harvard freshmen, of whom little was expected, were second in yesterday's race, Harvard 'varsity stock has advanced notably. It is now conceded that there is every probability that the Cambridge 'varsity crew will give Yale and Cornell one of the gamiest fights that ever was witnessed on American waters.

OVERDUE STEAMERS.

Suez, June 25.—Steamers have left Bombay and Aden in search of the Paudo, an intermediate steamer. The steamer Aden, from Yokohama via Colombo, Ceylon, on June 1, is a week overdue here.

SAID BY COACHES

'Varsity Crew Trainers Talk In Advance of Today's Big Race.

HARVARD IS HAPPY

New York, June 25.—The Journal and Advertiser prints statements made at Poughkeepsie by Coach Lehmann, of the Harvard crew; Coach Cook, of the Yale crew, and Dr. Walker B. Peet, the well known boating expert, regarding the prospects of the three crews in today's boat race. Mr. Lehmann says: "Whatever may happen in the race, I have no complaint to make of the way in which the men have taken up new ideas and have carried them out in practice, or the way in which they have borne the hardships and difficulties of training. On the contrary, I am perfectly satisfied that whether Harvard wins or looses, the crew has done its very best from first to last. We are well boated in Davy's boat, which carries the men to perfection. Our oars, made by Donoghue, are excellent, and the actual physical condition of the crew is in every way satisfactory. The crew has done very well since we came to Poughkeepsie, although the practice has been much interfered with by the rough water that has prevailed nearly all the time. Allowing for individual eccentricities that exist in every crew, these men are now rowing what I consider to be the English stroke as I have taught it myself and have heard it taught by others. They have not the weight and power of some of our record crews that I remember, but on the whole I think that, striking an average, they compare very favorably with good university crews, whether from Oxford or Cambridge. This merely refers to the work done in practice. Their racing ability as a combination, will be tested in the race today. I am very hopeful of the result."

Mr. Cook says: "In the old days of New London or rather under former conditions, I should say that Yale was a sure winner, but this year Harvard has the fastest crew she ever had. I think Harvard and Yale are evenly matched for today's race—at least for three miles. After that the crew that holds its form and has the endurance should win. Mr. Lehmann and I agree that both Harvard and Yale will defeat Cornell, and from what he said to me I believe he thinks his crew has a slightly better chance of winning than my crew. Mr. Lehmann has produced better form than Yale possesses, but I think my failure to get as good a steady swing is due to the difficulty I experienced in changing Yale's stroke this year. For my part, I am in doubt whether it will be Harvard or Yale, as the crews are as fast as any we ever produced."

Dr. Peet says: "On a basis of the physical characteristics of the men who make up the three great 'varsity crews of Yale, Harvard and Cornell, one can reach some interesting conclusions. The Yale men are the tallest, with their average of a full six foot to a man. Harvard is but slightly inferior (2-100 of an inch); Cornell's five feet ten and a half inches are well over the man you meet on the street. But it is another story when one considers the ages of the men. Whereas Yale men are the best calculated to look over the shoulders of their fellows in a crowd, they are really younger than either of their rivals. In fact the composite Yale men will not have the first requisite of a voter for five-eighths of a year. Harvard's average man might have voted two-fifths of a year ago, while the shorter Cornell man is five-eighths of a year past his twenty-first birthday. The question of age amounts to everything when one looks at the weight of the men.

"The Yale men are giants with their average of 173½ pounds of avordupois, or five and three-quarters pounds more per man than Harvard. Cornell's man weight is almost ten pounds less than her nearest rival, Harvard, and almost fifteen pounds less than the composite New Havener. To make a short resume, the Yale man has the advantage of height and weight, but suffers much in age. Her men have grown fast and have not had the same opportunity to fill out. John Harvard is in much better condition than Yale. He is only a wee bit shorter and almost as heavy, which, with his added age, more than counterbalances either former defect. Cornell would be away out of it were it not for his age. He weighs but 1587/8 pounds, but with his age—21¾ years—he has attained his full growth and almost his whole quota of strength.

"Finally, and this counts for much, the Cornell man's form in rowing is the easiest and the smoothest. John Harvard takes several strained positions in his stroke which make an exceptional call upon his abdominal muscles. This would prove fatal to the general run of mankind. The Yale man occupies a position between his two rivals. The freshmen race was won by the heaviest, the next most powerful crew came in second and the lightest men last. And strength may tell again today in the 'varsity race."

THE HOFFMAN INQUEST.

More Sensations in the Examination at 'Frisco.

San Francisco, June 25.—At the Hoffman inquest it was shown that although Hoffman had borrowed $20 from John Lauer, the teamster, a few minutes before he met his death, only $5.25 was found in his pockets when he reached the hospital. Expert Theodore Kytka created a sensation by stating his convition that the signature upon the receipt for $9500 was genuine, and that the amount had been raised from $500 to $9500. Other witnesses, business men, testified that they had spoken to Hoffman at various times about races and the betting merchant had expressed his surprise that his bookkeeper could afford to bet as he did.

L. A. Atkinson, one of Figel's agents in his turfing ventures, related the history of his connection with Figel on the turf and stated that Figel's winning's amounted to about $8000. William Taylor, another of Figel's agents, testified to having purchased Tempestuous for the bookkeeper and to having placed some of his bets for him at different times. His winnings amounted to about $2000. Taylor swore that one night while doing some work for Figel, he smelt something burning, and upon investigation found that some of the clothing in the rear of the store was burning. After extinguishing the blaze he sent for Hoffman and showed him the place where the fire had been. Instead of being excited Hoffman asked him why he had not let it burn, adding that the insurance companies paid good prices.

J. S. Lovery, the insurance adjuster, testified that he made an investigation at the time of the big fire at the store of Hoffman, Rothschild & Co., and was satisfied that the claims of that firm was just and that he could not see any motive for arson.

A HERO ENGINEER.

Saves His Trainload of Passengers at Frightful Peril to Himself.

New York, June 25.—The train on the Central railroad of New Jersey, which is known as the "Newark special," and runs between Newark and Point Pleasant every afternoon and makes the return trip each morning, carrying scores of wealthy Newark business men whose families spend the summer at the various sea shore resorts on the Jersey coast, met with an accident between Hazlet and Middletown. But for the nerve and courage of Engineer William R. Bennett there would have been loss of life and serious injuries.

The train consists of three passenger coaches and a combination baggage and smoking car. On the trip to Newark yesterday it left Red Bank on schedule time and was traveling over a clear track at a speed of about a mile a minute. Suddenly the driving rod on the right side of the engine broke and, flying up, struck the top of the cab directly over the window where Engineer Bennett sat with his hands on the lever and throttle. Bennett was knocked from his seat and the broken rod began to rain blow after blow on the cab, smashing it to splinters.

Bennett did not for an instant lose his self-control, but he reversed the power and then attempted to work the air brakes, but only to find that the air pump which operates them had been smashed by the flying rod. He was badly bruised and bleeding from a dozen wounds, but he managed to evade the pounding rod, crawl out over the boiler and signal "down brakes. He had to do it that way, because the broken rod which was wrecking his cab prevented his reaching the whistle cord. His fireman, George W. Rolland, endeavored to assist him, but was helplessly pinned in on his side of the cab by timbers which had been crushed in upon him. After a run of fully a mile under these conditions in less than a minute, the train came to a standstill.

Conductor M. Kapp and his crew, together with the half a hundred passengers, rushed to the engine where they found the fireman a prisoner in the wreckage, and the engineer, who is personally known to all of them, climbing slowly down from the boiler where he had crawled at the risk of his life to save theirs. The fireman was found to be unhurt and Bennett's injuries, while severe and painful, were found to be not serious. Congratulations were showered upon the plucky engineer by the passengers and a committee of some of Newark's wealthy business men was formed for the purpose of preparing a more substantial token.

The new company is the direct result of the recent purchase of the Missouri Railroad company by stockholders of the Lindell system.

NORTH DAKOTA.

The annual warfare between the employes of the railroads and the hoboes who persist in riding without the presentation of the customary fare is as vigorous as ever at Jamestown. The cabooses contain an arsenal of "cat o' nine tails" made from rubber tubing and a various array of other articles of defense and offense which can be used at close quarters. A piece of rubber air pipe has been found by the trainmen about as effective as anything. It puts a hobo to sleep quickly and without danger of maiming or killing him.

Yesterday was the last day for the redemption of the mortgage foreclosed a year ago on the Headquarters' hotel property, which burned two weeks ago at Fargo. The mortgage was on both building and lease, and the latter has eighty-two of its ninety-nine years yet to run; but Joe Lamont, the lessee, was unable to redeem, and the whole will revert to the Northern Pacific, which bought up the mortgage. The lease is valuable and from ground rents alone and present rentals is worth half a million. Under this lease, material for a new building would be laid down at half freight rates, and all wood, supplies and fuel at the same rates The Northern Pacific will probably erect a new hotel and depot this summer.

There is a somewhat more hopeful feeling among the people of Kidder county than for some time. The population of the county has materially lessened in the past ten years. It is openly averred by citizens that there are not half as many people in Kidder county as there were once, and there is much said on the question of immigration. But the people who have stayed are hopeful. Farming has not been a success. Stock raising is profitable, and there are a good many sheep, which industry is looking up, now that there is a prospect of better times.

Catherine Kemp, a farmers' wife fell from a grain wagon at Jamestown. The wheel passed over her, and she died an hour later. She leaves a husband and five children.

Miss Dent is about 16 years of age, which fact prevented the marriage in this state and made a journey to Wisconsin necessary.

WHEAT IS HIGHER

An Advance of Half a Cent Recorded After Very Dull Trading.

BEARISH CROP NEWS

Spring Wheat in Minnesota, the Dakotas and Manitoba Doing Well.

The wheat market was dull again today. The opening was rather easy, but there was very little wheat for sale and a fairly brisk demand soon sent up the price. Liverpool quotations were disappointing, that market showing only ½d advance in response to yesterday's advance in American markets. The weather map showed too much rain in sections where harvesting is in progress, and damage reports were received from Illinois and Tennessee. Northwest receipts were 267 cars against 237 last week and 416 a year ago.

Taken as a whole, however, the home crop prospects were bearish. A winter wheat crop of over 300,000,000 bus is generally admitted, and the news from the Northwest was that the spring wheat in the Dakotas, Minnesota and Manitoba was making excellent progress. Baltimore reported the receipt of 350,000 bus of new red winter wheat and free offerings of early delivery from Ohio. Minneapolis reported that 46,000 barrels of flour had been sold yesterday by the two largest milling concerns, and that acceptances of 10,995 barrels had been received, which had been offered by cable last night. Chicago receipts were 18 cars. The clearances of wheat and flour from Atlantic seaboard ports were equal to 400,000 bus. Minneapolis stocks of wheat are estimated to show a decrease for the week of 750,000 bus and Duluth a decrease of 400,000 bus.

July wheat opened here unchanged at 72⅝c and advanced during the first hour to 73¼c. It ruled dull but steady and was at the same figure at noon. The close was at 73¾c, an advance of ½c for the day. The mills bought 10,000 bus of cash stuff at ½c over July, and the elevators took 30,000 bus at the July price. Following were the closing prices.

GOSSIP.

Received over private wire of B. E. Baker, grain and stock broker, room 107 Chamber of Commerce and 207 Board of Trade, Chicago, June 25.—No cash sales of wheat today of any consequence and no export demand at the seaboard or here. Crop advices are generally bearish and notwithstanding the big short interest in the deferred futures, there is plenty for sale on every fractional advance. Cable news, while indicating decreased European crops shows little inclination to mark up prices and their quotations do not in any way reflect the recent advance here. The interest today was again centered in the July future and an advance of 1¾c was made, while September closed unchanged. The short interest in July is apparent, but no effort is made to bid it up and no sign of manipulation except that there is an evident desire by somebody not to have the July called and every night lately it has closed at or near call price. The scalping trade is leaving it alone and the July trading is now almost entirely confined to the commission houses.

Corn and oats quiet and steady with an easier feeling. Reports from the West came as bearish today as they were bullish yesterday.

Provisions exhibited no new features and trade was quiet.

RAN OVER HIS LEG.

Angus O'Brien Begins a Personal Injury Suit.

Angus O'Brien has begun a personal injury suit against Fred M. Ford to recover $20,200 for the loss of a leg. He claims that in January, 1897, he was working for the defendant in his lumber camp driving a "tow" team, which is a team hitched in front of another team which in turn is hitched to asled used for hauling saw logs. He was at the time, he claims, only 22 years of age, and inexperienced, and implicitly obeyed orders, ignorant of the danger there was in his job. When on Jan. 20 his team reached the top of the first grade of the road, he was ordered to keep on driving down the grade. Each side of the road was piled with loose pieces of ice and snow, of the existence of which he was not warned. He alleges that the team went at a rapid gait down the grade in order to keep ahead of the sled, with him dragging along at the reins. So swift was the pace that he could not keep his footing and he fell into the road in front of the sled. The runners passed over him, severing one of his legs between the knee and the thigh. For this he asks $20,200 damages. Eckman & Stevenson are his attorneys.

Two Bank Cases.

Judge Moer was engaged this morning in hearing the cases of John C. McKeon, as receiver, for the National bank of Illinois, against A. R. Macfarlane, as receiver for the Security bank of Duluth, and the Mercantile National bank of New York against the same party. The cases were on the regular court calendar, but they were continued until today to await the return of Judge Dickinson, who was out of the city. The cases are appeals from the disallowance by the receiver of a portion of their claims against the bank. Judge Dickinson is the attorney for the respondents and W. C. White for the appellants. The cases were tried together as they involved the same issues, and they were still on trial at noon.

Foreclosure Suit.

H. C. Hornby has begun suit against W. L. Lynott, W. J. Stephenson and H. E. Smith to foreclose a mortgage for $1500 on some city property. Accompanying the complaint is an affidavit in which the plaintiff asks for the appointment of a receiver to collect the rents of the property and apply them to the payment of delinquent interest and taxes. He alleges that Lynott, the mortgagor, transferred the property to the defendant Smith, who is collecting the rents and using them without applying anything on the delinquent taxes and interest. Scott Rex is the attorney.

No Ball Game Today.

The alleged university of Minnesota ball team that played at Superior against the normals yesterday did not amount to much. The score was 32 to 10 in favor of Superior and the game was a very poor one. Part of the team went home last night, in view of the poor showing, it was decided to abandon the game with Company G this afternoon. Tomorrow the game between the Superior Normals and Company G will take place. The Nautilus will leave here at 2:30 o'clock and returning will leave the Northern Pacific dock at 7:30 p. m. for an excursion on the lake.

TALKED ABOUT LEVEES.

Mississippi River Commission Meets in New York.

New York, June 25.—The Mississippi river commission resumed its session in this city today. The first delegate to address the board was J. M. Whitehill, of Arkansas Citk, Ark. Mr. Whitehill merely pointed out the merits of the levee system.

Gen. D. H. Reynolds, of Chico, Ark., denied that there was any acrimony or jealousy between the various districts as to appropriations.

Murray Smith, of Vicksburg, Miss., stated that eighteen miles from Vicksburg, north towards Greenville, there was a stretch of riparian land unprotected by levees. James Clinton, of Natchez, Miss., confirmed Mr. Smith's statements.

Mr. Halliday, delegate from Arkansas, said that the recent floods had clearly proved the success of the general idea of the levee system. It is only where levees were imperfectly constructed that they failed to afford protection, and where this was the case the unhappy sufferers have been greatly discouraged and have to some extent lost faith in the system upon which they have previously relied with so much confidence.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address

Three Boys Start For North Dakota to See the World.

ARE RATHER WILD

Water Service Cut Off Last Night Because of a Break.

Three West Duluth boys, each about 14 years old, ran away from home a few days ago, and their parents have thus far been unable to find them. Two of them are sons of well-known business men, George J. Mallory and Israel Oreckowsky, and the third is a Scandinavian boy whose name could not be learned. It is thought that they headed for North Dakota. There appears to be no good reason why they should run away, as all of them had good homes and were kindly treated by their parents. They have been rather wild, however, and probably their escapade is caused by a desire to see more of the world.

WATER WAS CUT OFF.

West Duluth was without water service all of last night and the greater part of today. The trouble was caused by a 15-inch plug in the water main on Grand avenue being blown out, and it was necessary to shut off the water while the damage could be repaired. At the office of the water company it was stated that the pressure in West Duluth is too strong, being 115 pounds to the square inch.

FOR A WOMAN'S BENEFIT.

A number of kind-hearted young ladies in West Duluth are arranging for an entertainment to be given soon for the benefit of Mrs. John Allen, whose husband died recently, leaving the family destitute. Mr. Allen was afflicted with consumption and was unable to work for a long time previous to his death. The date for the entertainment has not yet been definitely decided upon.

WEST DULUTH BRIEFS.

A number of young people enjoyed a pleasant evening in dancing at the home of William Simpson, 510 Fifty-eighth avenue west, last night.

Ernest O. Linton, of West Superior, has leased the Newell house and is engaged in fitting it up. It will be opened to the public next Monday and will be conducted as a sort of road house for the accommodation of bicycle parties. A lawn tennis court is being made in the yard for the use of patrons of the house.

A pleasant social dance was given last night by the West Duluth tent, Knights of the Maccabees. Next Monday night the lodge will use its new degree paraphernalia in the initiation of several new candidates.

John C. Anderson now rides a handsome new bicycle. He won it at a raffle last night.

A blind man, father of seven children and an expert hand-organ player, furnished music for the residents of West Duluth today.

Rev. George W. Keithley, pastor of Westminster Presbyterian church, who has been spending his summer vacation on his father's farm in Southwestern Missouri, is expected to arrive home tomorrow and preach Sunday at the usual hours.

The Knights of the Maccabees at New Duluth are completing arrangements for the celebration of the glorious Fourth with a dance to be given in Kuloswitz hall on the night of Monday, July 5.

Henry Butler, who had his foot badly injured in an accident at Mitchell & McClure's mill a few days ago, has had the injured member amputated. He is at St. Mary's hospital.

The iron workers and sawmill men will play a match game of ball Sunday morning.

The Pavilion Opening.

The managers of the Pavilion, which opens for the summer season next Sunday afternoon, are in daily communication with the weather prophets, and, like good politicians, are making all kinds of promises, if it can be arranged to have a good warm day next Sunday for their opening. Daily arrivals of performers are recorded, and by Saturday evening there will be over twenty-three people ready for the initial performance. In consequence of the length of the program the performances will commence at the matinees immediately after the arrival of the 2 p. m. car, and in the evening immediately after the arrival of the 8 p. m. car.

Special Excursions.

Excursion tickets as follows are on sale via "The North-Western Line:" San Francisco, Los Angeles, Denver, Colorado Springs, Pueblo, Kansas City and intermediate points at greatly reduced rates, one way, on June 29 to July 3. NEW YORK STOCKS.

Strong Opening With Large Granger Dealings.

New York, June 25.—Trading in stocks at the outset showed the market strong, and dealings in the grangers were unusually large. Transactions in other securities were also in large volume and ranged up to blocks of 1500 shares. The upward movement was stimulated by the decidedly higher range in London prices, New Jersey Central exceptionally rising a point. Bay State Gas also exhibited buoyancy and improved to 15½. The announcement of additional gold shipments for tomorrow was disregarded.

The bulls were in control of the share speculation up to 11 o'clock, and although there was free realization at the top level, the offerings were well absorbed and values improved steadily for the standard shares. Northwest was the special feature and touched 118¼. The industrials displayed strength, except Leather preferred, which reacted fractionally. The dealings were very animated and embraced a considerable variety of shares. Rio Grande Western preferred, which had been ruling at 35 bid, was dealt in at 39½. The coalers were quiet but tended upward, and marked firmness was apparent in the Vanderbilt and Gould groups.

Pronounced weakness developed in a few stocks as the morning progressed and near midday profit taking caused a slight easing off all round. Stocks which have lagged in the current speculation were advanced materially in the hour before noon. Operations for London account have been on both sides of the market. New York Central being sold by reason of the sharp rise at the opening. The bond market exhibited general strength and the active issues were largely dealt in. Government bonds were more active and a sale was made of one block of $100,000 coupon fives at $1.11½, a gain of ¼c over yesterday's close. Sales of stocks to noon were 159,000 shares.

UNION PACIFIC ROAD.

Senate Committee Would Foreclose Government Mortgage.

Washington, June 25.—The senate committee on Pacific roads today agreed to report favorably the resolution introduced by Senator Harris of Kansas, expressing the sense of the senate that the United States should redeem the Union Pacific railway from prior liens and take steps to foreclose the government mortgage.

The resolution was amended by the addition of a provision, at the instance of Senator Morgan, requesting the president to "suspend proceeding to carry into effect the agreement alleged to have been made to sell the interests of the United States in the Union Pacific railroad and in the sinking fund until further action of congress is had in reference thereto."

The action of the committee was unanimous.

SENATOR HANNA IS EVASIVE.

Cleveland, June 25.—Senator Hanna was asked this morning whether there was any truth in a telegraphic statement that President McKinley is considering a plan whereby the freedom of Cuba is to be purchased from Spain for $100,000,000, the amount to be secured by Cuba. "The statement is not authoritative," said he.

Synopsis of weather conditions for the twenty-four hours ending at 7 a. m., (Central time), June 25.—A high pressure area has moved from the region north of Montana to the Dakotas, increasing in intensity, and is now causing cool weather in all reporting districts, the departure from the normal being greatest in the Dakotas. NO LONGER AN EXPERIMENT.

Facts and figures are produced by Herbert Myrick in the current number of the Review of Reviews to prove that the beet sugar industry is no longer an experiment. He says that European countries impose a heavy tax on sugar consumed at home in order to raise the $25,000,000 they pay annually in subsidies to promote their export trade in sugar. This and prohibitive tariffs account for the high prices abroad. But our plan of countervailing duties equal to foreign export bounties neutralizes the advantage heretofore enjoyed in this market by export bounty sugars. By this artificial stimulus, aided by science to a degree that is a wonder and delight, Europe has nearly doubled her beet sugar product since 1880, until it is now about 5,000,000 long tons annually.

The world's cane sugar supply, including Cuba in a normal state, has grown only half as fast of late years, and is now about 3,000,000 tons. It is quite likely that this year's production of sugar from beets will be twice as great as from cane, whereas conditions were just the reverse about twenty-five years ago. This accounts for United States imports of sugar from Europe increasing from 150,000 tons four years ago to 550,000 tons last year, meanwhile decreasing one-half from "the countries to the south of us"—from 1,300,000 tons in 1892 to 70,000 last year. Indeed, only the yellow races have been able to hold their own against Europe's highly subsidized beet sugar industry. Yet so quietly has this application gone on of degraded labor to the sugar cane that it is astonishing to find United States imports of sugar from Hawaii, the Orient and Egypt jumped from about 250,000 tons in 1892 to 700,000 tons last year.

Mr. Myrick finds that results already achieved in field and factory on a commercial scale during the past six years, to say nothing of many thousands of farm and laboratory tests, demonstrate beyond question two things: (1), That the sugar beet can be grown in profitable quantity and quality over a sufficient area in the United States to furnish the world's supply of sugar; and (2), that the cane sugar industry can also be largely developed. So true is this that it is now recognized, by all well informed about this new industry, that California, Iowa, Nebraska, and any one of several other states could alone supply the United States with all the sugar she consumes. Once firmly established, American genius will so improve upon present conditions that in due time the United States will be an exporter of sugar. For experience has shown that, once established, the beet can more than compete with cane.

DEBS' VIOLENT TALK.

Eugene V. Debs has disappointed many people who looked upon his latest movement as for the social benefit of the workingmen of the country, by the violence of the language which he used at Chicago the other day. He declared that the Social Democracy of America is organized to overthrow the present national government, "peaceably if we can, forcibly if we must." This is a dangerous utterance, which will obtain little endorsement from the people, because it is an attack on the government, opposed to law and order and damaging to the best interests of the workingmen, whom he is professing to assist.

This kind of talk will not add to the strength of the movement, but will estrange the sympathy of many people who regarded the experiment with friendly interest, and were disposed to aid the Social Democracy scheme in a substantial manner. Mr. Debs has displayed much ability as an organizer and director of men, but he permits his enthusiasm to lead him into violent talk, which seriously damages the cause he advocates.

SUPPRESS THE HABIT.

The municipal legislature and the courts in San Francisco have displayed a progressive spirit by combining to suppress the disgusting habit of spitting in street cars. An ordinance forbidding this dirty practice was set at defiance by a millionaire by the name of W. B. Bradbury. For the second offense he was fined, but he continued to spit. For the second offense the court refused to impose a fine and sentenced him to spend twenty-four hours in jail. He applied to the supreme court for a writ of habeas corpus, which was refused, and the persistent old spitter will have to vindicate his right to make himself disagreeable by serving out his sentence. It is safe to predict that if the judicial spinal column retains its present rigidity the San Francisco boors, rich and poor, will do their spitting somewhere else than in the street cars. The poor will get weary of paying fines and the rich will weary of going to jail, and decent people who ride in the street cars will find them less objectionable than they used to be.

If the municipal authorities of Duluth desire to do something which would be appreciated by every respectable person, they will take steps at once to follow the excellent example set by the San Francisco authorities. Probably the board of health has full power now to put a stop to this dirty and dangerous habit. If not, the council should promptly pass an ordinance dealing with the subject and see that it is enforced.

According to Maj. Handy, of Chicago, the "pol cocktail" of Hawaii is the most wonderful piece of spiritual architecture ever designed for man's comfort, even excelling the "airship cocktail" celebrated in prose and song by the News-Tribune, and the major is a recognized authority on creature comforts. Two spoonfuls of "pol" mingled with cracked ice, a sprig of mint, a few drops of absinthe, topped with appollinaris and a strawberry, tempts the eye and tickles the palate to an exhilarating degree. Maj. Handy remarks in concluding his panegyric on "pol," that when constructed and given the loving touches of an artist, it exerts "a rehabilitating and thrice-blessed power which words but feebly portray." No wonder so many people desired the consulate at Honolulu!

A paragraph is going the rounds of the newspapers stating that Congressman Lewis, of Washington, "was once a stevedore in his home state, Virginia." As Mr. Lewis, according to the Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia Inquirer, was only three years old when he removed with his parents from Virginia that would make him the youngest stevedore on record. As a matter of fact it is stated that Mr. Lewis did his stevedoring on the wharves of Seattle, his Washington home.

The scarcity of young men at summer resorts has been one of the pet subjects of the humorists as well as the despair of the summer girls for several years past. A Long Island landlord has determined to put an end to this state of affairs, and in this year's advertisement of the attractions of his resort he added this line in bold, black type: "Special rates to young men."

Judge Lochren has decided that the Duluth & Iron Range road earned its land grant; that the act of the last legislature attempting to forfeit the grant is unconstitutional, and that the United States court has power to enjoin the state from selling the lands. This practically winds up another one of State Auditor Dunn's "grand stand plays."

George W. Esterly, of "Minnesota," was appointed to an auditorship in the treasury department yesterday. He was formerly a resident of Minneapolis but has for some time been living at Bathgate, S. D., and in business there, and it is unjust to credit the appointment to Minnesota.

A member of the Arkansas legislature was fined $100 and sentenced to one minute in jail the other day for "shooting at and missing an editor." It is strange that they did not expel such a bad shot from the state?

Kansas has made a large contribution to Dr. Dana's collection of quaint names. Among the notables are: Ernest Pihlblad, Mrs. Clapsaddle, Charlie Swab, by, Dr. Salthouse, Maud Coughenour, and Miss Foresee.

Every man who desires to vote in Minnesota at the next election should remember that he cannot do so unless he was born in the United States or has secured his second papers of full citizenship.

The senate did not turn over so many new tariff leaves as usual yesterday, but it has made excellent progress so far and there is no just reason to complain that it is dilatory.

The Omaha Bee asks if it was not Goldsmith who gave this seasonable advice: "Woe to the man, to hastening ills a prey, who dons his summer underwear the first sunny day?"

Now that Dan Lawler has been made a doctor, perhaps he can diagnose the ailment of the gold Democrats.

The Massachusetts legislature passed a law punishing the stealing of a bicycle by five years in prison. But the penalty for stealing an umbrella was not increased.

The Chicago Record has reached the conclusion that this country is now represented in the lower branch of congress by 357 cases of coma.

Governor Clough will display his oratorical Powers at the unveiling of the First regiment monument at Gettysburg on July 2.

A Model of Perfection.

Winona Herald: The Duluth Herald has donned a new dress of type. The Herald ever has been a thing of beauty and now is a model of perfection, typographically and otherwise.

"He's Not So Warm."

Minneapolis Times: The late Mr. Washburn will have a hard time dislodging John Goodnow. John stands very near the throne and is a power in Minnesota politics, while William D. is a bit frappe, as Mrs. Partington would say.

Another Bolt Predicted.

Washington special to the New York Journal: A scene as sensational and almost as dramatic as that presented in St. Louis when Teller led the silver hosts from the Republican ranks will be enacted in the senate before the session reaches its final adjournment. Senator Carter of Montana, ex-chairman of the Republican national committee, and Senator Shoup of Idaho will renounce their allegiance to the Republican party and declare themselves as ready to support the principles of the free silver Republicans. They will come out squarely for the free coinage of silver and will sharply and clearly separate themselves from the party with which they have heretofore been identified.

Low Rates on the Lakes.

Springfield Republican: Freight rates on the great lakes have touched the lowest point ever known. The charge for transporting a bushel of wheat from Duluth to New York and loading it upon a steamer at the latter port is now about 6 cents, ordinarily one-half of the rate prevailing a few years ago. The season rate for ore from the head of the lakes to Lake Erie ports is now only 65 cents, against $1.65 last year. A chief cause of the decline is the deepening of the channels and use of ships of larger tonnage than was possible formerly. Vessels of 5000 tons are now becoming common, where previously a 2000 ton ship was rarely seen.

PASSING MIRTH.

Detroit Free Press: "General, what do you regard as the most brilliant charge made by the Turks in the present war?"

"That of $75,000,000 for indemnity."

Chicago Record: "I dislike to borrow books of Dawson."

"Why?"

"He has such a good memory."

Detroit News: "See that solid-looking citizen over there? You'd never suspect that he was beating his way through the world?"

"And yet he's a carpet cleaner."

Indianapolis Journal: "It must be awful to be broke away out West."

"I didn't find it so. I had a pretty good suit of clothes, so I pretended to be wanting to invest in real estate. Nothing was too good for me."

Judge: Mrs. Tenspot—Isn't it odd that the encores are always much more enjoyable than the regular numbers on the program?

Mr. Tenspot—Yes, it is. I wonder why they don't sing the encores first?

Yonkers Statesman: He—They tell me your husband is a great artist.

She—That he is. He painted a picture of some onions for the last exhibition, and they were so natural that the committee put them on the top line, so that people wouldn't smell them.

Detroit Free Press: "I'll wager my daughter could run one of those flying machines."

"Why do you think so?"

"You just ought to see how she soars in her graduating essay."

Somerville Journal: "Once in a while you meet a man who walks up the avenue to meet the electric cars, so as to get a longer ride for his money.

Chicago Record: "Our new typewriter girl is no help to the firm at all."

"Why not?"

"She writes out the president's letters exactly the way he dictates them."

Puck: Dusnap—What did your father say when you told him I loved you, dearest?

Miriam (tearfully)—Oh, Ferdinand! he didn't say anything—he swore!

Chicago Post: "Oh, it's the sensation of the town!" he exclaimed. "The only trouble is that there is a likelihood that the police will interfere."

"What does she do that's so sensational?"

"Why, she appears on the stage in a real bathing suit, such as is worn by some of the pretty girls at the seashore."

AS THEY RODE.

The man on the rear of the tandem
Spoke quite blunt:
"You sit so straight I can't see over you, Down in front!"

Answered: "Jack,
I'll sit as I please. You quit your talking Behind my back!"

An Up to Date Phyllis.

When the east with morn was red,
And the birds were all awake,
I for Phyllis vainly sought
'Mid the haunts of fern and brake.

And the dial marked the noon,
And the kine found thickest shade,
Through the forest aisles I strayed,
Searching for the tricksy maid.

When the loitering afternoon
Beckoned to the lake's cool side,
There I bent my eager steps,
Calling "Phyllis!" far and wide.

But when shadows, long and slim,
Pointed where the day had gone,
Then, at last, I saw her come
Slowly 'cross the verdant lawn.

"Tell me, Phyllis, quick!" I cried,
"Where your feet so long have strayed?
I have ransacked field and wood,
You to find, my winsome maid."

Scornfully she looked at me—
"Corydon! I am surprised!
Didn't you see 'bargain day'
In last night's paper advertised?"
—New York Herald.

The Family Friend.

No remedy has a better right to that title than Kickapoo Indian Oil. It is good for internal and external use, and it is pains' most powerful panacea. No one can say "I won't have neuralgia, rheumatism, earache or any other acute pain." But every one who knows there's a bottle of Kickapoo Indian Oil in the house can say: "I won't have neuralgia or any other pain long." The power of this oil over pain is the greatest marvel of modern medicine. It controls pain at once. It cures the cause promptly. There's no remedy reaches so many kinds of pain as

MOSELEY WAS LYNCHED.

Negro Murderer in Mississippi Stretches Rope.

Jackson, Miss., June 25.—A negro named Moseley, who killed Farmer J. Strong, near Crystal Springs, Miss., a few days ago, and who was arrested at that place yesterday and confined in jail, was hanged by a mob there at 9:50 o'clock this morning. The negro had been guarded by 100 or more men since yesterday, and two calls for troops from this place had been sent, but owing to the absence of Governor McLaurin and the fact that it was impossible to establish communication with Lieutenant Governor Jones, who is at his home in Woodville, the troops did not start for the scene until this morning, when the moving order was received.

The troops received orders to stop as they were boarding the train.

DALY DENIES THE STORY.

New York, June 25.—Marcus Daly, the well known horseman, who is in the city today, denies that he has made an offer to Mr. Gubbins for Galtee More, the winner of the English derby and Two Thousand Guineas. It was stated in a dispatch from Chicago that Mr. Daly had cabled to Dublin offering Mr. Gubbins $125,000 for this horse. Mr. Daly declares that he has not made and is not contemplating such an offer.

SCATHING WORDS.

Severe Arraignment of Mark Hanna at Cincinnati By Ex-Congressman Towne.

The convention of the bimetallists of the Ohio valley, held at Cincinnati on Tuesday of this week, was addressed by Hon. Charles A. Towne, and the reports of his speech show that Duluth's ex-congressman was in one of his most eloquent moods. The Cincinnati Enquirer says:

"The feature of the morning's proceedings was the marvelous speech of ex-Congressman Towne. He fairly carried his audience off their feet. He was eloquent, earnest, and imbued his hearers with his own indomitable spirit of enthusiasm. Probably no orator who has ever been in Cincinnati was a more perfect master of English than Mr. Towne. His arraignment of the money power, while not vituperative, was very forcible. He did not use rough-on-rats in his figures of speech, but with the greatest delicacy, yet deadliest effect, he employed prussic acid, and the audience was spellbound by his eloquent oratory."

In giving a report of his speech the Enquirer says: "Col. Washington, in a few complimentary words, presented Hon. Charles A. Towne to the audience. The brainy young ex-congressman was given an ovation, which lasted several minutes. He spoke for more than an hour, and when he finished there were loud calls of 'Go on! Go on!' Mr. Towne began with praise for the speech of Col. Washington. He thought that the name of the temporary chairman was a good omen, for in another fight for freedom, more than a century ago, a Col. George Washington had taken sides for liberty. * * * He said: 'The first great battle of the nineteenth century will be fought this fall in the commonwealth of Ohio. There was never a more bitter, more corrupt, more venal campaign than that of last year. The embodiment, the abbreviation, the condensation of that species of corruption is Mark A. Hanna. When the future historian of political institutions shall sit down to sum up the colossal figures whose bad eminence has given complexion to the decadent ages in which they lived, he will write of the ambition of Cleon, the infamies of Cataline, the tyranny of Lorenzo the Magnificent, and the corruption of Walpole; but he will pause and nerve himself to his mightiest and consummating task when, dipping a pen, perhaps of gold, into the blackest of ink, he impresses upon the shrinking parchment the name of Mark Hanna of the nineteenth century.' This marvelous bit of invective aroused the wildest enthusiasm of the delegates, who realized that the speech of Mr. Towne was entirely impromptu, he drawing inspiration from the audience and the occasion. The gifted orator closed with an appeal to his hearers to stand by the cause which was growing with wonderful rapidity, and to doubt the success of which would be to question the providence of God. There was and could be no doubt of the final result. Although urged to continue his speech, Mr. Towne stated that he was compelled to go to Des Moines, Iowa, shortly after noon to address the allied silver forces there. He expressed the hope that the Democrats, Silver Republicans and Populists would be found together shoulder to shoulder this fall in the common cause of humanity."

THE UNDERWRITERS ADJOURN.

The report of the special committee recommending state organizations of underwriters was presented by Col. C. C. McClure, of St. Louis. President-elect William Law, Jr., of Chicago, was inducted into office by the retiring president, Charles E. Rawson, of Des Moines, Iowa.

HAD FUN WITH THEM.

Alderman Stevens Made His Colleagues Do Some Walking.

The aldermen and others who were Capt. Stevens' guests on a trip up the Nemadji yesterday had lots of fun, and the captain had some fun with them. If all reports are true, the captain gave some of the tenderfeet a breaking in that hardened their muscles and tested their fortitude. After a substantial dinner at the camp, he proposed in an off-hand way that they step over to the sorting grounds, "a matter of half a mile or so." With the lamb like confidence of the tenderfoot, they all unhesitatingly followed the captain into the brush and struggled heroically after him as he went over fallen trees and ducked under low hanging branches with the practised swing of an expert. No two of the party agree as to exactly how far it proved to be to the grounds. Alderman Rowley's estimate is twenty miles. They do agree, however, that it was a good liberal half mile. It was a stiff-legged, but jolly party that stepped ashore when the Dudley reached the dock on the return trip in the afternoon. A resolution of thanks to the captain for his hospitality was carried by acclamation.

LORD MAYOR'S LUNCHEON.

Faudel-Phillips Feeds a Very Swell Crowd.

London, June 25.—The lord mayor, Sir George Faudel-Phillips, gave a luncheon at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the Mansion house to all the princes and princesses, British and foreign, who were in the jubilee procession and to most of the special envoys with the rank of ambassador and to part of the diplomatic corps. Among those present were United States Special Ambassador Whitelaw Reid and Mrs. Reid, and United States Ambassador Col. John Hay and Mrs. Hay.

The guests were entertained in the Egyptian hall, whose lofty domed roof richly ornamented with heavy mouldings, supported on massive, fluted columns, were of fine finish to the prettily tinted walls patterned in Egyptian designs. The lord mayor wore his ermine earl's robe as on jubilee day. Great crowds of people watched the arrival and departure of the guests, who were warmly cheered.

OREGON SENATORSHIP.

It Will Go Over Until the Next Session.

Washington, June 25.—The senate committee on privileges and elections today considered briefly a report prepared by Senator Hoar in the case of Hon. H. W. Corbett, recommending that Mr. Corbett be seated as a senator from Oregon. The committee declined to act upon the report for the time being, ordering that it be printed for the use of the committee, together with any views which might be submitted by members opposing Mr. Corbett.

The result of this proceeding will be to postpone further consideration of Mr. Corbetts' claims until the next session. There was no formal expression of the committee to this effect, but there is a general understanding that such is the case.

NEGRO MURDERER EXECUTED.

St. Joseph, Mo., June 25.—James Pollard, colored, was hanged in the jail yard in this city this morning for the murder of Joseph Irvin, also colored. The drop fell at 9:22, and Pollard was pronounced dead twenty minutes later. The murder was committed in July, 1895. Pollard had threatened to kill Dave Irvin, and went to the home of the Irvins one night. Finding the family at supper, he fired at Dave Irvin, but missed him, killing the latter's brother, Joseph. Pollard claimed he shot in self-defence.

Carrie is Still Thirsty.

Carrie Roscoe was found in L. Wolfrom's saloon at 131 East Superior street by Officer Ryan last evening, endeavoring to persuade the bartender to sell her a bottle of whisky. She was taken to police headquarters and was later released on the promise of her brother to send her out of the city. Carrie is of some notoriety on account of her rather frequent appearance in police court in consequence of an uncontrollable appetite for the "ardent."

Given a Warning.

Officer Ryan yesterday afternoon saw a young girl apparently about 14 years of age going in and out of several of the houses of ill-fame on St. Croix alley. He took her to police headquarters, where she gave her name and said that she was collecting bills and soliciting work for her mother, who is a dressmaker. The girl told a straight story and she was released with a warning not to visit the locality again.

Mr. and Mrs. Tambournino will reside in Duluth, the groom being an electrician in the street railway company.

MORLEY CHURCH FETE.

Delightful Entertainment at an East End Home.

The lawn fete that was postponed twice was given last evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Church, 28 South Twenty-first avenue east, and was delightful in every way. It was given for the benefit of Morley Congregational church. The house and lawn were handsomely decorated with lanterns, and on the lawn there were several large headlights that made the place as light as day.

There were a number of booths and places of amusement. The fortune-telling booth was, as usual, among the most popular. Miss Smallwood told the fortunes and satisfied everybody. On the outside of the booth was a crier with blackened face and fantastic dress, who made considerable amusement. At two other booths fancy articles were sold, Miss Margaret Smallwood, Miss Morrison, Miss Blackburn and Fred Thwing being in charge. The flower counter was in charge of Miss Lulu Smallwood and Miss Flossie Morrison. Mrs. Blackburn presided over the apron booth. One of the most popular amusements provided was in charge of Mr. Blackburn. It was the old throwing game of "one baby, one cigar," etc. It did a rushing business.

A musical program was also given and some excellent numbers were rendered. Mrs. James McAuliffe, Miss Susanne McKay, Franz Schultz and Mr. McDermaid sang and Miss Scott played. Refreshments were served throughout the evening, and in every way the fete was pleasing and complete.

WANTED FOR FORGERY.

Thomas Hastings Arrested For Superior Police.

Thomas Hastings, a Superior dock laborer, was arrested last night in the Silver King saloon by Detective Troyer at the instance of the authorities of Superior, where Hastings' presence is desired to answer a charge of cashing a time check that did not belong to him. Hastings was pointed out by Detective Kelley, of Superior, who came over here to help trace him. The check, which Hastings admitted he cashed, was issued for labor in handling flour. It was made payable to Mr. Hanson, and was given Hastings by mistake. It was for $14, the amount of the check to which the prisoner was entitled was $2. Hastings refused to say where he cashed the check, or whether or not he forged Hanson's name to it. He refused to return to Superior without a requisition.

Hastings was taken to Superior today by Detective Kelley. The Superior police found that Hastings had passed it at Ole Peterson's, saloon in that city, and that he had endorsed the check in his own name. Hastings says he will make the amount good, and the matter will probably be dropped.

NO RESPECT FOR THEM.

Rag Men Pestered By Mischievous Small Boys.

The small boys around the city are falling into a practice which is going to get them into trouble sooner or later. They have found out that it is great fun to tease one or two of the old rag men who go through the alleys and by-ways hunting for old rags, carrying them in sacks on their backs. Yesterday morning about 11 o'clock, at the corner of Fifth avenue west and First street, an exhibition of the spirit of mischief that is growing in these youngsters was given. An old Russian rag man was coming up the avenue supporting three large sacks of rags, about all he could carry. At his heels was a pack of small boys hooting and yelling at him and pulling and hauling at his sacks. The man was frantically screaming, as though frightened to death. When he reached First street he dropped the sacks, sat down on them and began beating his breast, alternately groaning and yelling. A little brat not half the size of the poor rag man walked up and gave him a jerk. The rag man jumped up and made motions as if to strike the boy. The kid squared off in Sullivan style and the man did not dare to slap him, and so they continued at him until a workman happened along and helped the poor fellow out by driving the youngsters off.

The incident was deplorable, and yet in one way was humorous. The man was big enough to have sailed in and soundly thrashed two or three or a half dozen of the youngsters, but simply lacked the necessary "sand." With the meekness characteristic of his kind, he made no effort to defend himself. This is, of course, no justification of the action of the boys, and they ought to be brought up with a round turn; but at the same time, although the incident was rather pathetic in a way, it cost the man a good deal of sympathy. When last seen the youngsters had scattered to the four winds, a policeman having appeared in sight.

HAVE PECULIAR IDEAS.

Queer Notions as to County Attorney's Office.

Some people have queer notions of the functions of the office of public prosecutor. No idea is more common than that a county attorney lends himself very readily to an attempt to collect debts by criminal proceedings.

For instance, not long ago a man and woman presented themselves before County Attorney Arbury with a story. They stated that they had loaned a man some money on a chattel mortgage. When the man spent the money, acording to them, he sold the mortgaged property to get more. When the complainants came to collect the money on their chattel mortgage the financier gave them the marble heart, the clammy hand and the glassy eye. In other words he refused to pay it. When they threatened to foreclose the mortgage he was rude enough to laugh in their faces, and he pointed out that owing to his foresight there was nothing to foreclose upon. Of course all this was very aggravating.

"So we have come to you, Mr. Arbury," said the male complainant. "We do not care to go to the expense of a civil suit, so we would like to have you issue a warrant. We feel confident that if he knows there is a warrant out for him he will at once settle with us, after which you may dismiss the proceedings."

The complainants were very much astonished when the county attorney refused to become an agent for them in their effort at collecting their due. The action of the mortgagor was probably criminal, but they did not want to press the matter any further than was necessary to force him to pay up, so the matter was dropped.

Scores Were Low.

The Central Gun club's regular weekly shoot was held yesterday, and it resulted in unusually low scores for that club. Warren won the 25-bird medal shoot with 19, and the four 10-bird sweepstakes were won as follows: Duchess, 7; Wilson, 9; Warren and Nelson, 9. The Superior club has been invited to attend next Thursday's shoot, when there will be a number of sweepstakes of ten and fifteen birds each in addition to the 25-bird medal event.

MR. TOWNE'S MOVEMENTS.

May Take Part in the Ohio State Campaign.

Chairman Towne, of the silver Republican party, was to have returned to Duluth today from Des Moines, but a telegram was received from him yesterday which stated that he had returned to Washington from there and probably would not return to Duluth until about July 15. His next speaking engagement is at Los Angeles, Cal., where on July 5 he and William J. Bryan are scheduled to address 6000 silver Republicans.

He may go from there to the trans-Mississippi congress at Salt Lake, which would bring him back here about July 15. He has yet to announce the executive committee of the silver Republican party, and he will probably make that announcement after his return to Duluth, if it is not made during his stay in Washington. Plans for the organization of the party on the lines laid out by Mr. Towne in his recent interview in The Herald will be made up after the executive committee is formed.

It is said that Mr. Towne has been asked to take part in the Ohio state campaign during the summer, and that he will probably spend about a month in that state in behalf of the opponents of the Republican party.

BIG GAME OF BLUFF

Rockefeller and Fee Owners Seem to Be Having One Now.

LAW SUIT PROBABLE

Lake Superior Iron Company Not Anxious to Be Frozen Out.

A very interesting game of bluff is just now being played between John D. Rockefeller and the fee owners of the Lake Superior group of mines on the Mesaba range. The Lake Superior Consolidated Iron mines, which is the corporation name under which Mr. Rockefeller does his iron mining business, is operating the mines on a working contract obtained from the Lake Superior Iron company, which owns the lease. By the terms of the lease a minimum output of 20,000 tons must be made annually from each of the four mines in the group and in addition to this as much more as can be produced and sold at a profit, the royalty in each case being 20 cents a ton. The Consolidated has already expended upwards of $1,000,000 in developing and improving the mines, but during the four years that it has had control of the property it has shipped less than 100,000 tons of ore, although it is said that 40,000,000 tons are practically in sight.

Now the Consolidated claims that the condition of the iron ore market is such that it cannot afford to pay the royalty provided for in the lease and compete in an open field with other mines on the Mesaba range which are operated under more advantageous contracts. On this ground the fee owners have been asked to consent to an amendment of the present leases, which have fifteen years yet to run, reducing the royalty to 15 or 20 cents a ton.

The fee owners in considering this proposition admit that ore is not worth as much now as at the time the leases were executed, and that the margin left to mine operators is materially narrowed, and that the expense of mining and marketing ore should be reduced. However, they feel that to insure the largest possible output of ore from their mines reductions in expenses should be made not only in royalties, but in freight rates. They hold that while perhaps a reduction in royalties would not be unjust that a reduction in rail freight rates would also contribute to the accomplishment of the desired end, viz, the cheapening of the cost of production that competition may be more successfully met.

The railroad on which these mines must depend to reach a market is owned and controlled by Mr. Rockefeller, and his profits on hauling ore are enormous. None of these profits, the fee owners claim, is he willing to lose in order to make the operation of their mines profitable. They have agreed to reduce the royalties from 20 to 20 cents a ton provided he will consent to a freight rate reduction from 80 cents a ton to 60 cents. In reply to this proposition the representatives of Mr. Rockefeller say that no freight rate reduction will be considered, and the fee owners have said right back, "If you will not reduce freight charges we will not make any concessions in royalties."

Now Mr. Rockefeller has taken steps to open other mining properties owned by him with the apparent intention of doing no further mining in the Lake Superior group until royalties are reduced to a point that is satisfactory to him. Or, in the opinion of the fee owners, he has taken steps to freeze them out, his first move being to get other mines in readiness that he may be able to supply the market without drawing from the Lake Superior group. The fight will be a very interesting one, because while Mr. Rockefeller is three hundred times a millionaire, the fee owners, Wellington R. Burt, Ezra Rust and others, are far from being paupers, each being a millionaire several times over without counting iron mines on the Mesaba range, and they will not suffer for the necessities of life, just because they do not receive more than $6000 a year each from the Rockefeller strong-box.

But there is another party that is deeply interested in the controversy, which as a matter of fact has been brewing for a much longer time than the public is aware. This is the owner of the leases, the Lake Superior Iron company. This company sold a working contract in its leases to a firm that turned it over to the Rockefeller contract for $250,000. By the terms of this contract the Consolidated is required to observe the provisions of the lease and operate the mines, dividing the profits with the Lake Superior Iron company. Now while it is admitted on all sides that the mines are rich, that the Consolidated has every facility for operating them and marketing the ore at the least possible cost, there have been no profits for the Lake Superior Iron company to share in. On the contrary, the Consolidated has reported heavy losses each year, which it claims its partner in the deal must assist it in bearing.

Out of all this there is likely to grow a lawsuit, the magnitude of which will not be secondary perhaps to that of the Merritt-Rockefeller case. The ground work for this litgation has been in process of construction and several months ago the Consolidated was served with notices that it was not complying with the terms of the lease and the contract and that it would be held responsible. The Lake Superior Iron company will maintain that by the terms of its contract that it cannot be held liable for any losses incurred by the Consolidated in the operation of the Lake Superior group, but that it must be given its share of the profits, if there are any, each year. In other words, it claims that its contract exemplifies it from loss during any particular year and that it has an interest only in those years of operation when profits are netted. But aside from this it is claimed that the Consolidated has made no effort to make the mines profitable, but on the contrary has worked for the interest of Mr. Rockefeller's railroad at the expense of the mines. It will doubtless claim when the disputed points are presented to the court that Mr. Rockefeller as a mine operator has not attempted to induce Mr. Rockefeller as a railroad operator to so reduce freight rates as to make it profitable for the output of his mines to be sold to advantage.

In the meantime while the powerful interests are sparring for points Mr. Rockefeller must continue to pay thousand dollars annually in royalties on idle mines, the taxes on the property and interest on his heavy investments in them. The millionaire fee owners will simply play a waiting game and look to their other interests for an income with which to keep the wolf from their doors.

RAILWAYS ALIVE.

Much Building Is Said to Be Scheduled in Northern Minnesota and Dakota.

That both the Northern Pacific and Great Northern roads intend to do a very considerable amount of railway construction in Northwest Minnesota and Northeast Dakota this year there can be no doubt, says the Minneapolis Journal. There is also no doubt whatever the officials may say when questioned as to the reasons for this work, that the fear of competitive roads, either on the part of the McNaught interests and their Manitoba government backers, or on the part of the old Hines farmers' railway, now considerably nearer a realization of its hopes than ever before, or both, has been the immediate cause of this activity. There is no more real need of roads north and northwest from Cavalier and Langdon, N. D., for instance, than there was a year ago, or two years ago, and funds for building are no more plentiful, though construction work is less expensive. There is also no more immediate need of roads north of Park Rapids and east from Fosston to Duluth than there has been for the past five years, excepting the need of scaring off competition that would be very disagreeable.

During the past month several important moves have been made by both the big transcontinental lines which warrant the belief that extension in Northern Minnesota is a near probability.

No one doubts that President Hill will extend the Fosston line as soon as any move is made by a rival company which seems to threaten his interests in the carrying trade across the pine tracts and iron mines in Northern Minnesota. Two weeks ago a corps of Great Northern engineers began at the end of the Great Northern grade at Akely, eighteen miles north of Park Rapids, and has pushed north toward Leech lake. It is generally believed that the road will be extended up into the lumber woods near Red lake and be run perhaps to a connection with the logging road enterprise projected by Shevlin-Carpenter & Co. At all events, it will be run to a connection with the survey for the Fosston extension. The latter may not be built through to Duluth so quickly, but these moves will aid in rapid work on the Duluth line whenever necessary. It still seems to be supposed that the Fosston-Duluth line need be run no further easterly to a connection with the old Duluth & Winnipeg, now in the Duluth, Superior & Western, at Deer River. This, of course, is folly, and any line from Fosston east by the Great Northern must go clear to Lake Superior.

The same is true so far as the Duluth & Winnipeg connection is concerned, of the McNaught-Manitoba line, which will not be permitted by the Canadian Pacific railroad to use one of its branches, which the old Duluth & Winnipeg is. Col. McNaught must therefore build at least to within twenty miles of Duluth. The Duluth & North Dakota, the farmers' road, will be able, on the other hand, to connect either with the McNaught or the Duluth & Winnipeg, and is about the only hope for any future for the latter. Such of these various lines as may be built will cause much activity in North Minnesota.

That the Great Northern intends to build considerable road in North Dakota this year can no longer be doubted, and it would seem from the unusual activity along the international boundary line that it fears the advent of another system and is determined to fortify itself against competition so far as possible. The Northern Pacific has been stirred up and is in earnest in movements looking to new lines in the northern North Dakota counties. The Great Northern is already building from Cavalier, and additional interesting moves will soon be made. The Duluth & North Dakota also, is present negotiations are successful, will rattle some of the dry bones in the northern counties before another year.

CHAUNCEY DEPEW'S IDEA.

Says Arbitration With England Will Soon Be a Law.

London, June 25.—The Echo this afternoon published an interview with Dr. Chauncey M. Depew, in which he is quoted as expressing the belief that the arbitration treaty between the United States and Great Britain will be law before the end of the present McKinley administration. Regarding the anti-British feeling in the United States he remarked:

"Americans have a deep distrust for the methods of the British government and regard the British as land grabbers. I admit that when the British grab they give the people better government, but Americans fear they will not be content with grabbing the land of the Old World, but are going to try to grab in the New World. Anything of that kind done in our hemisphere we want to do ourselves. This suspicion of the foreign policy is the reason for the failure of the arbitration treaty, though the Irish opinion may have helped, for America has a deep sympathy for Ireland and home rule, as it seems to be the natural developments of the federal idea. A permanent tribunal for Great Britain and America must come. President McKinley and the most thoughtful Americans are in favor of it."

CHEERED THE EMPEROR.

Berlin, June 25.—In the reichstag today, after the bill providing for the supplementary estimates had passed its third reading, the imperial chancellor, Prince Hohenlohe, read an imperial message closing the sessions, after which three cheers were given to the emperor.

Toronto, Ont., June 25.—J. G. Gibson, secretary and treasurer of the O'Keefe Brewing company, was arrested last night on a charge of embezzling funds of the company. He was remanded in court today till the amount of his shortage could be ascertained, bail being fixed at $5000. Mr. Gibson is prominent in club and society circles.

Commission to Superintend Cutting of Winnibigoshish Timber Not Likely.

MAJ. ALLEN TO DO IT

Capt. Scott Visits the Indians on the Grand Portage Reservation.

George Lydick, of Grand Rapids, was in town today to discuss divers and sundry topics with Congressman Page Morris, among other things matters pertaining to the pine timber on the Winnibigoshish Indian reservation, which comes under the jurisdiction of the White Earth agency. To a reporter for The Evening Herald, Mr. Lydick said that there is 100,000,000 feet of good pine on the reservation, which is going to waste. He had expected that a commission would be appointed to have such part of the timber as had been burned over disposed of, but he was informed by Mr. Morris that the contract for cutting the logs would be let by the agent, and that the commission, of which Mr. Lydick had hopes of becoming a member, would not be created. Mr. Lydick says that Maj. R. M. Allen's term as agent does not expire until Oct. 8, and as it will be necessary for a large amount of hay to be put up to carry on logging operations on the reservation next winter, he will probably let the contract and leave the work of carrying it out to his successor. Mr. Lydick expects that 20,000,000 feet of the timber will be cut during the coming winter and that the contract will be let in the near future. He says that bids will not be advertised for. The logging on the reservation will provide plenty of work for all of the Indians who can be induced to perform manual labor, and will enable them to provide against a repetition of the hardships which they suffered last winter.

VISITING THE INDIANS.

Capt. Scott Finds North Shore Tribes Prosperous.

Capt. G. L. Scott, in charge of La Pointe Indian agency, returned today from a visit to the Grand Portage reservation on the north shore. He took a quantity of provisions and agricultural implements down there and distributed them among the Indians, thus closing up the accounts with the tribe for the fiscal year. He will make another trip down there in August or September to pay the Indians their annual allotment, which amounts to from $10 to $15 a head. On this trip he will be accompanied by quite a large party of guests. There are now about 350 Indians on the Grand Portage reservation, and Capt. Scott says they are in better condition this year than ever before. They are doing considerable agricultural work and are showing less dissatisfaction with their treatment at the hands of the government, which is probably due to the fact that they have had to work more and have had consequently less time in which to complain and find fault.

WANT HOME STONE.

Stonecutters Anxious to See It Used in the Reservoir.

The Stonecutters' union of the city is considerably worked up over the possibility that stone from outside of the city will be used in the construction of the reservoir for the water plant. They think it is just as disloyal for Duluth to go outside for its stone as for Minnesota to go elsewhere for stone for the capitol. They have petitioned the council and board of public works and have agitated the question considerably. A committee of stonecutters, consisting of Peter Johnson and E. C. Rosand has the matter in hand and is following it closely. They say that while Duluth granite may cost more it is well worth the difference because of its superiority. Further than this, if Duluth stone is used all of the cutting will be done here in the city and a large amount of wages will thereby be distributed among Duluth workingmen and thus find its way into the pockets of Duluth business men. If Kettle river stone is used it will probably be cut at the quarry and Duluth will get no benefit whatever from the work. Then again while Duluth stone may be more expensive to get out the difference in cost will not be much more than will have to be paid on freight on other stone.

NO MORE DEVELOPMENTS.

No Great Interest in School Election as Yet.

There have been as yet no developments in the coming school election. The board of education will meet next Saturday evening, when a list of inspectors and clerks will be selected. The election is to be held July 17. No candidates have yet appeared for the three directorships which will become vacant, and the outgoing directors have not yet given out their intentions. At the Saturday meeting the building committee will probably report on repairs which are necessary to the various school buildings and which will be made during vacation.

Printing Bids Opened.

At the meeting of the board of public works this morning bids for publishing 500 copies of the board's annual report were opened and were as follows, the quotations being for pages: Le Tourneau & Co., $1.97, straight matter; $5.62 tabulated matter; Northwestern Merchant, $2.10 straight matter, $5.80, tabulated matter; C. E. Judd, $2.02 straight matter, $5.50 tabulated matter; Nugent & Brown, $2.05, straight matter, $5.68 tabulated matter. The Star Publishing Co.'s bid was the lump sum of $4.96 for the work. The contract was not let at 3 o'clock. The matter of awarding the contract for the low level reservoir will come up Monday.

You may never know it happened if you fail to read The Evening Herald.

TWO LAND DECISIONS.

Rulings From the General Land Commissioner's Office.

A decision in the case of Frederick Nord against Hans Swanson, involving the se¼ of section 2, 51-18 has been received at the United States land office from Assistant Commissioner E. F. Best, of the general land office. Swanson filed a homestead entry and Nord contested it later on the ground that Sevanson had not established his residence on the land as required by law. Swanson had not established his resisickness in his family prevented him from complying with the requirements The local officers found that the sickness in his family did not take place until after his time for establishing residence had expired and they canceled his entry. Swanson appealed, but the general land office sustained the local officers.

A decision in the case of Annie A. Sorbolter against Edwin A. Hanger, involving lands in section 18, 156-27. Hanger made a homestead entry and Miss Sorbolter made one also alleging settlement. A man named Hans Sampson had settled on the land, but Hanger found he had exhausted his homestead rights and settled on it. Sampson transferred his improvements to Miss Sorbolter to whom he was engaged to be married. Then the contest was begun. Hanger's house was torn down and burned. The commissioner finds that he has not abandoned the land and decides in his favor.

IS A WEARY WILLIE.

John Lowe Has Paternalistic Ideas of Government.

John Lowe, the man who was sent up for vagrancy and afterwards brought into probate court on information of insanity, was examined yesterday afternoon in probate court. No determination was reached, and he was sent back to jail, while his case was left open in order to give time to watch him more closely. He seems to be a well developed and typical specimen of the genus hobo, and he is not ashamed of it. He said that he walked to New Orleans and back last winter, and he thought he had left sole leather in a good many parts of the country.

He has a theory of government that is extremely paternalistic, and that was about the only evidence of aberration observable in the examination. Otherwise he seemed perfectly coherent and lucid in his ideas. He thinks the government owes every man work, and if it cannot furnish him work it should support him. He says that if he ever gets hold of a government that is what it will do.

MAYOR IS OUT OF IT.

Knows Nothing of the Pumphouse Controversy.

The mayor says he is not in the controversy over the contract for the extra work on the pumphouse.

"I don't know much about it and I shall keep out of it," he said this morning. "I have not seen either the specifications attached to the contract as let or those recommended by the board."

The mayor said that he was told by President Smith of the board during a conversation about the matter after it had come up in the council, that the board had been unable to obtain from Mr. Patton a copy of the specifications recommended, and had been compelled to rely on data procured in Mr. Palmer's office by the board.

Mr. Palmer, of the expert committee, said that nobody had been to him on behalf of the board for a copy of the specifications. The original report, with the specifications, were placed in the hands of President Smith of the board, as soon as the committee had finished its work, he said.

Two Tugs Wanted.

Tomorrow Maj. Sears, government engineer, will open bids for furnishing two tugs for use in the inspection of dumping under the continuous contract work. One tug is to superintend the dumping of material that goes out through the Duluth canal, and the other that which goes out through the Superior entry. The tugs are to lie out in the lake practically all of the time. Two inspectors are to live on each tug. In weather when the lake is not rough the material is to be dumped close to the shore; when it is rough it is to be dumped farther out. The idea to be followed in dumping the material is to strengthen the point as much as possible.

Steady Development.

John W. Thickens, the well-known gold miner, arrived in the city today from Mine Center and registered at the St. Louis. Mr. Thickens said that the work of development is going steadily forward in the Seine River country, in a steady, business-like way, unattended by boom excitement, which so frequently results disastrously in new mining districts. Mr. Thickens was one of the pioneers in the gold country and is thoroughly satisfied with the progress that is being made there.

No Gold Found There.

Fred G. Bowman, editor of the Rainy Lake Journal, said today that while Oak Point Island, in Rainy lake, may furnish a subject for international controversy over the boundary line between the United States and Canada, there is as yet no occasion for it because of any gold that has been found there. He says that quartz rock has been discovered on the island but it does not pan out any gold on the surface and if it is any better below it is not known for no explorations have been made. In fact the character of the rock is not such as to inspire any particular hope of hidden riches and it is not likely that much time or money will be expended on it.

IMPORTANT COAL MEETING.

Columbus, O., June 25.—A joint meeting of some leading Ohio coal operators and the officers of the Ohio coal miners is in session here to devise, if possible, a maintenance of a 9-cent differential between Ohio and Pittsburg mining rates. The mining rate here is 71 cents, and in Pittsburg 54. Pittsburg has 80 and Ohio 20 per cent of lake trade. Formerly these figures were reversed. The situation is serious, the mining rate must go up in Pittsburg or down in Ohio.

THE VISITORS RETURN.

Meeker County People Take Their Departure Today.

Duluth's visitors from Meeker county left this morning at 8 o'clock, bearing with them a friendly feeling for the city, memories of their trip that they will not soon forget, and the respect of the citizens of Duluth for their plain but eminently honest and respectable conduct. A visit from a party of independent and successful farmers and country merchants is something new for Duluth, and it was new for the visitors also. The latter expressed the hope that they might return again, and there is not the least question but that Duluth will be pleased to see them.

"The excursion has been a delightful one for all of us," said one of the visitors last night, "and for those of us at least who do not get away from home often it is one we shall remember with pleasure always. We hope to come again." Several of the excursionists were so pleased that they seriously talked of coming here to live. Among the Norwegian visitors especially, the change from their prairie homes was grateful, and they felt a certain affection for the rocks and hills of Duluth, reminding them as they did of their native land.

Many of them are retired farmers, who, having amassed a competence, are living quietly at Litchfield or some of the other towns of Meeker county. There is no reason why such could not move to Duluth, and the fact that they seriously consider it indicates that there is some possibility of it, and Duluth could not receive better citizens.

The visitors expressed thanks before they left to the Eastern Minnesota employes, who acted as their guides and entertainers, also to the hotels and restaurants, which made special rates for them, and made their stay as pleasant as possible.

"It is a pity that there was not more of a public reception to the visitors," said a business man this morning. "To be sure there was no notice that they were coming, and no time to make arrangements, but there was at least time to provide the band for their lake excursion yesterday, and for a delegation of citizens to take them about the city. There was scarcely a citizen along with them on their excursion around the horn to point out and explain the objects of interest. Though the railroad men were courteous and did all in their power, there was hardly enough of them to go around. The idea is just the same as it is when a merchant receives a party of visitors in his shop. He does not stand and idly watch them pass, and let them go without a pleasant word. He makes every exertion to make things pleasant for them, so they will go away liking him and with an idea of coming again. "Many of these people patronize Duluth jobbers, and more of them might be induced to do so. Some might be inclined to move here. Duluth would get more real good out of entertaining excursions of that kind than she would out of entertaining a party of millionaires. It would not be a bad idea to have a permanent committee and a permanent fund for the purpose of entertaining conventions and excursion parties."

IT STILL DRAGS.

Arthur Avenue Crossing Case Continues to Be Before the Court.

The Arthur avenue fight is still dragging its somewhat weary length in Judge Cant's court today. Yesterday afternoon the case between the Northern Pacific and the Duluth Street Railway company was concluded, and Judge Cant said that he would reserve his decision until the cases were all in.

This morning the case of the St. Paul & Duluth against the city and the street car company was taken up, and J. D. Armstrong, of St. Paul, occupied the forenoon in his argument. He was not through at noon. He reaffirmed all that Mr. Washburn had said so far as it applied to his client. He claims that the St. Paul & Duluth built the Arthur avenue, or Gray's mill track, transferring a half interest to the Northern Pacific, and that they are common owners. He alleges that the road is entitled to possession of the track, that it is a necessary part of its terminal facilities, and that without it the road cannot fulfill its duties to the public. The road has expended large sums of money in keeping up the track, and he alleges that the street car company has cut it in three pieces by crossing it on Arthur and Garfield avenues.

SENATE AND TARIFF

Consideration of the Wool Schedule Completed---Senators Are Humorous.

A QUORUM HUSTLE

Vest's Amendments Turned Down By a Very Small Majority.

Washington, June 25.—The resolution of Mr. Hale, of Missouri, relative to restricting the privileges of ex-senators on the floor of the senate to those not interested in legislation and claims was referred without comment to the committee on rules.

Consideration of the wool schedule of the tariff bill was resumed at paragraph 307, relating to Aubosson, Axminster, moquette and chenille carpets. Mr. Vest, Missouri, moved to strike out the specific rate. The vote was 17 to 21, four short of a quorum. There was some delay in announcing the result, owing to the anxiety to secure a quorum, but Mr. Vest insisted on a speedy announcement, remarking that the suffering country could not wait while Republican senators mustered a quorum. When the want of a quorum was announced Mr. Vest derisively stated: "And this, with the country just wallowing and dying while the bill waits."

"And so is the country," added Mr. Gray, Democrat. A call of the senate brought fifty-two senators to the chamber and Mr. Vest's amendment was then rejected, 21 to 26.

The consideration of the wool schedule was completed at 1 o'clock. Mr. Vest offered a number of amendments, but was defeated in each instance, the schedule being adopted as suggested by the finance committee. The silk schedule was at once taken up.

The silk schedule precipitated quite a lively debate, the Western and coast senators contending that committee rates were excessive, prohibitive and burdensome. They claimed the rates run from 70 to 700 per cent. Messrs. Jones, Vest, Mantle, White, Teller and Platt (Connecticut) took part in the debate. The latter held that the government figures showed the rates to average 75 per cent. Efforts to reduce the committee rates were rejected.

Mr. White's amendment limiting the duties to 200 per cent was rejected, 23 to 28.

Paragraph 385 (handkerchiefs), was agreed to as reported, with an amendment adding hat bindings, braids and fringes; also 387 (laces) with an amendment omitting braids and ribbons; also 388 (manufactured silk, not otherwise provided for) and 389 (weight of silk). This completed the silk schedule.

The tobacco schedule was then taken up.

MOB IN CONTROL.

Governor Bloxham of Florida Has Asked For United States Troops.

Washington, June 25.—Governor Bloxham, of Florida, has called upon the war department for United States troops to aid him in restoring order at Key West, which place he says is in the hands of a mob. No particulars are given.

Secretary Alger is now in consultation with the president on the subject.

The trouble is supposed to have arisen from an attempt yesterday to lynch a negro accused of assault.

A WISCONSIN SAENGERFEST.

Oshkosh, Wis., June 25.—Delegates have commenced to arrive to attend the second annual state saengerfest of the Northern Wisconsin saengerbund. The formal exercises open tonight at Turner hall, when an address of welcome will be given by Mayor Ideson. The city is gaily decorated in honor of the occasion, and the weather is favorable. About 1500 delegates will participate in the song contests, which opens tomorrow at exposition hall, a splendid feature being a chorus of 600 voices. The big day will be Sunday, when 15,000 excursionists are expected from all parts of the state.

FAYERWEATHER ESTATE.

New York, June 25.—A motion was made before Justice Prior in special term today to confirm the report of Referee Charles W. Dayton in regard to the final distribution of the residuary estate of Daniel Fayerweather. The motion was opposed by counsel for John B. Reynolds, executor for the heirs. The referee reports that the residuary estate in the hands of T. G. Ritch, Justus L. Bulkley and Henry Evaughan amounts to $5089,165, and recommends that it be distributed between the twenty colleges decided upon by the court of appeals after deducting $125,000 to provide an annuity of $4000 for Mrs. Reynolds. Justice Prior adjourned the case until next Thursday.

OLD VETERAN DEAD.

Kalamazoo, Mich., June 25.—Gen. George Harrington died last night, aged 60. He fought in the civil war, was a Libby prisoner and was made general after the battle of Gettysburg. He was prominent in G. A. R. circles, was once exalted ruler and treasurer of the Elks, under whose auspices the funeral will be held on Sunday.

STRIKERS IN JAIL.

Trenton, N. J., June 25.—One hundred of the striking Italians at Morrisville were arrested today and placed in the local lockup for the purpose of dispersing the crowd and permitting Contractor Wheeler to leave the hotel without danger. The trouble seems to be over.

GUILTY OF MURDER.

Viroqua, Wis., June 25.—The jury today found George Sullivan guilty of murder in the second degree. He shot Asa Gorham Jan. 25. The men had trouble over Gorham's wife. Sentence is suspended till July 12.

GLASS SHELVES.

San Francisco Chronicle: It has been suggested that American plate glass makers would find it to their profit to add glass shelves to the list of their manufactures. Almost every working library reveals a lamentable condition of wear and tear of buildings. One man paints his book shelves; another carefully eschews paint; one covers them with cloth; another puts in shelves of iron or polished wood. Every one of these methods is bad for the bindings of expensive volumes.

An Eastern book firm has made an important new departure and decided to adopt glass shelves in lieu of wood. These shelves are at present made specially in France. They are in two sizes and two thicknesses, the larger ones being three-quarters of an inch and the smaller half an inch. The edges are rounded. The glass is perfectly inflexible, which gives it a great advantage over wood. Its strength also has been abundantly proved. It is not only more cleanly than anything else in the way of shelving, but it is, in fact, easier to keep clean. The appearance of a library is greatly enhanced by the glass. The book people who were the first to use glass shelving are enthusiastic in its praise, and all who have examined it are impressed with its value in the preservation of books. The cost of the glass shelving is about the same as that of iron, but if it were manufactured in this country, there is no doubt it could be produced at a much lower expense.

BURIED IN A SEWER.

St. Louis, June 25.—Patrick Battigan and Edward Weigenberger were fatally, and John Jamieson seriously injured today by the caving in of a sewer. Despite their protestations of threatened danger, at least a dozen men were ordered to jump into a 20-foot excavation and wall it up, with the result that three of them were buried beneath an immense pile of dirt and stone.

A QUEER WATCH CHAIN.

Cyrus O. Thornton, a farmer living a few miles out of Bolivar, N. Y., has an odd watch charm. It is made of human bones. The chain consists of eight links, each a trifle more than an inch long, connected by plated rings. The chain is about ten inches long and has been highly polished by years of wear and glistens like ivory, says the Philadelphia Press.

Thornton secured the chain at Petersburg, Va., in 1864. He was a member of Company E, Fifteenth New York engineers. A member of the One Hundred and Twenty-first New York infantry made two chains while confined in Libby prison, and on his release met Thornton and sold him one chain for $50 in greenbacks. Thornton has forgotten the maker's name. The bones were taken from amputated arms and legs, and it required eighteen months' time to carve out the chains. For many years after he came home from the war Thornton wore the chain every day, but for several years he has worn it only on Memorial day or at Grand Army reunions. Some of his neighbors once laughed at the idea of the bones being taken from human bodies, and he sent the chain to a surgeon, who examined it and pronounced it to be of human bones.

VICTORIA'S GIFT.

The "Divine Sarah" is once more a recipient of Queen Victoria's favor, this time having received from her majesty a magnificent bracelet, in the center of which is a large pearl of unusual beauty and great value, says the London Graphic. The occasion of the presentation of this gift was the Saturday previous to the queen's departure from Nice, when Mme. Bernhardt played "Jean Marie," by Theuriet, at the Regina hotel for the special delectation of the queen and her ladies. All were delighted with the rendition of the famous part, and in several instances her majesty gave the signal for applause. Mme. Bernhardt's sisters of the stage are green with envy at her good fortune, and are wondering why fate did not decree they, too, might have been at Nice during the queen's visit.
